GOLDEN EAGLES GATHER

District Meeting of Order Attended by Knights From Many Places.

STATE OFFICERS ATTEND

Degree Team Work Exemplified—Some Speeches and a Collation.

Members of the Knights of the Golden Eagle from Somerville, New Brunswick, the Oranges, Farmingdale, Asbury Park, Phillipsburg and Bridgeton attended a district meeting of the order held in the rooms of Freedom Castle, No. 42, last night. While the meeting was intended for the castles included in the district comprising Plainfield, Somerville, New Brunswick and the Oranges, there were delegations present from other places mentioned, including some grand castle officers.

It was the last meeting over which District Deputy R. V. Kenney, of this city, will preside, he having held the office for the prescribed length of time. His successor will be appointed at the meeting of the grand castle in Trenton in September, and it is reported that he will be a New Brunswick man.

Among the grand castle officers present were Grand Vice Chief Kirby, of Bridgeton; Grand Sir Herald Condit, of Asbury Park, and Past Grand Chief Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Freedom Castle.

During the evening the initiatory team from Freedom Castle, in full costume, exemplified the third degree on one candidate, with the musical accompaniment, Martin Korff, violin; Whitfield Frazee, cornet, and Louis M. Hummer, piano. The work of the team was highly praised by the assemblage. After the initiatory work there were speeches by the grand castle officers and members of the other delegations and later Freedom Castle, through its good and welfare committee served a collation in the banquet hall.

During the collation popular selections were given by the instrumental trio. Several visiting delegations made the trip to Plainfield in special trolleys. Those who came that way included the members from Blue Ridge Castle, of Orange; New Brunswick Castle and the Somerville Castle. It was long after midnight when the visitors departed for their homes.

KANE'S NOMINAL VERDICT.

District Court Allows Him $1 and Costs In Suit Against Dennick.

Aleck Kane got a nominal verdict against George H. Dennick in the District Court yesterday afternoon, in his suit to collect the money alleged to be due on a broken contract. Clarence Murphy was his lawyer.

Kane claimed that Dennick contracted to buy 100,000 to 135,000 second-hand bricks for use in constructing the New Market schoolhouse, and then refused to take them, protesting a check for $75 he had paid on account. Dennick's defense was that he had an understanding with Kane that the brick would not be taken if the architect said second-hand material could not be used, and that the architect so ruled. Evidence of this understanding was not rebutted and the court gave Kane a verdict of $1 and costs.

Fred Martin Back.

Fred Martin, of Borough Collector George F. Brown's office, returned today after spending the month of July at Camp Wanamassa, Deal Lake, Asbury Park. There are now seven members at the club camp. The club has not been particularly active in sports during July, but most of the members have their canoes and numerous sporting events are being planned for this month, as in previous years. The camp will remain open until Labor Day.

Warning to Liverymen.

As a result of the attempt, last week, to get away with one of the horses of the Central Livery Stable, Chief Kiely has warned all the liverymen in the city to refuse horses to people not known to them. The chief is not anxious to have the city known as a cinch among horsethieves, and he asks the liverymen to make somebody vouch for every stranger who wants a rig.

Got Money For Dress.

Anna Schwartz won her suit, yesterday, against Aaron LeVine, a cleaner, for the value of a dress alleged to have been damaged by being hung up in his show window. Judge Newcorn gave her a verdict of $22.50.

Jean M. Peterson Buried.

The funeral of Jean M. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Bethel chapel. Rev. Frederick D. Tilden officiated. The interment was at Hillside.

NEW BRUNSWICK EXCITED OVER BOB FITZSIMMONS

CROWDS TURN OUT TO SEE HIM ON HIS WAY TO COPS' GAME.

Stopping over on his way to Trenton, where he impired the game between the Plainfield police nine and the Trenton bluecoat combination, "Bob" Fitzsimmons stirred up New Brunswick. "Bob" didn't do anything to make excitement except to appear. The sporting spirit of New Brunswick responded to his mere presence ,and the populace buzzed with excitement when it learned that the ex-heavy-weight champion was in its midst.

Fitz arrived in New Brunswick early in the afternoon and proceeded to the Pennsylvania station to take a train to Trenton. He arrived too late to get one of the one o'clock trains and found he would have to wait until the 3:12 o'clock train.

He had hardly arrived on the station platform before the small boy heard of his arrival in town and made haste to the station to get a glimpse of the famous pugilist. With every tick of the clock the crowd increased rapidly until "Bob" found himself surrounded by a band of men and boys that seemed to annoy him more than a swarm of mosquitoes.

Fitzsimmons took it good naturedly for a time but he finally decided to seek shelter elsewhere. He did not like to create such a circus and feared he might be arrested for drawing a crowd or violating some rule of the railroad company or one of the city ordinances.

He made haste across French street to the saloon of John J. Harkins, but the crowd was as active as he and followed him not many feet behind. Entering the saloon the boys of short stature tried to get a glimpse of the fighter by climbing up on the swinging doors. Some even ventured inside their curiosity overcoming their fear of Fitz's ire.

William J. McDede arrived on the scene shortly afterward with his auto and in this he took Fitzsimmons out for a ride. The crowd watched the auto till it was out of sight while some of the barefooted lads gave chase and followed it until the speed limit made them give up the race.

"NEW IDEA" A MISNOMER SAYS FARMER ORATOR.

James E. Martine Says He Has Shouted Same Colby Principles for 45 Years.

"The Constitution of New Jersey, as it stands today, does not represent the ideas of the best people of the State, and has not for many years," says James E. Martine. "In the first place," he says, "a provision should be inserted for popular election of United States Senators. Another thing is that some arrangements should be made for the election of Assemblymen by districts. I most heartily agree with the statement issued by the State committee of our party."

The "farmer orator" declared to a reporter that there was nothing new in the so-called "new idea" movement, excepting the men proclaiming it. "They have seen the merits of the Democratic theories," he said, "and have laid hold of them for selfish motives. I won't say that the Colbyites are insincere, but their stand is certainly inconsistent. They tell us that if their principles are defeated at the primaries they will throw them aside for the time being, at least, and rally around the banners of those they now condemn as dishonest men, bosses, pirates of finance and the like. Now, if what they say is true on September 25, it will be equally true on the election day, and if they abandon those principles and fight for the success of the pirates they now condemn, are they, I ask, consistent?

"George Record told me not long ago that I had better go over and fight with them, and I reminded him that I had been shouting those very principles from one end of the State to the other for the last forty-five years. If that's a 'new idea' movement then I am a very young man, for I was but eighteen years old when I first proclaimed it. I have the utmost admiration for Everett Colby, but he's not a man with a 'new' idea."

Bitten By An Insect.

Miss Nellie Ballentine, of Debele & Stahl's confectionery store, is confined to her home on Somerset street by a painful injury to her right arm. Miss Ballentine was bitten or stung on the wrist Monday by some sort of a flying insect. She thought nothing of the injury until yesterday, when the wrist and arm became very much inflamed and swollen. A physician is in attendance.

Campers Off.

Judge Runyon's camping party left for Lake Hopatcong this morning in good order. They went on the 8:21 train, with a ton of baggage and something to sustain them on the arduous journey.

BAD BILLS DIDN'T PASS

Two Youths Work Fruitlessly Here With Clumsily Executed Counterfeits.

COPS WERE AWAY

Came To Town Yesterday Afternoon and Tried To Get Rid Of Poor Imitations of One Dollar Notes.

While the chief, his one fly-cop and most of the rank and file of the police force were playing ball at Trenton yesterday afternoon, two young men tried to scatter counterfeit bank notes through the business district. The bills were badly executed, and nobody accepted them. No effort was made to place the pair in the hands of the police, because of the ease with which the bad bills were detected.

It is supposed that the youths were sent here by some distributor of bad money who had heard that the town would be practically officerless yesterday afternoon, affording lots of chances for a quick getaway. At any rate, they didn't appear until after the chief and his men had left for Trenton to play the police nine of that city in the opening game of a series that is to decide the police championship of the State.

The youths first tried to pass the counterfeit in Thomas Timbo's restaurant on North avenue. They asked for change, and tendered a bank note that was a very poor imitation of the real thing. The clerk, Miss Florence Neighbor, detected the queer quality of the bill and refused to accept it. Undismayed, the pair tried to pass the bills in half a dozen different places along the avenue and Front street. They separated and worked both business streets, but they failed to find a sucker anywhere. They were seen to board a train for New York shortly after 5 o'clock, two hours after reaching town. Chief Kiely is looking for clues to them today.

MRS. DOW BURIED.

Widow of Seminary Founder Laid to Rest in Evergreen.

The remains of Susannah L. Dow, widow of E. Dean Dow, who died on Saturday at her late home, Knoxville, Tenn., arrived in this city yesterday afternoon and were interred in the family burying plot, Everygreen cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Frazee, pastor of the Congregational church, of Knoxville, who had taken the journey in fulfillment of a promise made to Mr. Dow before his death that he would see Mrs. Dow laid in her last earthly resting place. Mr. Frazee spoke tenderly of his old-time friend, Mr. Dow, and the beautiful character of Mrs. Dow, the sunshine of whose nature was not clouded, even when blindness became her fate.

Mr. Dow was prominent as an educator nearly a half century ago when the boarding school of which he was principal, Opheleton Seminary, was removed from Easton, Pa., to this city. The Plainfield Seminary on West Seventh street was built by Mr. Dow and conducted by him as a boarding and day school for a number of years. Later, he became the editor of the Central New Jersey Times, a weekly.

The captains entered upon their duties in their new locations in earnest showing that there is every disposition on their part to comply with the department rules.

City National Bank's Dividend.

The fifty-ninth semi-annual dividend of four per cent. to the stockholders has been declared by the Board of Directors of the City National Bank. This, with the record of more than $315,000 already paid, places the bank in the front rank of financial institutions in the State, and establishes a record of growth and strength that commands it to its patrons.

Hetfield Appointed.

Walter L. Hetfield, 2d has received his certificate of appointment from Gov. Stokes as a member of the Union County Board of Registry and Election. He succeeds John W. Murray, Jr., who is now collector of taxes.

REFORM MEETING STIRS SOUTH PLAINFIELD

A. R. FORDYCE, G. W. CORY AND C. A. BLOOMFIELD SPEAK.

Before an enthusiastic audience, last night, former Assemblyman Alexander Fordyce, leader of the reform fight in Middlesex county, and his chief lieutenant, George W. Corey, of Stelton, fired the first antiring gun in South Plainfield. The attendance was large and the speakers won hearty applause.

The gathering was representative of the electorate of the village and the surrounding country. That they were heartily in sympathy with the battle against bossism was easily shown. Mr. Fordyce was the chief speaker, and his ringing indictment against the machine men and their methods was met with sustained applause.

Mr. Corey spoke after Mr. Fordyce, and C. A. Bloomfield added his eloquence to the arraignment of the corporation-bound regulars.

South Plainfield was ripe for a rallying call by the reformers. The voters of the village have been anti-"reguar" ever since the borough bill on which the voters were set, was smothered in the Assembly last winter. Machine methods are said to have been responsible for the death of the measure.

SOUTH PLAINFIELDERS KICK AGAINST USE OF SOFT COAL.

Petition Circulated by Commuters and Tradesmen to Try and Make Leigh Valley Quit Practice.

A petition protesting against the use of soft coal on the Lehigh Valley railroad has been drawn up by South Plainfield commuters, and about fifty New Market and South Plainfield business men have put their signatures. The majority of the signers are commuters, who have become impatient at the smoke nuisance in the trains. Aside from a matter of cleanliness, the commuters complain that sore throats and inflamed eyes have resulted from the burning of soft coal, for the dense smoke sweeps in the car windows in blinding clouds.

Business men living near the tracks say it is impossible to keep stock or stores clean, with the dense smoke driving through the street every time a train passes. Several freshly painted houses have been ruined by the smoke and the townspeople are determined to do everything in their power to get the company to go back to anthracite coal. At one time last year, the railroad atempted to introduce sofet coal in place of the anthracite, but the feeling in South Plainfield and nearby towns was so strong that the company ceased the practise after a few weeks. The signers of the petition will forward it to the general superintendent of the railroad this week.

Campers Return Home.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Holy Cross church, and the choir boys arrived home this morning from Shushane, Berkshire Hills, where they have been camping for two weeks. The party broke camp at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and boarded the Steamer C. W. Morse. They arrived in New York at 7 o'clock this morning, reaching Plainfield about 9:30. With the exception of Albert Miller, of East Third street, all returned in good spirits and well pleased with the outing. Young Miller contracted a cold several days ago and owing to his illness it was decided to have him remain at Shushane a few days longer. He is in charge of George Westervelt, an older member of the choir, who is experienced in the care of the sick.

Sent To Asylum.

Mrs. Anna Robinson, colored, was taken to Morris Plains asylum this morning, for commitment. The woman was once well-to-do, and influential among her race in this city. The police say a certain colored minister, now dead, defrauded her of her money, and that the troubles which followed her loss unsettled her mind. Three or four years ago she was rescued from Tier's lake in mid-winter while trying to drown herself.

Dr. Egar At Grace Church.

During the absence of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, who is spending his summer vacation in Canada, Rev. John H. Egar, of Rockview avenue, will have charge of the church services. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus, will spend the month of August at Saunderstown, Rhode Island. He will leave this week.

SLAUGHTERED IN TRENTON

Cops' Nine Got It Good and Hard at the State Capital.

WERE TOYED WITH

Trenton Twirler Fanned Thirteen, and They Only Scored by Permission—Fitz Umpires the Bases.

With their features wreathed in a mixture of sadness and good cheer, the cops' nine sneaked back into town last night from Trenton. They sneaked, because they didn't have any good excuse for what happened to them when the Trenton bluecoats got through with them on the diamond. The good cheer came from something that happened after the game; the winners fed them.

Some of them perked up this morning and said the game wasn't so bad, and pointed to the score, 7 to 4, to support the allegation. But reports from Trenton, where they are imparital, but just, say that the score bears no recognizable relation to the quality of the game. Especially Plainfield's part of it. The score does give out the impression that the contest was something of a ball game, but the spectators are willing to take affidavit it was a lemon—and a very yellow one.

Cap Payne had Scott and O'Loughlin, the Clinton Avenue battery, and George Allen in the game, but the ballast failed to trim the craft enough to prevent it getting swamped. The Trenton coppers can play ball, and what they did to the local nine, which can't, is a painful thing for Plainfielders to read about.

The Trenton men displayed some lively baseball skill at times, but the aggregation from this city were not fast enough to trim a junior nine. Sheidell, on the slab for the Trentons, fanned 13 and the rest of the Trenton nine good naturedly permitted the visitors to score a few runs for appearance sake. Had the home nine played in their usual style they would have scored runs by the dozen.

After the third inning the Trenton coppers simply toyed with the Plainfield bunch, the batters making no effort to run out hits. Bob Fitzsimmons, the ex-champion pugilist, umpired the base decisions. The red-topped one was booked to umpire the game, but he was late in arriving at the grounds and the game was started with Owen Sheehan as the holder of the indicator.

Fitz arrived at the grounds at the end of the fourth inning and it was decided to allow him to handle the base decisions. Some of his decisions were base enough, but nobody made any holler. Toward the close of the game Ruby Robert was presented with a bunch of flowers. He looked at the bouquet, smelled of the flowers and tossed them to a man on the players' bench.

A crowd of nearly 600 was on hand and applauded Fitz when he made his appearance. He gave his decisions on the soft pedal plan and a number of rooters in the grandstand requested him to yell out.

The score:

Net a Big Financial Success.

People who imagine that the last band concert was a great financial success will be somewhat surprised when they learn that the receipts for the evening were $192, and the expenses, including fireworks, etc., were $172.

SHARP REPLY TO ICE DEALERS' SILLY LETTER

CHARGES HUSBAND WITH NON-SUPPORT

MRS. FAGIO, OF THE BOROUGH, SWEARS OUT WARRANT FOR HIS ARREST.

Arrested on complaint of his wife on charges of non-support of her and her four children, Vincent Fagio, of Somerset street, is a most unwilling prisoner at the borough court today. Mrs. Fagio made the complaint against her husband through Borough Overseer of the Poor Fred Becker, and the warrant was served by Constable Pangborn late yesterday afternoon.

There are four little Fagios, from two to seven years of age, and Mrs. Fagio claims that her husband did not allow her means to support them. About a week ago, Fagio took the children and disappeared with them, returning later without them. He said he had taken them to some place to be taken care of. Mrs. Fagio's complaint includes charges of brutal treatment to herself. She alleges that her husband is very hot tempered and has repeatedly beaten and abused her. She claims that his latest form of brutality is to rub her face upon the carpet, while holding her by the hair.

At the borough court this morning, Fagio appeared to be the worst treated husband in the world. He is a small, wiry man, with great oratorical powers, which he exercised whenever anybody came near him. He has no especial love of respect for his wife, but tells a tale of her cruelty to the children, which necessitated him taking them away temporarily. He has retained as his counsel Francis J. Blatz, and Mrs. Fagio will have S. S. Swackhamer argue her side of the question before Justice of the Peace Mundy at the borough court this evening, when the case will come up for hearing.

BAND MUSIC AND PRAYER.

Don't Mix, So Warren Chapel's Meeting Night Is Changed.

The band concerts have compelled Warren chapel to change the night of its weekly prayer meeting.

Because to the disturbance occasioned by the fireworks and the band, on Friday nights, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor of the chapel, has decided to hold the regular prayer meeting on Wednesday nights instead of Friday, while the concerts continue.

The chapel is located near Concert Park and the music and fireworks have been very annoying to the worshippers. Bandmaster La Vere says that the concerts are held Friday nights because the musicians are not available any other night in the week.

Funeral At Dunellen.

Rev. Henry N. Jordan, pastor of the First Baptist church, of New Market, was in charge of the funeral of Mrs. Katherine M. Carey, who died Sunday. The service was at the home of Mrs. Carey's daughter, Mrs. Rowland G. Bush, of Dunellen, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Henry Nischwitz, Joseph Flack, Albert Stein and Thomas Welsh acted as pall bearers. Mrs. Joseph V. Farlee, of Grandview avenue, is the other daughter. The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. Bennett.

The funeral service of Mrs. Mary L. Bennett, who died Sunday, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her late home, 22 Fairview avenue. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, officiated, and there was a mass of floral tributes. Four sons, Charles, Walter B., J. L., and Harry Bennett, and two sons-in-law, John Dixon and E. E. Milligan, acted as pall bearers. The interment was in the Rahway cemetery.

Protective Association Refusing Offer Says Its Up to Natural Ice Co. to Solve Problem.

DEMANDS FAIR PRICES

Reminds Ice Men That They Sacrificed Profits to Get Rid of Competition—Doesn't Want Trade Restrained.

Some days ago the Natural Ice Company, which is alleged to control the ice business here, sent an open letter to the Plainfield Protective Association, taking occasion to deny that there is any "trust" in the business here and making some odd offers. This letter has brought the following reply from President R. Henry Depew, of the Protective Association:

Natural Ice Company,
Plainfield, N. J.
Gentlemen:

Your letter of the 26th inst. has been forwarded to me and in reply I beg to say that the Protective Association has made no statement to the papers that ice can be manufactured or obtained, at the present time, for $1.25 a ton. Individual members may have mentioned having been informed that it could be manufactured at that price in an up-to-date plant, but I do not believe that any one has said that it could be bought now at that figure. Someone, not a member of our association, wrote to the paper two or three months ago that you could have bought ice last winter at that price but refused to do it. It may be this to which you refer, but it is not our statement and we know nothing about the facts.

In regard to your two offers, that you will pay us $6 a ton (weighed in Plainfield) provided we will guarantee to deliver to your wagons from day to day, for the remainder of the season, all the ice you require for your present trade; or that you will give us the use of your horses, wagons, implements, etc., free of charge, provided we will guarantee to carry out your contracts, we beg to say that we must decline both propositions for the reason that, having had the benefit of our patronage for years past, it is up to you and not to us to work out the solution of this problem. We are not in the ice business and never have been, and consequently we do not understand the details and working of it, as you do; and furthermore, in view of the present conditions and general agitation, it is not at all probable that the wholesale dealers would do as well for us as they will for you.

And further, having sold to us at a very high price the ice which you did secure last winter at a cost probably not greatly in excess of the cost in former years, we do not expect to have you lay down and put the burden of handling the situation upon us.

We look to you to do everything in your power to relieve the situation, even to the extent of sacrificing some of your profits for the balance of the season, as you say you sacrificed them a few years ago when the elimination of competition was in progress.

I note that you deny that there is an "Ice Trust" in Plainfield, and that anyone is at liberty to engage in the business. Of course anyone is, but that, of itself, does not prove the non-existence of a trust. That fact is proved or disproved by what is, and not by what may be in the future. I hope, however, that the whole situation will be put upon a basis which will be satisfactory to everyone, at least before another season commences, and I can assure you that our association will continue to work with that end in view.

Referring to the statement in your former letter that a reduction of ten cents in the price to householders and a corresponding increase to stores would make matters worse, as the butchers would be obliged to raise the price of meat, I beg to say that I do not find this statement borne out by the facts. In the first place at least two of the butchers have their own refrigerating plants and consequently are not affected by the price of ice, and as an increase of ten cents per hundred would only increase the cost of handling meat 1-10 cents per pound, those butchers who buy it would not be justified in increasing prices. Of course it would increase their expense somewhat, but that is a thing which happens to every business at times. We would not expect it to continue but it would

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Paul Brakeley, son of Postmaster P. W. Brakeley, returned today from a two weeks' outing at Shushane, N. Y. He was with a party of forty members of the choir of the Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, who formed the party at "Camp Comfort" in charge of Rev. G. A. Warner, rector of the church. Brakeley has been playing centre field on the camp baseball team and the choir boys come back with a clean record of victories as a result of several games played during the two weeks' trip. It is planned to have this camp a regular form of summer outing for the Holy Cross choir boys.

The Dunellen nine will buck the fast Cranford team on the Cranford diamond Saturday afternoon. The Cranford players are a fast bunch and ought to give the locals a good rub, playing as they are out of town. The game last week was played with a "sub" bunch of players, because several of the regulars were on vacations. Captain Merwin Fagley, of the locals, will return from Mauch Chunk the latter part of the week and will be in uniform for Saturday's game, while the team will be further strengthened by Paul Brakeley, who is back after a two weeks' camping tour.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In presenting his new emotional melo-drama, "Bertha The Sewing Machine Girl," at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, Manager A. H. Woods wishes to impress upon our local play patrons its peculiar merits and its superiority over the majority of plays of its class, in point of absorbing and sumptuous scenic settings. "Bertha The Sewing Machine Girl" is a superlative example of modern play writing and building, whose four acts and twelve scenes fairly bristle with excitement and local color. The scene is laid in New York city, the great metropolis of this great country, and its story deals with topics the most timely. The monster of greed, which so cruelly oppresses the poor wage earner, is ever ready to overwhelm the unfortunates who are placed in its power by an infamous system, unless they feed it with their heart's best blood; and when they have become weak and decrepit, in its service and can no longer toil as it demands, it has no further use for them. The "Sweat Shop" which is shown in the second act of "Bertha The Sewing Machine Girl," with its dozens of pale girls bending wearily over their sewing machines, while a merciless "boss" watches to see that they do not steal an instant of his time, is a vivid picture of human misery which leaves a deep impression on the memory of all who witness it.

One of the most pretentious of this season's melodramatic offerings is promised when A. H. Woods' new scenic production "Secrets of the Police" comes to the New Plainfield theatre on August 9. The piece is in four acts and fourteen scenes, every one of which is said to contain some novel sensation and to be a marvel of the mechanic's genius and scene painter's art. The action of the play is in several countries giving unusual opportunities for light and color together with handsome costuming, which is rare in the dramatic field. The piece itself deals with the ever new story of the love of gold pitted against the affection of a noble woman with the later, of course, triumphant only after a series of most heart-rendering and hair raising experiences enlivened by good clean comedy situations. As is usual with Mr. Woods' attractions a company of great merit has been engaged to portray the different roles and a performance which is guaranteed to be the acme of perfection will undoubtedly be the result.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Fillmore Elderton, of East Front street, returned last night from their outing spent at Niagara Falls and Auburn, N. Y.

GOLF.

The golf associations of the world are invited to send teams of four to compete for the Olympic team trophy, at the Glen Echo Country Club, St. Louis, on Monday, September 3. The eighth annual amateur championship will be played on the links the five following days. The team competition will be at thirty-six holes and the members of the teams, not members of the Western Golf Association, may take part in all the cup events except the championship. E. M. Byers is eligible for the championship and also to play for the Western Pennnsylvania Golf Association, holders of the Olympic trophy. The team entries close with A. R. Gates, secretary of the Western Golf Association, 100 Washington street, Chicago.

A fine four ball-match was played Monday at the Roseville Golf Club between the Montclair amateurs, Jerome Travers, who last week established the Roseville record of 74, and Morris Whitlatch, and Thomson, the pro, and S. H. Lockett, the Roseville amateur. The home pair were 1 up in the morning and finished 2 up for the match. In the afternoon both Thomson and Travers had individual cards of 75. Thomson twice had the 140 yard hole in 2 and Travers once. The play is up hill and it is a hard green to hold.

Robert Abbott, of the Plainfield Country Club, the intercollegiate champion as well as champion of the local club, who has been doing such good work this season, will keep up his game throughout the summer. He will be heard from this month at the Watch Hills course, where he will take part in one of the important tournaments.

To those who are unacquainted with golf the game looks very simple and foolish. Many a person has been heard to remark that they could not see any pleasure or benefit in chasing a small ball over a big expanse of ground. If one has their doubts as to the benefit in the way of exercise or the pleasure derived from the game let them try it once. One trial is all that is necessary to convince the most skeptical of the merits of the game. There is a decided knack in driving the small sphere and as a player continues the game he finds his interest increasing at a rapid pace, until nothing will satisfy him but a low score, one that will beat the entire field. It is a recognized fact that a poor man cannot afford the game, because the cost of clubs, balls, club dues and the services of a caddie, if you want one, means considerable in the way of expense. A player either follows the game simply for the real pleasure to be derived or as a profession, and to do either is more or less expensive. It is no doubt because of the tendency to exclusiveness that the game retains its popularity. It is something that everybody cannot play, and there is considerable satisfaction to a golf player to know that he is enjoying a sport that has not reached the common level of many other games. Many thousands of dollars are represented in the local golf courses and it is the pride of the members to make them the best possible.

MOVING TIME IS HERE.

Many people who have been dissatisfied with their apartments during the past winter would like to move to better themselves, but cannot afford to.

Why not come in and talk with us? If you owe a little back rent or grocery bill or the doctor or coal man, or you need money for rent in advance, it might possibly be an advantage to get a small loan, say $10, $25 or possibly $50, of us, and then pay it back in small amounts, either weekly or monthly, to suit your convenience. We loan from $10 up—any sum—any time. The possession of household goods, piano, or horse and wagon, are sufficient evidence of your ability to pay. A postal will bring us to your door.

Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1906.

THE NATURAL ICE CO.

That highly amusing letter of the Natural Ice Company in which it suggested that the Plainfield Protective Association conduct the ice business for the remainder of the summer gives the citizens' organization a welcome opportunity. With brazen affrontery the Natural Ice Company wants to relieve itself of any duties it may owe the people of Plainfield after it has reaped all the profit that can be made for this year at least.

It is to be supposed that Peter McDonough and the other men engaged in the ice business have as much business sense as the average citizen. Yet realizing that there was not enough ice stored to last through the summer months, apparently no effort was made to buy a sufficient supply during the winter when the commodity was at the lowest figure.

In his sharp and justified criticism of the Natural Ice Company, Mr. Depew says very frankly:

"Aud further, having sold to us at a very high price the ice which you did secure last winter at a cost probably not greatly in excess of the cost in former years, we do not expect to have you lay down and put the burden of handling the situation upon us.

"We look to you to do everything in your power to relieve the situation, even to the extent of sacrificing some of your profits for the balance of the season, as you say you sacrificed them a few years ago when the elimination of competition was in progress.

"I note that you deny that there is an 'Ice Trust' in Plainfield, and that anyone is at liberty to engage in the business. Of course anyone is, but that, of itself, does not prove the non-existence of a trust. That fact is proved or disapproved by what is, and not by what may be in the future. I hope, however, that the whole situation will be put upon a basis which will be satisfactory to everyone, at least before another season commences, and I can assure you that our association will continue to work with that end in view.

"We do, however, in return for our patronage, expect that every proper effort shall be used to give us as low prices as possible, consistent with good service and proper returns, and unhampered by improper trade agreements."

The ice men need not feel too sanguine that they are going to get off as easily as they apparently suppose. While the Plainfield Protective Association is pursuing its efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment of the difficulties, E. S. Hooley, of North Plainfield, is quietly collecting what evidence he can to have the ice men brought into court. To our mind his is the more satisfactory way of solving the problem. If there is any effort on the part of the ice men to restrain trade or to act in a manner inimical to public interest only through such recourse will the facts come out. In the meantime the present dealers should carry on the business and not offer to delegate it to others for it is not unlikely that when summer comes again they will find new factors to contend with.

During its history the City National Bank has paid out over $315,000 in dividends. Today it announces that the fifty-ninth semi-annual dividend of four per cent. is ready for the stockholders. Wise business judgment on the part of the directors and absolute confidence on the part of the public have combined to make the institution one of the most prosperous and soundest banking houses in New Jersey.

Will Peter McDonough tell the people why he was able to sell ice for twenty cents a hundred a few years ago and now since fierce competition has become a thing of the past he must ask sixty cents a hundred?

It is a good idea for the Newark News to publish an extended account of George L. Record's life now for it will not be needed when the next United States Senator is chosen.

Former Senator "Jim" Smith is willing to lend his assistance at the Bryan reception. If W. J. doesn't watch out he'll be in bad repute again.

KILLED BY HIS INJURIES.

Elizabeth Meat Dealer Was Hurt Nearly a Week Ago.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1.—John Gottlieb Kurtz, a younger brother of Fire Commissioner Frederick Kurtz, Jr., and of former President Charles Kurtz, of Elizabeth's Board of Education, died Monday night in St. Elizabeth's Hospital here from internal injuries received in a runaway last Wednesday. He was engaged in the meat business at Washington avenue and Pearl streets here, and started out to deliver orders. The horse took fright and ran away, and in his flight his owner was hurled from the wagon when it collided with a tree. The wheels of the vehicle passed over his abdomen.

His injuries were not considered serious, but on Thursday he became delirious and was unconscious from then until he expired. Mr. Kurtz was born in Elizabeth March 23, 1863. He was the youngest one of his family. He was a charter member of the Friendship Benevolent Aid Association of Elizabeth and also belonged to the German Lutheran church. He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter. The funeral services will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at his home. Rev. Christian G. Fischer, pastor of the Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

Some of the things that interested the readers for the week of March 19:

Where are the flagmen at the railroad crossings in Plainfield? Public safety calls loudly for their immediate presence.

A new lumber yard is about being established on the Peace street lot between Third and Fourth streets recently purchased by the Central railroad from the Society of Friends.

It appears that the new railroad name of New Market is not to be "Glenallen" but "Dun Ellen." What a name! Why not call it Dun Brown, and be done with it.

The balmy air on Sunday was vocal with the song of newly arrived birds. Welcome visitors from Southern climes.

The following is in circulation:

"To the Senate and General Assembly: Your memorialists respectfully request your honorable bodies to withhold assent from a proposed bill authorizing the Plainfield Fire Department to raise an annual tax of $3,000, to hold property to the extent of $20,000, and to borrow money and issue bonds for $15,000. Because—The said department, at the last session of the legislature, obtained an increase of one hundred per cent. of the sum previously allowed to be raised by taxation, and which increase was deemed to be sufficient for all the legitimate wants of said department; and because the present managers of said department have not made any public exhibit of its financial condition, or shown the people for what specific purpose the proposed increase is now required, and because, although willing to liberally support a fire department, we are not willing to incur the liability of a bonded debt without knowing all particulars connected therewith."

A dog supposed to be mad was shot in Cherry street Tuesday.

We have noticed for the past two or three days several urchins, who were industriously sweeping the crossings of some of our streets, which reminded us of some of those little "gutter snipes" who infest the street crossings of New York with mud-bespattered garments, and who appeal to each passer-by with the everlasting "Please give me a penny?" Some of these little fellows have picked up quite a sum of money since they commenced business, but the mild weather, which we have had for a day or two past soon spoiled their occupation.

In digging down to a gas pipe in this village the other day, frost was discovered three feet deep.

The citizens of Scotch Plains met in the Academy at that place on Friday evening, March 13, pursuant to a call signed "Many Citizens," to take into consideration the propriety and usefulness of organizing a citizens' building and loan and savings' institution of Scotch Plains. A goodly number were in attendance and the subject was well-canvassed and ventilated, pro and con. The matter, however, was favorably considered, some two or three hundred names were affixed, when the meeting adjourned to meet again, on Saturday evening, the 21st instant, at half past seven o'clock, when it is supposed they will establish a permanent organization.

The Organ Concert which came off in the 2d Presbyterian church of this place on Thursday evening last, was a grand affair. The weather being unfavorable, there were not as many present as were anticipated, but those that were there were well-satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

Base Ball—A meeting of the Mechanics' Base Ball Club of this place will be held at Laing's hall on Wednesday, March 25th, to reorganize for the season. There seems to be a determination on the part of the members to make this a first class club, all of whom are good players. They will also have a new ground, and we may expect lively times in baseball this summer, as the Mechanics are going to play some good clubs, the first of which will be their old opponents, the Resolute B. B. C., of Elizabeth, and they confidently expect to bring back those balls they lost last season to Plainfield. The new rule for 1868 requires that all balls used in a match must be stamped with the size, weight and maker's names, and if any other is used the game will be null and void. The new ball is smaller and lighter than the old one, being but nine inches in circumference and weighing five and a quarter ounces.

The East New Jersey Baptist Ministerial Conference met in the Baptist church, at Scotch Plains, on Tuesday, March 17, at half past ten o'clock a. m. There was a somewhat meagre attendance owing to the almost-impassable condition of the roads. Services were commenced by singing that beautiful hymn, "There Is a Fountain Filled With Blood." Reading, sixteenth chapter, first Corinthians, and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Doolittle, of Somerville; after which the choir, led by that clear, sonorous, voice, and most excellent singer, Miss Ella Nicholl, sung in most melodious strains, "Dear Saviour, We are Thine by Everlasting Bands." The opening sermon was then preached by Rev. Mr. Merrill, of Millburn, from first Corinthians, sixteenth chapter, twenty-second verse, "If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema Maran-atha," in an able, clear, lucid manner. Then after singing "Ye Christian Heralds, go proclaim salvation in Emanuel's name" the benediction was prodnounced by the Rev. Mr. Grinnell, and the conference adjourned for more private exercises to half-past one o'clock p. m.

Rev. J. F. Brown, of Bridgeton, N. J., accepts the unanimous call of the First Baptist church, Piscataway..

Senator Clark of Union county has introduced a bill to incorporate the Summit, Plainfield and Long Branch Railroad Company, with a capital of $50,000. The incorporators may build a road from the Morris & Essex Railroad, near Summit, in Union county, thence through Washington Valley, in Somerset county, to Washingtonville, near Plainfield, to and crossing the New Jersey Railroad between Metuchen and New Brunswick, and thence to and crossing the Camden & Amboy road near South River, thence through Middlesex and Monmouth counties to Long Branch.

The Delaware & Raritan Canal will be opened on the 23rd instant.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preached last Sunday week on behalf of the suffering poor around home. Beecher shows favorable symptoms of becoming a Christian.

Tax-Payers Attention!—The Democratic party go for strict accountability on the part of every public officer, from the highest to the lowest, National, State and local; economy in the expenditure of the people's money; rigid fidelity in the administration of each particular trust, whether under the title of Township Committee, School Trustees or Fire Department Managers; and a public exhibit as open and honest as daylight, of how every dollar has been used. That is our platform! Who dares take issue with us before the Tax-Payers of Plainfield.

Philip Phillips, author of the popular Sabbath School music books, "Singing Pilgrim? and "Musical Leaves," has consented to give a sacred concert for the benefit of the M. E. church on Thursday evening, the 19th instant, in the M. E. church, commencing at seven and one half o'clock. The Secular and Religious press throughout the country have been loud in their praise of Mr. Phillips' singing. He has sung in the Academy of Music in all our large cities, at the State Sunday school conventions, and other large religious gatherings throughout the Union, and everywhere his coming is gladly welcomed. We bespeak for him a large attendance and a cordial greeting on Thursday evening.

Toes Crushed by Eight-ton Weight.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1.—Christopher Wolff, forty-two years old, of 650 Crosby avenue, Roselle Park, had his toes on his left foot crushed to a pulp yesterday afternoon in the construction department of the Watson-Stillman Company's shop at Aldene. He was removed to the General Hospital here, where at least a part of his foot will have to be amputated. Wolff had been lifting the eight-ton section of steel which is to form a part of the tubing for the new Pennsylvania Railroad tunnels under the Hudson, when one of the chains of the crane broke. He was under the weight at the time, but was warned by the snapping and got out from under in time to save himself from being crushed, but his foot caught.

help to relieve present conditions, without putting a serious burden upon the butchers who have had a very much smaller ratio of increase than household consumers have had in the past three years.

In conclusion I beg to say that it is not the purpose of the Protective Association to endeavor to reduce prices of anything in Plainfield below figures at which a fair and reasonable profit will be secured by those engaged in the business.

We do, however, in return for our patronage, expect that every proper effort shall be used to give us as low prices as possible, consistent with good service and proper returns, and unhampered by improper trade agreements.

In carrying out these aims we purpose always hearing both sides of a question, and after obtaining all information possible, endeavor to arrive at an agreement which will be fair and satisfactory to both sides.

Yours very truly,
R. HENRY DEPEW,
President.

A BIG INDUSTRY FOR ELIZABETH

LARGEST PAINT MANUFACTURING PLANT TO BE LOCATED THERE.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1.—John W. Masury & Son, a paint concern now occupying with its factory and office buildings a whole square of Brooklyn, N. Y., property fronting on Jay street and running down to the East river, are about to erect in this city the largest paint manufacturing plant in the world. They have just purchased from H. H. Isham, who is the principal in the Security Land and Improvement Company, fifty-eight acres of ground in the southern section of the city. The property has a frontage of 1,000 feet on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and is bounded on the remaining sides by Bayway, Edgar road, the old racetrack turnpike, the Essex and Middlesex turnpike and the city line. A portion of the property extends into Linden township to the racetrack grounds. Negotiations are now in progress for the purchase of several more acres from the Flanagan estate adjoining the present holdings on the south along the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The plans so far as completed call for the erection of eleven buildings of three stories. Of these seven will be 100 by 300 feet and will be used for manufacturing purposes. Another building 150 by 800 feet will be used as a shipping and storage house. The remaining structures will be used as offices, engine rooms, boiler houses, etc. No wood will be used in any part of the buildings. All will be of reinforced concrete construction and a feature of the work will be the exceptionally artistic ornamentation of the buildings, especially along the railroad front. The style has not yet been decided on but it will probably be either along the lines of old mission or cathedral designs. There is to be a strikingly attractive clock tower, in the construction of which artistic beauty and practical benefit will be sought rather than extraordinary height or unusual proportion of dial. It is the intention to make arrangements with the Washington authorities to have the time regulated directly from that city so that the 80,000 people passing each day in the Pennsylvania cars may be assured of correct time en route.

The main buildings will probably be set back from the railroad about 200 feet, to allow for flower beds, trees, shrubbery and an attractive lawn design.

Consents to New Trial.

J. Henry Crane, counsel for Paul Mauchtwey, has consented to have the case of the Dunham grocery opened for a new trial. Mr. Crane allowed the case to be reopened as a matter of professional courtesy to opposing counsel. He says he is perfectly satisfied to argue the case on its merits.

AUGUST AT SEA GIRT

Great Gathering of Military Rifle Shots on State Range This Month.

MATCHES SCHEDULED

Valuable Prizes for Team and Individual Scores—National Team Match.

From August 27 to September 6 there will be the greatest gathering of military rifle shots that this country has ever witnessed, the occasion being the rifle matches shot under the auspices of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, the National Rifle Association of America, and the New Jersey State Rifle Association, on the range at Sea Girt.

It is expected that there will be at least forty teams of twelve men each to compete in the National Team Match, while no estimate can be made of the number of marksmen who will enter the National Individual Match. This match is shot under the direction of the National Board, and Congress gives $390 cash prize money for this match, together with four gold medals, four silver medals and four bronze medals. Private parties have contributed $2,010 additional for cash prizes in this match, making a total of $2,400, which is by far the largest sum of money ever given in this country in cash prizes for rifle practice. There will also be special prizes of three gold medals and three $20 cash prizes. This match is open to the army, navy, marine corps, cadets of the United States Military and Naval Academies, organized militia of the States and Territories and the District of Columbia, and the members of the National Rifle Association of America and affiliated clubs.

The National Team Match, also under the direction of the National Board, is open to teams of twelve men from the army, navy, marine corps, military and naval academies, and the militia of each State, the army being allowed two teams, one representing the cavalry and the other the infantry. In this match there will be the National Trophy, donated by Congress, and $300 in cash; the Hilton Trophy and $200 in cash, and the Soldier of Marathon, presented by the commander-in-chief in behalf of the State of New York and $150 in cash. There are three other cash prizes, and each member of a winning team will be given a properly-inscribed bronze medal.

A large number of matches will be shot under the supervision of the National Rifle Assocation. Affiliated with this association are the State Rifle Associations of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Iowa, Maryland, Michigan, Colorado, Illinois and Indiana, together with twenty-five regiment rifle associations, eighteen squadrons and company organizations and thirty-four rifle clubs, covering all parts of the United States.

The leading match is the Wimbledon Cup match, for the Wimbledon Cup, presented by the National Rifle Association of Great Britain. This is open to all citizens and residents of the United States, and any rifle and any ammunition may be used. It is shot for at 1,000 yards and carries the long range championship of the United States and four cash prizes. The President's Match carries with it the military championship of the United States, a championship medal and an autograph letter from President Roosevelt, together with eight cash prizes. The membership match, for the championship of the National Rifle Association, is a gold medal and seven cash prizes. The regimental championship team match will this year have a new trophy, contributed by the regiments of the United States and valued at $500, to become the permanent property of the organization winning it three times. This carries with it a medal to each member of the winning team and $150 in cash, and there are three other cash prizes. The E. I. Du Pont Company has donated a solid silver trophy, valued at $250, for the championship regimental skirmish match, which becomes the property of any team winning it twice.

The Inter-Collegiate match carries a trophy, a medal to each member of the winning team and two cash prizes. This trophy was won last year by the team from Princeton University.

The Inter-Club match for the rifle club championship of the United States has a number of gold, silver and bronze medals and three cash prizes. This trophy has been won twice by the Manhattan Rifle and Revolver Association and once by the Ohio State Rifle Association. The National Marksman's match is open to any citizen of the United States between the ages of 18 and 45, and competitors making a total of fifty points will be enrolled in the office of the military secretary of the War Department as a national marksman, and also receive a national marksman's reserve button. There will also be a championship revolver team match for the Hale Trophy and three cash prizes.

The New Jersey State Rifle Association matches carry a large number of trophies, first of which is the Dryden Trophy match, the trophy presented by Senator Dryden, of New Jersey, and one of the handsomest trophies in the country. This carries with it three cash prizes of a total of $300. The company team match has a number of gold, silver and bronze medals and three cash prizes.

The Columbia match for the trophy given by the District of Columbia National Guard to the National Guard of New Jersey, carries a number of medals and three cash prizes, of which the highest is $100.

MEN ARE POWERLESS
To Fight Against Disease Unless They Strike at the Underlying Cause.
To treat Dandruff, and Falling Hair, with irritants or oils on which a parasitic germ will prosper, is like scooping water from the ocean to prevent the tide from rising.
You cannot accomplish a satisfactory cure without having a right understanding of the fundamental causes of the trouble.
You must kill the Dandruff Germ.
Newbro's Herpicide does this because it is specially made to do that very thing.
When the germ is removed, the hair has no choice but to resume healthy growth and beauty.
"Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY.

Plainfield People Are Doing All They Can for Fellow Sufferers.

Plainfield testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to other in Plainfield who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Plainfield people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Plainfield case:

Rhoda A. Martin, of 24 Jackson avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had pain in my back and loins for about a year or more, no doubt caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning, just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicines I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They not only removed the pain, but they strengthened me in other ways." (Statement made in January, 1901.)

Statement Confirmed.

On July 22, 1905, Mrs. Martin's daughter said: "The testimonial given for publication for years ago was true in regard to the benefit of my mother derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, and today she is as ready and willing to repeat what she therein said as she was after using your medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

TO CLEAN JEWELRY.

A sharp pointed implement should never be employed to clean rings, as it loosens the stones. Soak them in liquid ammonia and the dirt will be loosened. Afterward they should be polished with a soft cloth. It is a good plan to keep rings in sawdust, as it enables the gems to retain their brilliancy. Warm water and a little prepared chalk are all that is required to clean plain or chased rings. Toilet articles, vinaigrettes and other small trinkets may be easily brightened without the use of powder by placing them in an aluminium receptacle and pouring boiling water over them. Polishing should be done by means of a piece of clean chamois leather, but in adopting this treatment it must be remembered that the silver should never be allowed to become tarnished.

Miss Steele, of 959 West Third street, has been entertaining her sister from Worcester, Mass.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

CHAPTER VIII.

Suddenly, as if to surprise them, came the spring.

The winter carpet of sodden leaves was changed to one of bright young grass. Pussy-willows, like molting birds, dotted the marshy land with their yellow feathers, and every shady nook was dappled with pale and drooping wild-flowers.

On an afternoon in early March, Winslow and Lavender strolled to the water's edge to look for the boat which was hourly expected. A skiff was moored on the beach, and Lavender jumped to its prow, and, shading her eyes from the dancing sunlight, gazed down the river.

"In faith, a fine figure-head," Winslow called, then stood, with the malicious enjoyment sometimes felt in defying conscience, watching her with every sense alive to the poise of her head and delicate wrist—to the curves of the slender figure in the homespun gown, as it swayed unsteadily in the rocking boat.

From her belt dangled a bunch of dogwood blossoms—the first trophy of the season.

"See, look! they are coming!" and piroquetting joyously, she shook the frail skiff until the oarlocks rattled.

Winslow sprang into the boat with her, his arm steadying her swaying figure, his hand in hers.

The black hulk of the unwieldy keel-boat was plainly visible—a dark line in the agate of river and sky.

Soon they could distinguish the forms of men on shore as they walked with bent head, and arms straining at the long cordelle, and there was a chorus of greeting.

It was indeed a cosmopolitan cry. The foreign twang of Spaniard and Frenchman joined to the lusty call of the American pioneer, while here and there an Indian gave a whoop of welcome, and even America added her unctuous dialect to the greeting that sounded over the water.

On came the men, and after them the boat, drawn like the carcass of some huge thing of the sea.

A landing was soon made, and the captain came ashore—a swaggering, ill-conditioned fellow, whose ox-like strength and ferocity of temper held his little world in check.

There was clamorous outcry for goods expected or space for new cargo, but it consumed little time, since a large dry goods box carried the average shipment.

The appearance of the boat—her crew and passengers, was anything but prepossessing. Rough, uncouth, and, for the most part, depraved, the prospect of a journey with such men was disheartening.

But Winslow and his party resolved to make the best of it, keeping themselves and their inopportune refinement as much in the background as possible. Cramped quarters were provided them, and when the boat was ready they took leave of the settlement, "with surprisingly little regret, considering 'your fondness for 'pot luck,'" Winslow said, laughingly to Lavender.

The boat made slow progress, but they found ample entertainment in the beauties of the view. The sky and water, the now verdant banks on either side, were constant food for thought or converse. But to the majority of their fellow-voyagers, blind to shifting cloud and changing shadow, to ice-seamed bluff and towering pine, the hours dragged wearily.

Gambling was the chief diversion, and most of the men were inveterate players. Among these was a once wealthy planter journeying in company with an octoroon slave. He had lost a fortune at the gaming table, but was possessed with a fever to win it back at a like hazard. The woman usually watched his play, and her influence alone had thus far prevented his utter ruin. Over his shoulder she often hung, and her dark comeliness would attract him from the dice or cards.

Toward the close of the second day's travel Winslow, walked into the forward cabin, where the planter sat at cards with two men. One of them, Pat Finch, the captain, shouted as Winslow entered: "Take a hand?"

"No, thanks, I'll look on."

There was silence, broken only by the rattle of coin, and the oaths of the players.

The air was stifling with the fumes of drink and tobacco, but Winslow remained, fascinated by the tense attitude of the gamblers. Evidently some untoward excitement was pending—the stakes were high.

Suddenly there was a gurgling cry of "Lost, by God!" and the planter fell face downward on the table, scattering cards and money in blind confusion.

Another pause, then Finch, the captain, spoke: "It was a fair game, and, damme, if she ain't mine!"

At the brutal words, the prostrate man rose, and shot a look of mingled hatred and pleading as would have touched a heart not mailed and proof.

Suspicion of the frightful barter came over Winslow, but controlling a sickening sense of disgust, he asked, calmly: "Then the stakes were high, gentlemen?"

[illegible] and dropped his head again to the table.

With a devil-may-care fling of his great shoulders, the captain rose. "High?" he repeated, "well, if there's a finer wench in the Louisiana territory, I'd like to have her, that's all."

At this the stricken player sprang to his feet, and with the grasp of a tiger was at the speaker's throat.

The door was suddenly opened, and the octoroon's wide, frightened eyes peered over the threshold.

Instantly the clinched men relaxed their hold, and the planter sank to his seat again.

With wondering anxiety the woman scanned each face, then timidly approached the gamester: "William, master, speak to me—what is it?"

A groan was the only response; then roughly Finch spoke: "We played until he lost everything he had—but you. Then, well, then he staked—and lost again."

The woman stood rigid. Over her eyes a horrid comprehension grew, darkening them like a film shutting out the light.

Finch grasped her with half scowl, half leer on his cruel face. "One man's meat is another man's pizen, you know, my girl."

With a shriek she turned from him to sink at the feet of her master. "Not me? You have not sold me?" and she murmured broken words of anguish, groveling on the floor, her head on his knee.

"We are intruding, senor."

It was the third player who spoke—a tall, heavy-browed Spaniard, his massive head covered with black curls on which was carelessly tilted a wide-rimmed hat. This he pulled lower, as if to hide the womanish pity in his eyes.

"Let us go," he said, "this is not the first time men have fought for a woman," and he turned away.

Winslow was tempted to follow—both from personal unwillingness to witness the harrowing scene, and from innate respect for the sanctity of sorrow. But just then he met the agonized gaze of the octoroon. All a woman's soul flashed from the eyes of this helpless chattel.

Rapidly his mind searched every avenue of escape for her. There was a way—he would try it.

"Will you tarry a moment?" and he closed the door as he spoke, "I have a suggestion to make."

There was a compelling power in his quiet words which made the crushed man raise his head with sudden hungry hope in the bloodshot eyes. The woman staggered to her feet. Capt. Finch rewarded the speaker with a glare of malignant questioning.

Winslow continued: "If, as I understand, this gentleman has lost, and the woman was the stake upon his side, then, according to the laws of gambling—for I believe, there are laws of gambling—the woman is yours." He indicated the winner by a polite bow. Then may I inquire the amount staked against her?" he added.

A pause followed this abrupt question.

The planter, whose courage gradually rose with his springing hope, muttered: "One hundred dollars."

"One hundred dollars? A pitiful sum! You gave frightful odds. But of course you felt sure of winning," Winslow added, with suave sarcasm. Then turning to the captain, he proceeded: "It appears, then, that the woman is yours, but she is evidently an unwilling prize. Does not this fact considerably lessen her value? Suppose we play again, she the stake on your side—this mine."

He drew a small sack from his pocket, and laid it upon the table. No sound followed the clink of metal, but a woman's shuddering sigh.

Under gloomy brows her old master stared at the new. The latter stood for a moment, a frown of baffled rage distorting his sinister face.

"She was fairly staked, and fairly won," he declared. "The odds are not my business, and d—d if I'm to be bamboozled out of the profit of a fair game!"

"But what profit is there in an unwilling slave? You might sell her, to be sure, but that would not be sportsmanlike, and—" here Winslow stepped nearer with insinuating clink of money: "Come, you are no Shylock to stick to the letter of the bond; come!" and he slowly counted out $100 which he slid to the table. The sack he replaced in his pocket.

All eyes were upon the boatman as his hungry glance sought the glittering pile. All the lust of the cards was on him. Winslow had counted upon this, and upon the gambler's faith in success.

LITERARY.

Three boys in a sailboat in a spanking breeze look out from the cover page of the August American Boy. The names of Stratemeyer, Tomlinson, Alger, and Harbour stand out in the text in four stirring serials now running. Every boy knows that where these names appear there is something of interest to him. The titles of the stories by these well-known writers are additional evidence of their stirring character—"In Defense of His Flag," "The Camp-fire of Mad Anthony," "The Young Book Agent," and "Four Boys in Camp."

In the August number of the Atlantic, as befits a midsummer number, fiction holds the first place. It is an uncommonly readable group of short stories that the editors have brought together, comprising some of the strongest work of our best story writers. Norman Duncan's "The Wayfarer" is one of the most imaginative and telling of his many stories of the sea. Mary Heaton Vorse has a very amusing story dealing with "Some Further Adventures of a Yachtman's Wife;" M. E. M. Davis has an effective bit of symbolism in "The Forerunner;" while W. J. Hokins, whose Clammer stories were such a success in the Atlantic last year, appears in a new field with "The Fall of the House of Johns." Related to the fiction of the number in its interest is a remarkable study of "The Novels of Mrs. Wharton," by H. D. Sedgwick, and a curious chance brings it about that two of the three admirable poems of the number are by distinguished writers of fiction, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and Thomas Nelson Page.

LATEST NOVEL IS OF NEW JERSEY LIFE.

"Doc. Gordon," by Mary E. Wilkins, To Be Published Next Sunday.

The best novel for the reader is the novel that most nearly portrays the people with whom the reader comes in contact. David Harum pictured a homely character and his friends in such a way as to make every reader of the book find in his own community a counterpart of the great philosopher and horse trader.

Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman, who has for some years been known as the author who drew true life portraits of the characters of the New England village, has found a new field for her work. She has written a novel, the characters for which she has found in southern New Jersey. Whether the people of that section will enjoy her pictures is yet to be seen, but they will surely enjoy the story itself—one of the greatest mystery-romances ever written.

The title of the novel is "Doc. Gordon," and the first instalment will be printed in the Sunday North American next Sunday, August 5. It will be completed during the month of August in the special fiction supplement of that paper, before it is allowed to appear in book form.

The demand for the Sunday North American for August is already enormous, and readers who would not miss reading all of the Wilkins novel should make themselves safe by ordering the paper for the full month.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Angleman and children, of West Front street, will leave soon for the Adirondacks, where they will spend the remainder of the month and a part of September.

The Elizabeth Times is authority for the statement that in a few days future dates for additional games between the Plainfield and Invader teams will be arranged and that they will all be played in Elizabeth. This no doubt is news to the Plainfield Baseball Association and the members are inclined to believe that the Times is in error.

The Quaker Giants have been defeating nearly every team it has played of late. Saturday's contest should be a top-notcher as it will be the first meeting of these teams this year.

"Phil." Smith has been given several severe tests this season in games with Paterson, the Cuban X Giants and other fast teams, but it is believed that Saturday's contest will prove his merit as a twirler when he faces the Quaker Giants. Every member of the colored team is a recognized slugger, including "Mistah" Monroe.

"Money" Monroe, who plays with the Quaker Giants, is one of the most original coaches in the business and he never fails to keep the fans in good humor.

By the way, what has become of former Manager Charles Denman, of the late and lamented Westfield team? Looks as though he has taken to the woods.

A large number of local fans are planning to see the New York Giants meet the Chicagoes and Pittsburgs in New York next week.

Treasurer Charles W. Runyon would like to see the receipts from Saturday's game swell to unusual proportions. Don't let him be disappointed.

According to the original agreement, the Plainfield Baseball Association planned to play to and including Labor Day, when the season will end. This allows five more Saturdays and the Labor Day game, making six contests in all, providing one is played on the holiday. With good strong attractions there should be no trouble about drawing big crowds.

No doubt many fans will journey to Hoboken on Saturday, September 29, to see "Phil." Smith pitch against the Jersey City Eastern League Club.

Considering the many things that have worked against the success of the local baseball association, the results are as good as could be expected. In Trenton, Manager Dick Smith, of the Roeblings, claim that the season has been a particularly hard one for him.

Since he joined the Giants, Seymour, the new fielder, has been batting almost .300, a big improvement over his hitting while with the Cincinnati team.

It begins to look as though the predictions concerning "Christy" Mathewson are coming true. Early in the season he was very ill and it was doubted whether he would regain his old-time form in time to be of great benefit to the Giants. Of late, he has shown all of his old-time cunning and his work against the Pittsburgs and this week against the Cincinnati team indicates that he will make a garrison finish and probably land his team a winner. McGraw evidently has not been worried about Mathewson's early season work, relying upon him for the last half of the season.

President Pulliam, of the National League, is of the opinion that the Giants are quite likely to win the pennant again this year, although he expresses himself as being elated over the showing made by the Chicago Cubs and their great fight for the rag. He says that he believes the Pittsburgs and Chicagos to be the best travelling teams in the big league.

No matter what happens "Willie" Keeler still continues to play his same steady game day in and day out. He rarely makes an error in play and he continually manages to get his regular number of hits, the opportune kind that come when they are most needed. Some of the local fans can remember when Keeler played the same kind of game here. Pitchers all declare that they would rather face almost any other batter in the American League than Keeler for they never can tell whether he is going to line the ball out or drop it near the home plate and then beat it to first.

The newspaper team will go to Newark Saturday afternoon to play a return game with the Newark News nine. A terrific effort will be made to square up accounts.

Jimmy Beisel is philosophic over his failure to hold Daab's men to a scratch hit or two last Saturday. "I got off better than I expected," he said last night. "A pitcher who expects to beat those fellows unless he has the same kind of support is a fool. We got off lucky in that game, I think."

Keep your eye on the Scotch Plains team. In a year or two that combination will be as fast as anything within seven counties.

The Police nine will play a return game with the Trenton bluecoats in September.

The Somerset A. C. will play the colored combination Saturday.

ROD AND GUN.

Fishing in nearby streams still has attractions and rewards. Dan Force, Sam Robinson and Court Clerk Horace G. Adams landed a nice mess of eels, some sunfish and three yellow perch at Sebring's Mills yesterday.

"MARTY" O'LOUGHLIN PLAYS GREAT GAME OF GOLF.

Returns Best Score for Second Nine Holes at Van Cortlandt Park.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the home-bred "pro" of the Plainfield Country Club, won further honors yesterday in the opening of the golf tournament at VanCortlandt Park. His score of 75 in the afternoon, coming home in 37, was the best score of the day for the second nine holes. "Marty" is playing a very strong game at present and he is expected to even do better in today's play than yesterday. He made the first round of 18 holes in 80 and the second in 75, a total of 155 for the thirty-six holes. The kind of a game he is playing can better be imagined when it is known that Alec Campbell, of the Country Club, of Brookline, and Donald Ball, of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, led the field at the end of the first day at seventy-two holes medal play, with scores of 150 each for the thirty-six holes, only five better than the Plainfield boy.

The committee in charge, of which Charles Kirchener, of this city, is chairman, ran everything off without a hitch. Park Commissioner Walgrove opened the play by driving a ball from the first tee. The lad who captured the ball received a prize of $5.

Flashes of brilliancy marked the efforts of the "pros" from the start. The first hole is two hundred yards uphill, and George Low, of Baltusrol, and Herbert Strong, of Apawamis, each made it in 2. Strong was paired with Alec Smith and they carried the gallery.

In the afternoon David Patrick, of Westfield, followed with an 80 with a capital 73, which places him only a stroke worse than Alec Smith. Isaac Mackie, of Fox Hills Golf Club, last year's winner, was fifth with 154, while George Turnbull, of Waterbury, and "Marty" O'Loughlin came next with 155 each.

The play will be continued today when another thirty-six holes will be played. There is over $500 in prizes to be awarded the winners in this tournament and in consequence the rivalry is very keen.

SENATOR SMITH INVITED TO MEET WM. J. BRYAN.

Former Senator Will Serve On Reception and Transportation Committees.

Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., is now added to the already long list of distinguished citizens who have united with the Commercial Traveler's Anti-Trust League in arranging a reception to be tendered William Jennings Bryan on the latter's return from a tour of the world.

The former Senator and leader of the State Democratic organization is in receipt of two letters from the Bryan Reception League announcing his appointment on two committees, both of which he has accepted. The first, which directly concerns the reception, was received Saturday, and reads as follows:

"Dear Sir—I have the honor to inform you that at a meeting of the plan and scope committee to arrange for a reception to the Hon. William Jennings Bryan you were appointed a member of the reception committee, of which Governor Folk, of Missouri, is the chairman.

"Very truly yours,
"LEWIS NIXON,
"Chairman of Plan and Scope Committee."

The second letter, which is also signed by Mr. Nixon, announces Mr. Smith's appointment as a member of the transportation committee, of which F. Burton Harrison, of New York, is chairman. The other members of the committee are Harry W. Walker, George W. Plunkett and Joseph F. McLoughin, all of New York. This letter also announces a meeting of the executive committee at headquarters, room 100, Victoria Hotel, New York, August 2, and states that final preparatory report from all committees are expected August 22.

"Oh, no, it does not indicate that I am back in the political arena again," said the former Senator when asked if his acceptance of the invitations could be construed to mean that. "I am out of politics and cannot be forced into a field that is so well covered by the many young men who are now at the helm.

"There is absolutely no political significance in my acceptance of the committee assignments tendered. While the duty may be onerous, I consider it a privilege to be one of those selected to do honor to one of our first citizens on his return from abroad.

"This country has produced few greater men in this age than William Jennings Bryan, and the reception tendered him everywhere as a typical American is an honor to the nation which he so well represents either at home or abroad.

"As a fitting climax to his world-wide reception as a loyal American comes the non-political greeting arranged for his home-coming on August 30 next. There is no body of men more in touch with popular sentiment with East, South and West than the commercial traveler, and they have planned the reception.

"Like Governor Folk and others who personally admire the sterling character and patriotic devotion to American ideals of Mr. Bryan, I am willing, even at a sacrifice of personal comfort at this season, to assist in preparing and making the Madison Square reception worthy the occasion.

"When that duty is performed I hope to have Mr. Bryan come to Newark, where all our citizens will have another opportunity to greet the man whom 6,000,000 citizens endeavored by their votes on two occasions to make the Chief Executive of our nation."

Fell and Broke the Stub of His Arm.

Blairstown, Aug. 1.—H. France, a justice of the peace for Hardwick township and freeholder from that place, recently fell in front of the Blairstown Postoffice and broke the stub of his right arm in two places and dislocated the shoulder. It was a remarkable accident from the fact that this arm was shot off in the battle of Malvern Hill, September 19, 1862, and after it was amputated there was left only an inch and a half of the arm. On this stub he fell heavily and broke it in two places. He is suffering a great deal of pain from the injury and will be confined to his home for several days. Notwithstanding the loss of his right arm, Squire France has for years been one of the most active men in Hardwick.

SOME WARM CHARGES IN THIS COAL SUIT.

Elizabeth Inspector Swears He Was Offered Bribes to Give Short Weight.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1.—Sensational and damaging evidence, which included charges of an attempt at bribery and the deliberate cheating of the public schools out of the coal they were entitled to, came out yesterday in the testimony taken before Supreme Court Commissioner Foster M. Voorhees in the matter of the certiorari proceedings instituted by the coal firm of B. Jacobson & Son of this city, against the Board of Education for its refusal to award the firm the coal contracts for supplying the schools this year, although Jacobson & Son were the lowest bidders.

John Noonan, an inspector appointed by the Board of Education to weigh and inspect the coal furnished by the Jacobson firm, swore under oath that Jacobson, on two different occasions, offered him a bribe of $50 to give short weight to the schools.

The witness said that Jacobson remarked to him: "There will be something in it for you and something for me." Noonan said he spurned the offer and told the alleged briber he was an honest man and would not do any crooked work.

He said that when he was approached the second time he caught young Jacobson by the throat and threatened to "lick" him.

The witness also testified that he only gave the schools 2,000 pounds for a ton, when the contract called for a gross ton of 2,240 pounds.

When asked why he did this, he said that he simply obeyed the instructions given him by School Commissioner William Burke, chairman of the Committee on Heating.

Noonan also said the coal supplied the schools by Jacobson & Son was not screened, but that the entire contents of the car were shoveled into the delivery wagons and dumped in the school bins.

Inspector Noonan said in this matter that he considered it none of his business as he was only obeying the order of Commissioner Burke, who told him to let the coal go that way.

Michael Baccello, who drove a coal wagon for acobson, also gave sensational testimony.

Summit to War on Caterpillars.

Summit, Aug. 1.—The Summit Town Improvement Association has begun a war on caterpillars and has appealed to the residents of the city to help them out in the campaign against the harmful insects which have built their nests in many of the trees and are a menace to the city. Shade trees as well as fruit trees have suffered. By special request the association has agreed to give attention to trees upon private grounds and co-operate with property owners, giving them the benefit of its experience in past years. The association will have special men to attend to this work and will meet the added expense by asking for moderate contributions from the residents. Mrs. Rollo Ogden, of the Forestry Committee, and Mrs. S. C. Williams, the treasurer of the society, have the work in hand and are receiving contributions.

Railroad Superintendent Hurt.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1.—C. W. Huntington, general superintendent of the Jersey Central Railroad, was taken as a patient to the Elizabeth General Hospital yesterday to be placed under the ex-rays and have his foot examined for an injury he sustained last week while on a trip in his private car Atlas to Scranton, Pa.

RULING ON BISHOPS' BILL

Judge Schenck Issues an Important Order to Somerset County Saloonkeepers.

ON INTERIOR VIEWS

All Screens Down Except During Hours of Business—A License Application Order Too.

In view of the requirements made by the new law, known as the "Bishops' bill," Judge Schenck in the Somerset county courts at Somerville yesterday issued an order relating to the removal of screens, and also promulgated a rule governing the additional requirements to be put in applications for licenses:

The order follows:

"In pursuance of the requirement of Chapter 114 of the laws of 1906 of this State, it is on this 30th day of July hereby ordered that in every place where the sale of liquor has been licensed by this court that is not an inn and tavern or hotel, having at least ten spare rooms and beds for the accommodation of boarder transients and travelers, or a restaurant where the business of furnishing meals to the public for compensation is regularly carried on, and which restaurant is conducted and operated on more than one floor or story of the building where such business is carried on, or a picnic or recreation ground, or a building with a bowling alley, or a building entirely occupied by a regularly organized club or association, the entire interior of the bar or business room in which such liquors and other intoxicating drinks are sold and served, shall be open to full view from the public street on all days and times when by law the sale of liquor and other intoxicating drinks is prohibited, and a full view of the entire interior of such bar or business room shall not hereafter, during the times so specified as aforesaid, be obstructed from the public street by the use of non-transparent glass, or by a shade, blind, shutter, screen, merchandise or any other article placed within or without the building in which such room is located.

"In the matter of granting licenses. It is hereby on this 30th day of July ordered that all applications hereafter presented to this court for license to sell either spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors shall, in addition to the facts heretofore required to be set out therein, contain a statement of such facts as will either show to the court that the person who makes the application for license is eligible to be licensed to sell liquor in the place applied for and that the place for which the license is applied is so situated and equipped that this court is authorized under Chapter 114 of the laws of 1906 to grant such license, and that, if granted, under which of the conditions therein specified the license will be exercised."

MUSN'T KILL SRAGER.

Colored Man Receives Warning from the Police After Srager Complains.

Jules Srager, of West Third street, complained to the police this forenoon that Fred Mitchell, colored, threatened to kill him yesterday afternoon. Srager said Mitchell wanted him to square off and have a fight, but he was too much of a gentleman to fight with a negro. He wanted Mitchell restrained.

Chief Kiely soothed the agitated Jules with assurances of speedy action. He instructed Patrolman Kelly to warn Mitchell not to kill Srager.

Steam Roller Helped Lower Pole.

The big telephone pole at Park and North avenues was taken down yesterday afternoon. The steam roller happened to be at work on Park avenue and the big machine was used to good advantage in pulling the pole from the earth. The operation of lowering the big stick so gently that it would come down like a staff of cork attracted a good deal of attention. Manager Charles W. Runyon superintended the work in person.

Coming

To Plainfield, the Byron Spaun Free Show and Carnival Company will play a week's engagement commencing Monday, August 6, on the corner of Fourth and John streets. The great free attractions will be Dare-devil Fasig, who dives from a 70-foot ladder into net every evening. Mr. Spaun will be remembered as being here last season. ***

Prize-Winners Home.

W. J. Buttfield's prize-winning thoroughbreds, "Miss Banahan," and "Miss Westcott," have been brought home from the horse show at Long Branch, where they captured blue ribbons. "Miss Banahan" won a decisive victory over a big list of entries in one of the most important classes. George Ball was in charge of the local horses.

"MARTY" LOST FIRST PLACE BY 8 STROKES

O'LOUGHLIN'S SCORE 309 WHILE WINNER'S WAS 301.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, and David Patrick, the Westfield Golf Club "pro," divided $90 as third and fourth money with a score of 309, in the closing of the second annual professional tournament on the public course at VanCortlandt Park, yesterday, and their friends overwhelmed them with congratulations on their fine showing. Alec Smith, Nassau, won the $150 first prize, after two almost flawless rounds, with the score of 301, which was only eight strokes better than O'Loughlin's score.

"Marty," who also was in the money last year at VanCortlandt Park, is an eighteen-year-old lad, and Tom McNamara, of Boston, another home-bred, about twenty-three. Both began as caddies, the former at the Plainfield Country Club, where he is now a professional and instructor, and McNamara at the Country Club, Boston's artistocratic golfing and racing centre. O'Loughlin's score on the first day was 154 and 155 on the second day, making the total 309.

The prizes were presented in gold at a dinner at the golf course, during which a piper in tartan and kilts played Scotch songs and Irish jigs, the latter in honor of O'Loughlin and McNamara. It was a jolly ending for the tournament, which ran smoothly throughout. The managers were all amateurs and the prizes donated for the love of the links, the object being "to give average players the opportunity to study the methods of the best golfers."

Keen interest was taken in the play of O'Loughlin and McNamara, because they were the only two home-bred contestants. In the open championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association a year ago O'Loughlin finished in the money, and he had a chance for second prize yesterday. A topped second shot into the bunker going to the home hole cost him a 7, and he also dropped a stroke on each of the two preceding holes.

O'Loughlin has entered his name in the big tournament to be held at the Hollywood Golf Club on August 9, 10 and 11 and it is predicted that he will be an important factor in the contest.

EXCURSION POSTPONED.

Trinity Church Outing Set for August 7.

When the committee having charge of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school excursion advertised that the excursion would go "rain or shine," it was inteded that a "shower" near train time would not cause a postponement of the outing, but the steady downpour of a northeast storm both in Plainfield and at Asbury Park, was too much for the committee and the members reluctantly decided to postpone the outing.

By actual count there were 350 people at the railroad station ready and waiting to make the trip to the shore. A train of fourteen new coaches, including a combination coach, in charge of Conductor Frank Webster, of the borough, was in readiness for the trip. There were many disappointed people, especially among the young folks, for they had planned on a fine time at the seashore.

The railroad officials have fixed Tuesday, August 7, as the day for the outing, and, providing another storm does not prevent, the excursion will be run on that day. The committee having in charge the Crescent Avenue church excursion on Thursday, was consulted and it very courteosuly gave consent for Trinity to go on Tuesday, two days ahead of its excursion.

Will Fight Elm Beetle.

A. W. Swain, who is associated with H. L. Frost & Co., of New York, entomologists, has been engaged by the light and trees committee of the Common Council to wage a war on the elm beetle which has made its appearance here and is so destructive. The work to be undertaken now by Mr. Swain will be preliminary to a more extensive plan to be followed later on.

Police Sergeant Frederickson has started on his vacation. Roundsman Flynn takes the sergeant's place at the desk between dark and daylight.

OUR DOMINIES ARE AWAY

Almost Without Exception Plainfield Ministers Are Enjoying Vacations.

A FEW ARE ABROAD

Majority at Summer Resorts—To Return To Pulpits In September.

Plainfield will be minus "the men of the cloth" during August for the few ministers who have not commenced their vacations have made preparations to do so and will leave in a few days. It appears to be the rule for the dominies to take their annual rest during the month of August and this year proves to be no exception.

Of the Plainfield pastors who are now away, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chabliss, of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, have planned to spend their vacations in Europe. They sailed this week, and will return home about the middle of September.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, is spending the summer in his cottage in New Hampshire, a practice he has followed for several years. Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, has been enjoying a few weeks at Asbury Park, but has now gone to the mountains for the remainder of August. Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, is enjoying the month on a farm at Millstone, Somerset county, while Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church, is sojourning at Naples, Maine, for the month.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, left this week for Canada, where he will spend August, at various points of interest. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, is enjoying rest and recreation at Keeseville, Essex county, in the Adirondacks, while Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park avenue Baptist church, is at Jeffersonville, Montgomery county, Pa., for the month.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, is spending his vacation at his old home in Canada, and Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, is at Saunderstown, R. I. Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Holy Cross church, will spend his vacation with his mother in Connecticut. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, will leave on Monday for Christmas Cove, Maine, for the remainder of August. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, is another local minister who will enjoy his vacation in Maine, being located at Squirrel Island. Rev. Lawrence R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, is sojourning with friends near Chicago, and Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, pastor of the Christian church, is another divine who is in the west, being at his old home in Illinois. Rev. A. S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, was away for an extended period early in the summer and has not planned for another outing at present. Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, is located in the Catskills until the first of September.

In every case arrangements have been made for supplies in the local churches during the absence of the pastors.

Stopped Chimney Fire With Salt.

A sooty chimney at the home of Frank Neidig, 20 Manning avenue, caught fire this morning at shortly after 10 o'clock. Mrs. Neidig was alone in the house at the time, with her infant daughter. She acted with great presence of mind, pouring a large bag of salt into the fire and then going herself to the borough fire headquarters nearby. Chief Howard Woolston and Fireman Bill Campbell went over to the house with a couple of hand extinguishers and a ladder, but Mrs. Neidig's salt had done its work, and there was no fire when the firemen got there.

Helplessly Intoxicated.

Sella Pietro, an Italian, who lives on Weaver street, lapped up too much booze on a short spree last night and was unable to get home. He was found, helplessly drunk on Watchung avenue by Marshal Joe Flack, of the borough police, and was taken to the lock-up for the night. He gave $10 bail this morning, binding himself to appear before Mayor Smalley at the session of court tonight.

Sprained His Ankle.

In running for a car Tuesday afternoon, George Gessler, of Liberty street, stumbled against a raised flagstone and sprained his ankle severely. He was taken home in a wagon.

GOT HYSTERICS WHILE IMPRISONED IN CELL.

Fagio Had to Have a Doctor—Later Released on Bail—His Wife Has Disappeared.

Vincent Fagio, of Somerset street, chafing with wounded pride at being locked up in a borough police court cell charged with non-support of his wife, got worked up to such a pitch of nervous energy yesterday afternoon that he went into hysterics in his cell and had to have medical attendance. Ever since his arrest Wednesday he was oratorically communicative to any who came near him in his cell, setting forth how he was really the suffering party of the man and wife combination. Late yesterday afternoon, he became so excited that he went into a hysterical fit. Chief of Police George Weiss called in Dr. Dundon and the man soon recovered. He was soon afterward released by supplying a bail of $100.

Mrs. Fagio, who is making the complaint, cannot be located by the police now. She has retained S. S. Swackhammer as her counsel and should have showed up at the session of court before Justice Clark Mundy last evening to press charges against her husband. But neither lawyer nor client appeared. Fagio says she had not been home for several days previous to his arrest. The four children were taken to New York by Fagio and are now in charge of a society there. The father went to see them this afternoon.

Fagio's arrest came as a great surprise to him, for the warrant was served by Constable Pangborn at the borough court, where Fagio had gone to ask Chief Weiss to keep an eye on the Somerset street house while he was out of town. The hearing has been postponed until 7:30 Monday evening before Justice Mundy. Francis J. Blatz, Esq., is Fagio's lawyer.

FEAST OF PORTIUNCULA.

Special Devotions By Third Order of St. Francis.

Today is observed in the Catholic churches as the Feast of Portiuncula—the name coming from a little town near Assisi, Italy. It was here that St. Francis founded the "Third Order of St. Francis" that has many members in this community. This confraternity makes today one of special devotion. Masses were celebrated at 5:30 and 7 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's church, and special services were held last evening, at which time many members were received into the order and many others "professed."

Preliminary Plans Are Approved.

The building committee of the Dime Savings Institution, of which William F. Arnold, of the City National Bank, is the chairman, has approved the preliminary plans showing the proposed new front and first floor as sketched by Architect A. L. C. Marsh, and have authorized Mr. Marsh to go ahead and prepare the working plans and get bids for the work. This work will require about ten days or two weeks and at its conclusion the plans and bids will be submitted to the building committee for approval or rejection. As soon as the plans are approved and the bids accepted the work of remodeling the Dime Savings Institution will be started. While this is in progress the institution will conduct its business in the building now occupied by The Plainfield Trust Company.

H. L. Hetfield Married.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Herbert W. Hetfield, son of former Councilman and Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., and Miss Elizabetn Sminck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sminck, of Worcester, Mass. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's jarents in Worcester on Wednesday, July 25. The groom is a brother of Walter L. Hetfield, 2d, a prominent young lawyer who is a member of the Union County Board of Elections. The couple are spending their honeymoon at the home of the groom's parents.

Never Mind, There Are Others.

And the next excursion will be a week from Saturday, August 11, when the Hope chapel Sunday-school will go to Asbury. This is the season's Saturday excursion, and ought to be its most popular. At the shore till 7:30.

TIMES AT CAMP COLBY

Onr Own Correspondent Wires Truthfully of the Coterie's Doings.

SMALL ANNOYANCES

Tommy Muir the Victim of a Mysterious Disappearance—Joyful News For "The Judge."

Camp Colby, Lake Hopatcong, August 2.—Having found a dry spot on the camp table, your correspondent squeezes out his hair, takes his pencil in hand and hastens to let you know how it is with us. Do not expect a long letter, because the camp is not yet in ship-shape order and we have not had time to settle down into the peaceful routine of tented life that is so full of material for extended reports.

Well, to begin. Things are going well. I may say, very well. Several of my things went even before camp was reached, and things belonging to all of us have been going ever since we got here. Tommy Muir is looking for a bottle of Canadian cough medicine that went when he wasn't looking. He says he wouldn't have minded if it had gone while he was watching, but he hates to have such things disappear behind his back. He accused Phil Jahn of taking it, but Phil went through several rigid tests without faltering. Phil has not been converted yet.

John Cose joined us last night. He had his coat with him. He sleeps in it. John has asked us, as a special favor, not to sing "There Was I Waiting at the Church" unless the last line is left out.

Elmer Cutting sang for us last night. A guest from another camp who was hard of hearing used an ear trumpet during the recital. "That man," said Judge Runyon pityingly, "is a fool to sacrifice a natural advantage in that way."

The judge has entered into the pleasures of his vacation with characteristic energy. He has prepared three speeches, and has hung them on hair triggers. He was much elated this morning to learn that the only Colbyite leader who had not come out for a job, Gen. E. Burd Grubb, was now numbered among the patriots in search of a salary. The General is chasing the Congressional nomination.

John Cose is urging the judge to go after something big himself. "Why don't you start after a congressional nomination yourself, Bill?" he asked this morning. "You might as well get licked for something big while you're at it."

We had a lot of rain last night, but we managed to keep pretty dry. We were even dryer when we woke up than when we lay down. No more at present.

Your old friend,

CHOOSING A CALLING.

S. S. Swackhamer Speaks On That Topic to Eleven Sunday-schools.

S. S. Swackhamer was the principal speaker at a big gathering of Sunday-school pupils, teachers and church people at Woodfern, yesterday. The occasion was an outing in which eleven Methodist schools took part. Between 3,000 and 4,000 people were present.

Mr. Swackhamer spoke on the choice of a calling in life. He dwelt on the necessity of liking and adaptability in the picking of a trade or profession by young people. The work, he said, should be a delight to the worker and not a task.

P. S. C. to Build on Second Street

Building permit has been granted and contracts awarded for the erection of a building by the Public Service Corporation on the property owned by the company on West Second street. The new building is to be one story in height and will measure 48 by 22½ feet. It is to be used for the manufacture of storage batteries. C. J. Rock is the architect. The masonry contract has been awarded to W. E. Smith and A. Smalley will have the contract for the carpenter work. The work of erection will be commenced at once.

Will Get License.

Michael Hister, whom Chief Weiss, of the borough police force, nabbed yesterday morning for peddling without a license, was given a hearing before Mayor Smalley last evening. He promised to get a license Saturday, but had not the money to get one at once. He was released.

Newcorn In Swift's Seat.

Judge William Newcorn, of the Plainfield District Court, is sitting in the district court at Elizabeth, today, in the absence of Judge C. Addison Swift.

Miss Nellie Clarkson, of East Second street, is spending a week with relatives in Elizabeth.

THE MYSTERY OF A TELESCOPE BAG

CHIEF WEISS FINDS ONE CONTAINING MARRIAGE LICENSE AND COFFIN PLATE.

Chief George Weiss, of the borough police, has at headquarters a large and delapidatel telescope bag, which he found near the Duer street bridge early this morning. To the imaginative, there is a possibility of an unexplained tragedy in the discovery, for the bag contained a most heterogenious mass of "food for sensational copy."

Of especial importance was a marriage license and a coffin plate. The marriage license was a cheap, chromo-colored copy of the proof of marriage between Elwood Hull and Miss May Jessum, both of Newark. According to the written record, the ceremony was performed in Newark by Rev. Wesley Martin back in 1902. The peculiar thing about the license was that the woman's name had been scratched out and the name "May Jessum" written in carelessly in another hand. The name originally on the certificate has been scratched out, but the few letters that can be distinguished look very much as if the same name had been written on the original. The coffin plate simply bears the words "Our Darling." It is small and inexpensive in manufacture and looks as though it had never been attached to a coffin. It was in the same compartment with three rye bread sandwiches.

In the bag was also a dark haired doll, about nine inches long, a single large woolen mitten, brush and comb, a woman's cape and a quantity of clothing and sewing materials. The name John Kain was written several times on a sheet of paper, in child's handwriting. The bag was soaked through when it was found, but the one who discovered it would not touch it, merely summoned Chief Weiss to get it. The Chief said this morning that he thought the bag had been left there by some working woman. When questioned about a possible suicide or murder in connection with it, he smiled and said that he had thought of the same thing and that when it cleared off he was going to take a walk along the brook side and have a look for the body.

SOLOISTS, BAND AND FIREWORKS AT CONCERT.

Redmond and Drislane To Sing at Weekly Concert—Good Instrumental Programme.

With Billy Redmond and Jack Drislane as soloists, a good band programme and a first class display of fireworks, Bandmaster Ben LaVere promises the season's best concert at Concert Park tomorrow evening. Billy Redmond is to sing two songs, "You're A Grand Old Flag," from George Washington, Jr., and last week's popular favorite, the coon song, "I'd Rather Be On the Outside A-Lookin' In Than On the Inside A-Lookin' Out." Jack Drislane will sing "Keep On the Sunny Side" and "When Mose With His Hand Leads the Band."

The display of fireworks will include several elaborate set pieces but Ben has left out the noisy bombs and put in more rockets and wheels. The same company will have charge of the display as last week, and the pyrotechnics will be displayed between each number by the band. If the weather is stormy, concert and fireworks display will be postponed until the next clear evening.

The musical programme as arranged for this week's concert follows: Overture, "The Star Spangled Banner;" march, "My Maryland," Mygrants; medley overture, "The Monach," O'Hare; "Valse Royale," Margis; vocal solo, (a) "You're a Grand Old Flag," (b) "I'd Rather Be On the Outside A-Lookin' In Than On the Inside A-Lookin' Out," William Redmond; medley march, "'La Sorella," Cleve; vocal solo, (a) "Keep On the Sunny Side," (b) "When Mose With His Hand Leads the Band," Jack Drislane; selection, "Mme. Modiste," Victor Herbert; march, "'Alexander."

Miss Mary Agnes Curren Weds.

Miss Mary Agnes Curren, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Curren, of East Second street, was married yesterday afternoon to Thomas Hand, of Brooklyn, at St. Mary's church. On account of the recent death of the bride's father, the ceremony was very quietly solemnized, only immediate relatives being present. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Mamie Hammond, and the groom by his brother, Joseph Hand, of New York. After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Hand will live in Brooklyn.

Lincoln Flats Sold.

The Murphy flats in Lincoln have been sold by Harris & Gifford, receivers, of Newark, to a New York man. The latter buys for investment. R. L. Pierce, of New Market, made the sale.

TAX RATE CUT IN HALF

Doubling of Valuations in Assessment Brings It to $1.25.

ASSESSORS FIGURE UP

Total Valuation Is $20,905,745, a Net Increase of Over Half a Million Since Last Year.

The work of placing valuation on the real estate and personal property of Plainfielders has been completed by the Board of Assessors. The figures were gathered under the first application of the new law, that requires an assessment at full value, instead of fifty per cent., as hitherto.

As a result of the 100 per cent. assessment the total figures returned are much larger than they have ever been. Some of the most interesting figures were learned this morning, unofficially. The official returns will not be made known until next Tuesday, when the assessors will report to the county board.

The total valuation, real and personal, is $20,905,745. Last year the total was about $10,000,000. The net increase this year is considerably over half a million—$594,995. Last year's increase was about $300,000.

The rate has been figured out at $1.25. The rate last year was $2.48, the doubling of values naturally cutting the rate just about in half.

In the total valuation is included all the railroad property in the city outside the main stem. This is the first year that the city has taxed such property. The law gives the city an advantage over the borough in connection with that sort of ratables. North Plainfield has no railroad property, and, in common with all municipalities with the same lack, it will get no part of the money received from the railroads. Under the old law, when the State taxed the roads, the roadless communities got a pro rata share of the tax. The loss of such money to places like North Plainfield was one of the arguments against the law when it was offered for passage.

The assessors finished tabulating the figures yesterday afternoon, and gave them into City Collector Murray's keeping, pending their delivery to the county board on Tuesday. An effort was made to get the figures in detail, but the officials decided that it would be improper to give them out until they had been turned over to the county board.

The assessors of Union county will have to appear before the County Board of Exeation in the Courthouse at Elizabeth next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with their books ready for supervision. That is one of the provisions of the law, and as far as can be learned most of the assessors will be ready at that time.

It is only in connection with Elizabeth that any doubt is expressed as to the completion of the work of the assessors before the meeting on Tuesday. It is further asserted that when the commissioners do get to work on the local books there will be some surprises handed out to some of the assessors from the mass of data the board has been gathering for weeks past and which is not yet quite completed. It appears that in a number of instances that while the value of property has been steadily increasing the valuation placed on it by the assessors has as steadily decreased, and when these cases come before the board for disposal there is likely to be some trouble for somebody.

The Cranford assessors report that their books will show valuations that will foot up three times the amount given for last year and every other section outside of Elizabeth will show increases that will bring the valuations up to two or three times the amounts shown last year.

On behalf of the Elizabeth assessors who may be behind in their work it is claimed that they have a great deal more to contend with than the assessors in other parts of the county. It is also held, on the other hand, that there are some who have failed to take seriously the warnings given them as to the necessity of carrying out the law to the letter and such men are likely to find themselves struggling with some serious problems before their duties are ended.

With an increase in Elizabeth considerably less proportionately the tax rate will be considerably lower than $2 on each $100. The members of the finance committee are figuring on a rate below $2.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Dunellen real estate is having a first class boom this summer. Though generally the dullest of the year, the month of July has seen many valuable real estate transfers in the borough, both of improved and unimproved property. The town seems to be growing up rapidly, and many new people are coming from New York, Newark and nearby Jersey towns to make their homes at Dunellen. The erection of manufacturing places now underway in the vicinity of town, has increased, and is sure to further increase the demand for artisan labor, and many strangers are coming to town to make their homes. Aside from an investment standpoint, on account of which many unimproved properties have recently been transferred through the local real estate agents, new dwelling houses are being erected and there is little chance of renting apartments in the borough. The Arthur S. Giles house, on Madison avenue, is now occupied by William Miller and family, of Plainfield. Robert Nicholas and family, of Mauch Chunk, have come to occupy the English house, on Front street, and several Jersey Central and Public Service employes are either buying or trying to rent property in town.

Chief Marshal Owen Mohan took James Hall, an old offender in the police court, to the county jail for a thirty days' term yesterday morning. The sentence was passed on him by Recorder Campbell at the session of the borough court Wednesday. Hall and two local men were found in a state of helpless intoxication and were the first party to be put behind the new cell doors at the borough lock-up. The last time Hall was up, he was warned to keep away from town, but he evidently forgot the warning and so was stung good and proper by the Recorder. The other two members of the party were dismissed with a reprimand.

Through an arrangements made by the school board, the library of the Whittier School will be thrown open to the public of the town during the month of August. The collection of books is several hundred in number, and the books are to be circulated until the opening of school in September. The library is open as a reading room between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock every week day afternoon.

Several parties of local people are planning to attend the weekly band concert of LaVere's band to be held in Plainfield tomorrow evening at Concert Park. There is to be a big exhibition of fireworks.

Charles F. Dayton, who was injured by a fall from his bicycle two weeks ago, is able to be about again. The broken bone in his cheek is knitting nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sproul, of Jersey City, are the guests of Mrs. Sproul's sister, Mrs. A. N. Randolph.

Mrs. Samuel Merkel, of Bangor, Pa., is visiting her parents at New Market this week.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Georgie Dunn, of Front street, met with a painful accident Tuesday afternoon while playing about the yard. Rover, the family dog, seeing a friendly member of the canine breed passing, started for the fence to extend to him a glad dog's welcome. In his travels Georgie was upset and in falling his head struck a stone and a bad gash was cut. Dr. Westcott was called in and found it necessary to take several stitches in the wound to close it.

The local-Clinton Avenue game Saturday afternoon of this week should be one of the best contests of the season, as the two teams are no doubt the two strongest amateur teams in this section.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Co. met last night in its rooms. Things are not very brisk at present in the fire department, so the only business transacted was the regular monthly routine.

The Quaker Giants, who are scheduled to meet the Daabsters at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, will keep the Plainfield team busy.

Mrs. William Dean, of Summit, N. J., has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles Mooney, of Valley road.

"Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl," will be the attraction tonight at the New Plainfield theatre.

Mrs. William Sharp, of Front street, has been entertaining friends from out of town.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meets tonight in the library rooms.

Rev. Dr. Chambliss Sails Today.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, accompanied by his son, A. W. Chambliss, and wife, of Chattanooga, Tenn., will sail today on the Red Star Liner, "Marquette," from Philadelphia, for Europe. This is a ten day steamer and is taken because the party desires to get the full benefits of an ocean voyage. They will travel considerable abroad, sailing from London for home on the Cunard Liner, "Campania," about the middle of September. Dr. Chambliss expects to occupy his pulpit the third Sunday in September, returning home about the same time as Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who will spend his vacation abroad.

Mrs. A. M. Stiles, of West Second street, is quite ill at her home.

E. S. Hooley, of the borough, has returned from a sojourn at Barnegat, where he spent several days fishing.

Mrs. W. D. Bauer and son and her mother-in-law, of Somerville, spent yesterday in Plainfield with relatives and friends.

MINISTER HIRED DETECTIVE.

Lawyer Accuses Rev. Dr. Buchanan in "Shadow" Case.

New York, Aug. 2.—The case of Robert D. Douglass, of Llewellyn Park, West Orange, against a detective who gave his name as James Carroll, has been adjourned for further hearing until Friday next. When the matter came up in Tombs Police Court Monday afternoon there was a more radical delving into the complaint. Carroll, it was alleged, "shadowed" Douglass for weeks, following him to and from his office at 290 Broadway, causing much annoyance to Douglass.

It was asserted by counsel for the complainant that Carroll had been hired by Rev. Walter D. Buchanan, of the Fourth Presbyterian church, to follow Douglass. Rev. Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Douglass, it appears are both trustees and executors of the big estate left by the late R. G. Dun, who was head of the Dun Mercantile Agency. No definite reason why Dr. Buchanan should engage a detective to follow Douglass was vouchsafed.

Isaac N. Miller appeared as attorney for Mr. Douglass. He told Magistrate Breen how Carroll had been arrested Saturday, and that for three months previous his client had been "shadowed." The first man that followed Mr. Douglass was arrested and let go upon promising that he would stop the nuisance. According to Mr. Miller, this detective, said he was in the employ of Dr. Buchanan.

Magistrate Breen postponed the hearing in order to look over the briefs.

PERSONAL.

Fred W. Bird, formerly of East Front street, but now a resident of New York State, is spending some time in Plainfield.

Col. John Dietrich, of Arlington avenue, is home from the mountains of Pennsylvania, where he enjoyed an outing of several weeks.

Postmaster and Mrs. E. H. Bird, of Elm place, will leave the middle of August on their vacation, which they expect to spend in the mountains.

L. E. Waring, of West Seventh street, whose family is spending the summer at Easthampton, L. I., has been spending a few days in town.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, will leave Saturday for the Adirondacks, where he will remain the rest of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed and daughter, Miss Madeline Reed, of Myrtle avenue, are making a tour of the Thousand Islands. They will be absent the rest of the month.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Crane, of Washington, are visiting Dr. Crane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. B. Crane, of East Second street. They have been spending a month at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Doane, of East Seventh street, will leave this week for Moscow, Pa., where they will spend the remainder of August. They have visited Moscow in summer for several years past.

—The New Jersey Central has started the work of laying a siding on its property on East Third street, just east of Watchung avenue. September 1 it will remove the building on this ground now occupied by B. A. Mumford, who has been notified to move.

PASTOR ASKED TO SUSPEND DUTIES.

Veiled Charges Made Against His Character Cause This Action.

Rev. J. Bruce Rittgers, pastor of the Glendola Methodist Protestant church, Asbury Park, has been requested to temporarily vacate his pulpit by Rev. W. D. Stultz, of Manasquan, president of the New Jersey Conference, until he is either proven guilty or innocent of the veiled charges attacking his character as a minister of the gospel and a gentleman.

The scandal reared its head early last week, when, it is said, a married woman made allegations against Pastor Rittger to a young man who resides in the village.

The young man realizing the seriousness of the charge went to the pastor, it is said, and informed him of the allegations. Mr. Rittgers branded the statement as a deliberate lie and later obtained an affidavit from the woman in the office of his attorneys to the effect that she had made no such statement to the young man.

The story spread about the community with the result that the official board of the church summoned President Stultz and a session was held Saturday night behind closed doors, to which Mr. Rittgers says he was not admitted until the closing moments.

Fiery words passed, it is said by those who were near the meeting place at the time, and Mr. Rittgers denounced his accuser in very plain terms.

President Stultz requested the pastor to remain away from his pulpit until the matter could be cleared up, and three ministers, members of the New Jersey Conference, were chosen to conduct the investigation. They are President Stultz, Rev. Mr. Clark and Rev. Mr. Turkleson. The latter two have charges in Monmouth county.

Robert Morris is an astute member of the official board. He also sings bass in the choir. When asked to make a statement, he refused, on the ground that his remarks would be so important that they would "spread like fire in wheat stubble." The other members of the board are equally reticent and the pastor will not make a statement at this time.

Mr. Rittgers' friends deny emphatically the charges.

P. O. Furniture En Route?

Postmaster E. H. Bird has heard that the new furniture for the postoffice has been shipped from Connecticut, although the firm which took the contract has not notified him. It was to have been all in position by August 1, but as Mr. Bird says, such contracts are seldom executed on time. Ira N. West has completed a handsome wall desk for use of patrons at the office, making an extra accommodation. Mr. Bird is planning to start on his vacation the middle of the month and says that he would like to see the improvements completed before he goes away.

STONE MUST PAY THE BACK ALIMONY.

New Jersey Courts Can Enforce Orders Issued in Other States of Union.

In the Essex County Circuit Court at Newark, Judge Adams handed down Tuesday a decision sustaining the right of the New Jersey courts to enforce a decree respecting the payment of alimony given by the court of another State.

The case was the application of Mrs. Carrie H. Stone, of No. 348 Broad street, Newark, to compel her former husband, Marcus W. Stone, of Meridian, Miss., to pay her alimony to the amount of $348 under a decree of divorce granted to her in Ohio in 1900. Her action in this suit was the sequel to the alleged kidnapping of the two children of the divorced couple by their father while they were in the custody of their mother.

Stone unexpectedly appeared at his former wife's home in Newark during her absence and took his two children away with him. He was later heard from in Bridgeport, Conn., and a few days afterward restored the children to their mother. In the mean time Mrs. Stone had begun the action for alimony, and on Stone's reappearance at Newark he was placed under arrest. He obtained his release on putting up the amount of the overdue alimony. Then, through his counsel, Edward I. Croll, he filed a demurrer, alleging lack of jurisdiction, and this plea was overruled.

—Roy Walsh, of E. A. Laing's store, who is on his vacation, has returned from Philadelphia.

—Residents of West Front street, west of Grant avenue, would appreciate it if the Public Service Corporation would repair the roadbed where it was torn up for the laying of new ties and rails.

—Miss Mary Jahn, typewriter and stenographer at the local telephone exchange, will return on Monday from her two weeks' vacation. Miss Dowling, of the same office, will start on her vacation the same day.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE.

GOLF.

Robert Abbott and Dudley H. Barrows, two of the crack golfers of the Plainfield Country Club, hied themselves away yesterday with their golf sticks, and their friends expect to hear of some good work soon.

Leighton Calkins, secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, announces that the New Brunswick Golf Club, which resigned last year, has been re-elected a member of the association.

Entries for the second open championship of the Metropolitan Golf Association will close on Monday. The tournament will be held at the Hollywood Golf Club on August 9, 10 and 11 and is sure to attract a large field of entrants, especially as a large number of valuable prizes have been offered by the Hollywood Golf Club. There will be a gold medal and $150 to the winner of the championship and a number of cash prizes to those who finish second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth, together with special prizes for low scores. The tournament will begin Thursday morning, August 9, at 9 o'clock and continue until Saturday afternoon, August 11.

One of the most enthusiastic golfers hereabouts is Reuben Knox, the lawyer. He scarcely misses a week in following the popular game at the Park Golf Club and his scores are frequently among the best. Mr. Knox finds the exercise very beneficial to him, especially as he is confined to his office a greater part of the time.

During August players at the Park Golf Club will miss the familiar faces of the coterie of ministers that frequent the course during the playing season. Among those who enjoy the game are Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and Rev. J. O. McKelvey, all of whom have planned to take their vacation during the month.

There has been a noticeable improvement in the play of those who belong to what is known as the "duffer" class, and among local players many have been graduated. When members of this class begin to compete for prizes and trophies they are unknown quantity so far as their ability is concerned, but it does not take the handicap committee long to get busy if the player makes decided improvement and his otherwise fat handicap is sliced generously. Under the handicapping system as introduced by Leighton Calkins, of this city, who is secretary for the Metropolitan Golf Association, far better results are obtained than ever before.

An enthusiastic golfer who has been missed from the local courses this season is Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers. Early in the year she took part in a few team matches at the Baltusral Golf Club, but she has devoted little time to play at the Plainfield Country Club. It is a source of regret that the women members of the local clubs do not take more interest in the game and compete for the various prizes.

DIAMOND DUST.

For his part in the fight in Pittsburg with Heinz Peitz, "Joe" McGinnity, of the Giants, has been fined $100 and suspended until August 6, while Peitz is fined $50 and suspended for five days. Umpire Hank O'Day, who officiated at the game in question, was also fined $50 because he did not stop the fight. McGinnity has appealed from the decision to the League board of directors. He thinks his punishment unjust. "'I lost about $500," he said yesterday, "for being a man." Umpire O'Day claims that the scrap happened so quickly that he did not have time to interfere and he objects to his fine. It is said that he told President Pulliam that he would quit his job rather than pay the fine, and the latter, it is said, replied: "You'll quit your job if you don't pay it." He is the second big league umpire to be disciplined this season, Tim Hurst receiving similar admonition by President Johnson, of the American League, for striking Clark Griffith's countenance.

Larry Hesterfer, the clever southpaw twirler, who jumped the Newark Eastern League team because he asserted he was not treated right by Manager Burnham and Captain Gatins, has been sold to Toronto. When told of the fact he said: "They can sell me as much as they please, but I won't go to Toronto or anywhere else, at least for this season."

"Lou" Wiltse, of this city, who is a member of the Johnstown Tri-State League Club, is now playing on the team at present. For a time he held down first base.

The New York Giants are chasing the Chicago Cubs pretty lively for first place, and in the American League the Highlanders are hot-footed after the Philadelphia Athletics. The race in both leagues is certainly a pretty one.

BELCHER'S COUNSEL WILL ASK FOR MERCY.

Residents of Paterson Anxious to Have Ex-Mayor Scandal Brought to End.

William H. Belcher, who absconded when Mayor of Paterson, and surrendered himself at the county jail there Monday morning, will be spared the humiliation of being arraigned today before his former old friend, Judge Scott, who is on his vacation.

County udge Zabriskie, of Bergen county, will be on the bench when Belcher is brought into court. It is said the ex-Mayor's counsel, William Barbour, will, after Belcher pleads non-vult, make an urgent plea to the court that a moderate sentence be imposed on the ground that Belcher has saved the county the expense of a trial and also the cost of bringing him back as a fugitive.

Belcher's return is the absorbing topic discussed in Paterson. There will be much relief when the charges of embezzlement and forgery against the ex-Mayor have been disposed of. A Main street business man who, with many others, has been active recently in defending the good name of Paterson, reflected public sentiment in the city when he said:

"Belcher coming back at this time, when every citizen wha has at heart the interests of the city has been striving to uphold the good name of Paterson, might seem to outsiders like opera bouffe. Why that man didn't stay away when he was free, and no one cared where he was, is beyond human understanding. Naturally the citizens of Paterson feel chagrined that its former Mayor, whom they once honored and trusted, is to wear a convict's garb."

The celebration of Carnival Day at Red Bank began early today and will not end until late tonight, when there will conclude what is probably the largest and most festive example of the big annual event. PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD CUTS FARE RATES DOWN.

Will Issue a Thousand-mile Book Without Restrictions, Over Its Own Lines Only, for $20.

On and after September 1, 1906, the Pennsylvania Railroad will sell a mileage book over its own lines at a flat price of $20 good for one person to ride a thousand miles or a thousand persons to ride one mile. The interchangeable mileage book, good over other lines as well as the Pennsylvania, will remain at the same price as at present—$30 with a $10 rebate when used—and will not be transferable.

At the same time this news was given out it was announced that as soon as proper notification details can be completed, probably in November, the maximum rate of fare will be reduced from 3 cents a mile to 2½ cents a mile on all Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg and Erie.

This surprising news, which is a question of millions of dollars with the Pennsylvania Railroad, was made public yesterday afternoon following a meeting of the directors of the company. By its action the Pennsylvania Railroad foregoes the privileges of its charter, which allows it to charge three and even three and a half cents a mile for passenger travel within the State.

DISAPPEARED WITH PAY OF WORKMEN.

Young Man Has Been Missing Since He Started for Plant With $975.

W. Howland Campbell, of New Brunswick, son of a minister and grandson of a college president, has been missing since Saturday, and with him disappeared the Concrete Steel Company's payroll for the week. Campbell had frequently been sent with the payroll. He started last Saturday from the office, No. 29 Broadway, about 2 p. m. for Staten Island, where the company had a gang. There was $975 in the satchel. He was seen on the Sa George ferryboat, but there all trace of him was lost. The boy's friends fear foul play or think that he has become mentally unbalanced. His employers are sparing no effort to find him and recover the missing money.

Campbell is the son of Rev. A. D. Campbell, pastor of the Suydam Street Reformed Church, of New Brunswick. His grandfather, Rev. William Campbell, was president of Rutgers College for many years. He has a brother, Maurice Campbell, a lieutenant in the United States navy.

Young Campbell is 6 feet 4 inches in height and very slender. His friends say he has been acting strangely ever since recovering from a serious attack of illness some time ago.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

News for the week of March, 26:

The lecture by ex-Governor Parker Thursday evening last was one of the best and most practical discourses ever delivered in this or any other place. From beginning to end, it clearly set forth what is essential to attain success in life, namely: Knowledge, industry, frugality of time and money, rectitude, punctuality, decision, &c. All of which were in regular order appropriately commented upon, and enforced by well drawn examples from the sayings and actions of such eminent Americans as Franklin, Jackson, Clay, Webster, Douglas, George Wood, Garrett D. Wall, and Commodore Stockton. The ruinous extravagance of the present day, both public and private, received merited rebuke; and with great justice, Governor P. took occasion to show minutely and authentically that the conquest of California was due to the "decision of a distinguished son of New Jersey, the gallnt Stockton." The entire lecture abounded in sound precept, was devoid of the least shadow of partisan feeling, and closed with a most sublime and beautiful allusion to the grand duty of life, allegiance to God. Notwithstanding the concert at the Methodist church, Laing's hall was well-filled by a highly respectable audience. At the conclusion of the lecture, on motion of John T. Lee, Esq., a vote of thanks was unanimously tendered Gov. Parker for his able and instructive address, and the assistance so nobly rendered by him on behalf of the poor of Plainfield.

The oldest inhabitant does not remember such a battle of the elements as burst upon us Saturday morning. The drifting and howling blasts made the storm terrific. Such of our friends as were preparing to dig gardens this week have wisely countermanded orders for seeds.

Governor Parker, while in Plainfield, was the guest of James Clark, Esq. Appropriately so, as Mr. Clark originated the idea of benefitting the poor in the manner sanctioned by the presence of Governor P.

Where are those flagmen? Echo answers "Where?"

We mark with great satisfaction the election by the Legislature of our friend, John H. VanWinkle as Commissioner of Deeds for Plainfield. This is an appointment eminently proper to be made, as he comes squarely up to the good Jeffersonian standard of capability and worth.

A temperance meeting was held at New Market under the auspices of Bound Brook Division No. 65, Sons of Temperance, on Wednesday evening, March 18. There was (considering the state of the roads) quite a large turnout and considerable interest manifested. The meeting was addressed by A. E. Bradly, Esq., of New York, who in an eloquent and able manner depicted the evils of intemperance. At the close of the address an application for a charter to establish a division S. of T. was circulated through the audience, and some twenty-five signatures were obtained. The new division will be instituted on Saturday evening, March 28th, by E. K. Drake, G. W. P., who presided. Everything passed off pleasantly, the B. B. Division returning home on an extra train provided for the occasion. This is the second division the Bound Brook brethren has started since their organization (14th of January, 1868).

During the severe snow storm on Friday evening last, the new store recently raised and enclosed on First street, Westfield, was blown down. It was to have been occupied about the 1st of April next as a grocery store by G. Schot, formerly of Somerville. J. N. Wilcox, contractor, loses about $500.

The Newark M. E. Conference, which has been in session in this place during the past week, adjourned on Tuesday, to meet at Newark next year. The Rev. Mr. Day was appointed to the M. E. church of this town in place of Rev. G. H. Whitney, who goes to Jersey City.

Those desirous of establishing a permanent normal school, for the instruction of Sunday school teachers, should attend a meeting which will be held at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, Thursday evening, 20th instant, at seven and one half o'clock.

Over 10,000 muskrats were shot along the Raritan river between Somerville and the dam below Bound Brook, during last week.

The old mansion at Elizabeth formerly owned by General Winfield Scott has been sold for $11,900.

The Delaware & Raritan Canal opened for the season on Monday, the 23d instant, and judging from the number of boats that have passed through already, business will be brisk this season, some sixty boats, steamers, schooners, barges, and so forth, having passed through the first day.

News of the next week:

It is cheering to note the return of an old familiar face. Our esteemed friend, Abram Runyon, Esq., reached South Plainfield on Saturday last. How happy we would be to chronicle the fact that he intends to remain nearby, if not in Plainfield.

The Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co. will occupy the room vacated by the Democratic Association.

We understand that our young friends, S. Lester Horton, in connection with Mr. B. Skellenger, of this place, contemplate opening a boot and shoe store in Westfield about the first of April. We hope our Westfield friends will give them the liberal support they deserve.

New Firm—Among the many changes which we have noticed in this place to take effect on the first of April, is that of the firm of Walker & Moffett, who have sold out their grocery store to William P. Gardner and Joseph Cutter, two enterprising young men who are well known to our citizens. The firm's name will hereafter be known as Gardner and Cutter. Success to them.

On Tuesday last a pair of horses belonging to P. M. French & Son became frightened and ran away, overthrowing a load of furniture to which they were attached, and breaking up things generally. In their career they attempted to cross the railroad track, and were struck by a passing coal train and severely injured.

The Post Office has been removed to the new and commodious building of Mr. Woodland in Cherry street. The number of boxes has been largely increased, and we now have a post office as it should be. Mr. Williams, newsdealer, has one side of the room where can be found all kinds of literature.

A series of daring robberies were recently prepetrated in the village of Washington, Warren county, and vicinity. One night four houses were entered, viz: the residences of Peter T. VanDoren, William Creveling, Jacob Strader and Henry Johnston. In neither place did the robbers succeed in obtaining a great amount of booty.

Two prisoners in the New Brunswick jail named John Henry and Smith Carrol, a few evenings since attacked the jailor at the head of the hall stairs, forced him into a cell, knocked down and gagged him, and with his keys opened the doors and escaped. The jailor, by the free use of his billet and assistance from two other prisoners, succeeded in overpowering them and placing them in the dungeon over-night.

The town of Springfield, Union county, was the scene of a brutal prize fight on Saturday evening, the 21st instant, the stakes being $25. It was fought in a barn in the presence of a few spectators. But five rounds were fought when one of the parties was knocked senseless. A good deal of feeling was manifested by the citizens, and a determination expressed to prevent a repetition of the deed.

No Change This Week.

There will be no change this week in the time for holding the weekly service at Warren chapel. The preparatory service will be held at the chapel tomorrow night and the regular communion service on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. McKelvey has decided that beginning next week and continuing while the band concerts are given, the prayer-meeting will be held on Wednesday night instead of Friday as heretofore. Many persons thinking t hat the change was to go in effect this week went to the chapel last night, only to learn that no meeting was held.

WHAT DEWEY IS DOING

THE ADMIRAL PREFERS HARD WORK TO LIFE OF EASE.

Rank Makes Him Independent of President or Secretary of Navy —Is Known as a Well-Groomed Man.

New York.—"What has become of Admiral George Dewey and what is he doing now?"

This inquiry, sent to a St. Louis newspaper, elicited the following information:

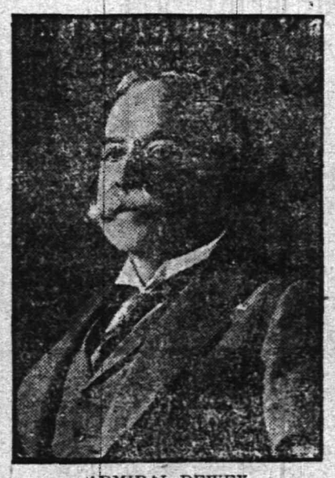
Taken all in all there is perhaps no man in the United States in the service of the government or out of it who is in a more enviable position than is Admiral Dewey. Congress has given him the rank, pay and allowances of an admiral of the navy, reviving the rank for his benefit. He is absolutely independent of the secretary of the navy and of the president of the United States.

He cannot be retired and he cannot be disciplined by reduction in rank or any of the other usual means employed. The place gives him an annual income of $15,500.

If he chose to do so he could close down his desk, go home and never turn his hand over in the way of work, either for the navy or anyone else, and his pay and allowances would go on as long as he lives; but the admiral prefers to work and to work hard.

He is at the head of the navy general board, charged with the duty of devising general plans for improvement of the navy, the management of the ships, the handling of officers and men, and the control of the great government shipyards. Every day when he is not at sea for the maneuvers he is at his desk in his office or attending to the meetings of the board.

Admiral Dewey is much loved and much respected. He is a dapper little fellow, not much more than five feet in height. His clothes fit him like the naval uniform, without crease or bag anywhere.



ADMIRAL DEWEY.
(The Distinguished Naval Hero Is a Hard Worker Through Choice.)

They do say that the admiral's Chinese valet has no less than 20 new suits of clothes and ten pairs of shoes to take care of at a time. The admiral is not a dude, merely a well-groomed man without seeming to have any thought of his personal appearance.

He has but one fad, if fad it may be called, and that is his love for animals. He has one of the finest teams of driving horses in the city and also an ugly-looking English bulldog. The dog went through the battle of Manila Bay with Dewey, so they are real bankies.

When the admiral was making a tour of inspection of the fleet the dog went along and was allowed the run of a vessel while his master was aboard. On one ship the admiral returned from the men's quarters just in time to encounter the dog sailing in most hurried fashion from the officers' quarters with the toe of an officer's boot in hot pursuit.

Admiral Dewey was white with anger and surprise. In a second, when the captain appeared, following the direction of the toe of his boot, the admiral, controlling himself as best he could, demanded:

"Sir, what do you mean by kicking my dog in that manner?"

The captain came to a swift salute and his face, it was noted, was as pale and drawn with suppressed anger as was that of the admiral.

"Sir," he said, "I would have kicked that dog if he had been the personal property of the Emperor of Japan; but, sir, I would not have kicked him, and did not kick him, until he had chewed the legs out of two $15 pairs of uniform trousers and ruined a de luxe edition of the Naval Regulations, as well as killed the ship's feline mascot."

Then they both laughed.

No Relief as Long as We Submit.

If we were engaged in a war in which during the last year over 10,000 people had been killed outright and nearly 80,000 wounded, it would equal the casualties of any year of the civil war on either side, and would not only be the principal topic of interest, but would fill the land with mourning; and there would be intense anxiety and unremitting effort to bring it to an end. When, however, we are officially informed that between June 3, 1903, and June 30, 1904, 10,046 persons were killed and 84,155 injured in railroad accidents in the United States it seems to make no more impression on us than an idle tale.

West End Store Robbed.

Mrs. Mary Schaefer reported to the police yesterday that boys had broken into her store at 955 South Second street, the night before. After Detective McCarthy had investigated, summonses to appear before Mayor Buckle in the city court Saturday morning were served on Caesar Bond, Patrick Finnerty, John Dixon, Joseph Miner and Joseph Flaherty.

Collector Brown Out Saturday.

Death of Valuable Horse.

A heavy draught horse, one of a team of greys belonging to D. W. Applegate, who has a butcher shop on Somerset street, died yesterday afternoon of the colic. The animal was taken sick while working at 11 o'clock in the morning, and though everything was done to attempt to save its life, it died within three hours. It was four years old.

Zephyrs' Outing.

The committee of arrangements for the clambake reunion to be held by the old Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company on Johnston's Drive Saturday will meet tonight to get an idea of how many guests it will have to provide for. The meeting will be held at Blimm's hotel.

Borough Tax Sale.

The sale of borough property for back taxes will take place at the office of Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown, on Somerset street, Thursday afternoon, September 13, at 2 o'clock. A list of the borough properties to be disposed of will be printed in the Daily Press next week.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 5.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Duty, privilege and excuses.—Luke xiv, 15-24.

The topical reference is the parable of "The Great Supper." The blessings of the kingdom of God, to which He invites men, are represented by a supper which a certain man made and bade many. But when the servant of the man announced to the invited guests, "Come, for all things are now ready," "they all with one consent began to make excuse." How like men's treatment of God's invitation to the spiritual and eternal blessings prepared for them in Jesus Christ! And yet how contrary to man's best interests and to what he ought to do is this attitude toward the blessings of the kingdom of God.

Duty should impel men to the acceptance of God's invitation. The element of duty is clearly involved in the parable of the supper. The host at great expense had provided the feast, upon the assumption that his invited guests would be present. This fact placed an obligation upon them to go. God, at great cost, the sacrifice of His only Son upon the cross of Calvary, has prepared the present and eternal blessings typified by the supper in the parable of Christ. He invites all men to come to Christ and an obligation rests upon them to do so. It is their duty to give obedience to the will of God. This fact needs to be particularly emphasized today. It is too frequently the case in our age that men consult their personal inclinations in relation to religious obligations rather than to look upon them as a duty owed to God. This is a false attitude. Duty should be a supreme factor in all our relations to God. The supreme question should not be what we want to do, but what God wants us to do.

To accept the blessings offered to us in Christ should also be esteemed a privilege, and the highest of privileges. Most men look upon it as a great privilege to be invited to a feast given by one occupying a prominent place in life and few decline such invitations. How much greater a privilege it is to be invited by God, by the King of kings, to the feast of good things which He has prepared for those who accept Christ! Nor can we find any reasonable excuse for refusing His invitation. The excuses offered in the parable are typical of those which men offer to God, but they were unreasonable, and other guests took their places. So it will be with us if we attempt to excuse ourselves from accepting Christ.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. vii, 1; Isa. lv, 1-7; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Matt. xi, 28; xxii, 1-14; Luke xv, 11-24; I Cor. x, 31; Col. iii, 17; Heb. x, 23-29; Rev. xxii, 17.

God's Resources.

It is a wonderful comfort sometimes, when our way seems hedged in, our hands empty and we ourselves helpless, to remember how great are God's resources. Impossible is only a human word; there is nothing really hopeless in all His universe. And what tools the Master Workman uses! A bit of mud can open blind eyes; a pebble by a rippling brook can sweep a giant from the path; a woodland stick cut to guide sheep will suffice to bring water from a desert rock; a man's worn garment will open a way through the waves; a sunrise—just the breaking of a common day to all the world besides—is enough to scatter an invading army when He wills that they should go.

As it was in the past, so it is still. His soft, white snowflakes, multiplied, will block the mightiest engine man has invented; His glittering icicles will break the lines of human communication. Amid our dearth and poverty lies hidden God's wealth of resources, and because we see no way in which it can be done is no reason for loss of faith or courage concerning any good cause. We may ask what we will, from the loaf of bread to the coming of the kingdom, and be sure that if it is a real and honest need the Father hears and cares, and that the key for the opening of the storehouse and the supplying of the want lies near at hand—in some unrecognized leader or unthought of commonplace.—Forward.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Aug. 5: "Faith by Hearing"—Rom. x, 14, 15; Phil. i, 13, 14; Matt. xiii, 1-9; Acts iv, 4; xi, 44-48; xvi, 13-15; xvii, 10-12; I Thess. v, 20.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The fundamental fact in salvation of the soul from sin is that "the gospel of Jesus Christ is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

Wherever the plain truth of the New Testament is proclaimed men assent to the accuracy of its statement that they are sinners. This is known in personal experience in the witness of conscience condemning self for having done the things known to be wrong, having preferred them to the course known to be right. The consciousness of wrongdoing, of ill deserving, of unrest of soul, of dread of consequences, of lack of power to do the right, of stronger inclination and desire for the wrong, of the inner nature of evil and perversity continually controlling the person—all this is known as personal condition.

When the gospel offers freedom from all this, forgiveness for the past, peace and harmony within and with God and power in the future to overcome the evil and to abide in and do the right and good it seems almost if not quite impossible that such a transformation could be accomplished in ordinary human nature.

To one who has had much to do with common folks, old or young, the task looks well nigh hopeless.

It involves a changed view of self, God and the world in the first place. It necessitates an entirely new direction of the affections and desires and a complete control of the will in accordance with these new ideas and emotions.

One of the clearest proofs of the divine character of the gospel is the effect it has to produce just these profound changes in the currents of human thought and life.

It is not logical arguments and prolonged discussion usually which effects the change in men's views of God, the world, sin and salvation. More frequently it comes another way. The sense of need, of trouble, misery, the longing for betterment of inner life, for uplift and comfort, attract one to the gospel offers of rest of soul. The terms of the gospel are seen to be reasonable. The results of promises are desirable. Acceptance of its requirements is made and as a consequence the soul does rest in Christ.

The philosophy of this is so deep that no human ingenuity can hope to penetrate its lowest depths. It is as profound as the divine nature and as broad as the eternal purposes of God. But in its application it is so simple that the child can reach all its benefits and enjoy all its results.

This faith which comes by hearing has an intellectual element which cannot be ignored without greatest danger. But the relation which faith bears to the will and desires must also be clearly recognized.

The great difficulty is not so much lack of clear understanding of the gospel as it is dislike of its requirements and a positive preference for evil over good and a determination not to forsake the bad and accept the right.

"This is their condemnation, that men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil."

The remedy is in the preaching the plain gospel and reliance on the power of the Holy Spirit to set the truth home to the hearts of the hearers, and not in any eloquence of man or any aesthetic accessories of music and ritual. Preach the word and expect the Lord to reach the hearts of men by it.

Controlling Powers In God's Plan.

A man never attains to the jubilant working of a believing spirit until a certain element of heroism is wrought into the springs of his being. This must be the fruit of heroic disciplinary training. By any and every means an immortal spirit must be set to thinking. It must think responsibility with profound and eager moral consciousness. A great faith must feed on great mysteries. The sinews of its strength must grow tense and wiry by the strain of great conflicts. Many need the discipline of great searchings after God in which they do not find Him. Some must agonize in prayers, which in the seeming are dead failures. Not otherwise can some natures grow into that massive and consolidated virtue and that masterful solution of religious problems which shall fit them for their predestined place as powers of control in God's plan.—Austin Phelps.

Love's Opportunity.

So long as we love, we serve; so long as we are loved by others, I would almost say we are indispensable, and no man is useless while he has a friend.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Alive to God.
Romans vi, 11.

'Tis time, O man, for thee to wake!
Thyself from stupid slumber shake
And from this hour the motto take:
Alive to God.

Thou hast worked hard for earthly things,
Chased the vain good that pleasure brings,
Followed thine own imaginings;
Now live for God.

Don't fear the path with trouble rife—
Thyself too weak to meet the strife,
When God can pour His own great life
Throughout thine own!

Think what a glorious work to do;
Think what a home thou'rt going to,
And knowing God will lead thee through—
Live thou for Him.

Thy work on earth is almost done;
Few days thou hast thy race to run.
Shall the great prize by thee be won?
Then live for God.

Would'st thou ere long with rapture see
The dawning of eternity?
From this hour let thy watchword be:
Alive to God!

—E. W. Cook in Christian Work and Evangelist.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

"Done!" cried the captain, and with the scraping of chairs and a shuffle of cards, the game was on.

In breathless silence the spectators huddled about the players—the one frowning, his close-cropped head held rigid in the thick, short neck, his eyes gleaming like small coals out of a red-veined face.

The other was paler than usual, but placid, self contained.

The Spaniard looked on with an amused, cynical smile. That this eastern gallant, with the bow of a Chesterfield, and the air of a student, should break a lance with so hardy an opponent, aroused feelings of admiration and pity.

The woman crept nearer, her heart in her eyes.

Two or three loungers strolled in, and there was an interested ring about the players.

A few more turns of the cards, and both men pushed back their chairs—the game was over!

"She is yours, take her, and go to the devil!" roared the captain. Then, hiding his rage and discomfiture under a grim laugh, he strode from the room.

"I HEAR YOU HAVE BEEN GAMBLING," SHE SAID, "BUT IN SUCH A CAUSE WE WON'T SCOLD."

There was some excited talk, and a stifled scream from the octoroon. For the first time Winslow addressed her: "I believe they call you mine, since the cards have so decreed, but pardon me, if I decline the honor. It would save me responsibility if you would remain under the care of this gentleman," and he waved his hand toward the planter.

Without a word, but with a world of gratitude in her deep eyes, the woman glided to her old master's side. He murmured a half articulate "Thank you" to Winslow, and together they left the room.

"Well, you are a softie!"

"What are you skeered of?"

But Winslow was glad to escape the jeering congratulations, and quickly made his way out and up to the deck, followed only by the Spaniard.

"This is Mr. Winslow, I believe?" the latter said. "My name is Gonzaga."

After a few preliminary words, he said, admiringly: "You play well, sir, for an American," adding, with a smile, "I think my countryman must have had a glimpse of you revealed to him when he wrote his story of 'Don Quixote.'"

Winslow laughed. "You flatter me, and yet in the matter of ridicule, perhaps I do share his honors."

The Spaniard did not reply to this, and the two men smoked in silence.

At last Gonzaga spoke. "You have been knight-errant to fairer dames than this octoroon—is it not so?"

At this meaning tone Winslow frowned; it was plain whither the question tended. He had observed this stranger's eyes following Lavender in bold admiration. It was only a matter of time when, in the little privacy afforded by the crowded boat, he would have an opportunity to thrust his acquaintance upon them. This Winslow meant to defer as long as possible, from motives he could not have explained.

But this foreigner was not to be lightly turned from his purpose. "I quite envy you, sir," he persisted, "you are not dependent for society upon the rabble of the boat. Would it be too much to ask an introduction to your charmed circle?"

At that moment Lavender appeared on deck. Seeing Winslow engaged with a stranger, she would have turned back, but Gonzaga spoke loud in an affectation of civility: "Pray, do not let me disturb you," and in his manner was evident expectation of the introduction, which Charles grudgingly gave.

Lavender courtesied low, then, turned to Winslow with a teasing smile: "I hear you have been gambling," she said, "but in such a cause we won't scold you."

Gonzaga interposed: "Truly, the woman seemed well worth the effort."

But the suspicion of evil in his tone was too carefully veiled for Lavender's understanding. "Indeed, she is," was her simple comment. "Such gratitude I have never seen. We are all grateful, for humanity's sake."

Charles waived further discussion of the subject, and as soon as possible found an excuse to take Lavender below.

The Spaniard stood alone, pensively watching the smoke from his cigar, as it idly curled above his head, or with a sudden flaw was blown away in whirling rings.

Shrugging his shoulders, he said, half aloud: "A rose blossoming in the wilderness!"

His teeth showed in a sardonic smile. "Nor is this rose without its guardian thorn. Well, so much the better worth plucking!" and he joined the others in the cabin.

CHAPTER IX.

Thenceforward the little party was augmented by the unfailing presence of the Spaniard, Gonzaga.

Yet the newcomer bore himself in such quiet, gentlemanly fashion, as to disarm objections. He was never obtrusive, and contrived to make his society so agreeable that to none was he unwelcome. Even Winslow, who secretly deplored his coming, could not but admire his tact, his graceful, flowery conversation, his knowledge of the world.

To Mrs. Creighton one day the stranger said: "I have no plans, madam, and when I hear you talk of your future home, and of all you mean to do there, I feel like a wanderer, a good-for-naught. And in truth, I am. A long sojourn in New Orleans became fatiguing; I heard a great deal of this wonderful new land which my own country was foolish enough to let slip from its crown. One day a boat started, thither bound. I embarked—I am here, your servant."

And that was all he ever vouchsafed in explanation of his presence.

There were, however, two of the party to whom this new acquaintance was most unwelcome. Though America and the Indian guide kept ever in the background, they were alert and watchful; keen to observe the slightest change in the situation.

In spite of the antipathy of race and habit, there was a bond uniting these two—a bond stronger than creed or custom. Red skin and black covered hearts that beat in unison to the same refrain, love for those they served. They would sit apart from the others, native antagonism bridged by this common interest.

The stranger they eyed with disfavor, with that instinctive dislike which needs no warrant. With the Indian this was suspicion—a habit of blood. With America, a conservative fear of change.

"I ain't got no call to complain," she said to Owatoga, "an' dis yer Spain man may be all right. But we don' need 'im. We done come so fur widout his com'ny, an' I reckon we kin go de res' ob de way."

And Owatoga grunted assent, for what of America's words failed to impress his untutored ear, her gestures and manner conveyed.

But there was another on board for whom the Indian felt a far deeper aversion, and that was the captain, Finch. It was plain to Owatoga that ever since the gambling episode, this man had cherished for Winslow a secret grudge. Over his every movement, therefore, he kept anxious watch.

Quarters on the boat were so crowded that in sheer necessity of rest and change, Mrs. Creighton and Lavender spent much time on deck. Here games were indulged in, principally matches for rifle practice, with the captain for leading performer. His aim was unerring, and he was reckless in its display. Many a luckless pig on shore owed the loss of his tail to this man's prowess. Once when Lavender ventured a pitying remonstrance, he blurted: "Don't you worry about them tails, miss. They kin be thankful I'm sech a good shot and leave 'em the rest of their carcasses."

The octoroon, too, had observed the malevolent glances with which the captain's eyes traveled from her to Winslow. There was no mistaking their baleful glitter, and Winslow was her savior from worse than death, the object of her reverent gratitude. Over him, she, too, kept unmarked vigilance.

High Bridge, Aug. 2.—Elias Terriberry, about sixty-five years old, a retired merchant of this place, was taken to the Easton (Pa.) Hospital Monday to undergo a surgical operation. He suffers with gangrene. About one year ago a heavy iron fell on Mr. Terriberry's foot, injuring the great toe. Little attention was given it at the time. Later it began bothering him and he suffered great pains. For a while the local physicians treated him, and finally had the toe amputated at a Newark hospital. He returned home and it was thought he would recover, but Sunday a turn for the worse took place and it became apparent that another operation would be necessary to save his life. The member will be amputated below the knee.

DIAMOND DUST.

Perhaps the threatening weather this week is due to the fact that the Quaker Giants are scheduled to appear at Crescent Oval on Saturday. The dusky braves have certainly had hard time getting a game on here this year. The ardent fans hope, however, that the weather man will be good to them.

In Reardon and Heffron the local team has two strong outfielders who not only field perfectly, but are hitting the ball consistently.

Snow, who plays short for Plainfield, is always on his job. He covers plenty of territory, tries for every chance and can be depended upon for a hit in every game. He and Goodman at second base make a fast pair.

Comparing first basemen, Henriques is playing the initial sack fully as well if not better than "Dave" Driscoll, besides he is stronger with the stick.

With one or two exceptions Captain Leonard has been playing his same gilt-edged game of ball as in previous years both in the field and at the bat.

Every fan who goes to Crescent Oval Saturday will see one of the best games of the season. The ability of the Quaker Giants to put up a hot contest is well known, while the locals can be depended upon to hold their own.

Crescent Oval should be taxed to its utmost capacity Saturday when the locals will clash with the champion Quaker Giants. Monroe will be there to make things interesting. He's a whole show in himself.

"Willie" Mullin, the clever little short-stop, is nursing a sore hand which was injured in a game he was catching for the Potter A. C., on Saturday. His backstop work has been of the best this season.

Seldom has a twirler of "Phil." Smith's class entered fast company and performed so acceptably the first year. From the first he has had no trouble in delivering the goods to the satisfaction of the fans. Under proper coaching and management his future in baseball should be particularly bright.

The High School boy is fortunate in having such a fine catch as "Jack" O'Neil. The veteran knows just how to handle the youngster and get the best work out of him, and says that all "Phil." needs is the experience as he has a wide assortment of shoots and twisters.

Bert Trotter is one of the extra infielders on the Garwood Imperials.

The Dunellen nine will play Cranford, at Cranford, on Saturday. Randolph will twirl.

V. W. Nash, Jr., has organized the lawyers for their game with the Newspaper Men. The date of the contest has not been fixed.

Jocko Halligan got back in the game with Jersey City, Tuesday, at Baltimore. He showed that his ankle was all right by running down four flies in his old-time form.

Man Killed Was Her Husband.

New Brunswick, Aug. 2.—Mrs. George H. Busch, of Schureman and Neilson street, this city, has identified the body of a man ground to pieces on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Millstone Junction, Sunday night, as that of her husband, who had been missing since Saturday night. Mrs. Busch became the bride of the man only a few weeks ago. Busch left Saturday on a fishing trip. It is supposed that he started to come home on a freight train Sunday and fell between the cars. Several trains passed over his body, mangling it beyond recognition. A piece of the man's hat, containing his initials, was found, and this was the sole means by which his identity was established.

Says Husband Attacked Her.

Elizabeth, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Mary Heffron, thirty-five years old, was found on South Broad street shortly after midnight Tuesday night by a policeman. Her face was covered with blood from an ugly wound on her forehead, where her husband, she said, had struck her with a soldering iron. After her injury was dressed she was sheltered in police headquarters until this morning, when she made a formal complaint against her assailant, who will be arrested.

STATE COMMISSIONER TO ENFORCE NEW AUTO LAW.

Writes Note in Which He Says Spirit Rather Than Letter Must Be Observed.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 2.—The notion that has gone abroad that State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles J. B. R. Smith was not standing for a strict enforcement of the provisions of the new Frelinghuysen automobile law has been corrected by Mr. Smith in an emphatic letter written to J. C. Higgins, of New Brunswick, secretary of the New Jersey Highway Protectors' Association.

The mistaken idea of Commissioner Smith's attitude toward the law was brought about in an interview with W. E. Scarritt, of East Orange, which was recently published.

In putting himself right on the subject and clearly stating what the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Department proposes to do in the matter of the enforcement of the new automobile regulation, Commissioner Smith says in his letter to Mrr. Higgins:

"My position is that a strict enforcement of the spirit of the law does not make necessary the application of prescribed penalties for every technical violation. The clear purpose of the act is to protect both the natural and the legal rights of every class of the users of the highways, whether they be autoists, cyclists, drivers of animals (either as beasts of burden or otherwise) or pedestrians."

A NEW PLANT.

Will Manufacture Cement Building Stone at Elizabeth.

The property which was used for several years as an electric lighting plant on Public lane, between Catherine street and Madison avenue, Elizabeth, has been purchased by an Ohio firm, which will introduce in that city the manufacture of cement building stone, made by the "wet process," and differing in all respects from the machine-made sand blocks. It is of handsome color, and as waterproof as natural stone, and in every way suitable for residences, factories, public and private buildings. It has been extensively used for several years.

The company will employ quite a number of men, and will soon execute a number of contracts. The company will also manufacture cement stone burial vaults, which are claimed to be superior to any vaults yet manufactured.

ROOSEVELT'S $1 AND LETTER.

Takes the Opportunity to Commend Scheme to Raise Funds.

New York, Aug. 2.—President Roosevelt has contributed $1 to the Republican national Congressional committee's campaign fund. The contribution was sent in response to a general appeal for $1 contributions. Sherman, of the Congressional committee, yesterday made public the President's letter, inclosing his contribution to the fund. The letter follows:

"Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 25, 1906.

"Dear Mr. Sherman:

"I have your letter of July 24 and inclosures. I send my dollar. I think it an admirable plan, and I congratulate you upon the success that bids fair to attend the movement."

Anniversary of Ocean Grove.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 2.—A larger number of persons than usual participated in the exercises Tuesday afternoon celebrating the thirty-seventh anniversary of the founding of Ocean Grove. It was an informal observance of the annual recognition of that historical day on July 31, 1869, when a few people gathered in a tent in what has always been known from the beginning as Thompson Park, but which some time ago it was deemed proper to change to Founders' Park, as being more appropriate, and in song and prayer dedicated Ocean Grove.

Plan a Society Circus.

Atlantic Highlands, Aug. 2.—Elaborate preparations have been made for the society circus to be given for the benefit of various hospitals and other charities. The local athletic association is managing the entertainment, and the talent, which is all amateur, includes some of the most famous men of the New York Athletic Club. The program includes hippodrome races, a steeplechase, broadsword contest, rough riding, lion-act burlesque, Jeu-de-barre and Wild West features.

Forty Cars for Excursionists.

The biggest annual outing from Elizabeth, the excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove in aid of Elizabeth's Orphan Asylum, took place yesterday. It required four trains with a total of forty cars to carry the pleasure-seekers to the seashore. The outing was the largest in several years. The theatening weather deterred many, however, from taking in the affair.

To Build Auto House.

Building permit has been granted to George T. Leigh, of West Front street, for the erection of a frame garage in the rear of his premises. Work will be started at once.

HOBOKEN BOY'S USE OF UMBRELLA FOR PARACHUTE DROP PROVES DISASTROUS

Hoboken, August 2.—"Mons. Gabriel," Hoboken's great and only parachute leaper and promising circus performer, is out of business. He is at his home today with a broken arm and a bruised side. Incidentally he has retired from the profession. An umbrella and a leap from a fifty-foot trestle at the foot of Fifteenth street did it. In real life the "Mons." is Charles Gabriel. He is thirteen years old and his headquarters are with his parents, at 213 Fourteenth street, this city. Charles told his companions that he knew all about going up in balloons and cutting loose parachutes. Challenged to show his skill, he got an umbrella and with his friends repaired to the trestle at the foot of Fifteenth street. There, with much ceremony, "Mons." Gabriel opened his "parachute," kissed his hand to the crowd and then leaped. Somehow or other the parachute did not seem to have been greased well. What it did as soon as the air shaped it was to turn inside out, and down shot the "Mons." like a projectile from a field gun. He struck in a nice, marshy spot, and then the audience got an ambulance and he was carried home. His parents promise to give him a rousing "hand" when he recovers.

RARITAN'S NIGHT PROWLING CAT, WHICH BIT SIX PERSONS, KILLED BY A POSSE

Somerville, Aug. 2.—After an all-night hunt the police and a number of armed residents of Raritan at an early hour yesterday morning ran down and killed a large maltese cat which has terrorized the Italian colony by ferociously attacking and biting a number of persons on the street at night. The cat, which is of unusual size, first appeared among the Italians in Second street about two weeks ago. Under the cover of darkness it would crouch on a fence or in a gutter and pounce upon women and children as they passed along the street. The animal in every instance succeeded in giving its victim a single bite on the arm or leg, after which it fled. The cat would sink its teeth through the clothing and deep into the flesh and in every case the wound was serious and required the attention of a physician. Three children and two women had been bitten up to last Sunday night, and then Policeman Edward Farrell was dtained to hunt down the ferocious animal. The policeman walked cautiously up Second street, scanning the top of every door-yard fence along the way for a pair of glaring eyes. When about in the middle of the block he felt something clutch his leg from behind and at the same instant a thousand sharp pains shot up his spinal column and caused his hair to raise. The policeman gave a shout and frantically swung his club in his rear without doing any damage. As the grip on his leg relaxed he turned just in time to see a big malteset cat scoot away in the darkness. The policeman's leg was badly bitten. The wound was treated by a physician.

COURT WILL DECIDE WHETHER OR NOT WIFE CAN BE A FIANCEE OF ANOTHER

Hoboken, Aug. 2.—"Can the wife of a man become the affianced of another?" is the question which Judge Frederick J. Stuhr, of the Hoboken District Court, will have to decide, and on this decision will rest the disposition of a $250 insurance policy. The Workmen's Sick and Death Benefit Fund of New York claims that a woman cannot become affianced to one man while married to another, but Mrs. Martha C. Walther, the beneficiary of the deceased, claims that, although she was married to C. Walther, she was engaged at the time to John Y. Schmaing, of 150 Newark street, this city. On October 25, 1904, Schmaing became a member of the association, and on November 12 of the same year made a testamentary disposition of the benefit, to be gained on his death, to Mrsfi Walther. He died on February 13, 1906, without having made any other designation of the benefit, and the insurance association now refuses to pay Mrs. Walther, claiming that she had been falsely described. Under the laws of the association no one but the parent, husband or wife, affianced husband or wife, or offspring may become a beneficiary. Should Judge Stuhr decide Mrs. Walther could become engaged while married she will receive the amount of the benefit. Julius Lichtenstein, counsel for Mrs. Walther, refused to state whether his contention would be that the engagement was made contingent on the death of Walther, or his being divorced from his wife, or on what grounds. The case is exciting much interest among the legal fraternity here, as such a question has never been known before to be raised. Both counsel for the defense and plaintiff will submit brief's within a few days.

DE VOE DIVIDES HIS TIME BETWEEN SAN JOSE SCALE AND WEATHER SEEIN'

"Two matters that the world ought to hear about," announced A. J. DeVoe, the Hackensack weather prophet, in a newspaper office Tuesday at Newark. "I've got so I can see the weather outside of the United States, and I've discovered something to kill the San José scale on trees."

It was suggested to Mr. DeVoe that as the weather was a little overworked, he might take a shy at the San Jose insect.

"It's this way," the prophet began. "Four years ago I bought a little farm in Hackensack. It had forty fruit trees on it. There are only six left now. What's the reason? San Jose scale. Thinks I to myself if I'm going to have any trees left I'd better get busy. I looked at the trees carefully, and I discovered that there was a little insect, a sort of a cross between a fly, a mosquito and a gnat, that was laying the eggs. I noticed that the insect stung the trees so quickly you could hardly see it at work. Then, in about four days, the scale hatches out. The first thing they do is to stick their bill deep down into the wood of a new young shoot. Then it begins to wiggle its legs up and down so as to wear 'em off so it can burrow down into the wood. It does this in a few days, and then begins the work of eating up the tree.

"But I'm going to fool 'em."

"How?"

"Kerosene oil. Just mix one part of oil with seven parts of water and spray the lower edge of the trees. That kills the scale."

"What's new in weather?" the prophet was asked, by the scribe, who was glad to change the bug subject.

"Glad you asked me. I knew there was something I wanted to talk about. That's it. Say, there's going to be quite a bit of weather Sunday. There's going to be a terrible cyclone over the Ohio Valley. It'll get here about Sunday night, and then—look out! It'll be 110 in the shade here Saturday. And as I said at the start I've got so I can see the weather clear outside of the United States now. There's going to be a terrible cyclone in France, August 25. It will be something fierce. I'm going to write to all the European governments now, and by then I'll be over in France to take charge of the weather there. There's no use trying to interest this government in weather."

TILLMAN A CANDIDATE

Assemblyman From Rahway Asks Party For a Renomination.

PERKINS IS OUT TOO

But Tucker Won't Run—Lively Scramble for Elizabeth Man's Place—In the Colby Camp.

Heeding the advice of his friends, Peter Tillman, of Rahway, has announced himself a candidate for renomination for the Assembly. There will be no opposition to him so far as his home town is concerned and his friends predict that there will be little objection in other districts. He is the first regular Republican to come out with a formal announcement of his candidacy.

It is taken for granted that Assemblyman Perkins, of Westfield, is a candidate for re-election. As floor leader of the House he proved valuable to the regular organization during the last session and it is generally understood that he will be a party choice this fall. Like his colleague, Tillman, Perkins is strong in his home town.

With Perkins and Tillman on the ticket, it will only be necessary for the regulars to find another candidate. Assemblyman Everard Tucker, of Elizabeth, has declined to become a candidate for renomination. He is one of the leaders in the Colbyite movement but it is understood that no protest would be made against him on that score by the leaders of the regulars. There are half a dozen men anxious to get the nomination and all of them hail from Elizabeth. That city is conceded to be entitled to name the man and there is apt to be a lively scrimmage for the place.

As yet the Colbyites have been able to find but one candidate, Judge W. N. Runyon, of this city. Efforts have been made time and again in various parts of the county to get men to announce themselves as candidates but without success.

FIFTEEN DUNELLEN PUPILS TO ENTER CITY HIGH SCHOOL.

Special Arrangement Made With Board of Education To Admit Dunellenites.

In accordance with an arrangement made by the Board of Education of the Dunellen schools with the board of this city, pupils of the high school grade are to be received at the city high school. The school system of Dunellen is inadequate in the high school department, while the city school has plenty of room for the accommodation of other pupils. Certain Dunellen pupils have been attending the local high school with tuition payment during the past year, but the new arrangement will make it possible for all grammar school graduates of Dunellen, who pass certain examinations to have free schooling at the city high school until the class-room accommodations there become so crowded that the room is needed for local pupils.

Fifteen Dunellen grammar school graduates have passed satisfactory examinations for admission to the high school here. Their names were approved by the Dunellen Board of Education at a recent meeting. They are Paul W. Brakeley, Benjamin Dodwell, Raymond W. Dutcher, John W. Dutcher, and the Misses Kathryn Samson, Pearl Dodwell, Emma Voorhees, Kathryn Moynihan, Meta Pennock, Lizzie Costello, Mary Logan, Edith L. Bush, Lizzie Reusch, Susan Lowrie, Irene Bragg. These fifteen have passed examinations admitting them to high school work in this city, except those on the list who attended the high school here last year. Another set of examinations will be conducted just before school opens, so that those who failed to pass at the time these were successful will be given another chance.

New Market P. O. Reduced.

The New Market post office has been taken from the third class and made a fourth class office. Postmaster Charles Day moved the office yesterday from a store all to itself at the foot of the hill on New Market's main street, to his grocery store at the top. The rural free delivery system is responsible for the falling off in business that led to the reduction of the office's rank.

DENNY CARNEY GOES TO JAIL FOR THIRTY DAYS

MAYOR OF COTTAGE PLACE ABUSED HIS WOMENFOLK ONCE TO OFTEN.

Two mayors clashed in the city court this morning, and one of them got much the worst of it. Denny Carney, "mayor" of Cottage place, faced Mayor Buckle, who is taking Judge Runyon's place, on a charge of disorderly conduct, and he was sent to jail for thirty days.

Denny, who is a familiar figure about the city and an odd character when sober, started a ruction at his home on Cottage place last night, in a drunken fit of rage. He fought with his son, Dennis, Jr., and then turned on his granddaughter and struck her over the head with a club. The row aroused the neighborhood, and Patrolman Payne, summoned by one of thte neighbors, put a stop to the row. The family refused to make a complaint when Payne offered to arrest Denny, but Chief Kiely, when he heard of the affair this morning, insisted on an arrest.

Mayor Buckle was indignant over the story of Denny's drunken tyranny over the rest of the family. The mayor of cottage place has a nasty tongue for his womenfolk, and Mayor Buckle grew more indignant with every chapter of the story the witnesses told.

"You are a shameful old man," he said in sentencing Denny to a month in jail, and scored him severely. The mayor of Cottage place was badly shaken by the raking over he received. It was a trembling little old man that tottered back to the cell room when Mayor Buckle finished.

ABBOTT QUALIFIES IN INVITATION TOURNEY

BUT INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPION IS DEFEATED BY J. M. WARD.

After being one of the few to qualify with one of the lowest scores of the day, Robert Abbott, of the Plainfield Country Club, and intercollegiate golf champion, was beaten in the first round at match play by J. M. Ward, Fox Hills, 3 up and 1 to play, at Southampton, yesterday. In the qualifying round Abbot went out in 40, came home in 38, making a 78 for the round, a mighty good score.

Jerome D. Travers, of the Nassau Country Club, won the honors in the opening hounds at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club. This is the annual invitation tournament. The Metropolitan champion not only won the low score prize in the eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round, with a 76, but followed this up by deefating Walter J. Travis, of the Garden City Golf Club, 1 up in the first match play round.

Walter J. Travis pushed Travers closely for the low score prize in the qualifying round, and was only one stroke away, with 77. Robert Abbott was third, with 78, a stroke better than Gilman P. Tiffany, the three-times champion of the Hudson River Golf Association.

Dudley H. Barrows, of Princeton and the Plainfield Country Club, finished in the second eight, going out in 45, coming home in 44, making a total of 89, but he, too, was beaten in the first round match play, by H. B. Hollins, Jr., by 1 up.

"BERTHA" WAS LIKED.

Story of the "Sewing Machine Girl" Pleases Large Audience.

"Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl" was greeted by a large audience at the New Plainfield theatre last night. In spite of the weather, the orchestra and balcony were well filled, and the gallery divinities were out in their usual numbers.

The play was well mounted, and the acting was capable. "Bertha" and her kind sister held the sympathy of the audience, and the villain was such a convincing scoundrel that he was met with hisses so loud and earnest as to constitute a sweet tribute to his skill.

"TIP" COLLECTS MONEY FOR THE BABY CAMP

IF YOU SEE THE OLD DOG, DROP COIN IN HIS BASKET.

Among the friends of the King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountains is an old fox terrier owned by a Plainfield man who is an enthusiastic supporter of that worthy charity. "Tip," for that is his name, is so anxious to help the camp work along that he starts out nearly every day and makes the rounds of the city and borough, carrying a little basket into which is dropped voluntary contributions in support of the work. As soon as "Tip" collects a little money he hastens home with it to his master, who turns it over to the treasurer of the King's Daughters.

The little dog is frequently seen about town and it is a hard-hearted person who will not encourage him in his efforts to help the sick babies at tthe camp. A few days ago, a letter expressing "Tip's" sentiments, written by a friend of the camp, was carried to the mountain home of the sick babies and delivered to the matron in charge. "Tip" made the journey all alone. This is the letter:

"To the babies of the baby camp—With this letter I send you all my havings, and hope you mal get as much pleasure in spending them as I have had in accumulating them. The facts are, my teeth are quite worn out in getting together so much money, and as I am growing old, I enjoy thinking someone will derive benefit from my hard-earned money, while I am yet living. All this money is honestly mine, and the only taint about it is that it has all been in my mouth, and so I am sure none of it is counterfeit.

"I would like to call on you some day and see how much of it I could get back. Perhaps I will, but in hot weather I do not get very far from home. Now I'll tell you who I am—just a little old fox terrier dog, who can sit up and beg until some kind person will give me a coin, and then I go home, and there my Missus takes it away from me and puts it in my bank. Did you know dogs had bank accounts before? Here is all mine, and I hope to have another next year, and I'll send it all to you.

"Good-bye, babies. I don't like children around me, so I pay you to keep away.

"Yours for charity,
"TIP."

INVESTIGATE DOG'S DEATH.

Police Find That Senile Debility and Not Poison Killed It.

Whitney Frazee, of South avenue, asked the police yesterday to investigate the death of his pet dog. It expired suddenly yesterday morning, and Mr. Frazee was sure some malicious person had scattered rat poison where the dog could get it.

Officer Jerry Cash was sent up to sleuth out the case. He reported to the chief that the dog had died of senile debility. It was twenty-one years old, he said, and no evidence of poisoning could be found.

Reform Hits Somerville.

Sunday closing has occupied the attention of thte reform government of Somerville for several months. The first steps, however, was in the reforming of the police force by the suspension for thirty days of a policeman for intoxication, after which the new chief of police, Edwin Brown, a real estate dealer, with offices in New York, turned his attention to tthe Sunday selling of ice cream and soda water, not even omitting the peanut venders. As a result only newspapers can be bought in Somerville on Sunday.

Guests of the Governor.

County Registrar of Deeds F. H. Smith was a guest of Governor E. C. Stokes, yesterday, when a number of Union county officials called at the State camp. Although the camp is now a thing of the past for the summer so far as the militia is concerned, the Governor has decided to remain at Sea Girt during the rest of the season.

A RED HOT DISPUTE

And Other Features of High Life Close to Nature—They Must Go Two Miles For Water.

Aug. 2, 1906.

Camp Colby,
Halsey Island,
Lake Hopatcong.

"Water, water everywhere

never struck us more forcibly than in the short space of time since we reached Halsey Island, bag and baggage. There is water all about us and since last night Jupiter Pluvius has been doing his best to convince us that Joe Allen, of Nolan's Point, is not the only one to say how affairs at the lake shall be conducted. Even the grounds exudes water at every step but for all that we have to row two miles to get any for drinking purposes. Nevertheless the clouds are now beginning to brighten and everybody at Camp Colby is cheerful and making the best of it. Our tents are pitched on one of the best sites on the island. It was selected for us by Theodore Shirley, who with his family has "Camp Plainfield" about 200 feet from us, and who rendered us valuable assistance in getting put to rights. Our identity is revealed to the outside world by a large banner painted for us gratuitously by the well known firm of Prudhon & Klein, safe experts. We can sit inside either of our three big tents and command a splendid view of New Jersey's prettiest water sheet, though it has not appealed to us in the past twenty-four hours, because of pattering rain and choppy waves.

Our main tent is used as a living "apartment" and one no sooner enters it than there is a reminder of southern pines. The floor is covered with spruce boughs which exhale a most pleasing odor and enables us to give Adirondack enthusiasts the merry ha! ha! There are ten cots in it but they were not used for sleeping last night. "Nightingale" Cutting brought along a bugle and a zwinette and he sat up until 2 a. m. practicing a dinner call. At 3 a. m. he decided to go fishing and for two hours he banged around getting reels and poles in shape. By that time Chief Jahn concluded he had been reclining on the hard side of his cot and that it was up to him to turn it over. That ended all hope of slumber and Jack Hall was sent out to the cook tent to ask Ed Washington to get a 5 o'clock breakfast.

This was hard on Ed, as when we last heard of him he was killing giant mosquitoes with a rifle. This strenuous job kept him moving until 3 o'clock this morning. Those that he exterminated we fed to "Lily" our boojum snarg, presented to us by Hugo Maul just before coing away.

Speaking of Ed, we will match him against any chef in the metropolitan district. He is a past master in the art of catering to hungry campers and his presence is a guarantee that no one in the party will carry home the foundations of dyspepsia.

The camp has already become popular and the members have a dozen or more invitations to visit our neighbors. As soon as the weather clears we hope to accept them all and do a little entertaining ourselves.

FIDO.

Camp Colby in the Rain, Aug. 3.—An acrimonious dispute has marred the pleasure of our little company somewhat. It arose through the clashing of the bugs that stir Judge Runyon and Tommy Muir. They came into conflict when we started to discuss plans for entertaining guests from neighboring tents tomorrow night. The Judge said he would take charge of the entertainment and make a number of new political speeches. Tommy said "Pah!" This was to indicate the low opinion he held of Bill's plan. He said a minstrel performance was the thing to entertain guests, and offered to be the whole show himself. A terrific conflict ensued, in which comrade was arrayed against ccmrade. Elmer Cutting sided with Tommy, and P— J— (he has asked me to keep his name out of the dispute) supported the Judge. Bert Firstbrook, in a spirit of compromise, begged the warring factions to unite on a cottage prayer meeting, and this was finally agreed upon. John Hall will lead, because Tommy insisted that a minstrel man and not a politician conduct it.

Grateful for the support he gave him in the dispute, the Judge has made P. J. his political protege. He is teaching P. to make speeches. The pupil-politician got up early this morning and practiced an oration at

DESERTED BY HUSBAND; CAME TO LOOK HIM UP

MRS. HULL OWNED THAT TELESCOPE BAG BOROUGH POLICE FOUND.

The telescope bag found by Chief of Police George Weiss, of the borough police, was claimed this morning by Frank Hull, a call man of the borough fire department. It is the property of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elwood Hull, of Newark. Mrs. Hull came to this city Tuesday looking for her husband, whom she had not seen for the past two weeks. She went to the home of his mother, Mrs. Nancy Hull, of Duer street, thinking perhaps that her husband had gone to her. She was unsuccessful in her attempts to locate the man, for his mother has hear nothing of him for several weeks past.

Mrs. Hull came to this city Tuesday evening, accompanied by her two-year-old daughter. She went away, after having made inquiries for her husband at his mother's home, early yesterday morning, and went to Newark. She left the heavy bag, which she discarded near the Duer street bridge. The marriage certificate was the proof of her marriage with Hull, at Newark in 1902. The coffin plate was a memento of her little son, who died a year ago.

At Newark Wednesday Mrs. Hull wandered aimlessly through the streets with her child, finally going to the First Precinct Police station, where she was accommodated for the night. She said there that she was penniless, having expended what little money she had in searching for her husband. She said that he had left her a week ago, when the family moved to Newark from Suffern, N. Y. She has seen nothing of Hull since she left Suffern. Yesterday morning Mrs. Hull appealed to Judge Sweeney, and he sent her to the Bureau of Associated Charities rooms, where word was forwarded to her father in New York city.

POWER PLANT FOR CO. COURT HOUSE

FREEHOLDERS WANT TO SAVE ELECTRIC LIGHT AND WATER BILLS.

With an idea of doing away with private patronage and establishing an electric light and water plant of its own, the committee of buildings and public grounds was authorized at a meeting of the Union county Board of Freeholders yesterday to investigate the feasibility of installing a power and electric light plant in the Court House to light the building, also to investigate the question of driving wells, installing machinery for the purpose of furnishing the Court House with water.

This action would mean the cutting off of the patronage given to the Public Service Corporation and the Elizabeth Water Company, which amounts to considerable in the course of a year. It is estimated that the county can furnish its own light and water for a great deal less money than its costs to buy it from private corporations.

A communication was received from the Union County Board of Equal Taxation asking the freeholders to furnish counsel. The freeholders directed the clerk to inform the board of taxation that William R. Codington, Esq., of this city, is the county attorney and his services are at the disposal of the board.

To Locate at Berkeley.

William Jeffrey, the Park avenue real estate agent, has sold a large tract of land at Berkeley Heights to the Atlantic Brick and Ballast Co., manufacturers of high grade building brick. This company has already made arrangements to construct on the grounds at Berkeley Heights a brick building plant to cost in the neighborhood of $50,000. This in addition to the many sales made by Mr. Jeffrey at Berkeley Heights, now practically assures the success of the entire operation, and his friends say great credit is due him for taking hold of land in that section for development, which was contrary to the opinion of nearly every dealer in this section of the country. This adds another link to the chain of land development, and that Jeffery's judgment in these matters means something.

Russell B. Gordon.

Russell B. Gordon, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Gordon, of 314 East Second street, died this morning after an illness of but a few days. He was eight months of age. Funeral services will be conducted at the home of his parents tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. J. O. McKelvey. The interment will be in the Methodist cemetery.

Miss Katherine Hughson, of Orchard place, has returned from a two weeks' outing at Atlantic City.

STREET COMMITTEE HAS BUSY SEASON

MAKES PREPARATIONS FOR REPORTS TO COMMON COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

Several matters to be considered at the August meeting of the Common Council on Monday night were discussed at a meeting of the street committee last night. It was decided to present a resolution and ordinance calling for bids for the construction of the southside sanitary sewer, which will include a pumping station, it being the intention of the committee to put this matter through at an early date. Owing to the location of some of the territory to be sewered it will be necessary to install an apparatus to pump the sewage into the pipes where it will be taken care of by gravity.

Another matter to be acted upon Monday night will be that of the proposed extension to the Richmond street storm sewer, a portion of which has been completed. It is the desire to provide storm sewers for this section of the city so as to entirely obviate the flooding of streets and property during heavy rains. An ordinance providing for this improvement will probably be adopted at the meeting.

Still another matter to be considered will be that of macadamizing certain streets in the southside, West End and Netherwood districts of the city, as provided in an ordinance introduced at the last meeting. Chairman W. L. Gloak, of the street committee, will present these matters Monday night and he looks for favorable action.

COW RUINED CORN CROP 6 CTS DAMAGES AWARDED

WILLIAM URHAHN GETS LEGAL LIMIT OF DAMAGE IN COW TRESPASS CASE.

Six cents damage, the legal limit for trespass suits, and costs of action were awarded William Uhrhahn, of Somerset street, from damage done to his crop of corn and cabbages by cows belonging to Mrs. Mary Wyckoff, of DuPont street. The hearing was before a jury, with Justice of the Peace Clark Mundy on the bench at the borough court last night. A typical borough hearing, it lasted two hours and a half. The jury was composed of John Kitchen, foreman, Thomas Freeman, Frank Mohan, John Ryman, David King and E. R. Hartpence.

Uhrhahn's claim for damages was disputed by Counsel S. S. Swackhamer, who claimed that the damage had been done by cows belonging to Mrs. Lewis, who lives near the cornfield, at DuPont avenue and Stone street. Stonewall Jackson and D. W. Applegate, however, came to the stand and identified the cow seen doing the damage as the property of Mrs. Wyckoff. The animal had ruined the entire crop of corn, tearing up the hills and eating the shoots, which were just sprouting. Forty or fifty cabbage plants were also destroyed.

In summing up the case to the jury, Swackhamer appealed to the members on the grounds that Mrs. Wyckoff was unable to settle damages that she was powerless to prevent, and stated that she had done her best to keep the cow fastened up. V. W. Nash, Jr., as attorney for Uhrhahn, summed up strongly, showing that the damage had been done and that Mrs. Wyckoff's cow had done it. The jury were out only a few minutes before returning a verdict for Uhrhahn.

REUNION OF FIRE FIGHTERS.

Eighteen Members of Old Zephtr Hook and Ladder Co. Plan Outing.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the reunion of the old members of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company met last night at Jacob Blimm's Hotel in Somerset street and completed the details for the outing which will be held on Sunday in the grove at the foot of Jefferson avenue.

This will be the first reunion of the old-time fire fighters, since the company disbanded several years ago. There are eighteen members living and they, with a number of friends, will gather on Sunday to talk over the olden days and have a general good time.

Funeral This Evening.

WILL DARE DEATH AGAIN

Leach Offers to Take Another Trip Through Niagara Rapids.

HIS "BARREL" IS HERE

Brought Over From England To Be Tinkered Up—On Exhibition at the Iroquois Hotel.

Prepared to take another trip another trip through the seething torrent, Bobby Leach, famous throughout the country as one of the two men who have ever gone through the Whirlpool rapids at Niagara Falls and lived to boast of it, has had the queer craft in which he rode the stream brought to this city from Europe, to strengthen up the places weakened by the rush through the rapids. Leach exhibited the craft in England in the spring of last year. He came to this city to conduct an "owl" lunch wagon last summer.

The craft in which Leach made his famous trip was put on exhibition in front of the Iroquois Hotel this morning, directly after its arrival from the Cunard Pier in New York. Patrolman Overbaugh was kept busy handling the crowd that was attracted by it.

The craft is made of heavy plate steel, shaped like a regularly formed egg. Heavy blocks of wood are at each end to take the impact against the rocks. Leach was hermatically sealed in it on his ride, except for two small airholes on the top. He lay in a hammock that swung about every turn of the craft. Dents in the steel plates and big gouges in the wood show how terrific was the journey through which it passed. For all its massive construction, the craft only draws thirteen inches of water.

"I am ready to take the trip again at any time," said Leach this morning. "Plans are now afoot for a ride through the rapids in September, and I am going to have the barrel fixed up in preparation for the journey, should it be decided upon."

The "barrel" weighs 1382 pounds. It was teamed here from the Cunard Pier by Captain William Hand.

COLORED DRAMATISTS GAVE SUCCESSFUL PLAY.

Twentieth Century Dramatic Club Had Big Success On the Boards.

"The Twentieth Century Dramatic Club," a colored dramatic organization, presented a four act play, "The Last Loaf," at Saengerbund Hall, last evening. With local talent assuming the roles of the three women and five men characters, the play went off smoothly and was a great success, the hall being well filled. The proceeds will be added to a fund being raised by the club for the purpose of erecting a clubhouse. Miss M. E. Sunter is president of the club and Andrew J. Carey acted as business manager of the play last evening.

At the conclusion of the performance, an informal dance was held, lasting until a late hour. Music was furnished by Torter's orchestra, of Elizabeth. William Dempsey acted as floor manager.

To celebrate the event of moving into their new home at Berkeley Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Schaffer gave a very enjoyable euchre party last evening. Before purchasing their new home, the Schaffers were guests at "Ye Olde Mountain Camp," the result being that the entire camp was invited to the affair last night. Prizes were won by Mrs. Davis and Mr. Wahl. A collation was served with courses interspersed with good stories and singing. William Jeffery sang a number of good songs and Mr. Schaffer played the banjo to the delight of all present. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery, of Plainfield; Mrs. Seidell, Mr. and Mrs. Wyse, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Manderville, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Wright, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Davis, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Hillyer, of Staten Island; Mr. and Mrs. Fuller, of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Clark, of Brooklyn; Mrrs. Fox, Miss Mabel Clark, Col. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Wahl, all of whom are summering at the camp, at Berkeley Heights.

Exempts to Consolidate.

With a view to consolidating the two exempt firemen's associations of this city and North Plainfield, members of Hose Co. No. 2, of the borough, will hold a special meeting at fire headquarters this evening. At this time three members will be chosen as a committee. The other company will also appoint three of its members and the joint committee will get together some time next week to put through the scheme of consolidation.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Work on the new school building at New Market is getting along well and the new building has now been raised to the height of two stories. The masonry contractors, George W. Dennick, of Elizabeth, have entirely completed the work of building the foundation and it is expected that the building will be entirely walled in within two weeks. A force of men are at work on the framework of the structure now every day. Rimmer, Apgar & Cruzen are the carpenters. The contract for the heating has been awarded Dennis Galbraith, of Plainfield, and George Conover & Co. will do the painting. The building should be ready for the occupancy of the pupils by the first of October.

The work of grading the land at Rock avenue and Second street, bought by the Ransone Concrete Machinery Co. for the erection of a factory, has practically been completed and it is expected that the contracts for the construction will soon be awarded. Permits have been granted for the erection of a factory 592 feet in length and 53 feet deep and the work will probably be commenced before the month is out. The firm will use the building for the manufacture of machinery for making concrete and an office building and power house will be added to the plant this fall. The main offices of the firm are at 11 Broadway, New York city.

There will be a big mass meeting of the Fordyce faction at Dunellen next Wednesday night. Clean politics and death to bossism is the cry of the heelers of Col. Bloomfield and Charles Prickitt, of Metuchen.

DENIES COMPANION'S DEATH.

Boy Finally Confesses that a Playmate Was Drowned.

Elizabeth, Aug. 3.—It was learned Wednesday evening that Thomas Smart, eight years old, was drowned the night previous by falling overboard while fishing off the coal wharves at Elizabethport. The boy's father, Thomas Smart, is engaged in the huckster business here, and lives at 357 East Jersey street, Elizabethport. When his son did not come home Tuesday night, he became anxious, and Wednesday started out to hunt him up. He was told that a lad of the name of Pender had been seen in the missing boy's company late in the afternoon. Mr. Smart started in search of Pender, but the latter was not home. Smart hunted around the city for several hours for Pender, but without success, and at last went back to the boy's house.

This time he was found there, but refused to tell anything about young Smart, and even denied being in his company. Mr. Smart went to the Second Police Precinct and asked Captain O'Leary to aid him in the search. The captain went to Pender's home and began questioning the lad, but he still refused to give any information.

It was only when threatened with being taken to jail that he finally weakened and told about Smart's fate. Whether his story is true or false the police have no means of ascertaining, as only the two boys were together. Pender's reluctance in making known what had happened to Smart and his effort to conceal the death of his companion has led the police authorities to think that perhaps the boys quarreled or else got skylarking on the bank and that Pender, who is bigger and older, may have accidentally pushed Smart into the water.

The drowned boy's body has not yet been recovered. Mr. Smart lost his wife by death a year ago, and since then has lost two children. His son's death makes four members of the family that have passed away in twelve months.

Honor Oldest Odd Fellow.

Trenton, Aug. 3.—James H. Wilson, New Jersey's oldest Odd Fellow, was honored Wednesday night by the members of Concordia Lodge, the occasion marking the sixtieth anniversary of Mr. Wilson's initiation into the lodge. Mr. Wilson is eighty-one years old, but is still actively engaged in the wallpaper business in this city. He joined Concordia Lodge when he was twenty-one years old, and has passed through all the chairs and held positions of honor in the grand lodge and grand encampment.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

All the great detectives of fiction, from "Le Coque" to "Sherlock Holmes," have been masters of the art of Deduction. predecessors. In "Secrets of the Police" A. H. Woods' new sensational production, of which Nick Chambers is the hero, there are several problems in "deduction" which would have puzzled even the veteran sleuths of Scotland Yard, London. The paraphernalia and equipment of "Secrets of the Police" is said to occupy every inch of space in two 60-foot baggage cars in transit. In its four acts there are fourteen massive scenes. VOTE ON ELIZABETH'S MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANT.

Public Ownership Idea May Be Put Before Electors in Near Future.

The Elizabeth Council last Wednesday passed a resolution, introduced by Councilman Nugent, directing the city attorney to report speedily what steps should be taken so that the question of establishing a municipal lighting plant may be submitted to the voters for a decision at the next election. A law passed by the last Legislature gives the city the authority to build a municipal plant provided a majority of the electors declare themselves in favor of the scheme.

Bids for lighting Elizabeth were received Monday from the two companies which have had the contract in the past, the United Electric Company and the Elizabethtown Gas Light Company.

The United Electric Company offered to furnish 250 or more arc lights, the same as now in use, at $92.50 a light for a one or two-year contract, at $90 for a three-year contract; at $87.50 for a four-year contract, and at $85 for a five-year contract.

The Elizabethtown Gas Light Company offered to furnish gas lamps, same as now in use, for $16 a lamp on a basis of a one, two or three-year contract, and for $15 on a basis of a four or five-year contract. It also offered to supply sixty-candle power light on corner posts with street signs attached, at $24 a light, under a one, two or three-year contract, and at $23 under a five-year contract.

The charge to Elizabeth for lights under the contract which has just expired was $82.50 from the United Electric Light Company for a five-year contract for each arc lamp, and $15 a lamp from the Elizabethtown Gas Light Company under a five-year contract.

The experts that made a report to Council recently upon the cost of light from a municipal light for Elizabeth figured the cost for each arc lamp at $85.10 provided as many as 350 lights were used. For a smaller number the cost, of course, would be higher.

TO SHOCK JAIL BREAKERS.

Warden Has New Plan to Prevent Attempts at Escape.

New Brunswick, Aug. 3.—The next man who tries to cut his way to liberty through the Middlesex county papier mache jail roof will get a surprise in the shape of a few hundred volts of electricity. It won't be enough to kill him, but it will be enough to make him change his mind about escaping.

Warden Charles Rogers, who is a Rutgers College man, is said to have originated the plan. A pole is being erected in the jail yards from which an electric arc light will be suspended. The wires supplying the arc will run from the interior of the jail out to the roof, where they will run about in a close meshed maze over the entire top.

If a prisoner starts to cut through the roof of his cell two things will happen. First the prisoner will drop back, then the arc light will go out and the night watchman will know just what has happened. It is figured that it will be cheaper to repair the wire than to put big patches on the roof and spend a lot of money chasing prisoners.

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oidman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered, for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the wornout lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

Pepsoids are sold at drug stores at 50c. a bottle on an absolute guarantee or money refunded.

If you have not used Pepsoids before, we will send you a 50-cent bottle FREE. Send us your name and address and you will receive promptly, a full sized bottle.

You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask, after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Try Pepsoids to-day—they will cure you. The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

"Marty" O'Loughlin returned yesterday from New York, where he won additional honors at the open professional tournament on the public links in VanCortlandt Park. In addition to the $45 prize money he got by dividing fourth place with David Patrick, the "pro" from Westfield, he captured nearly as much again on a side bet in a match with Jos. Doebel, of the Fairfield Country Club. "Marty" defeated Doebel in matches on the local course and at Fairfield, but he did not seem to think that he had had enough. In the last match he was badly defeated by the Plainfield boy. Those who watched the tournament play at VanCortlandt Park declare that O'Loughlin is the equal of any of the "pros" on his long game and that he shows a big improvement in his short game. Barring a few misplays on the first and second day's play, "Marty" would have landed in first place. That he is a remarkably strong player is shown by his score of 32 for nine holes made in practice the day before the tournament opened. O'Loughlin will go to Hollywood on Wednesday to practice on the course there in preparation for the tournament which opens the following day.

The events at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow will include competition for the Golf Committee cup, the semi-scratch cup and the initial play for the August cup offered by Henry D. Hibbard. Under the conditions for which this cup will be contested it should attract a large number of competitors during the month.

There will be the weekly competition for the President's and Park Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club tomorrow. This event is full of interest to many members of the club and the rivalry usually attracts a good sized field.

The predictions made by many people that the game of golf would eventually die out does not appear to be true, judging by the popularity of it this season. Not only the Plainfield Country Club, but practically every similar organization throughout the metropolitan district and the country is enjoying a summer of great success. New players are constantly coming into prominence and thus adding interest to the game. It is especially noted that the youngsters are the ones who are playing the game so well, while occasionally the older member distinguishes himself with a low score.

Charles Kirchner, of this city, who was chairman of the committee of arrangements for the second annual open professional golf tournament held at VanCortlandt Park, this week, has been highly complimented upon the success of them. Not a single hitch occurred to mar the pleasure of the contestants and not a single kick was made from the beginning to the end of the tournament.

With the advent of September there will begin the return of many golfers to the Plainfield Country Club and Park Golf Club links. While it is unusually quiet at this season of the year, there are always a sufficient number of players at home to make the weekly play interesting. This is especially true of members who go away only for a week or a few days at a time but return in time for Saturday's play.

DIAMOND DUST.

C. P. Hoagland, manager of the fat men's team, of Somerville, would like to arrange a game of ball with a fat men's team from Plainfield to be played Labor Day morning. H. W. Reusswig is captain of the Somerset county aggregation, and he claims to have the best team of heavyweights in the State. There is not a man on the nine that weighs less than 200 pounds and a few go over that mark. Captain Reusswig says that if the game is arranged, his team, like the Colbyites, will win in a walk. All communications should be addressed to him at Somerville.

John Martin, a younger brother of "Brit" Martin, formerly with the Clinton Avenues, has signed to play with the West Ends, of Somerville.

The playing of Rev. Mr. Lockwood, pastor of the Reformed church, East Millstone, is attracting considerable attention. He covers an infield position for his town team and is very fast in the game. Last Saturday he made a triple and two doubles.

The claim of the East Liverpool, Ohio, Club, upon Burch, now playing with the St. Louis Nationals, is not well founded according to the National Commissioner. Burch formerly played in the Tri-State, and he also played with Poughkeepsie last year, being reserved for this season. He jumped to Pennsylvania and was later purchased by St. Louis. Burch will be remembered well by the Plainfield and Westfield fans as a former Westfield player.

SEYMOUR SAYS HE IS WATCHED.

Asks Police Chief to Save Him Annoyance from Public Service Detectives.

A new phase of the fight being waged against James M. Seymour, Jr., of Newark, by the Public Service Corporation was brought to light in a leter sent to Chief of Police Adams yesterday. Mr. Seymour conducts a private electric lighting plant in the blocks bounded by Market, Mulberry, Mechanic and Ward streets, in Newark, and because he cut the price fixed by the Public Service to eight cents a kilowatt hour the company came back with an offer to sell current to consumers in the two blocks above mentioned for three cents a kilowatt hour.

The war is on with the Public Service officials making no secret of their intention to crush out the competition if they can, but it remained for Mr. Seymour's leter to disclose some of the methods resorted to by the big corporation. The missive tells its own tale, as follows:

"Dear Sir—I and my employes are being annoyed by detectives hired by the Public Service Corporation from the Cosgrove Detective Agency. The men are detailed to watch my movements and the movements of my employes. One of the detectives went so far as to trespass by entering my office unannounced and refusing to state his business to my stenographer, and, after looking around, left. There was no man in the office at the time or the gentleman would have stated his business promptly.

"I am conducting a legitimate business, am not breaking any laws and see no good reason why the police force of Newark is not sufficient to maintain order around my buildings. I have never complained of any disorder and I do not like the idea of having detectives constantly watching my employes. I do not take the detectives seriously, because a sleeping sleuth lost his orders and they fell into my hands. His orders are to watch every movement of Seymour and his employes and in case any unusual move is made to telephone immediately to No. 3300 and ask first for Mr. H. P. Chandler; second, Mr. William Cox; third, Passaic Wharf; fourth, Mr. Martin White. Signed C. J. C. 494-L, Branch Brook.

"Trusting that you will if necessary detail a policeman to keep these detectives from trespassing, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"JAMES M. SEYMOUR, Jr."

BLACK FOR BRYAN SEES VICTORY IN N. J.

SAYS BLIND FOLLY ALONE CAN LOSE STATE TO DEMOCRACY.

Jersey City, Aug. 3.—Charles C. Black, candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket two years ago, came out unreservedly for the nomination of Bryan in 1898 and predicted his election and said that the Democrats would certainly carry New Jersey this coming fall, unless, by their own folly, they throw away the opportunity.

"There has never been such an interesting situation," he said, "either from a broad or from a local standpoint.

"Bryan has been the forerunner of President Roosevelt's popularity and the president, in turn, has created the conditions under which Bryan seems to be the universal choice of the Democracy and also of the independents, who believe in divorcing political management from private and corporate interests. That is the whole situation in a nutshell.

"This contest is going on in all the western states—in the papers, in the hotels, on the railroads and everywhere you talk to people about political matters or hear them discussed.

"Bryan was the father of the legislation demanding that the secret rebates granted by the railroads should be abolished, and that equal transportation facilities should be enforced by law. He demanded that the trusts should be kept within proper limits and subject to the same law that the individual is subject to; that contributions by corporations of great funds to political parties should cease; that corporations should be forbidden, by both federal and state statutory law, from making contributions of any kind to political parties for political purposes.

"This law the last legislature of New Jersey refused to pass. It is now an issue in every western state, as it is here, and the party that in the future refuses to pass this law in New Jersey will lose the confidence of the people, as the Republican party in New Jersey has done.

"The bitter contest that is going on between the two Republican factions in this state is bound to rend them asunder, so that they cannot hope to get together, and if the Democracy takes advantage of its opportunity by putting forward men who are not controlled by sinister influences and who are sincere and have the confidence of the people, the Democrats will win in this state this fall without a doubt.

"The opportunity confronting the Democrats of New Jersey is greater than they have had in 12 years.

"I earnestly hope that the Democrats of New Jersey will rise to a thorough appreciation of the opportunity which lies at their door. Nothing but their own folly and indifference can prevent them from remaining power in this state next November."

WON'T ACCEPT BRIDGE.

War Department Demands Wider Spans—Will Cost $75,000.

New Brunswick, Aug. 3.—The War Department has served notice on the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders that it will not accept the Amboy bridge, spanning the Raritan, between Perth and South Amboy, and that the county must build steel spans next to the draw to give a wider space for the flow of water. This change will cost the county at least $75,000, and will necessitate the closing of the bridge to traffic for a time.

The action of the Government comes as a surprise, inasmuch as the War Department approved of the plans for the bridge before the structure was built.

Charles A. Bloomfield, of Metuchen, head of a committee of manufacurers whose plants are along the Raritan and who use the waterway for transporting their goods to New York and other points, appealed to the War Department for a wider space for the flow of water, asserting that the bridge interfered with navigation, and the demand for the steel spans was so persistent that now the War Department has served notice upon the county that they must be built, holding that the bridge as it now stands is unsafe and defective.

THOUSANDS HEAR NORDICA.

Prima Donna Draws a Large Crowd, Including Governor.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 3.—Mme. Lillian Nordica, the prima donna, sang Wednesday evening in the Auditorium before 10,000 auditors. The demand for seats exceeded the supply long before 8 o'clock, and thousands were turned away. Governor Stokes and his military staff came up from the Sea Girt camp for the concert.

Mme. Nordica received an ovation for her opening number, an aria by Wagner. She also sang Strauss' "Serenade," "Angles Ever Bright and Fair," Weil's "Spring Song" and the "Inflammatus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater. In response to encores she sang a Hungarian serenade song and "The Suwanee River." Others who took part in the concert included Julian Walker, the basso; Signor Giuseppe Aldo Randegger, the pianist, and the members of the Festival Chorus and Orchestra, led by Tali Esen Morgan.

the lake shore. Dead fish were found for a distance of three miles on either side.

Jack Hall sprang a new hat band on the colony this afternoon. It is not exactly hot, but it is passably warm; say, 93 degrees, when a good lake breeze blows on it. He said Harry DeMeza got it especially for him in New York. Jack says the band was made for him, but this is doubted by the rest of us. We cannot believe anybody would deliberately make a band like that. It must have been an accident—an accident born of delirium and blind staggers. "A useful feature of the creation is that it draws attention from John's face," said Bert Firstbrook after a hurried glance through smoked glasses.

Bert has been selected as the water-bearer. We are sure he will never bring back too much of the stuff.

DEFIES SHORE POLICE CHIEF.

Atlantic City, Aug. 3.—Open defiance hurled at Chief of Police Maxwell by John Kelly, during a court hearing, in which Olmstedd Burke, a Philadelphian, charged that he had been fleeced of $200 and a $700 diamond ring in a crap game, made a sensation in the police court late Wednesday afternoon. Kelly, with Joshua Kelly, was haled to court as a witness for Samuel MacIlvaine, a Philadelphia saloon-keeper, who was charged with larceny of the ring, and who was held in $500 bail for court.

Alleging that the new chief was "hounding" him and MacIlvaine, Kelly opening charged that the official was according protection to gamblers. "Games are running all over town, and you know it," he declared.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

What Plainfieldres read in the issue of April 9, 1868:

Democratic Ticket—Town clerk, Edward P. Thorn; assessor, Warren Green; collector, John T. Lee; chosen freeholder, David Thickstun; surveyors of highways, James E. Martine, Frazee Lee, Jr.; commissioners of appeal, John Simpson, James M. Dunn, John H. Dunning; justices of the peace, Jacob Manning, John B. Brown; town committee, John H. Evans, Peter Hoagland, Voorhees VanFleet, Martin Dietrich, John G. Voorhees; overseers of the poor, Warren Green, John T. Lee; constable, Firman Campbell; overseers of the roads and pound keepers, District No. 1, Asa Vail; District No. 2, Jerome B. Pack; District No. 3, Cutter Dolbier; District No. 4, Frazee Lee, Jr.; for school trustee, Jacob Kirkner.

By notice issued by the town clerk, the polls will be open from 8 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m.

Out Ticket—The ticket we hoist today, as Democratic nominees for township officers, is one we can with pride and pleasure endorse. It is composed of gentlemen, not only distinguished for personal worth, but each stands eminently qualified for the faithful discharge of assigned public duty. We ask the voters of Plainfield to scan the names thus presented thoroughly, and on Monday next, ratify at the polls, nominations so deserving of suffrage. Vote the Democratic ticket!

—At a meeting of the Democracy of Plainfield, held Saturday evening, April 4, the following resolution was submitted by Mr. Harper, and unanimously adopted and directed to be published in the Constitutionalist: Resolved: That the Democracy of Plainfield, without fear or affection, hereby proclaim it as an inherent right of the taxpayers, that the expenditure of every dollar of the public money should be, by all officials great or small, made known to the people, through authentic, detailed and regularly published statements, and that as Democrats, now assembled for the purpose of nominating a ticket for township officers we pledge our best exertions to inaugurate and maintain a reform so needed and proper.

Read the resolutions passed at the Democratic meeting last Saturday evening. That is the right talk and the true platform. On it every Democratic candidate stands, and if elected, will insist upon giving the taxpayers of Plainfield what they should long since have had—light! LIGHT!! LIGHT!!! Vote the Democratic ticket, and by doing so vote for PUBLIC EXPOSITION.

Honorable James W. Wall delivered his grand address on the Constitution Tuesday evening before a highly respectable audience. We must defer a full review of this matchless effort to another issue.

Winter has returned. Snow and ice have been plainly visible in this region since Saturday, doubtless the effect of heavy snow storms which raged over the Western States that day.

During the "Blow" we had last Thursday afternoon the large building used as a hay press at New Market was unroofed.

Accident—Our respected townsman, Mr. George Vermeule, met with an accident on Saturday morning last, which came very near being a serious one. He was engaged in repairing a house at Greenbrook, when the scaffolding on which he was at work gave way, precipitating him to the ground and injuring him severely. We understand he is getting along as well as can be expected.

A laborer engaged in working at the stone quarry in Washington Valley, met with a serious accident one day last week. He was engaged in hoisting stone from the quarry by means of a derrick, when by some means, the crank flew from his hand and struck him on the shoulder, breaking his shoulder bone.

Mr. John Darsh has reopened the bakery on Second street, formerly kept by A. Warnock. He is an enterprising young man and a good workman. Give him a call.

The delegates of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company and of the Fire Engine Companies of Plainfield met in convention at Gazelle Hall on Monday evening of this week for the purpose of nominating officers, &c., for the Plainfield Fire Department, to be held at Laing's Hall on Monday, April 13, commencing at 2 p. m. Also to nominate Chief and Assistant Chief Engineers. The convention was called to order by Capt. J. F. Hubbard. Col. William P. Baily was elected chairman, and R. F. Case secretary. The following nominations for managers of the Fire Department were made: For President, Elias R. Pope; for Secretary, Alex Titsworth; for Treasurer, Joseph B. Coward; for Directors, J. H. Platt, J. W. Murray. The following nominations for Chief and Assistant Chief Engineers were agreed upon: For Chief Engineer, William P. Baily; for 1st Assistant, W. H. Voorhees; for 2d Assistant, Thomas Royal. The election for engineers will be held in Gazelle Hall on Wednesday evening, May 6, from 6 o'clock until 8 o'clock. The Foremens of respective companies will act as judges of election. J. H. Platt, T. J. Gillies and C. H. Andrews were appointed a committee to have tickets printed and distributed. The following resolutions were passed by unanimous vote: "Resolved, that the thanks of the firemen of Plainfield be, and hereby are, tendered to Chief Engineer John Roselle for the energy, perseverance and zeal which have characterized his administration."

We were shown a letter a few days ago from our friend, John Linbarger, Esq., of San Jose, Ill., in which he makes mention of a shooting party in the vicinity of his place killing 1,060 geese, brant and ducks in three days. How is that "Uncle Bill?" That beats Porter's Pond! We understand that our old friend, Lyman C. Spencer, who went out West on a shooting tour a few weeks since, proposed visiting San Joes. We hope he has got there in time to participate in the sport before the game is gone.

Foundling—On Monday evening, about 8 o'clock, our worthy collector, H. A. H. Martin, found a basket on the sidewalk in front of his house, with a card attached thereto addressed to him. Upon inspection, the basket was found to contain a fine female infant about ten days old, accompanied by three complete baby suits and other paraphernalia appropriate to the nursery. The little one was taken in the house and well cared for, and in the morning was sent to the poor house.

An attempt to rob the house of Mr. R. Radford on Front street, was made about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The robbers were frightened away before they could effect an entrance. It is supposed the object of the would-be robbers was to steal some of "Harold Bros.' Alphabet Blocks," a quantity of which Mr. Radford has for sale.

We happened to be going past the new public school one day last week, and stepped inside to take a look at it. It is a finely built edifice and is a credit to the builders, Mr. Morgan Bird being the contractor. It has four large sized, well ventilated rooms on the first floor, for the pupils, with a cloak room fitted up with umbrella racks, hooks, &c. The second floor is fac simile of the first. On the third floor is a splendid hall for lectures and exhibitions. The room is 62 by 40 feet, and 16 feet ceiling. Proceeding to the cupola on the top of the building, a fine view is obtained of the surrounding town. The woodwork of the building is composed of yellow pine, stout and substantial. The whole structure is heated from furnaces situated in the basement. The contrast from the close, stifling basement of the old school to the large, airy rooms of the new house was striking.

Primrose's Dog Killed.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Aug. 3.—George H. Primrose, a minstrel, is mourning the loss of his famous performing dog, Victor, which had travelled all over the country with him. The dog was run over and killed last night by a trolley car at Fifth avenue and Third street. Victod was an imported white bull and was valued at $1,000. His specialty was chasing black face comedians across the stage and fixing his teeth in their trousers. The teeth never went further than the trousers, as the dog was very careful not to hurt any one. Primrose lives on Chester Hill.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Fay Templeton, the actress, was married at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to William J. Patterson, of Pittsburg, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bernard C. Giles, at Ridley Park, a suburb of Philadelphia. The bride has been a guest of her sister in Ridley Park and Mr. Patterson visited her there. He is a wealthy man, but scracely in the millionaire class. He is president of the Heyl & Patterson Company, manufacturers of conveying and elevating machinery, and is also largely interested in real estate in Pittsburg. He left his apartments in the Fort Pitt Hotel in that city several days ago for the East. The Rev. Francis C. Steinmetz, rector of Christ church, Ridley Park, performed the ceremony.

NEW JERSEY MAY BE HEARD FROM.

State Marksmen Hopeful of Winning National Match at Sea Girt Ranges.

New Jersey will make another determined effort to win the great national team match in the annual shooting tournament of the National Rifle Association, to take place this month on the State ranges at Sea Girt. Ever since the national match was introduced New York State has had a monopoly on it, twice at Sea Girt and once at Fort Riley, Kan. It both matches on the State ranges, New Jersey's experts have made a fine showing, but not equal to that of New York.

The make up of the New Jersey State team has not been definitely decided upon.

The exact personnel of the team will not be announced until some of the preliminary matches have been shot, to enable the committee to get a line of the marksmen's ability. Last year the State team was handicapped by the absence of Howard Gensch, who won the President's match, emblematic of the individual military championship of the United States, and Private Patrick O'Hare, both members of the First regiment.

Whether these men can be prevailed upon to shoot this month is not definitely certain. Lieutenant William A. Tewes, formerly of the First regiment, who won the Wimbledon cup last year, and Major Arthur Rowland, of this city, will probably be on the team again, though the later at one time intimated and practise period consumes too much of his time. Captain Alvin H. Graff, regimental adjutant of the First, may be on the team on this occasion.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

WHY SHE IS A POSER.

The favorite of the modern girl's poses is the athletic pose.

Nine girls out of ten if they followed their natural instinct would rather sit at home no a cool piazza and embroider a handkerchief or read a novel than go trudging off in the broiling sun a racket or golf stick in one hand and an unwilling man dragging at her heels.

But there are opporounities in the lonely loveliness of the golf links or the tennis court, in the wearing of a trig serge skirt and a scarlet sweater, in rolled up shirt sleeves and wind blown hair that to her are like so much stock in trade. And so, at down, she begins a series of poses which only end with the toiling of the midnight bell and the closing of the summer season at the fashionable hotel.

At 10 o'clock comes the pose on the beach. The summer girl does not really bathe. She flutters about the water in $25 worth of French corset, silk bloomers, and open work stockings.

She poses as a siren, and goes jovially through the thousand and one alluring tricks of the ballet girl, fully conscious that when the man in question feels a peculiar pang he will look at her and look at the sea and fancy it is love, instead of realizing that he only wants a luncheon.

And if he proposes—where he sometimes does—she fondly takes him at his word, and never once allows for the fact that he is hungry. But the man who offers his heart and hand to you while you are giddily and none too modestly arrayed for your ocean plunge is not really proposing.

A year, a month, or even an hour later he may regret what he has done and said.

The girl who dresses thus to appeal to the sense of men need feel none too complimented by the attention they paid her and none too sure of the love they offer her.

In other words, a bathing suit proposal should be tucked in your mental belt, like a scalp—and forgotten.

It cannot in any way result seriously; for a man is not accountable when he is under the charm of a physical beauty, and to hold him to account is to take unfair advantage of him.

The after luncheon piazza pose and the after luncheon piazza proposals are alike—a nice, charming, comfortable, coquettish pastime—nothing more.

You would think that after a strenuous morning on the links and in the water the summer girl would be satisfied to take a mild vacation and to give a man a chance to find out how he might miss her; you would fancy she might retire to her room and recuperate for the evening siege.

But not so the modern Diana.

She could not do this without a dozen haunting visions of her favorite enemy sitting in a shaded corner of the piazza with "the man."

And so, regardless of fatigue, regardless of conventionality, regardless of everything, she puts on her next "pose," which may be a kimono or any loose and attractive robe, lets down her still wet hair, and, book or fan in hand, plumps herself picturesquely in th hammock or on the piazza stoop, as watchful for any stray swain who happens to appear as a sentry at the post of duty.

Along comes the after luncheon proposal, whistling merrily as he comes.

It is so easy to make and to receive this piazza proposal, because you never take it seriously, and the man knows you never will take it seriously, and, since no complications can possibly arise, you can get the full enjoyment of the flirtation.

For a proposal made on the hotel porch, after a good luncheon, to a girl in a pink kimono, who is fanning her hair and eating chocolate caramels, is, at the most, a pleasant bit of flirtation, and at the best a good joke.

A man's emotions are not stirred by a hot afternoon sun, a glass of lemonade and the proximity of the hotel gossip.

He just feels lazy and pleasant, and fancies that there is no way of passing the time more agreeably than by telling the nearest pretty girl that he loves her.

Say Lad Robbed Gas Meters.

Augustus Spader, twelve years old, was a prisoner in police court at Elizabeth yesterday charged with wholesale stealing of money out of gas meters. He has been arrested several times before, and was in charge of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, the probation officer, but she was unable to do anything with him. When searched he had $12.25 in his pockets. He was committed to the county jail, and will be sent to the State reformatory.

Plan an "Asbury Park Day."

Asbury Park, Aug. 3.—"Asbury Park Day" in the beach front will be inaugurated Monday, August 13, by the Schubert Glee Club of this city, assisted by Arthur Pryor and his band, a score of soloists and the best of Asbury Park's musical talent. Even with plans not yet fully matured the occasion promises to be one of the red leter events of the summer.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

One afternoon she noticed the two in conversation, and hovered near in time to hear the last of the boatman's words: "Try it jest to show that ye bear no ill-will. I'm right proud of the trick."

"But I'm afraid I don't understand," she heard Winslow say, and the man explained. "The idee is to knock a cup off'n a man's head at 20 paces, and never make a hole in it."

Winslow shrugged his shoulders. "But how about the man?"

"Never tetch 'im! It may take some nerve to stand up agin a loaded rifle, but lots o' men hev done it, and I ain't never sp'iled my man yit. Ye see, it's on the principle of barkin' a squirrel; ye aim at a spot above the critter's head, and the concussion does the business. That's the way with the cup—the shock knocks it off, and there ye are. It's easier 'n fallin' off a log."

He was determined to prove his words, and the test found not witnesses only, but assistants.

"You try first, Pete."

In response to the suggestion, a shock-headed youth came forward frowning—not with anger, but with embarrassment at finding himself the cynosure of all eyes.

The cup was placed upon his head.

"Stand right against the post," Pat commanded. "I'll shoot at the knot above your head, and the cup'll drop off; see if it don't. Now, stand still!"

The silence which followed, was broken only by the click of the captain's rifle. Then a sharp bang, a woman's scream, and the clatter of the cup to the floor.

"Bully for you, Pat," roared one enthusiastic auditor. This the marksman received with a surly: "Wha' did I tell yer?"

The shock-headed youth, a trifle pale, but otherwise none the worse for his experiment, stumbled to a seat. His place was filled by another, anxious to prove his mettle—with the same result. Another and another—the boatsman's aim was ever steady, his eye ever true.

The Spaniard left his place by Lavender's side. "Let me try," he called to Finch.

The girl detained him by a gesture. "It is foolhardy, dangerous."

But he gently shook off her restraining arm. "I am fond of experiments in general, and this one in particular will enlarge my experience." For this man well knew that by his worldly knowledge, wide range and varied exploits, he had won the attention of this simple girl, to whose romantic side it was his plan to appeal.

"You never seem afraid of anything," she said, with direct and honest compliment.

He rewarded her by a glance full of tender import, and took his position at the post.

Winslow had seen the little byplay, and an all unreasoning anger deprived him of his usual sober judgment. In vain he argued within himself that Lavender's anxiety was purely womanish, born of no personal preference. In vain he reflected that her manner was always unduly earnest, with an inclination to the dramatic.

He resented the attitude; he would test her upon the first opportunity.

From the position at the post, all unharmed, Gonzaga descended with a smile of triumph, and walked directly up to Lavender ready for his meed of praise.

"You are brave," she said, extending her hand.

At that moment the marksman beckoned to Winslow. "Well, are you ready for a hand at the game?"

There was a taunting ring in the captain's voice—a thinly veiled contempt as in expectation of a refusal. But Winslow was in no mind to refuse. He knew it to be a risk; a foolhardy exhibition of misplaced heroism. Nevertheless, he went steadily to place.

"Mr. Winslow—Charles, no, no," Lavender begged, but he shook his head firmly and smiled. A chorus of rowdy cheers drowned her remonstrance.

A voice in her ear whispered: "Are you, then, afraid for your friend?" There was a covert sneer in the Spaniard's manner which the girl resented.

"Mr. Winslow is as equal to the absurd test, but as liable to hurt, as those of less sense. The whole business is idiotic; the game surely not worth the candle. I—we can let him take the chances."

"And I? How about my chances?"

But Lavender failed to detect the double meaning in his question, nor did she catch his ardent glance, for her eyes were following the scene on the forward deck.

The man at the rifle waited with his back toward her, directly in front of the post where Winslow stood. And near him—so close that warning shouts urged her back, stood the octoroon.

"Look alive, there!"

"Git out o' the way!" But the woman paid no heed. If she moved at all, it was but to steal nearer the mark.

The cup was placed upon Winslow's head, and Pat Finch raised the rifle. The dark woman, crouching almost in its range, gazed fascinated at the gleaming barrel. Then her glance ran like lightning to the cruel eyes behind it. There was a flash, a report, and the thud of a falling body. Both Winslow and the slave he had redeemed lay prostrate at the foot of the post.

Instantly there was an uproar, and the rush of excited men to the rescue. With a scream of terror, Lavender darted forward, but before she could reach the spot, and to the general amazement, both rose and faced the crowd.

In the silence Winslow stared at the woman beside him. Her olive skin was darker with horror, and she staggered to the post as if for support.

"What's the matter?" demanded Finch, striding forward.

"I can offer no explanation," Winslow returned, calmly, "except that the young woman," he indicated the octoroon, "was overcome and fell against me. Not expecting the weight, I toppled ignominiously," he concluded, with an apologetic smile.

Then, at the captain's urging, he replaced the cup on his head. But the dark woman snatched it away, and threw it out far over the water. "No, no, not again; no, never!" she poured out the words in a torrent of feeling. "The rifle was not aimed true! I saw it, but it was too late. I saw the flash, and then—then I pushed you—out of range. I—I could think of no other way," she concluded, with a burst of sobs.

A hush fell upon the company, sobered by the sudden flapping of the wings of Death.

A voice from the crowd at length broke the spell: "Well, Pat, I reckon ye're glad the wench saved ye from bein' a murderer; but how in h—l come ye to make sech a mistake?"

The man with the rifle paused, then, under brows that met in a sinister bar, he demanded: "How are ye goin' to prove it would a done any hurt? How d'ye know the gun warn't aimed true?"

Sharp and clear rang the answer: "By the bullet in the post. See!" and the octoroon pointed to where, cheated of softer burial, the bit of lead lay firmly imbedded in the wood.

SALOON MEN UNDER BAN OF ODD FELLOWS

GRAND MASTER STOUT WANTS THEM KEPT OUT OF THE ORDER.

Asbury Park, Aug. 3.—Wesley B. Stout, of Asbury Park, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of New Jersey, has just issued an important proclamation to the 26,000 members in the State. The grand master, who believes in living up to the letter of the law, has been informed that certain violations of the grand lodge regulations have taken place and he intends to enforce the law to the letter. Here is Grand Master Stout's declaration:

"I hereby demand that each subordinate lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in the jurisdiction of New Jersey, answer to me, under the seal of the lodge, the following questions:

"1.—Have you initiated into the order since January 1, A. D. 1887, any person or persons without the payment of any initiation fee, or for a less sum than $5, either directly or indirectly by refunding or donating to him or them, or to any person or persons for him or them, any amount of money from the lodge funds?

"2.—Have you issued any receipt for lodge dues since January 1, 1900, which has not been an official certificate?

"3.—Have any of your members, since January 1, 1896, entered the business of saloon-keeper, bartender or professional gambler, and if so are they still in any of such business?

Saloon Men or Gamblers.

"4.—Have you initiated or taken into your lodge since January 1, 1896, any saloon-keeper, bartender of professional gambler, and are they still in any of said business?

"If you have transgressed the law as indicated by the first question you must immediately collect from such initiate or initiates the balance of the initiation fee.

"If you have been disobeying the law as pointed out in the second question, you must forthwith, as far as possible, recall the unauthentic receipts and issue therefor an official certificate.

"If you have violated the law as mentioned in the third or fourth questions you must notify every such offender in writing, that he may have until August 20, 1906, in which to entirely abandon such business or occupation.

"In the mean time some member of your lodge must forthwith file a complaint against every such offender as prescribed by the constitution of subordinates I. O. O. F., of New Jersey, and proceed as therein specified.

Must Expel Them.

"If, by August 20, A. D. 1906, all such offenders in your lodge have not entirely abandoned such business or occupation, you must proceed to expel them from the order.

"If you do not fully understand the law and procedure thereunder on any of the above subjects, make inquiry of me and I will fully advise you.

"While I have such confidence in the loyalty of the members of this jurisdiction and their desire to be obedient to the law of our order, that I fully believe that you will immediately co-operate with me in the enforcement of this mandate and compel due respect and obedience to the constitution and laws of our order—yet as a warning, I am constrained to say that the charter of any lodge failing to comply with these reasonable requirements will be arrested and the lodge suspended."

The effect of the proclamation is awaited with interest by friends of the fraternity. It is known that many of the lodges in New Jersey do not give the official receipt, and that others have admitted men who were engaged in the liquor business at the time of their admission and still continue in the business, while other members have engaged in the selling of liquor since uniting with the fraternity.

No More Chicago Saloons.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The last saloon license that will be issued in Chicago until the city nearly doubles its present population was given out yesterday. The license number is 7,353. Under the Harkin ordinance, which goes into effect today, no more saloons will be permitted in Chicago until the ratio is one saloon for every 500 population. All day the collector's office was thronged with applicants, and 255 licenses were issued, mostly for new saloons, breaking all records. They were all for the period beginning today, and terminating November 1, and the fee in each case amounted to $272.75. The new license rate is $1,000.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Rube" Oldring played third base for the Philadelphia Athletics on Wednesday, securing two hits, one put out, an assist and an error. He is the same erratic "Rube" that played here last year.

E. H. Harriman, the railroad magnate, is a great baseball fan, and has offered a prize to the team at Arden, near Middletown, N. Y., if it succeeds in defeating the teams of the neighboring villages.

It has rained enough this week to entitle the fans to a clear day tomorrow when the Quaker Giants will clash with the Plainfield team. No better attraction has been scheduled for this season. Captain Monroe will use his strongest battery, while "Phil." Smith will be called upon to face the "dusky" braves.

Captain John Payne, of the police ball nine, says that when it is considered that his team had to face Burroughs, the crack Trenton Y. M. C. A. pitcher, it must be admitted that the Plainfielders did mighty well. Burroughs had his own catcher at the receiving end, and Jack says that this combination was hard to beat.

If you want to enjoy a fine ball game go to Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon and see the contest between Plainfield and the Quaker Giants. Monroe will be there to make fun for everybody.

Root for Plainfield tomorrow, and help them win the contest against the great colored combination in the business. The Quaker Giants are coming here to win, but "Phil." Smith can be depended upon to put on the brakes.

Umpire Hank O'Day, rather than pay a $50 fine imposed upon him by President Pulliam, of the National League, has resigned his job. O'Day failed to stop the fight in Pittsburg between McGinnity and Heine Pietz, for which both players were also fined. The umpire claims that the fistic encounter happened so quickly that he did not have time to stop it and says the fine is unjust. This is the first instance in a long time where an official has given up his job under similar circumstances. It will serve to make other umpires more careful in the future.

Despite all reports to the contrary, the Tri-State League, known as the "outlaw organization," is having an unusually successful season and it is predicted that every club will show a substantial balance at the end of the schedule. Every team is comprised of big leaguers who are receiving big salaries and it is claimed that the quality of baseball compares favorably with that in the big leagues.

Manager Frank Burke, of the Elizabethport Stars, is still trying to get a favorable decision from the National Commission regarding the dispute raised by Manager Burnham, of the Newark Eastern League Club. It seems a pity that Burke is made the butt end of a controversy, while the Elizabeth Invaders are allowed to go without any blame attached. It certainly could do Burnham no harm to allow the Stars to play league teams. Newark is too big a city and the patronage received by the Newarks is sufficient to give the club a good profit, but then Burnham has always been known to want the whole pie and more besides.

When Manager Naebeck, of the Elizabeth Invaders, strengthens up his team so that it can get in Plainfield's class the local fans might entertain a proposition to contest for county championship honors. He certainly had nerve to go scouting for it with his present Saturday team, and to think that he expected to have Pfanmiller, of the Jersey City Eastern League Club, twirl for him last Saturday. The leaguer was afraid to appear owing to a recent proclamation by President Pulliam.

Why not schedule a game with Summit or Chatham? Either one of these teams would be a big attraction at Crescent Oval. The fans are still anxious to hear of a date with the Roeblings, of Trenton, in this city.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Bound Brook Cricket Club will play its first home game in connection with the New York Metropolitan League tomorrow afternoon and its opponents will be the King's County Cricket Club, of New York. The game should be an excellent one, as the King's County and Bound Brook teams are close rivals for the pennant. The Bound Brook club is a new organization and would be pleased to hear from any men in Plainfield who are in any way interested in cricket. The grounds are located about five minutes' walk from the Bound Brook station. Tomorrow afternoon's game will start at 3 o'clock. Any further information desired will be given by T. Newberry, secretary, Bound Brook, or Albert Schoolden, captain, West Fourth street and Rock avenue, this city.

TOWN TREASURER IS STILL UNHEARD FROM.

Check for $1,540 He Cashed in New York Has Been Returned to Rutherford Bank.

Nothing has yet been heard from John J. McIntyre, treasurer of Union Township, who disappeared last Friday. A certified check of the town possession for the purpose of paying a bill for legal services to Joseph McCreery, came back to the Rutherford bank yesterday morning. It was cashed by the Park Bank, of New York, and bore McIntyre's indorsement.

The township authorities have been unable to get in communication with McCreery to see if he has obtained the money. The examination of McIntyre's books is still going on. A number of discrepancies have been discovered.

McIntyre is under $1,000 bonds. The town budget was $26,000. Of this about $22,000 is known to have been paid out. Including the $1,540 there could not be a discrepancy of more than $4,000.

McIntyre's parents and brothers still hold to the theory that he has met with foul play.

RED BANK CARNIVAL IS POSTPONED BY RAIN.

Celebration Scheduled for Yesterday Will Not Take Place Until Next Thursday.

Red Bank, Aug. 3.—The Red Bank Carnival Committee held a meeting yesterday morning and decided to postpone the carnival until next Thursday. The rain was coming down in torrents all the morning, making it utterly impossible to carry out the program of the day.

A number of fire companies arrived yesterday morning from different parts of the State, but they took the postponement good-naturedly and signified the intention of taking part in the parade next Thursday.

There will be no change in the schedule of events, which will consist of motor launch race in the morning, firemen's parade and contests in the afternoon and an illuminated boat parade and display of fireworks at night.

Alleged Boy Slayer Caught.

Trenton, Aug. 3.—Thomas Barber, fifteen years old, who is accused of having killed Hugo Banznar, a companion of about the same age, in a quarrel last night, was arrested this morning when accompanying his sister to their home, he having remained in hiding until after daybreak. He said Hugo had provoked the quarrel. Hugo's brother, Joseph, thirteen years old, was arrested two years ago for killing John Goldenbaum, also thirteen. They quarrelled and Joseph hit the other boy with a board in which there was a nail, puncturing his head. It was shown that young Banznar had been teased to desperation by Goldenbaum and he was released.

50 YRS. OF SINGLE LIFE

David J. Carney is Celebrating His Golden Bachelorhood Anniversary.

HE DODGES CUPID

Jovial Dave, a Veteran Politician and a Veteran Good Fellow Has Now Reached the Half-Century Mark in Life.

David J. Carney, veteran political campaigner, veteran newspaper worker, and veteran good fellow, is celebrating his semi-centennial today. He acknowledges the fifty years without a blush, and even evinces some pride. He is observing the anniversary at Morris Cove, Conn., as the guest of friends who have a cottage there. He will carry the celebration on for several days.

"A man is fifty years old only once in his life," says Dave, "and the chances that he will live to celebrate his centennial are very few."

He calls the occasion his golden wedding, but this is a Carney jest. He has never wedded, and, as far as his friends can discover, has never been tempted to wed. He is proud of his immunity, and begins his second half-century with a bold blast of defiance to wily woman.

David would be a good match for a glass. He is sunny tempered, has just enough of the gay dog about him to interest the women, and is well provided with that which makes the mare go.

Dave's full name is David James Carney, and he got hold of it in North Plainfield. He started to thrive on borough air on August 4, 1856, when it wasn't the borough—when it was plain backwoods. The house where he was born still stands at the corner of Pearl and Warren streets. There was no North Plainfield at all then. All that territory now embraced by the borough and the township of North Plainfield was in Warren township. It was a farming community, with only a few houses. At the age of thirteen years he went into the office of the Constitutionalist and learned the printer's trade. He was connected with the Somerset Messenger under Rutsen Schenck, with the Somerset Unionist when Daniel Porter owned that paper and with the Somerset Gazette when that paper absorbed the Unionist and became the Somerset Unionist-Gazette, with A. V. D. Honeyman as editor. When Grover Cleveland was elected President Mr. Carney went to Washington and had a responsible position on the Congressional Record. After the defeat of Cleveland he accepted a position with W. J. Leonard, then editor of the Central New Jersey Times, and assumed the inside management of that paper.

During all this period, covering many years, Mr. Carney took an active interest in New Jersey politics. The State was Democratic and Carney was a favorite with many of the old-time leaders. He was present at nearly ever convention held in Central New Jersey during those days. His reminiscences would make spicy reading.

He is now sole owner of the Monarch Printing Company at No. 134 North avenue. A few of his friends wanted to tender a dinner to him here Saturday night, but he had to decline, having promised to go to Morris Cove.

HYMEN RULES WHERE CITY FATHERS HOLD SWAY

MISS ANNA FARLEY AND STEPHEN KENNETT WED IN COUNCIL CHAMBER.

Cupid and Hymen held sway this morning where the grave and dignified city fathers are wont to conduct their prosaic deliberations. Romance displaced the atmosphere of city bills and contract cases in the council chamber, when Justice Hezekiah Hand married Miss Anna Farley, of Terrill road, and Stephen Kennett.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock, with District Court Clerk Horace Adams and Deputy Sheriff Peter V. Weaver as witnesses. The old-fashioned ring ceremony was used. It was a marriage with an atmosphere of the law all about it. The council chamber is not only the District Court room, but Justice Hand is sergeant at arms of the court, and Deputy Sheriff Weaver has been a court constable for years.

The bride is the daughter of the late Anthony Farley, of Terrill road, who lived for 70 years in one house. Judge Hand was a life-long friend of the old man. The groom is well known among machinists as an old employee at the Potter shop. He has been with the press manufacturers for twenty years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennett will live at 433 West Fourth street.

Young Woman Attempts Suicide.

Because of unrequited love which, it is alleged, made her despondent, Miss Elizabeth Horn, twenty-two years old, tried to kill herself yesterday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Rummer, on Norwood terrace, Elizabeth, by inhaling illuminating gas in her bedroom. She was unconscious when discovered, and was removed to the Elizabeth Hospital, where the physicians hope to save her life. It is said her sweetheart deserted her and has left the city. The girl's father lives in Germany. Her mother is dead.

Jerseyland No More.

The finish of Galvin's Park, or Jerseyland, as it is known this year, will occur this afternoon, when under the direction of the Elizabeth District Court it will be sold to satisfy a mortgage of $170 held by the Westfield Trust Company. Under the new name and new management the pleasure resort has not been a success and it is even doubted whether a sufficient amount will be realized at the sale to take care of the mortgage.

Lang's Capturer Gets Reward.

New Brunswick, Aug. 4.—The Board of Freeholders yesterday passed a resolution for the payment of the $500 reward for the capture and conviction of Fred Lang, the murderer of Katie Gordon, his niece, to Joseph Lengel, who got the man in this city. Lang was convicted about three months after the crime, so that the limit of three months had almost expired which had been placed upon the reward by the Freeholders.

Many Pensions Certified.

Borough pension drawers came to George F. Brown's office on Somerset street today to get their pensions certified to forward to the Washington pension office. Some fifty pension holders come to the office during the day. In this city, V. W. Nash's office on Park avenue was the headquarters for the certification of pensions and many were O. K. during the day.

Dished Wheel in Trolley Tracks.

A heavily loaded wagon belonging to B. S. Dayton, the Somerset street produce man, got a wheel dished in the trolley tracks on Somerset street this morning and dumped its load in the street. The wheel came off and the trolleys were blocked until the feed bags could be transferred and the wrecked wagon removed.

Upset In Notch.

George Johnston, of Scotch Plains, well known in this city, is laid up as the result of a carriage spill on the Notch, Thursday. He and George Stevens were on their way to Warrenville, when a short turn upset the rig and threw both men out. Stevens escaped injury, but Johnston was badly bruised and shaken.

TRUST COMPANY MOVES

Youngest Banking Concern Takes Possession of Its Handsome New Home.

A THING OF BEAUTY

Limestone Structure An Architectual Masterpiece—Luxurious Furnishings Throughout Stately Building.

After waiting a year for its completion the Plainfield Trust Company is taking possession of its handsome new building on Park avenue, today. The company will use the structure exclusively for its business. It was designed only for banking; and the banking of the Plainfield Trust Company.

The structure is one of the finest bank buildings in the State. It is constructed of Indiana limestone; the fixtures are of marble and copper, and the furniture of mahogany. The ceiling in the main banking room is forty-five feet from the floor and is studded with electric lights; the rear is spanned by a mezzanine floor. The first story is to be devoted to the safe deposit department and officers' rooms, while the floor above will be devoted to a directors room.

In the arrangement of the banking room, the comfort and convenience of the many women patrons of the company have been carefully considered. To the right upon entering is a room for their exclusive use. This has a highly polished hard wood floor and handsome furniture; from this room a window opens directly into the tellers' department. Just beyond the women's room is the paying teller's department, which has two windows opening into the public space. Next to this is the receiving teller's department, which also has two windows opening to the public space. Just beyond the teller's cage is the bookkeeper's department, and beyond that the check desk. The space back of the departments mentioned will be used by the mail and filing departments. Just in front of the mezzanine floor a door leads from the public space to the room occupied by the officers. Adjoining this room is a consultation room where business of a confidential nature may be transacted.

To the safe deposit department the company is devoting special attention, having provided exceptional facilities for the use of its patrons. The vault, which is of the most modern construction, has a capacity of a thousand safe deposit boxes of various sizes. Adjoining the vault are coupon rooms, four in number for use in cutting coupons or examining papers. Back of these is an executors' or committee room, for the use of the executors of an estate or a committee who may wish to examine the contents of their safe deposit box jointly. The ascent of a flight of stairs brings one to the mezanine floor, which will be used as a meeting room for the directors.

In the basement a steel lined storage vault has been constructed for the safeguarding of silver and other valuables in bulk. Here are also located the clerk's lockers, as well as the heating and ventilating systems, which are modern in every respect.

During the past four years the company's increase of business has been almost phenomenal. Starting in June, 1902, deposits have increased at the rate of $500,000 a year until now they amount to $2,000,000, while the number of their depositors is, it is understood, thirty-five hundred.

The Trust Company has paid to its depositors during the past four years more than one hundred thousand dollars in interest and has indirectly been the cause of distributing a much larger sum, so that as a result of its being, the people of Plainfield have been the recipients of interest on their deposits that they would not otherwise have received.

Entertained Friends.

The Misses Clara and Florence Kanen, of West Sixth street, entertained a party of friends at their home, on Thursday evening. Those present were the Misses Cornelia Lounsbury, Elsie Knowlton, Bertha Jones, Ethel Rogers and Mary Mortimer, Herbert Smith, Milton St. John, Albert Hardcastle, Morris Hunter, Donald Mortimer, Orlando Lounsbury and Fred Kanen.

Central Vets To Meet.

The New Jersey Central Veteran Employes' Association, of which there are several Plainfield members, will hold its annual meeting and reunion at Lake Hopatcong on Saturday, September 8. It is expected that many of the company officials will attend. A special train will be run from Jersey City to the lake.

—Letter-carrier John Hines will take his vacation the latter part of August. He will probably go to Atlantic City.

ROUTINE BUSINESS IN BOROUGH COUNCIL

FOUR COUNCILMEN OUT—TWO FIREMEN RESIGN—BUILDING PLANS.

Routine business was transacted by the borough council at the regular meeting held in the council chamber last evening. Only four councilmen were out to the meeting—Messrs. Lee, Smith, VanArdsale and Krewson, and in the absence of Mayor Smalley, President Lee, of the council, took the chair. The committee on consolidation, consisting of Councilmen Lee, Smith and Krewson, presented a report on the question, which is published in full in another column.

The monthly report of Borough Treasurer George F. Brown showed $4,114.13 received from taxes and police fines and a balance of $1,327.77 and a batch of claims against the borough, amounting to $1,319.16, was referred to the finance committee for settlement. The resignation of Fireman Walter Emmons from Hose Co. No. 1 was tendered and accepted. It was reported that Fireman Spencer Scribner had moved from the borough limits and therefore resigned from the fire department.

Plans for the remodeling of his saloon and the addition of bottling works were presented by Henry Haurand. The building, at Somerset and Chatham street, is to be practically rebuilt, and the floor lowered to street level. The new building is to measure 100 by 60 feet with brick front and cement walls. The plans were submitted and referred to the fire committee with power to take action in the matter.

NEW FURNITURE FOR POSTOFFICE ARRIVES.

It Will Be Installed By Time Office Opens For Business On Monday Morning.

The new furniture for the postoffice arrived in Plainfield this morning from New Britain, Conn., and workmen will install it tomorrow so that the improvements will be completed by Monday morning when the office opens for business. The delay in getting the furniture was caused by the fact that all of it had to be made to order. The firm getting the contract promised to have it installed by August 1, but was unable to keep its promise owing to a rush of other work.

The furniture received includes a new section of screen work to piece out the extra space secured by taking the corner store in the Babcock building, and there will be some changes in the windows. The one used for the sale of stamps will be placed alongside the general delivery window, and the carriers' window will be located at the extreme end, next to the Madison avenue side of the office.

There will be twelve large lock boxes, double the size of those now used and these with the old ones will be raised about two feet, making it much easier for persons to get their mail. At present the boxes are close to the floor and it is difficult to stoop down and take the mail out.

In addition to the above there will be a new general delivery case located back of the partition for the quick disposition of mail that is dropped into the office. There will also be a new flat top desk to be used by the money and registry departments, and Postmaster E. H. Bird will also have a new desk, the present one used by him being too small.

Mr. Bird received a letter from the Connecticut firm informing him that two men would be in Plainfield early tomorrow morning to install the furniture. It is necessary that the work be done while the office is closed and for that reason it is hoped that it will be completed by Monday morning.

Now that he has secured the extra needed room and furniture, Mr. Bird is anxious to get several extra letter-carriers so that he can improve the local mail service. His application has been presented to the proper official and he hopes that his request will be granted.

YOUTHFUL BURGLAR GANG.

Five Boys Confesses to Breaking Into West End Cigar Store.

Charged with breaking and entering a store, James Flaherty, Patrick Finnerty, John Dixon and Joseph Miner, all young boys, were arraigned before Mayor Buckle in the city court this morning. The complaint was made by Mrs. Mary Shafer, whose store at 955 South Second street was robbed Thursday night of $2 worth of cigars and candy.

The boys confessed to the Mayor, amid a chorus of sniffs and sobs. His honor gave them a lecture that increased the sobbing, and suspended sentence. They will make good the loss to Mrs. Shafer.

CHARLES E. BROOKS DEAD

Prominent Citizen Succumbs to Heart Trouble After Long Illness.

A HOSPITAL GOVERNOR

For Many Years a Vestryman of Grace Church—Survived by Wife and Two Bright Sons.

Charles E. Brooks died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his home, 147 East Seventh street, following an illness from heart trouble with which he suffered for over a year. Since last spring and until a few weeks ago he was detained at home, but he was occasionally able to take short drives. During the past two weeks he failed rapidly and all hope of recovery was given up.

Mr. Brooks, since coming to Plainfield in 1882, the time of his marriage, has been prominent in the social and charitable activities of th city. He was one of the governors of Muhlenberg Hospital for several years and its secretary for five years. He was deeply interested in the hospital work and gave largely of his time and means towards the advancement of its interests. He was one of the few who could always be depended upon to do his share and more too if necessary not only for the hospital but for all local charities, including the Plainfield Relief Association and the Charity Organized Aid Association.

He was a faithful member of Grace church and was a vestryman until last year, when failing health compelled him to withdraw from all outside interests. He was well known to all the older residents of Plainfield and had a large circle of friends.

Mr. Brooks was born in New York and was a son of the late Micthell C. Brooks, an old-time merchant of that city. He was a member of the class of 1870 in the College of the City of New York. As a young man he passed many years in business and travel abroad, spending much time in Paris and London. During the past eight years he was in the banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, New York.

He is survived by a wife and two sons. Of the latter, Ames Brooks, a graduate of Princeton, has taken up the practice of law in New York, and VanWyck Brooks is a student at Harvard.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence, 147 East Seventh street, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

BOROUGH EXEMPTS NAME CONSOLIDATION COMMITTEES.

Exempt Firemen, No. 1 and No. 2 to Unite in One Association. Joint Committee of Six Chosen.

For the purpose of uniting the two Exempt Firemen's Associations of the borough, each held a meeting last evening and elected a committee of three to manage the consolidation for their company. The joint committee of the six thus elected will meet at borough fire headquarters Monday evening and consider the question of consolidation.

At No. 1 house, Edward Terry, Frank Schuck and John Mowry were elected, and No. 2 company elected Lafayette Rosenstiehl, Patrick McDonough and Walter Kettering. It is probable that no consolidation can be effected until fall, for the associations are awaiting their appropriation from the State to complete the arrangements.

HAD SON ARRESTED.

And Johnson Insists on Prosecuting for Alleged Candy Theft.

"Poppy" Johnson, fourteen years old, was arrested on complaint of his father, who keeps a candy store on Richmond street. The father accused him of stealing a bag of sweets.

Johnson insisted on pressing the complaint. The boy denies the charge, and Captain Irwin, of the Juvenile Court, took over the case to sift it to the bottom. Chief Kiely will summon all the witnesses he can locate.

RECOMMENDS SPECIAL ELECTION ON CONSOLIDATION

But Action on Borough Councilmanic Committee's Report is Deferred Until September.

THE PLAN PRACTICABLE

Report Relates Findings of Joint Committee and Suggests An Election Be Held In December.

Another delay of the consolidation question, so far as North Plainfield is concerned, was occasioned last night by the absence of Mayor Smalley and other members of the Borough Council at the meeting of that body last night. A favorable report was presented by the special committee, but after being accepted it was laid on the table until September, when it is hoped to have a better attendance.

Charles A. Lee, chairman of the consolidation committee, presided in Mayor Smalley's absence, and the only other councilmen present were Edward P. T. Smith, Frank Krewson and M. C. VanArsdale. The municipal merger matter was the chief thing of interest.

The report favors consolidation without change of county lines and declares that the scheme is a feasible one. It recommends that a special election be held for that purpose in December and that in the meantime two citizens be named for membership on a commission on ways and means for consolidating. It is provided that Plainfield will also name two members and that the fifth be a Plainfielder chosen by the four appointed members.

The report follows:

"Your committee, appointed at the request of the Board of Trade, to meet with a similar committee appointed by the City Council of Plainfield and a committee appointed by the Board of Trade to consider the advisability of presenting to the people the question of consolidating Plainfield and North Plainfield without change of county lines, begs to report as follows:

"Your committee met on June 15th last, all the members of the committee being present, and the committees from the Plainfield Council and the Board of Trade being also represented at the meeting. An organization was effected by the election of the Hon. Charles J. Fisk, chairman, and Borough Councilman Lee secretary.

"It was the unanimous sentiment of this joint committee, expressed by resolutions adopted at the meeting referred to, that the people of the City and Borough should be given an opportunity at the ballot to decide whether or not they desire to consolidate the two municipalities under one local government.

"It was also unanimously agreed that the question of consolidation without disturbing county lines should be given a fair trial, and it was unanimously agreed to recommend to the governing bodies of the two municipalities that a special election be held in accordance with Assembly Bill No. 155 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1902, entitled "An act to unite and consolidate the municipal corporations known as the inhabitants of the city of Plainfield in the county of Union and the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield."

"It was the general sentiment at the meeting referred to that this election should be held in the latter part of September of the present year, but your committee has given the matter further and deliberate consideration and in view of the general elections to be held next November, and the campaign preceding such elections, we recommend that the date of this election be fixed at some time in December next instead of September.

"It was further unanimously resolved by the joint committee referred to that a commission be appointed by the governing bodies or elected by the people, such commission to consist of two citizens of Plainfield and two citizens of North Plainfield, and that these four commissioners when so elected or appointed should choose a fifth member, who should be a citizen of Plainfield.

"Your committee therefore recommends that the Mayor and Council of this borough proceed at once to the appointment of two citizens, to serve on this commission, it being thought advisable that these commissioners should formulate a plan of consolidation in advance of the BAND CONCERT POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT.

Crowds Disappointed by Rain Last Night—Same Programme Next Week.

Nearly 400 people turned out to Concert Park last evening to witness the fireworks dhsplay and hear Ben LaVere's band, but the evening's programme was postponed on account of the rainy weather. The same band programme and the display of fireworks will be given next Friday night at the park.

Bandmaster LaVere considers the fireworks he has for this display the best ever offered in Plainfield. He has gone to a big expense and has a large assortment. There are twenty set pieces, one of which is a big American flag, in colored fire. While this is being set off, Billy Redmond, the soloist, is to sing "You're a Grand Old Flag." One of the set pieces is to be a veritable pyrotechnic base runner. It is attached to a wire line and after being ignited, dashes around the grounds by fits and starts, stopping at various posts. It will travel 300 feet, finally setting off a big set piece.

In addition to the two soloists on the programme, Billy Redmond and Jack Drislane, Jack Elliott, who sang "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," will be here and will sing several songs.

PAT IS PAROLED.

Probation Officer Surprised That He Got Rum In Plainfield.

Pat Kearns had a new experience in court this morning. The aged soak, arrested last night on the old charge, was turned over to the probation officer by Mayor Buckle.

Pat was interviewed in his cell an hour later by Capt. Irwin, the probation officer's deputy for Plainfield.

"I wor droonk, but not phwhat you moight carl disoorderly," explained Pat. "I wor droonk, as Oi say, but I thried to get home. Oi wud have got there but Oi fell down. T'wor bad luck and not dhrink that brung me here."

Captain Irwin looked surprised.

"Can you get rum in Plainfield?" he asked. "On my word, I thought the town too clean. Was all this fuss about high license and districting schemes for nothing."

Pat was given another chance, but he will find himself in a lot of trouble if he comes up again. An effort will be made to have him put in a home should he fall into the net again.

ORANGE ELKS TO BUILD.

Purchase Plot and Will Have Fine Clubhouse.

Orange Lodge of Elks has bought property for a clubhouse and steps will be taken to secure plans for a building at an early date. The land purchased is in Cleveland street, 100 feet north of Main street, and is opposite the new High School. It has a frontage of fifty feet in Cleveland street and a depth of 100 feet. The deed was passed yesterday.

The lodge proposes erecting a building which will include a commodious lodgeroom, as well as rooms for various amusements. There will be bowling alleys, billiard room and reading rooms, and it is the wish of the members that nothing shall be omitted to make an up-to-date clubhouse.

Mayor Isaac Shoenthal was chairman of the committee which had the matter of the purchase of a lot in hand, and at the next meeting, an architect will probably be engaged to draw up plans and specifications.

NERVOUS DISEASES LEAD.

Deaths from These Causes Have the Highest Percentage.

Trenton, Aug. 4.—According to a bulletin just issued from the State Board of Health department by Registrar David S. South, of the bureau of vital statistics, for the month of July, diseases of the nervous system have shown a decided increase in New Jersey, and these affections constitute the leading cause of death in the State.

Deaths from diseases of the nervous system numbered 382 for the month. In the population of 2,174,531 in the State there were 2,241 deaths.

The "white plague" claimed more victims than usual, the number of deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs alone being 249. There was a falling off in deaths from infantile diarrhoea, usually very prevalent in July and August. Pneumonia and diseases of the heart and circulatory systems have also shown a high mortality rate for July.

FREE BEER FOR FIVE YEARS.

Breweries Give It in a Fight Over the Price of Ice.

Clarksburg, West Va., Aug. 4.—Beer is being given away here by two brewing companies as a side issue in their fight over the price of ice.

Recently the Clarksburg Brewing Company announced that it would sell ice for 10 cents per 100 pounds. The Reymann Brewing Company of Wheeling, West Va., retaliated by furnishing ice to saloons and other consumers free of charge. This aroused the officers of the Clarksburg brewery, and an announcement was made today that free beer would be given to all consumers of ice.

The Reymann Company retaliated by promising that it would give all consumers free beer for five years.

The free beer is being distributed to all saloons and other consumers. The struggle promises to be a long one, as the companies will not agree to surrender or compromise.

After such evidence has been gathered, the matter will be placed in the hands of the authorities for prosecution.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Of more than usual interest is the coming of "Secrets of the Police" to the New Plainfield next Thursday, because from preceding reports it seems as if the climax of sensational realism has been reached in this, the latest of A. H. Woods' endeavors, and that is the all important thing in melodrama. The action of the play transpires in New York, London, Paris and St. Petersburg, and depicts truthfully such historic places of interest as the Louvee, the Thames river and the snow clad hills of Russia over which many a half starved human being goes his weary way to living death, together with a full dozen others sure to thrill the soul of the most stoic playgoers such as a meeting of the famous "Red Ring," Russia's most notable band of Nihilists, and their attempt to murder the hero, a young American detective, and do away with all clues to the crime by throwing the insensible body into a vat of molten lead. The rescue of a young girl from a sewer of Paris through which the surging current is bearing her out to sea and what seems to be unavoidable destruction. The Black Hole of London, the most dangerous place in the world, and so many more as to make enumeration impossible. The entire production has been made under the personal direction of the management, which alone vouches for its merits.

August 11 will witness at the New Plainfield "A Desperate Chance," a Theodore Kremer melodrama that has been one of the most remarkable successes of the past. The play, spirited in action from beginning to end, is conceded to be suggested by episodes in the lives of the Biddle Brothers. It is a melodrama in the greatest sense and the climaxes are such as excite audiences to the highest tension of heart interest and enthusiasm.

The coming of Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels is announced by the New Plainfield management for August 14. It is reasonable to expect that the New Plainfield will be filled to overflowing to greet this company and its bright particular star, Billy Beard. A larger and stronger combination than ever before has been engaged for this season. In addition to Billy Beard, the assisting comedians number Billy Morris, one of the best portrayers of the Southern old time coon shouters; Burt Stoddard, a singing comedian with original comedy conceits, and William Van, who bids fair to become one of the most popular minstrel comedians on the road. The soloists include Jos. Gomes, tenor, with one of the most wonderful voices ever heard with any minstrel show; Harry Weaver, a ballad singer with a tenor voice of exceptional range. The Musical Courier said, "Weaver is the discovery of the season." As a ballad singer he ranks with Chauncy Olcott and Andrew Mack; Harry Parkerson, a baritone, whom the management secured from one of the Broadway musical successes, and Calvin Huss, a basso, whose marvelous voice has created a sensation in musical circles. Billy Beard's monologue is the feature of the olio which includes Jacobs and Sardel, eccentric talking and singing comedians; Hunt and Van, the greatest novelty musical act on the American stage; the Great Lynch, the European importation from the Nouve Circe, Paris.

Musical comedy is synonymous with fun. Mirth and merriment predominates and it is this unadulterated humor that has given this class of attraction its present vogue. For a night of good, clean, whole-souled fun, that irradiates the soul like sunshine, one has but to attend a performance of B. E. Forrester's merry melodious comedy, "Bankers & Brokers," introducing the comedians Yorke & Adams, which will be at the New Plainfield theatre August 18. Mirth and music blended into a gorgeous ensemble in which pretty girls, jolly comedians and novel specialties predominate. Abounding with bright lines, brisk action, admirably mounted and staged and filled throughout with graceful and catchy music. "Bankers & Brokers" is easily the one irresistible fun frolic of the season.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The Most Patient Plainfield Citizen Must Show Annoyance at Times.

Nothing spoils a good disposition,
Nothing taxes a man's patience,
Like any itchiness of the skin.
Itching Piles almost drive you crazy.
All day it makes you miserable,
All night it keeps you awake.
Itch! Itch! Itch with no relief.
Just the same with Eczema.
Can hardly keep from scratching it.
You would do so, but you know it makes it worse.
Such miseries are daily increasing.
People are learning they can be cured.
Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment.
Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cures Piles, Eczema or any Itchiness of the skin.
Read the testimony of a Plainfield citizen.

Thomas Haskard, of 941 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a member of Co. A., First Regiment, N. J. Vols, under Col. Montgomery. I was out in 3½ years of the Civil War and was wounded once in the leg and once in the neck. During the Rebellion I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on ever since. No one who has not suffered from this trouble knows what the irritation is. I tried about every salve, wash and ointment known in the hope of finding a cure but nothing helped me until I got Doan's Ointment and it took just three boxes to put me in shape so I could rest nights and cure me so that I have been free ever since from any trouble arising from piles."

DON'T WANT RECORD.

Some Colby Leaders In Essex Alarmed Over Popular Attitude.

It was learned Thursday in Newark that some of the Colby leaders have become alarmed over the popular lukewarmness of hostility toward George L. Record's candidacy for the United States Senate, and that plans are now afoot to persuade him to withdraw.

The Essex Assemblymen were never enthusiastic about Mr. Record, and they say that their indorsement of him was given as a personal favor to Senator Colby. Now that they realize the mistake made in selecting Mr. Record as their candidate there is some anxiety as to the best means of retrieving the error committed. Mr. Colby is believed to be still strongly in favor of Mr. Record, and it is possible that he may strenuously oppose any move made to retire his favorite.

In case Mr. Record should be persuaded to get out it is not certain who will be taken up gy the Colby men as a Senatorial candidate. Organization Republicans who heard the rumors Thursday gleefully remarked that the handwriting on the wall was becoming more easily decipherable every day.

The Historic Hudson.

The Hudson River has a renowned reputation in more ways than one. Its business interests are more widely known than any other stream, while for excursions and outings it has no equal. There are sights galore—the palisades—the U. S. Military Academy at West Point—the far famed State Prison at Sing Sing and interesting Newburg. The scenery in every direction is superb, and the steamers which convey the excursionists are commodious and comfortable. On August 9, 1906, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its popular low-rate excursions up the Hudson, the rate for the round trip to be $1.00, children 50 cents, and special train leaving Plainfield at 8:46 a. m., will connect at Jersey City station with famous iron steamer "Sirius" for the trip. Don't forget date or train time. 8 4 td

Lake Excursion.

The beauty spot of New Jersey is Lake Hopatcong and one who visits the place is charmed with the diversified entertainment afforded. The surroundings are delightful in every respect and a day spent in the rarified mountain air of the Jersey foothills will do wonders for the tourist. There are ample facilities for fishing and boating and one who enjoys the rambles in wooded paths and the quietness of the natural pines, to him Lake Hopatcong is the gem of places. On August 5, 1906, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its famous low priced and popular excursions to the Lake. Round trip $1.00, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m.

It is a story of New Jersey and is by Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman, one of the most famous of American novelists. Plainfield In Olden Days

WRITTEN BY L. E. B.

PART 1.

In attempting to write a partial history of Plainfield, the writer does it from information gathered from some old inhabitants who are now living and of whom there are very, very few, also from information gathered from some of the older ones that have passed over to the other side. Most of the writer's information has been gathered from old documents that he has had access to during the years that have passed. From the year 1835 is from my own memary.

Plainfield, as its name implies, lies at the present time in the counties of Union and Somerset, in the State of New Jersey.

We find some traces of history in regard to Plainfield reaching back to the Seventeenth century, before that time Indian wigwams were scattered along the Watchung mountain, and here and there a log house dotted the plain.

At Wetumpka falls at the head of Somerset street, may plainly be seen at this time holes cut in the solid rock, supposed to be mortars where the natives pounded their corn with a pestle, getting it ready for food for Lo, the poor Indian.

At the foot of the mountains not far from Plainfield, resides (at this time) a farmer who has in his possession very many arrow heads he picked up when plowing in his fields. This plainly goes to show that the Indians were once numerous in this neighborhood.

Plainfield is its appropriate name. It is located upon a plain, extending some three miles in width, and about 8 or 10 miles in length, and is bounded as follows: On the east at a little distance by the thriving village of Scotch Plains, on the west by the historic town of Bound Brook, on the south a few miles away lies the thriving and enterprising towns of Rahway and New Brunswick, while on the north rises the beautiful Watchung mountain, beautiful to behold when clothed in its liveliness with the verdant growth of the good old summer time, with the beautiful and sparkling Stony brook streaming down through the rocky gorge meandering on toward the Raritan river.

On one of the highest peaks of Watchung mountain in all its ancient grandeur stands the famous rock bearing the name of our illustrious Washington, where he once stood surveying with fatherly solicitude the movements of the hostile armies of the Revolution.

There is running through the centre of our beautiful city, the cooling and refreshing waters of Green brook, while upon the southern border runs the sparkling stream known as Cedar brook flowing hard by the residence of the farmer orator and our genial fellow townsman, James E. Martine.

About the year 1700 the first frame dwelling was erected in Plainfield. It was located on West Front street on the ground now occupied by Gavett's crockery store. Part of the old building was standing only a few years ago.

Very little improvement was made during the one hundred years that followed. For many years after the first settlement, the people had no house of worship. In the year 1788 the society of Friends erected their first place of worship in Plainfield. It was built comparatively in the woods, trees were cut down to make room for the building. The same trees were hewn and used in the construction of the meeting house which still stands on Watchung avenue, as the first public monument to the living God.

At the commencement of 1800, so far as we have been able to ascertain, there were only twenty houses in the village and about 160 inhabitants. Twenty-five years later there were about seventy dwellings and the inhabitants numbered about 450 persons.

In the year 1835 there were about 140 dwellings and about 1,000 inhabitants.

In the year 1818 the first Baptist church was built.

In the year 1825 the first Presbyterian church was organized with eighteen members. The cornerstone of the old church was laid on the 10th day of July in the same year; the first communion service was held in the shade of the overhanging branches of some large trees in the rear of the church near the mill pond.

In 1830 the society of Friends, Hicksite, was divided, and the orthodox built another house of worship. It was built of wood, but is now a brick structure and is located on East Front street near Washington.

In 1832 the First Methodist Episcopal church was built. The old church was afterward removed and remodeled and used as a public hall for many years. The old site is now occupied by a beautiful brick structure. It was remodelled and enlarged several times and is now one of the finest churches in the city. The present church was first built in 1848.

In the year 1838 the Seventh Day Baptist church was organized. The first church was built in the year 1839.

The first bank located in Plainfield was established in 1843 and was called the Plainfield Bank. It was started by Moses Y. Beach, the proprietor at that time of the New York Sun. (This same bank conducted a bank in Allentown, Pa., at the same time.) The Plainfield Bank was operated by his brother, Abraham Beach, as cashier, with the assistance of Plainfield residents, Zachariah Webster as president and Robert Anderson assistant. It was located on East Front street and was in operation about three years. The "notes" payable at this bank were often called "Beech Leaves."

The first institution of learning of any account built in Plainfield was located on the same spot of ground that is now occupied by the Leal school on West Front street, and was called the Plainfield Academy. It was a two-story building with a cupola on the west end, in which hung a small bell. The building, or at least the upper story, was burned off in the year 1834. The bell was rescued and presented to the citizens of Quibbletown (now New Market), and was placed on an academy built similar to the Plainfield (which was also burned a few years ago).

After the burning of the Plainfield academy the lower story was moved across the street, built over and converted into a store, but afterward used as a dwelling. At the present time it stands as two small stores and a dwelling combined.

About the year 1830 a corporation was formed to build an institution of learning in the village. Meetings were held, plans were formed and everything seemed to move along very harmoniously until it came to the selection of the site for the building. On that point the committee split. Some wanted it up town and some wanted it down town. The dispute was the cause of the town's being divided. East Front street, (from Reuben Ayres lane, now Park avenue), was called Plainfield, and the settlement along West Front street was dubbed "Pinchgut."

The writer remembers several interesting customs that were in vogue during his early career as a Plainfielder.

First, for instance, there is a person living in this city at this time, that during his infant days was rocked to sleep by water power. Any person wanting further information can get it by applying at the Daily Press office.

I will continue my topic of the town division. The young men and boys of the town took sides with their fathers and if the Plainfield and Pinchgut boys should meet across the line of division there was sure to be a rumpus.

On account of the division of the building committee of the before named seminary there were two seminaries built, one in the year 1833 and is now standing on East Front street, the property of the Cornelius Boice estate. It was named the Green Brook Family School, the preceptor for many years was Ezra Fairchild.

The second institution was built in the year 1834 and was located on ground now occupied by L. L. Manning and Son on West Front street. It was named The Plainfield Classical Institute, with Preceptor "Daddy" Wood. The schools were opened before the railroad entered Plainfield and the scholars were conveyed to the town at that time mostly by private conveyance.

Between the fur mill at Scotch Plains and Sebring Mills there was in the year 1835 but one bridge that spaned Green brook, that was on Mountain road, or Somerset street, as it is now called. It was a two arched stone bridge built in the year 1818. At this writing there are no less than twenty-three bridges spanning this same stream.

BLUE LAWS WILL BE PARTIALLY ENFORCED.

Police Orders Grocers, Butchers and Other Tradesmen to Close Sunday at 10 A. M.

Elizabeth, Aug. 4.—An attempt to partially enforce the old blue laws will be made in this city tomorrow. Chief of Police Tenney, acting under instructions from Mayor Samuel J. Berry, sent detectives around yesterday afternoon to notify all grocers, butchers, vegetable dealers, milkmen, shoe dealers and men's furnishing goods dealers that they must close up their stores next Sunday at 10 a. m. and remain closed all day.

Ice cream saloons, candy shops and cigar stores will, for the present, be permitted to do business, but must keep their front doors shut and the shades on their windows pulled all the way down, so that to outward appearances the places look to be tightly closed. Drug stores will not be interfered with nor will the newspaper stands. The latter, as a rule, close at 10 a. m.

Restaurants are also exempt from the Sunday closing law order and will be permitted to do business with shades down and doors closed. The order has created consternation in the Hebrew, Polish and Italian quarters of the city where stores are opened most of Sunday and do business just the same as any other day.

Albert Steiner, of The Plainfield Trust Company, has returned from his annual vacation.

Plainfield, N. J., August 4, 1906.

Promises made by candidates for office are generally of the pie-crust variety and the public has grown accustomed to their being broken as soon as the successful aspirant lands in office. "Things are different now" is the way a politician put it when he clinched his job and that about sums it up with the majority of office-holders.

Over in Pennsylvania, Judge Green, who wants to occupy the bench in the Clinton-Cameron-Elk district, has made a pledge of a binding kind and if he lives up to it the citizens in that section are going to have a model judge. This is his platform, as declared by himself:

"During the time that it is my privilege any my honor to preside over the courts of this district I shall not in any manner or in any way or particular try to be a Republican, Democrat or to be a partisan Judge in any sense of the word. I shall appear on the bench of this judicial district so long as it is my privilege to serve without any affiliation of any interest or person whatever. It will be my purpose, to the best of my ability, to treat every person, be he rich or poor, or to whatever political party he may belong, without fear or favor."

The best "new idea" that has been sprung lately is that which limits campaign contributions to one dollar per head. The Republican National chairman claims to have put the scheme into practise but a Plainfield office-holder was the original dollar man, that being the amount of his contribution for several years past.

One who wishes the name withheld has sent $25 to The Daily Press for the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the Mountain. The sum has been transmitted to the camp treasurer and the thanks of The Daily Press are extended to the contributor.

As her third matrimonial partner, Fay Templeton takes "a Pittsburgh millionaire," but it is to be hoped for the sake of the fair comedienne that he will prove an exception to the rule of the Smoky City.

CIGARETTES AND SOLDIERS.

Cause Which Disqualifies Southern Young Men from Army.

New Orleans, Aug. 4.—That an alarming percentage of the young men of the cities of the South are physically unfit to enter the army, owing to cigarette smoking, late hours and other bad habits, is the statement of Lieutenant W. E. Bennett, Jr., in charge of the local recruiting office. Lieutenant Bennett says that out of a total of 106 applicants during July only twenty-nine men were accepted. Out of the same number of applicants in any of the new States west of the Mississippi River, or in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, the number of enlistments would have been as high as sixty or eighty, cause which disqualifies men in Cigarette smoking is the principal Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep sloop the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 12, 1906. Return trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. 8 4 7

LIFE AT LAKE HOPATCONG

Sunshine Invades Camp Colby and Plainfield Crowd Is Merry.

CUTTING'S NEW ROLE

Jack Hall Leaves For Home—Jack Cose Loses His Coat Again —A Day's Doings.

Camp Colby, Aug. 4.—With the coming of the sun our spirits have brightened and gayer times are bubbling about us. What we have it in mind to do will make us talked about for a month after we leave.

Elmer Cutting has prepared to launch out as a social favorite. He is training a lovely little curl over his right eye, that gives him a roguish expression. Cutt says he is a terrible fellow among the ladies, when in form, and he feels very fit just now. He has challenged Judge Runyon to a lady-killing match, only clean heartbreaks to count. There are no conditions. Mush and all the other tricks of the game are to be allowed.

A moving incident occurred this morning. John Cose couldn't find his coat when he got up, and a two-hours hunt was necessary before he located it under a log, where Bert Firstbrook had hidden it. John clasped the recovered coat to his breast, and sank down on the log. The tears started to his eyes, and his broad shoulders shook as his sobs blew out and spoiled the fragrant air.

We rushed to John's side. Bert was overcome with remorse and apologized earnestly for the little joke.

"I never would have done it if I'd known you would take it so hard, John," he said penitently. "Cheer up. If it will make you feel any better take my coat and throw it in the lake."

John looked up, and a wan smile stumbled through his features.

"It wasn't that, fellows," he said. "I ain't mad. It was tender memories that overcame me. It was so like home."

We left him with his beautiful grief.

Phil Jahn has discovered a buxom German lass who came from the Prussian town where he went through a technical school. He took me along with him this morning to call on her. He said she was a beauty of a type very rare in Germany, and that she had a wonderful mind. I could see right off that she had been handing a lovely bunch of jolly to the Kaiser. I suppose josh sounds the same in German as in English, maybe more so. When we met up with the girl I could see that she had Phil tangled all right.

The first thing she did was to peek out from under her hat brim, and with a most languishing air, a mix-up of the alphabet horridly.

Phil liked the mix-up. He swelled up, bowed, and handed back a rugged mass of syllables that should have wrecked the girl's constitution. But it didn't. She seemed to thrive on it. She blushed, and coquetted, and said—oh, never mind what she said. It would only hurt your eyes, and make you mad to think that foolishness could look so tough.

I left the two of them talking like twin stone crushers. Phil came back into camp four hours later. He asked me for a dollar until he could get some money from home. I knew he went out with a roll, and asked him what he had been up against.

"Up against nothing," he said. "I gave Miss H—— $50 for a poor old woman she knows in Schnitzelhamnerstein-on-the-Rhine."

Now what do you think of that? I am going to teach my girl German and set her up in the get-rich-quick business.

Yours as of old,
J. P. H.

Camp Colby, Lake Hopatcong, Aug. 4.—For the first time since the members of the camp pitched their tents on the shores of the lake, the glorious sun made its appearance this morning to the delight of all the boys. Plans are now being made for a good time during the rest of the stay providing the weather remains favorable. A number of visitors, including "Bob" Fitzsimmons, William Counihan, Sam Cunningham and "Pete" Feiring, are expected at the camp tomorrow.

Judge Runyon and John Cose were entertained at "Camp Phi Sigma" last night by several members of that fraternity who are staying at the lake, while the rest of the Plainfielders spent a pleasant evening with the members of the New Brunswick Boat Club, who have also established a camp here.

Elmer D. Cutting and B. Collins Firstbrook have been deputized to catch the fish for the campers and the latter now holds the record for the greatest number of fish caught. Jack Hall and George Cose have been the campers' representatives in local society and they have made a decided hit in the role. All are regretting the departure of Jack Hall, who leaves for home today. He certainly will be missed at meal times.

Notwithstanding the bad weather which has been with the campers all the week everyone is hopeful that the remaining days at the lake will be filled with sunshine.

RECOMMENDS ELECTION

general election proposed so that when the question is brought before the people they may know as nearly as can be ascertained on what lines it is proposed to unite the two municipalities.

"It was further resolved by the joint committee referred to that all the acts of this commission should be subject to the control of the governing bodies of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

"In conclusion your committee desires to say that the proposition now before us differs from any heretofore made on this subject. In the first place, it is proposed that no disturbance should be made of county lines. The annexation election held about four years ago was based upon changing county lines, hence it cannot be said that those who voted against and succeeded in defeating the proposition expressed themselves at that time upon the present question. Futhermore your committee believes that conditions have changed, that certain sections of the borough at the present time are very much in need of sewers and that the Plainfield system has now been improved and developed to a point where it inspires confidence, so that it may be thought by certain of our citizens that the surest, quickest and cheapest way to sewer the thickly settled portions of the borough is to unite with Plainfield. In any case it seems to your committee fair that the people should have a chance to express their convictions on this subject by ballot.

"Your committee has also looked into the question of municipal consolidation in two or more counties and has found that in New York, London and elsewhere such a consolidation does exist and is practicable. This being an accomplished fact elsewhere it seems fair that we as the governing body should give the people of the borough a chance to say whether or not they wish to try it here."

THE FORUM.

Mr. Swackhamer Explains.

Editor The Daily Press:

In your issue yesterday, I notice an account of the case of William Uhrhahn against Mary Wyckoff, headed, "William Uhrhahn gets legal limit of damage in cow trespass case," and in the article it is stated that "In summing up the case to the jury, I appealed to the members on the grounds that Mrs. Wyckoff was unable to settle damages, that she was powerless to prevent."

Permit me to say that six cents damage is not the legal limit for trespass suits and that any lawyer who will so expound the law is either ignorant on the subject or wishes to create a false impression. The limit of damages in such cases is any sum which can be proved before the justice and jury up to the limit of two hundred dollars. The damage claimed in this case was twenty-five dollars. The plaintiff swore that five dollars' worth of cabbage and twenty dollars' worth of sweet corn had been destroyed by defendant's cow. He produced a witness who also stated that the damage actually done to the cabbage and corn was not less than twenty-five dollars. It was proved by defendant that a cow and horse belonging to other persons had been in the plaintiff's corn.

Instead of "Appealing to the members of the jury on the grounds that Mrs. Wyckoff was unable to settle damages, that she was powerless to prevent," I argued that other cattle were shown to have trespassed as well as her's; that no substantial damage caused by her cow had been proved, and I read a Supreme Court decision to the jury which decided that, "Each owner is liable for the damage done by his own animal and not for that which is done by the animals which do not belong to him." Counsel for plaintiff, in summing up asked for substantial damages, and referred to the evidence of loss which has been sustained by his client, but the jury evidently concluded that it was not proved and rendered a verdict accordingly.

Yours very respectfully,
S. S. SWACKHAMER.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

If J. Pluvius, Esq., of the Rain Trust, can turn it off for nine innings worth of baseball this afternoon, and if Uncle Sol will turn out to see the game, the Dunellen nine will make a trip to Cranford for a little baseball today. The local boys go down the line with their regular team, for the majority of the players are back in uniform again, after vacation. The Cranfordites are going to be a harder proposition than the Bayonne aggregation of last week, fans think, and the boys will have to struggle a few to tie up the eagle of victory. Every cloud has silver lining, though, they say, and Campbell, the local slab artist, has been practicing the spit ball among the mud puddles till he has it down to perfection. Great spit ball weather, this, those that know say.

Rev. E. C. Dutcher will be in charge of the services at the Methodist church tomorrow. Rev. Charles Shaw, of Port Richmond, Staten Island, who was to have preached, will be unable to come, so Mr. Dutcher will come up from Ocean Grove, where he is spending his vacation, to conduct the day's services.

The work of remodeling the postoffice is now underway and being pushed rapidly. Louis Titsworth and Ferdinand Titsworth are at work moving back the postoffice box partition ten feet, an improvement which will make lots of room in the front office. New flooring is to be laid also.

New Market dealers are now up against an ice famine. The season's supply is almost all gone at this early date in the summer. George T. Schenck is doling out his last tons and will have to send out of town to meet the demand of his customers next week.

Lehigh Valley Railroad officials are adjusting the lid securely, and no intoxicants are to be allowed at Bellewood Park this season. The railroad has refused to furnish transportation to excursions where liquor is to form a part of the luncheons.

On account of the failing health of Dr. Thomas H. Platt, he has gone to Paris, Maine, to recuperate for the summer and fall months. He left yesterday, accompanied by his wife and daughter. He will return to town about November 1.

Rev. Arthur B. Herr, of Halstead, Pa., will be in charge of the services at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow in the absence of Rev. W. W. Casselberry, who is on his annual vacation.

The Farther Lights Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold a regular meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton, of New Market.

Mrs. Emma L. Baldwin and daughter, Miss Mary Baldwin, left today to spend Sunday in Elizabeth as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Welsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Brown, of Philadelphia, are this week's guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sweeney.

Miss Mabel Cole has secured a position as stenographer at the Plainfield office of the telephone company.

Mrs. George Agar is spending several days with her parents at Cherry Hill.

Miss Edna McLoughlin, of Lebanon, is the guest of Mrs. Sarah C. Fisher.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Services will be held as usual in the South Plainfield Baptist church on Sunday, Rev. C. W. F. Attlee officiating. Morning subject, "Trumpets and Trumpeters." Evening subject, "An Unveiled Gospel." Christian Endeavor before the evening service. The pastor and Mrs. Attlee will be home to their friends and members of the congregation every Thursday from 2 until 5 o'clock.

Don't fail to see the game of ball today at Crescent Oval—3:30 sharp—between the heavy hitting Quaker Giants, of Philadelphia, the highest paid colored team on the road, and the champions of Union county. A lively time is anticipated. "Phil." Smith, the favorite slab artist, will pitch for Plainfield.

Today is pension day and those in this vicinity who are entitled to pensions need not journey to Plainfield or Metuchen but can have their papers witnessed and signed by "Justice of the Peace William E. Smith."

A gang is now at work on the filtration plant and is making rapid strides toward completion.

Charles Armstrong, of Brooklyn, spent yesterday fishing in Spring Lake.

Lightning struck a large tree on the premises of W. E. Smith.

Miss Vermeule is visiting her cousin, Joel Manning.

Mrs. Isaac Pangborn, of Sycamore avenue, has been spending her vacation at Mt. Pocono.

Mr. Weston and family, of Sycamore avenue, have been stopping for a time at Asbury Park.

Miss Edith Murphy, of this city, has returned from a visit with relatives at New Germantown.

Miss Eleanor B. Williams, of West Seventh street, has gone to Oyster Bay for a week's visit.

Charles E. Rocap and family, of West Front street, are spending the month at Squirrel Island, Maine.

Miss Sadie Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howell, of Mercer avenue, is taking her summer outing with friends at Mouse Island, Maine.

Mrs. De Long and her family, accompanied by her niece, Miss Wolton, who have spent the winter in New York, have returned to their country home near New Market.

Captain Stivers and his daughter, Miss Stivers, have returned to their home in Dayton, Ohio, after a visit at the home of Captain Stivers' son-in-law, Frederick Harrington, of Rockview Terrace.

Society notes from Lenox, Mass., announce that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Runkle, of this place, who have been stopping for several weeks at the Aspinwall hotel, have gone to their bungalow in the Adirondacks.

Voters Indorse Lynching.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 4.—In yesterday's election Captain J. F. Shipp was re-elected sheriff of Hamilton county by the largest majority ever received by any Democrat. On account of the recent lynching of Ed Johnson and the citation of the sheriff to appear before the Supreme Court of the United States to show cause why he should not be declared in contempt of that court, the race has taken unusual interest. Quite a number of negroes voted for Captain Shipp.

Orders Bridge Closed.

Perth Amboy, Aug. 4.—The War Department has condemned the new Amboy bridge, deeming it unsafe, and demands that new steel spans be placed in the structure. The bridge will have to be closed. This action results from the persistent efforts of Charles A. Bloomfield, of Metuchen, to have the bridge conform to the original specifications and be made thoroughly safe.

Orders Screens Down.

New Brunswick, Aug. 4.—The United States Express Company has notified the managers of all its offices that all screens must be removed from their windows. This is not the result of the bishops' law, but due to a rule adopted so that burglars can be detected if at work inside.

—Geer & DeMott, of New Brunswick, N. J., has sold a spider phaeton to Armstrong Mulford.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

CHINA AND BRIC-A-BRAC.

Because glassware, china and bric-a-brac gets broken is no reason for throwing it away, for unless some of the pieces are lost they can be patched and glued together and made to look like new, if one is careful to fit the edges closely together.

They should be practical for use, too, if water or liquid are not left standing in them.

Clear glass is the most difficult of these to mend because it must be done so expertly to prevent the crack from showing.

The best kind of glue for clear glass is made from a solution of two ounces of isinglass and a half a pint of gin poured into an open-mouthed bottle, and set in the sun until it dissolves.

It should be shaken well every day and before being used should be strained through a clean lawn cloth.

When ready for the glueing the broken glass pieces should be well washed in hot suds, especially on the edges, dried, and then with a small camel's hair brush the cement should be put on the edges of both pieces and when they are nicely fitted together rubber bands or clean strips of cloth ssould be bandaged tightly around the mto hold the edges well together until the glue dries.

If the cement has been properly made the break should really not be visible when dry, for the reason many cracks look jagged when mended is because the edges have not been well joined, and, bubbles of air getting in, reflect the light, making the ragged, broken lines glaringly apparent.

Bric-a-brac that is part metal and glass should not be so difficult to fix over, particularly where the two materials meet, for often a paste of sifted plaster of paris mixed with the beaten white of an egg will make them as strong and good as new.

This work must be done quickly, for within five minutes after putting it on the pieces it hardens and holds the metal and glass or china tightly together.

Two metal pieces should be mended with solder. To do this, the edges should first be carefully dusted, washed if they are very dirty, and rosin brushed over them.

Then when fitted well together and tied in place a stick of solder should be laid above the break and a hot iron brought down lightly on it.

When the solder cools the melted rosin may be removed with a cloth dipped in alcohol.

CARE FOR A PIANO.

A piano should be tuned at regular intervals, preferably after the beginning of each season.

It becomes out of tune as much by change of temperature as by use.

Too much stress cannot be placed upon the selection of a tuner, as an incompetent tuner can do great damage, and will usually magnify a slight trouble in order to justify a high price.

It is best never to engage an unknown tuner, or if he is engaged be careful to examine his references and be satisfied that he is reliable and experienced.

The jingling or singing sound at times noticeable when the piano is played frequently is due to what is called "sympathetic vibration."

This is produced by an ordinary article in the room vibrating in sympathy with some particular tone in the piano.

To ascertain the cause of this vibration the key which seems to produce the difficulty should be struck by one person and another should go about the room listening carefully, and thus the article which vibrates can be discovered and the cause removed.

Any hard substance, no matter how small, when dropped inside of a piano will cause a rattle or jarring noise.

If a pedal should squeak remove the bottom panel of the piano and apply a little black lead, powdered from a pencil, at the part where friction exists.

Cleaning the case may be accomplished by wetting a piece of canton flannel and dropping upon it a few drops of ordinary olive oil.

Rub a small portion of the piano at a time, wiping off thoroughly with a dry piece of canton flannel.

Afterward rub with a soft, clean chamois skin or another piece of clean canton flannel, always taking care to rub with the grain of the wood and occasionally to breathe on it in order to remove every particle of oily substance.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Clean flannale dipped in paraffin oil will satisfactorily remove finger marks on polished or painted wood if rubbed on for a few moments. Wipe with a clean cloth wrung from hot water to remove the odor. The oil will also prevent leather from cracking, and is said to make shoes take polish easier.

Flies will not settle on windows that have been washed with water with which a little kerosene has been mixed.

Should an ignorant maid allow a wooden cooking utensil, such as the potato masher, to soak in dish water till the dirt or greese sinks into the fibre, then without rinsing and properly drying tuck it into a drawer or cupboard, if it can not be sandpapered to its original whiteness, better burn it and buy a new one, seeing that the new one has proper attention when soiled.

Sweeping the porch floors with a cloth-covered broom will presedve the appearance as well as the paint longer than if scratched with coarse broom straws.

A child's transparent slate makes a serviceable laundry list with the printed slip beneath the glass upon which numbers and date are written with pencil attached. The frame can be decorated with pyrography or paints or covered with passepartout.

Lemon juice thickened to a creamy state with powdered sulphur will effectually whiten straw hats. Spread on, and when dry remove with a stiff clean brush-broom. A strong solution of oxalic acid will also clean straw hats, but it is difficult for an amateur to use litle enough of the liquid cleaners.

A triangular piece of zinc nailed to the end of the ironing board over narrow strips of wood will be found a most satisfactory iron rest.

When the air is particularly close, and sleep seems out of the question, place a dish of very cold water under the bed, and refreshing sleep will come with the cooler air.

FOR THE TOILET.

A liquid powder that will whiten the neck in effect, is made of one ounce of pure oxide of zinc, one dram of glycerine, four ounces of rose water and fifteen drops of essence of roses.

Dissolve the zinc in enough of the rose water to dissolve. Mingle the essence with the glycerine, adding the remainder of the rose water. Then combine the two mixtures. Apply with a piece of gauze, shaking before using.

You can make your eyebrows thicker by applying a grower made by combining two ounces of red vaseline, one-eighth ounce of tincture of cantharides, fifteen drops of oil of rosemary and fifteen drops of oil of lavender.

For hair that is split at the ends singeing is the only remedy. If you do not care to go to the hairdresser's, divide your hair in strands, twisting each strand tightly, then with a wax taper have some one pass it lightly over teh hair, singeing the short ends that stand out. I this is done once a month for a while you will have no further trouble and I think you will not a difference at once in the growth of your hair.

Bran alone is used for the toilet, but is better scented with powdered orris root. The odor must be made to suit individual taste, but an ounce of orris to a pound of bran is a good average proportion.

The best neck bleech is made by preparing two and one-half ounces of cucumber juice first. This is done by washing the vegetable, skin and all, and cutting very fine. Put on to simmer with a few spoonfuls of water, and when mushy strain through a muslin. To this add eighty-seven and one-half grains of pulverized borax, forty-five grains of acetate of soda, one and one-quarter ounces of tincture of quillaja, two drams of tincture of benzoin and half a pint of rose water. Shake thoroughly, and apply morning and night to the neck, letting the preparation dry on.

This will remove that brown line made frequently by high collars, but when used for this should be applied several times a day.

Plain oatmeal, of the unprepared kind, first boiled for fifteen minutes and then strained, is delicious for the skin. Strain off the grains and put them in the bag, using orris to perfume with.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Dry your saucepans before you put them away.

Coffee grounds kept in the sink strainer will catch grease and thus prevent clogging of the pipes.

A cloth dipped in boiling water, wrung out and placed over fish that has been boiled will keep it warm for quite a while.

Sprinkle a little crushed borax on a flannel cloth that has been wet in hot water and well soaped. This will brighten the copper like magic. Rinse and polish.

The odor that clings so persistently to a utensil in which fish or onions have been fried may be dispelled by placing in a hot oven for ten or fifteen minutes after washing and drying.

If a teaspoonful of concentrated tye with a cupful of water be put in a kettle whose contents have burned on the bottom and left to stand for a few hours there will be no trouble in removing the burned substance.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.
Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.
Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

Winslow stepped alongside; it was just as high as his heart. All eyes were turned to the boatman, who met the stare unflinching. Somebody muttered: "She spoilt a d—d good shot;" and at this voicing of the general suspicion, an angry murmur rose.

But the bully was undismayed. "Accidents will happen, he said, and coolly swaggered below.

CHAPTER X.

On arrival in St. Louis the Creightons were met by Mr. Creighton, and at once proceeded to their place near St. Charles.

Most of those who had come in the boat remained for a time in St. Louis, but all seemed waiting—expecting, they knew not what.

For Winslow, too, there was nothing to do but wait, although most eager to accept the Creighton's urged hospitality. The governor was absent in the south; it was therefore, impossible for Winslow to deliver the packet which Aaron Burr had intrusted to him. But in his anxiety to know the whereabouts and errand of Wilkinson, he made haste to call upon the deputy. To his surprise, he was refused admission. Twice later he was denied with insufficient reason. Had an ill wind preceded him with tidings which made his presence difficult?

One night he strode impatiently up and down the vine-covered porch in front of the tavern. Dreading failure of the plans of Aaron Burr, he was made still more lonely by the loss of companionship which had grown so dear, and turned into sweet the bitter of exile.

Suddenly there was a clamor of hoofs outside, and two men dismounted at the wicket.

A boy ran forward to hold the horses, and the riders entered the yard. With eyes upon Winslow, they walked with steady, business-like mien to where he stood. Then the taller threw aside a heavy cloak, displaying the dingy uniform of a sergeant. Laying a heavy hand upon Winslow's shoulder, he exclaimed: "You are my prisoner."

Charles stared and gave a long whistle. "Perhaps this is the custom of your settlement," he said, "to arrest all persons found stirring after nightfall. This must be a free translation of the curfew, for I plead guilty only to being awake."

But the would-be captor was not jocularly disposed. "You will soon laugh out of the other side of your mouth, young man (if that gibbering deputy knows his business)," he added, under breath.

Then continued: "You're wanted for treason; come on!"

The old story! Winslow's patience exhausted, he flung off the soldier's grasp. "You are an ignorant ass to come to me at this hour with no warrant—no show of authority. Who sent you?"

But the man gave only surly answers, and Winslow at last exclaimed, impatiently: "There is little satisfaction in talking to a deaf hireling. Take me to the deputy."

"Take you to h—l!" the sergeant retorted. "My orders are my orders, and that's all there is about it."

He did not explain how much it gratified his morose temper to show power over one whose small-clothes of camlet, gentlemanly hose and air of quality, formed too light a figure against the dark background of his own greasy uniform and uncouth appearance.

However, he grudgingly indulged Winslow in his quest about the town for Gonzaga. Winslow thought the foreigner would vouch for him, and possibly assist him in obtaining his release.

But Gonzaga was nowhere to be found; it was said he had left the tavern for some near-by settlement.

Gone? To the settlement? Probably to St. Charles—to Lavender, was Winslow's first jealous fear.

For a little while he detained the chafing soldier, and penned a few lines.

"YOU ARE MY PRISONER."

This done, he summoned Owatoga. The Indian's hound-like glance instantly took in all the occupants of the room. As Winslow handed him the note, it was intercepted by the sergeant with a swaggering air of command. Instinctively Winslow's hand sought his belt as if reaching for a sword, but he withdrew it at once with a shrug of disdain.

But the Indian had seen the significant action, and accepted its purpose literally. With the spring of a panther he was upon the soldier, pushing him to his knees. Brandishing a knife, he held it threateningly over him, then turned to Charles with an air of inquiry, which said as plain as words: "What shall I do with him?"

It was all done as a lightning flash. But at Winslow's sharp command the Indian relaxed his hold, permitting the terrified soldier to rise.

"Forgive the zeal of my friend here," Charles said, lightly; "only be careful to treat me well when he is about."

Turning to his champion he said, aside: "Take this note to her."

Then to the soldier: "I will not go with you tamely to some God-forsaken hole, there to rot through the stupidity of the law. Escort me first to your officer-in-chief, whoever he is. I want to inquire into this high-handed proceeding."

Cowed by his experience with the Indian, the sergeant consented without demur, and they went direct to the deputy's house.

Here they waited in a gloomy room where prevailed neither pioneer simplicity nor the real comforts of civilization, but an incongruous blending of both. Here were small barred windows that seemed rather to imprison the cold, damp air within than to afford opening for the sunlight. A few formal chairs mocked the visitor from a circle about a fireless hearth.

Announced by a cough, and a loud clearing of his throat, there entered the man temporarily in authority. Tall, military and aggressive in appearance, yet with good humor beaming in his kindly eyes, and around the corners of his childishly curved mouth. No American born, evidently, but a soldier of fortune whose skin was not more changed by many sums than his heart by service under many flags.

He acknowledged the sergeant's salute by a flourish of condescension, and addressed Winslow. "Bon soir, monsieur, the matter—what may it be?"

Winslow answered, hotly: "That is what I came here to find out, sir."

With a shrug the other said: "But I cannot give you light, monsieur, I am here only pour passer le temps, while the real deputy removes himself elsewhere. M. le Gen. Wilkinson is absent."

It was on the point of Winslow's tongue to criticise the management which would leave the arrest of persons, innocent or guilty, to unfamiliar hands, but he refrained, and the officer said, his accent a curious mixture of French and Spanish: "I am told, however, that you are a dangerous man who comes here on service of—how you call him—M. Burr?"

The tone and manner was apologetic, but the words opened old sores. With fire in his eyes, his voice shaking with suppressed emotion, Winslow told his story frankly, concluding: "Now you know, sir, why I am beginning to feel like an Ishmaelite. I meant before to have disclosed my business, but was denied opportunity. It is evident some babbler has preceded me, prating to ears already prejudiced by political bias, against a man whom the nation should delight to honor."

From beneath elevated brows his hearer smiled. "There is verity in your remarks, monsieur, but until this expedition matter is settled our orders are to detain you. We will make it as pleasant as possible for you, monsieur," he hastened to add. "It is only that your presence with us seems desirable—for the present. I am not able to say that so distinguished a person should at once be free, though, sans doute, it should be so. May I have your parole d'honneur to remain with us in St. Louis until we have word from the powers that be?"

Winslow hesitated for an instant only, then his brow cleared. "You have my word of honor, your excellency" (and at the title the other coughed with gratified vanity), "and I must thank you for even this much courtesy. From the jail threatened by this man here (and he made a slighting gesture toward the sergeant) "is escape enough for the present. But by the way, monsieur, will you kindly tell me where Gen. Wilkinson is?"

The deputy coughed again—this time deprecatingly. In the south, making light upon the plans of your friend, Burr."

Winslow knitted his brows. "Doing what, monsieur?"

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Robert Mantell, the foremost actor of the robust roles of Shakespeare, has called his company for rehearsal at his summer pleace, "Cherrywoods," Atlantic Highlands, N. J. He is to have a repertoire of seven Shakespearan plays the coming season, which will begin in Canada. As yet, it is not settled where in New York city he will appear; but time is reserved for him in both the New Amsterdam and Daly's theatres, while his manager, William A. Brady, may decide to put him into his own theatre, the Manhattan, which will be torn down next May. Marie Booth Russell will again be Mr. Mantell's leading woman.

Klaw & Erlanger's wonderful production of "The Prince of India" will be presented for the first time in New York at the Broadway theatre Monday evening, Sept. 24, instead of October 1, as previously announced. This is the companion drama to "Ben-Hur," and is a stage version of Gen. Lew Wallace's romantic novel involving the war between the Greeks and the Turks, the Fall of Constantinople and the world-famous love romance of Sultan Mahommed, the conqueror, and Princess Irene of the Greeks. "The Prince of India" is the greatest dramatic production ever made in this country and represents an outlay of over $100,00 in scenery and costumes alone. This great play is staged in a prologue and six acts, with thirteen scenes. Those massive stage pictures represent the rock-tomb of Hiram, King of Tyre: Constantinople and the Golden Horn from Galatea; the home of the Prince of India in Constantinople; the gate of Blacherne on the Golden Horn and panorama of the Bosphorus to the white castle during the storm which leads the prince and the princess Irene to take refuge in the stronghold of the Turks; the Palace of Therapia on the Bosphorus; the Great Hall of Audience in the imperial palace of Blacherne; the tent of Mahommed before Constantinople; within the walls of Constantinople during the siege; without the walls during the assault by the Turks; night on the broken wall, where the Prince of India, really the Great Wanderer, hears again the voice "Tarry Thou Till I Come," and finally, under the dome of Sancta Sophia, where Mahommed and Irene meet, acknowledge their love and the conqueror promises religious freedom to all her race under the Moslem flag. The scenes of the great storm on the Bosphorus, the assault on the walls of Constantinople and the interior of the church of Sancta Sophia, will prove revelations in stagecraft, even to the most blase New Yorw theatre-goers. In the battle and church scenes over 600 people will appear.

LITERARY.

The Red Book Magazine for August is clearly designed to make its readers forget the torridity of midsummer in these United States. A remarkable variety of tales is embraced in the thirteen short stories that comprise the contents of the issue. From Regents Park, London, where a modern young American meets the daughter of an American peeress and conquers her, as occurs in the Frederick Orin Barlett story "A Certain Anglo-Saxon Alliance," to the south sea islands, the locale of "The Outcast," by John Patrick and Ernest Boon, is a far cry but one that seems to carry clear. A story that is destined no doubt to color opinion as to the wisdom of granting statehood to New Mexico, no matter under what circumstances, is "Twelve Good Men and True" an extraordinary tale of justice as "she is administered" in the territory of erstwhile "Billy the Kid."

As an earnest that there is to be no cessation of its campaign against child slavery, the Woman's Home Companion prints prominently in its August number the "Anti Child Labor Creed"—nine curt paragraphs clearly defining against the abuses of child labor. But that this serious purpose has not caused any neglect of entertaining features is shown by a collection of lively stories such as "The Spurs of Jealousy," by Rafael Sabatini; "A Lover's Pilgrimage," by Richard Le Gallienne; "The Wage of Sin," by Ellis Parker Butler, and "Al and the Buzzard Perplexed," by Cloudesley Johns. "The Preserving and Canning of Fruits," "Fashionable Mid-Summer Clothes," and "Cool Cushions for Summer Use" are among the practical articles on household affairs. Anna Steese Richardson gives valuable advice with needed facts and figures to county girls who have decided upon city careers; Marion Harland, considering the question, "Are New York Club-Women Shallow?" makes some pointed remarks; Adella Belle Beard describes original sea-beach games, and, in good time for the circus season, Claire Wallace Flynn tells of the merry little woman who attends to the "Dressmaking for the Circus Animals."

Howard Armstrong, of Brooklyn, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. L. J. Denton, of Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, of the borough, are spending the month of August at Mouse Island, Maine.

Charles J. Hulse, of this city, who holds a clerical position with the New Jersey Central, has returned from a visit to his former home in Goshen, N. Y.

THE PRUDENTIAL AS A TAXPAYER.

THE PRUDENTIAL paid, in total taxes to the State of New Jersey in 1905, nearly $427,000. The importance of The Prudential as a contributor to public revenue in its home State can be recognized from the above figures.

The Officers and Directors of

announce the removal of their banking rooms to their new building at Park Avenue and Second Street, where their business will be transacted on and after Monday, August the Sixth.

Baseball and General Sports

DIAMOND DUST.

More than once it has been remarked that Plainfield people will not liberally support a baseball team, or other amusements, where and admission is charged, that they have a tendency to want a whole lot for nothing. When it is considered that the combined population of Plainfield and North Plainfield is about 25,000, it seems strange that at least 1,500 or 2,000 cannot be induced to attend a baseball game, especially when a first-class contest is scheduled. However, the same trouble was experienced in the days of the Crescents, when Tom Keller was manager. "Tee-Kay" often expressed the opinion that if he depended upon the Plainfield fans to support the team, he would be out of pocket, and he was too, before he gave up the management of the team. Such was the case when such stars as Keeler, Bonner, "Chick" Hofford, Freddy Jones, "Gentle Willie" Murphy and many others were playing a game hard to beat. For lack of support it was necessary to close Music Hall, but a few years without an amusement house made the people angry for a theatre, and the local play house is now doing a paying business. Another fact to be regretted is that in New York and vicinity Plainfield people have the reputation of being the greatest "knockers" in the metropolitan district. For the sake of the town and the National game it is to be hoped that fandom will do all that is possible to change this sentiment.

"Ted" Overton is back in the game with East Millstone, where he is doing work behind the rubber. Minford, the other Plainfield boy, is pitching gilt-edged ball for the Somerset county aggregation.

Weather permitting fandom will witness a great game on Crescent Oval this afternoon between the locals and the Quaker Giants. This is the contest that the enthusiastic fans have been anxiously waiting for and it is to be hoped that the attendance will be of the record-breaking kind.

The Clinton Avenues have been playing fast ball throughout the season and their record will compare favorably with any team of the class in the State.

If "Phil." Smith decides to return to the Plainfield High School this fall his services will be lost to the baseball team, because he signed with Manager Daab and entered the semi-professional ranks. However, the school boys are sure to have good twirlers in Freeman and Mahaffey, both of whom are developing fast.

Go to Crescent Oval this afternoon and enjoy a good game between Plainfield and the Quaker Giants, the champion colored team of the country. Monroe will be there in all his glory with feathers and war paint. You can't lose him. It is two weeks since a game was played here and this should prove an incentive for a large crowd.

The Providence Eastern League Club is demonstrating this season that a team made up of fallen major league stars is usually not as strong as a team of coming stars. Every member of the Providence team, with the exception of Storke, the Amherst man, recently signed, is an exleaguer.

Manager Burnham, of the Newark Eastern League Club, thinks it is time he gave his team a shaking up, but he don't know where to begin.

Jack Dunn's presence in the game with Providence seems to be working wonders for the champions of last year. It is improbable that the team will win the honors this season.

There is an opinion among National League players that Hughey Duffy, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, will not be in that position next season, but that a player-manager will be chosen. The Phillies have been in search of new players for some time and it is said that two new men, both of whom are pitchers, have been signed and will soon join the team. One of these twirlers comes from New Jersey, where he has made a big reputation among the semi-professional teams.

According to the majority of the sporting writers of the leading metropolitan papers, President Pulliam made a mistake in suspending Umpire Hank O'Day because he refused to pay a fine of $50, imposed unjustly, it is said. The papers are unanimous in declaring that O'Day is one of the best umpires that ever handled an indicator and his suspension is a great loss to the National League. O'Day continues to refuse to pay the fine.

Harry De Mezee and Harry Blimm, heavy players on the Blimmites, will take bats and balls to the South Branch farm on which they will spend their vacation to show the natives and the pretty girls how to play the game.

Newsies Go To Newark.

Armed head and foot, primed for a scorching time, the newspaper consolidated team will go to Newark this afternoon to make a grab for the laurels lost when the Newark News combination jumped on them here last week. Manager Hacquer, with the assistance of "Bob" Scott, heavyweight professional, has recast the nine, and thinks he will take away St. John's rep as a winning manager. The line-up has been doped out this way: Hoffman, p; Scott, c; Colthar, 1b; Vail, 2b; Dunn, ss; Banghart, 3b; Hacquer, lf; Waters, cf; Sullivan, rf. There will be a pink tea after the game at the Maplewood Park Hotel.

GOLF.

One strong advantage the game of golf has over baseball and other outdoor sports is that no matter what the weather may be, providing it does not snow, the game can be played and generally is. The hardest rain storms do not deter enthusiastic players from going on the course. This is especially true at the Plainfield Country Club, where certain players never miss a Saturday despite weather conditions.

Because of a misunderstanding on the part of the Golf Committee of the Westfield Golf Club, last Saturday's play at the club may not count. The competition called for Class A and Class B contests, qualifying rounds, when as a matter of fact only Class A event was played. The committee has been busy all the week trying to straighten out the muddle and it is hoped to have it adjusted before play starts today.

The officials of the Plainfield Country Club have wisely decided to close the active season this year on Thanksgiving Day, instead of continuing it until later in the winter, as heretofore. In previous years the scheduled events have been extended so late in the winter that play was very unsatisfactory. Generally the weather remains favorable until Thanksgiving and often the fall and early winter is the best time of the year to play the game.

The fact that the Plainfield Country Club has decided to make the organization an all-year round one and keep the clubhouse open through the winter is hailed with delight by nearly every member. The house will be equipped with an up-to-date steam-heating plant and Siche gas will also be installed, thus making it one of the best in the metropolitan district. Under these conditions many social functions no doubt will be arranged during the winter months.

While the Park Golf Club cannot boast of such a large membership as the Plainfield Country Club and its scheduled events are not so elaborate, the club has a membership of players who derive great enjoyment from the game on the sporty nine-hole course, which is acknowledged by those who have played on it to be one of the hardest to play in this part of the country. The natural hazards and the hilly condition of the course makes it exceedingly difficult to return a low score. Only after constant practice is this possible. Members from the Plainfield Country Club admit that the borough course is more difficult than their own.

"Marty" O'Loughlin has been putting in lots of good practice this week trying to improve his short game for the big tournament to be played at the Hollywood Golf Club Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. He is making great improvements in this respect, which combined with his strong long game should give him a big advantage in the competition. He expects to secure some of the valuable prizes offered by the Hollywood Club, and will be very much disappointed if he fails to get a top-notch position.

Robert Abbott and Dudley H. Barrows are home from the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, where they competed in the invitation tournament. It was a disappointment to their friends that they failed to do better, but other opportunities will be offered this season whereby they may be able to win further honors. Barrows, it is noticed, is constantly improving his game.

CHARLES KIRCHNER RECEIVES TOKENS OF ESTEEM

Chairman of Golf Tourney Presented With Gold and Silver Watch Fobs.

At the banquet Wednesday night at VanCortlandt Park, New York, following the open professional tournament, Charles Kirchner, of this city, who was chairman of the committee in charge of the tournament, was presented with a valuable gold watch fob. On the face of the fob appears a golfer about to strike a ball and other beautiful designs. On the reverse side is inscribed the following: "Presented to Mr. Charles Kirchner, August 1, 1906, by the executive committee of the second annual open professional golf tournament, VanCortlandt Park, N. Y., as a token of friendship and appreciation."

In addition to being presented with the fob, Mr. Kirchner also received a silver watch fob. Each member of the executive committee, of which there are six, received one of the silver watch fobs, on the back of which was inscribed the name of the owner, his position on the committee, the place and date of the tournament. The sudden appearance of the Scotch bag piper in kilts was the hit of the evening. Mr. Kirchner suggested this idea. It is proposed to make next year's tournament more elaborate and have larger prizes.

Jerome D. Travers the Winner.

Jerome D. Travers, of the Nassau Country Club, won the chief cup on the course of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, yesterday. In the final round he defeated Howard W. Perrin, the Philadelphia champion, by 2 up and 1 to play. The second cup went to Harry B. Hollins, of the Westbrook Golf Club.

Public Funeral at Elizabeth.

After first intending to have his funeral service at the German Lutheran church, and afterward changing the place of the services to his home, it was finally decided yesterday to give Gustave Bruggemann, the wealthy German-American, who died at Elizabeth Thursday, a public funeral. The body will lay in state at Turn Hall, of which he was one of the founders. The interior of the building will be draped with flags, a band of music will play dirges, while the people choose to remain from 12 until 2 o'clock next Sunday, at which latter hour the funeral services will take place. The body will be escorted to Evergreen cemetery by the Elizabeth Turnverein, the Elizabeth Building and Loan Association and the Downtown Taxpayers' Association, to which organizations he belonged.

Doubled License Fee in Elizabeth.

The new excise board of Elizabeth, met last night, and after electing Robert B. Cissell president, doubled the license fee for saloons, inns and taverns from $250 to $500. The wholesale license fee is $500. This is fixed by the new law. The election of an inspector, for which there are many aspirants, was laid over until the next meeting.

12 YEARS PENALTY BELCHER MUST PAY

ABSCONDING EX-MAYOR OF PATERSON RECEIVED THAT SENTENCE.

Paterson, Aug. 4.—William H. Belcher, former mayor, was sentenced to twelve years in State prison yesterday by Judge Scott, who returned from Maine for the purpose. Belcher pleaded guilty to six indictments for embezzlement read by Prosecutor Emley, most of them in connection with the Manchester Building and Loan Association, which Belcher wrecked. The returned fugitive walked very lame with rheumatism, looked neither right nor left when he entered court, and walked out again and seemed to recognize no one in the packed room.

He took his penalty apparently unmoved. The sentence was for two years on each indictment.

The charges cover only a portion of Belcher's alleged misdeeds, which include extensive forgeries, duplicating of mortgages, misappropriation of State trust funds and victimizing friends through loans, in all to the estimated figure of a hundred thousand dollars. William J. Barbour, counsel for Belcher, made a plea for clemency, but it had no apparent effect on Judge Scott.

In pronouncing the sentence Judge Scott spoke as follows:

"In this case it is my duty as judge of this court to pronounce the sentence that should be meted out to you for the crimes to which you have pleaded guilty. It is my duty, and therefore I have returned to fulfill it, although it is the most painful one that I have ever been called upon to perform. I know, through poverty and toil, you have struggled up to become a respected member of the bar and the chief magistrate of this large and prosperous city of Paterson. With hosts of friends and followers your future gave greater promise. A year ago while holding the office of mayor your flight disclosed to the astounded public these crimes, so manifold, so grave and apparently so deliberate that our people stood aghast.

"I shall not enter into the painful details. There are many indictments for forgery. I cannot altogether lose sight of these in dealing with the present indictments. You have injured others, but none more than yourself. Your return to be punished shows that you have suffered much, yet it is necessary to inflict the punishment the law demands, particularly in this case, as an example to others, whose position and power in the community may not be used to abstain from trusting people their hard earned savings. There has been no restoration of money taken and cannot be now. There seems to be no reason for lessening the extreme penalty, except that mercy, which is usually exercised to temper justice. The intents of the court in this case is that you be confined in the State prison at hard labor for a term of two years on each indictment, the terms not to run together."

Belcher broke down and cried when Counsel William Barbour addressed the court.

HIS FIRST BALL GAME

Martine Sees Newspaper Men Play, and Has New Experience.

NEWARK WON AGAIN

Managed To Squeeze Out a Victory By One Run—Plainfielders Entertained At a Dinner.

For the first time in his life, James E. Martine saw a ball game, Saturday afternoon. He went with the Consolidated Newspaper team to Newark, where they met the Newark News nine in their second game. It was not much of a game that the Farmer Orator saw, but what there was to it furnished him with a new experience.

He was stirred by the contest, and absorbed enough of the technique of the sport as the innings went on to follow the plays without too much entanglement.

In speaking of the sport at the dinner that followed the contest, Mr. Martine said he did not know just how it happened that he never had gone to a baseball game. He had always been interested in sports, and had always urged his friends, young and old, to engage in some or all forms of it. He believed Roosevelt would not be where he was but for his active interest in athletics. It was perhaps because his beloved politics had so filled his life that he had never seen two earnest bands of young men struggle for supremacy on the diamond.

Baseball had been called to his attention before that day, he continued humorously. A friend had said, for instance, that although he had never played on a diamond, he had been bawling in another way all his life.

Mr. Martine's introduction to the game was not exactly thrilling. It was not exactly baseball as it is played in the best circles that he saw. It was more like a hot competition between nines to see who could lose. Newark succeeded by one run. Captain Hacquer's men, quit scoring at fourteen in their half of the ninth, and promptly seized the first chance that the Newarks' half offered to let in the run that trimmed them.

True to their training, both teams had one frenzied blow-up, during the progress of which the ball went everywhere, seeking a friendly mitt in vain. Nobody would have anything to do with it. The batters stung it on the nose, and the fielders picked it up only to hurl it madly upon an unfeeling world far from home and kindred. Fozzy Firstbrook hated it so that he threw it from his bailiwick at third cushion into a rainbarrel a quarter of a mile away. Banghart, the Plainfielder on the third sack, tried to outdo Fozzy and hit a chicken in the next lot.

There were some thrilling moments, though. Plainfield fought an uphill fight all the way, and gurgles and cheers were uncorked on occasion, when the losing host would fight to within striking distance of the enemy. In the ninth, a hangover batting rally and some errors brought them neck and neck with Newark, 14 to 14, and the noises the Plainfield rooters made, led by the Farmer Orator, made the air ache. The first man up for Newark, Reeves, scored the run that ended the game on a hit and a packet of bungles.

Bob Hoffman was in the box for Plainfield, with Scott at the other end of the battery. They worked snappily, but their mates wouldn't play up to them. Hoffman kept the balls where they could be reached for the most part, but none of the men back of him wanted to reach them.

Hughes, who pitched the winning game against Plainfield here, started in for Newark, but he tired in the seventh, and Reeves took his place. Reeves is a twirler that gets real money for wagging his arm, but he preserved the spirit of the contest and lobbed only slow curves over.

The game was played at Heidelburg Park, in Orange, on the grounds of the Maplewood Hotel. After the game the Plainfielders were entertained at a dinner in the hotel.

Mr. Martine was the guest of honor. His speech, heavy with sweet things about newspapers and newspaper men, made the longest hit of the feed. Frank Allen spoke for the Newarkers. R. L. Morrow, city editor of The Press, and "Bob" Hoffman, spoke in humorous vein. They tried to make Fozzy and "Colonel" Arch Hacquer speak, but they crawled under the table and refused to come out until speechmaking was called off. Ed Searing also ducked the oratorical glory. Sporting Editor Joseph Norton, of the News, was an admirable toastmaster.

The two games have led to such pleasant times, that arrangements for a continuance of the contests are being made. The News men will

FRELINGHUYSEN QUITS AS GOVERNOR'S AIDE

GIVES AS A REASON THAT DUTIES TAKE UP TOO MUCH OF HIS TIME.

At the close of the Sea Girt encampment Saturday, Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, chairman of the Somerset County Republican Committee, presented his resignation to Governor Stokes as his military aide. Because of his business duties, Colonel Frelinghuysen said he did not feel that he could be away for such a length of time in the summer.

The resignation may mean the detailing of one of the officers of the National Guard to the position. It is rumored that Governor Stokes will give the appointment to one of the members of his personal staff, which comprise Captain Harry Cramer, Captain Joseph Vickers, Captain Walter Edge and Captain Mahlon Margerum.

Colonel Frelinghuysen was a trooper in the New York National Guard, and is a Spanish-American war veteran.

NOT THE GREAT DEEDS BUT THE LITTLE THINGS

THESE ARE WHAT COUNT IN EVERY DAY LIFE, SAYS CLARE.

Addressing the mothers and children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon, Rev. D. H. Clare, of Hamilton, N. Y., spoke on "Little Things" and their good and bad influence in every day life. His talk was especially to the New Yorkers at the Home and was simple and forceful. He said that to most people a good Christian man or woman was one who in his or her life time was known for some special deed which lifted one's fellow men to a broader and higher plane of good living. There are church workers of broad field and missinary life sacrifice for the good of Christianity.

But, the speaker said, this is a wrong interpretation of the Christian. Such persons are Christians, of course, but much more can be done in every day life by the little things which tend to improve or debase the life of a community. He quoted the parable of the cup of cold water in illustration of this point and said that more good could be accomplished by the little deeds in everyday life than the doer could appreciate. The kind word, the tactful remark, the little speech of encouragement are, what count in this world.

Then, too, there is the other side, the evil effect of a thoughtless act or word. In illustration of this, the speaker referred to the harm done by the mosquito—all the annoyance and discomfort of the momentary bite of the little insect. He warned both old and young against the dangerous results of a spiteful act, an unkind word, or even a gloomy doleful look.

B. F. Hadley, of Leland avenue, was the leader of the meeting, of which music was a special feature. During the service, several gospel hymns were sung by a mixed choir from local church societies and the New Yorkers at the camp. Whitney C. Frazee rendered "Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love" on the cornet, and Miss Mary Miller, one of the elder children at the camp, sang the Glory Song so frequently used in the recent revival. Miss Mary Clark played the melodian.

Services at Netherwood Home.

During the coming week services will be conducted at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home on Tuesday and Thursday evening. Tomorrow evening John LeMatty will be in charge of the meeting, and on Thursday a delegation from the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will conduct a song and praise service at the home. At the afternoon service next Sunday, Rev. William B. Hamilton, pastor of Hope chapel, Elizabeth, will speak at the home. Clarence Titus, of Roselle, will lead the meeting, and there will be special music, including several vocal selections by a male quartette from Elizabeth.

Had Shouting Jag.

Michael Gleason was arrested Saturday night with a shouting jag on. He yelled himself hoarse in his coop, and kept up a feeble clatter after that until dawning intelligence quited him at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Mayor Buckle released him today under suspended sentence.

Funeral This Afternoon.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson will officiate at the funeral of Charles E. Brooks to be held at his late home, 147 East Seventh street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The interment is to be in Hillside cemetery.

JACK HALL NEARLY DROWNED AT HOPATCONG

GOING DOWN FOR THIRD TIME WHEN ELMER CUTTING RESCUED HIM.

John P. Hall, one of Judge Runyon's camping party at Lake Hopatcong, was saved from drowning Saturday afternoon by two of his companions. He was going down for the third time when rescued.

Hall was out in a round bottomed boat, alone. Off Nolan's Point he stood up to turn around and lost his balance. He fell over the side, and in falling the pit of his stomach struck against the oarlock. He can't swim, and the blow in the stomach made him twice as helpless. He sank at once.

Members of the Camp Colby party saw him go under, and Elmer D. Cutting and Phil Jahn put out in a boat to the rescue. Hall had gone down twice when they reached him, and Cutting jumped into the water just in time to grasp him as he came up the third time. Jahn, by heroic efforts, pulled them both into the boat.

Hall was almost played out and he was resuscitated with difficulty. He was to have left camp for home Saturday night, but his condition compelled him to stay over. He will probably be able to travel today.

G. F. SCHOONMAKER WINS GOLF HONORS

RETURNS LOW SCORE AT PLAINFIELD COUNTRY CLUB.

The smallest crowd of the season turned out at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday afternoon, to contest for the several events. This was no doubt due to the fact that many members are away and the day was too warm for the stay-at-homes. There were about twenty players who posted their names for play, but a small percentage returned their scores. Another handicap was that owing to the recent heavy rains portions of the course were thoroughly water soaked, in some instances the greens being inundated.

Play was commenced for the August cup, offered by Henry D. Hibbard, but on account of the conditions prescribed, the result will not be known until the last Saturday in the month, the winner being determined by the best score for each hole returned. A number entered for this event.

With a score of 81, George F. Schoonmaker won a leg on the semi-scratch cup, and he also won the first three points for the Golf Committee cup with a net score of 71. He has followed the game more closely than ever this season and his low scores gives evidence of steady improvement.

Herbert S. Rogers won two points by returning the second best net score of 79, while Charles A. Stover had to be satisfied with the one remaining point, his score being pretty high, were not entered on the score card.

NEGRO FINDS RESISTING ARREST IS PAINFUL.

Sylvanus Johnson Has His Head Broken and Loses Five Dollars.

As a result of fighting with his wife in public and resisting the arrest that followed, Sylvanus Johnson, colored, is nursing a broken head and recollections of $5 that passed over the city court bar.

Johnson started the row with his wife Saturday night in the yard at the side of the Hotel Iroquois. When Proprietor Leary heard the noise he sent for the police, and Patrolmen Martin and McKeon came around. Johnson defied them to arrest him and started to fight. The cops handled him as gently as may be, until he made toward his hip pocket. Then they fell on him like a blue-coated avalanche, and Sylvanus emerged from the storm a deserted ruin. His head was laid open and he had a feeling of woozines that overcame all tendencies toward badness. No gun was found on him.

Mayor Buckle listened coldly to Sylvanus attempts to justify himself this morning in court. He gave him his choice of paying the five or going to jail for twenty days.

Prayer Meeting Topics.

The topics for the Wednesday evening prayer meetings at the First Baptist church until September 5 will be as follows: August 8, "Parable of the Two Sons;" August 15, "The Judge, the Pharisee and the Publican;" August 22, "The Rich Young Ruler;" August 29, "Bartimaeus and Zacchaeus;" September 5, "Jesus Enters Jerusalem in Triumph."

ELECTION BOARD'S CALL

To Meet at Elizabeth on Friday to Effect Permanent Organization.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

First Registry Day September 2 and Second On September 11—Final Meeting on October 23.

The Union County Board of Registry and Elections will meet at the court house, Elizabeth, Friday afternoon, for the purpose of effecting an organization. Robert Kirkland, of Elizabeth, and Walter L. Hetfield, 2d., of this city, are two new members of the body, having been appointed but a few days ago by Governor Stokes. The meeting will be called to order at 2:30 o'clock.

The clerks at the office of the Secretary of State at Trenton were kept busy yesterday making preparations to notify New Jersey election officers for the preliminaries to the election November 6. Canvassing books, poll books, register books, copies of the election laws, pamphlets of instruction for election officers and voters, and blanks for election returns were received and filed. They will be sent to the county clerks next week.

The first registry day in the state will be September 4 in districts outside of cities having 30,000 inhabitants. On that day the boards will meet and proceed to make a house to house canvass, which must be completed on or before September 7.

The election boards of these districts will hold their second meeting September 11, when voters will register personally or by affidavit. The final meeting of the election boards of these districts will be held October 4 for the revision and correction of registry lists.

The first meeting of the election boards of cities of more than 30,000 inhabitants will be September 25, for the purpose of registering voters, and on the same day primary elections will be held in every election district in the state. A second meeting of election boards of cities of this class will be held October 9 for the revising and correcting of registers.

The final meeting of election boards of cities of this class will be held October 23. All of these meetings will take place between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

BUILDING MOVED FROM HERSH & CO.'S PROPERTY.

H. A. Weber Has Bought Marclay House and Will Move It to Liberty Street.

Permit has been granted for the removal of the house on the estate of Michael E. Marclay, at Central avenue and West Second street, to 130-132 Liberty street, where the recent purchaser, H. A. Weber, is to have it placed. George Mobus, the contractor, is to move the building, and it will probably take a week to transfer it. The contractor will begin the work of moving Wednesday.

When the lot has been cleared of the building, the Hersh Grocery Co., of Elizabeth, who have bought the land, will erect a large store house and distributing office for the firm. A Newark architect is now at work upon the plans and it is expected that the work of construction will be commenced this month.

John Chandler Stricken.

John Chandler, the well known contractor, is seriously ill at his home in East Fifth street, the result of a paralytic stroke, last night. The stroke was a severe one and affected the entire right side, also Mr. Chandler's speech. His condition today is reported to be critical. Mr. Chandler was for many years one of Plainfield's leading contractors, having erected many buildings in the city and borough. His biggest contract was the erection of the Babcock building. Mr. Chandler is also prominent as a Mason, being a thirty-second degree member. He is a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., as well as Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T.

PUBLIC SERVICE LINES SHORT OF MOTORMEN

EXTRA WORK FOR THOSE IN SERVICE—BREAKING IN RECRUITS.

Lack of motormen is bothering the management of the local division of the P. S. C. For nearly a week, the men on the front end of the cars have been doing extra tricks to keep the lines moving.

The shortage of men was explained at the district office on Watchung avenue this morning as due to the usual restlessness of the men, which leads to resignations and to sickness. It is the busiest season of the trolley year, all the lines running under full pressure, particularly those to the beaches.

Ten new motormen are being broken in, and it is hoped to have the complement filled by Thursday. In the meantime, the men now at work fill in on extra trips. It was explained at the office this morning that none of the men are compelled to work extra, but that a certain percentage of them are always glad of a chance to make the money they get for the extra tricks.

COCHRAN AND BROWN WIN COUNTRY CLUB TITLE

THEY ARE SEASON'S CLUB CHAMPIONS—PLANFIELD TITLE IN SINGLES.

By winning their match in the final round against Albert D. Beers and W. L. Glenney at the club courts Saturday afternoon, Harry J. Cochran and Wylie Brown secured the title of champion pair of the Plainfield Country Club for the season. The club tournament was begun several months ago and matches were played up to the final round. At this time Beers' team mate, W. L. Glenney, had trouble with his eyes and the final round was postponed until this month. The match went to Cochran and Brown in straight sets, 6-0, 7-5 and 6-3. After an easy time in the first set, the runners-up made their opponents fight hard for the second set, but weakened for the last. As holders of the club championship, Cochran and Brown received handsome silver cups, appropriately engraved, presented by the club.

Match play in the men's singles tournament for the championship title of Plainfield was continued up to the finals on the Country Club courts Saturday. This tournament was open to all Plainfielders, but the Country Club players put all others out of the running in the first two rounds. By winning their matches in the semi-final round, Albert D. Beers and Harry J. Cochran are to meet in the final play for the title. In the last match of the third round, Fred W. Goddard won from Harry Carter, 6-3 and 7-5, but in the semi-finals Goddard went down before Cochran in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2. Beers won handily from W. T. Glenney in the other match of the semi-finals, 6-3 and 6-1. Cochran and Beers are to play the match in the final round at the Country Club courts next Saturday afternoon.

WON'T DENY RELIGION FOR BUSINESS' SAKE.

Italian Fruit Dealer Shows Scruples Over Sunday Law Evasion.

Giulian Cinquegrain, a wholesale and retail fruit dealer, was arraigned in the city court this morning for keeping his store at 405 Watchung avenue open on Sunday without going through the motions of being a Seventh Day worshipper.

Giulian has been in the city only a short time and he didn't know the intricacies of Sunday selling. Mayor Buckle suspended sentence with a warning to keep closed one day. One of the court officers suggested Saturday.

"Closa Saturday?" exclaimed Giulian indignantly. "I noa Jew. I noa change a relig' for beeziness. No! Eef I clos-a, I clos-a on a right day."

A spectator explained the Sunday opening game to Giulian. He shrugged his shoulders.

"A funna beeziness," he said. "I close-a on Monday."

Chief Kiely advised him to see a lawyer. The chief announced after the trial that he intended to get after several Italian storekeepers who were selling on Sunday as soon as Corporation Counsel Marsh got home from his vacation and could take charge of the prosecution.

"I am waiting for the Corporation Counsel," said the chief, "because I want to go at those people right."

Festival at Washingtonville.

A peach and ice cream festival will be held on the lawn adjoining the Bary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, at Washingtonville, Wednesday night, for the benefit of the chapel.

NEW MARKET HAS A SABBATARIAN JUSTICE

SQUIRE CLARK, OF THAT VILLAGE, WON'T ISSUE BAIL ON SATURDAY.

Justice Clark Rogers, of New Market, is a Seventh-Day Baptist. He refused to desecrate his Sabbath on Saturday by issuing bail. The application was made on behalf of Edgar Caffee, of Lincoln, who was arrested Saturday morning, on a complaint sworn out by his wife, who charged him with threatening her.

The warrant was issued by Justice Rogers on Friday afternoon, on a complaint sworn to before Justice Von Minden. Friends of Caffee offered to go his bail, and application was made before Justice Rogers. He refused to consider it. His conscience, he said, would not permit him to do any sort of work not absolutely necessary on the seventh day.

Caffee's friends telephoned to Lawyer Walter L. Hetfield, 2d., and he hurried to the prisoner's rescue. He got bail in $200 for his client before Justice A. W. Warden, of Dunellen.

MOST UNCOMFORTABLE DAY OF THE SUMMER

AUGUST RECORDS FOR EIGHT YEARS BROKEN.

Heat records for August since 1898, were broken in this city yesterday. It was the most uncomfortable day, and the day was followed by the most uncomfortable night, of the season.

It was not so much the heat, as the humidity. The thermometer has only touched the same figure, 93, in August, twice since the records began, in 1892 and in 1898, but it was the moisture in the air and not the heat that made the people feel as if life was not worth living anywhere short of the polar circle. The air was saturated with dampness and every breath seemed to bring out a pint of water from every sufferer's pores. There was no relief anywhere. Shade afforded none, for the atmosphere was as muggy indoors or under the porch roof as in the open, and the only ripple to damp air was a hot wind that felt like a blast from a steam boiler.

The people who did not rush for the beaches early in the morning stayed indoors after the forenoon, and the streets were deserted in the afternoon. The night brought no relief, and the sufferers from old General Humidity's assault tumbled restlessly on sticky sheets. No real relief is in sight, although there is a little cooler breeze blowing today.

Through the failure of the Public Service Corporation to sprinkle properly along their tracks in this city yesterday, it was necessary for Chairman William L. Gloak, of the street committe, to order out two city sprinkling carts. The clouds of dust raised by the trolley along West Front street were almost unbearable; peopel in many instances could not sit on their porches.

FELL FROM HAY LOFT, BROKE HIS RIGHT LEG.

Jacob Grier, Driver of a Water Wagon, Is At Hospital As a Result of Ladder Slipping.

Falling twelve feet from the loft in John Keely's stables on East Seventh street, Jacob Grier, of Manning avenue, broke his right leg at the hip Saturday afternoon. Grier is fifty years old and a driver of the water wagon which has a route in the east end. He was climbing a ladder to get some straw from the loft when the foot of the ladder slipped on the wet concrete and Grier fell twelve feet to the floor. The ambulance was summoned and the injured man removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the broken bone was set.

Robbed By Pickpocket.

On his way home from Midland Beach, Saturday, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes, A. S. Runyon, of Lafayette place, was robbed of his wallet and watch by a pickpocket. The thief made an effort to get his diamond stud, but it caught in his shirt and the crook gave up the attempt to pull it out. The pickpocket is supposed to have worked on the trolley car between the beach and Port Richmond. Mr. Runyon spoke of the danger from the light-fingered gentry as the party boarded the car.

—Neuman Bros. are offering a choice assortment of fruits and vegetables of all kinds, including Boston lettuce, peas, lima beans, pears and peaches.

14 INNINGS AND TIED

Plainfield and Quaker Giants Play Great Game at Crescent Oval.

HENRIQUES FINE WORK

Daubsters and Dusky Braves Give Great Exhibition—Darkness Ends Contest.

When "Weather Prophet Devoe" predicted that the thermometer on Saturday would be 110 degrees he must have had in mind the baseball game scheduled between Plainfield and the Philadelphia Quaker Giants, for the contest was the warmest of the season. After stubbornly fighting for fourteen innings, neither side was able to get the advantage and the battle ended in a tie, 7 to 7. It was one of those hair-raising combats, abounding in brilliant, sensational plays, with "Mistah" Monroe thrown in to provide loads of fun for everybody.

"Phil." Smith occupied the box for the Daubsters, while he was opposed by Earl. The High School twirler did himself proud and had a little the best of the argument, allowing but eleven hits, while twelve were made off of Earl. The longer Smith pitched the better he worked and barring a few misplays by his mates would have won out.

Stapleton, who covered left garden for Plainfield, was responsible for two runs in the fourth inning by an inexcusable error in misjudging a fly. He had plenty of time to get it, but was too late. He made another error in the eleventh inning and with O'Neil's assistance in failing to hold a ball thrown by Captain Leonard, allowed another run. However, Henriques prevented a defeat in the fourteenth inning by the quick return of the ball to O'Neil in completing a double play.

The locals scored two runs in the second stanza by the aid of a couple of free passes, a couple of errors by Binga and singles by Goodman and O'Neil. They tallied in the next inning on singles by Heffron and Snow and an error by Molina. They were then shut out until the eighth inning, when they scored another run on an error of Buckner, a sacrifice by Snow and a hit by O'Neil.

The Giants tallied one run in the third, two in the fourth and one in the ninth and there was nothing more doing until the thirteenth inning, when the Giants by bunching three hits and a sacrifice scored three runs. It looked as though the game was won tby hem at this point, until the Daubsters connected with Earl for four singles, Stapleton, Goodman, Leonard and O'Neil each getting one. Henriques then brought the crowd to its feet by slamming the leather sphere to deep left for a double, bringing Stapleton, Goodman and O'Neil home and tieing the score. The Giants wanted to quit then, but were induced to play one more inning. No runs resulted and the game was called. A little shower stopped play for a few minutes at the end of the eleventh inning, but did not interfere with the game's progress afterward. The score:

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The attendance at the local ball game Saturday was very encouraging and shows that interest in the National game here is being revived again. The home team is certainly entitled to support as it is playing gilt edge baseball, strictly along amateur lines. Not a single cent is expended for the services of any player. That the team is one of, if not the best, in this section is shown by their record, only two defeats being marked against them for the season.

That fifteen-inning contest Saturday afternoon at Crescent Oval between the Daabsters and Philadelphia Giants was enjoyed by a number from here.

Miss Mary Jahn returned this morning to her position as stenographer at the Plainfield telephone exchange, after a two weeks' vacation.

Yesterday was still another of those quiet and peaceful sabbaths in town. Seems strange, but we will become accustomed to it in time.

Several from here and many from Plainfield attended one of those "Bishops' law" clam bakes held near Rahway yesterday.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep slope the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 12, 1906. Return trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. 8 4 7

The Historic Hudson.

The Hudson River has a renowned reputation in more ways than one. Its business interests are more widely known than any other stream, while for excursions and outings it has no equal. There are sights galore—the palisades—the U. S. Military Academy at West Point—the far famed State Prison at Sing Sing and interesting Newburg. The scenery in every direction is superb, and the steamers which convey the excursionists are commodious and comfortable. On August 9, 1906, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its popular low-rate excursions up the Hudson, the rate for the round trip to be $1.00, children 50 cents, and special train leaving Plainfield at 8:46 a. m., will connect at Jersey City station with famous iron steamer "Sirius" for the trip. Governor On Public Light.

In a letter to Village President Robert S. Sinclair, of South Orange, Governor Stokes gives his reasons for not signing the bill providing for the erection of a municipal lighting plant in South Orange, passed at the last session of the Legislature. The Governor says, in part: "During the session of the Legislature a number of bills on the subject of electric lighting were pending, all overlapping or contradicting in provision. I then suggested to the Legislature that they provide some comprehensive scheme that we might act upon. That request the Legislature failed to heed. At that time I said that I would not feel warranted in signing but one bill, believing that the subject would otherwise be seriously confused and legislation would be halting and unsatisfactory. I have already signed one bill, and it seems to me it would be better to build on this than to add more to the statute books."

Elizabeth Old Home Week.

Elizabeth, Aug. 6.—The committee recently appointed by the Board of Trade, of which former Councilman William S. Bate is chairman, to consider an "old home" week for Elizabeth, had its first meeting last Friday and discussed preliminary plans for such a celebration in this city. It was suggested that to raise money to bear the expenses of the celebration stock in preferred shares of $5 each and in common shares of $3 each be issued. A dividend might be paid on the stock from the money made during the celebration, the committee to retain all the privileges in connection with the event.

PUBLIC SERVICE CHECK MAY NOT BE ACCEPTED.

Newark Officials in Doubt if the Amount Really Represents Tax on Trust Earnings.

The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, through its auditor, Matthew L. Boylan, sent Friday to Comptroller Bacheller, of Newark, a check for $108,332.25. This represented 5 per cent. of the gross receipts of the passenger traffic of the lines of the company operated partly or wholly within the city limits for the year ending last April 30.

The amount paid yesterday was $12,000 in excess of the payment for 1905, out of which grew the public investigation of the effect of an ordinance regulating this payment, passed early in 1905. It was alleged that under that ordinance the city was deprived of its full share of the trolley receipts, which contention was sustained by the findings of the investigators.

It is understood that the city officials will refuse to accept as a final payment the check for $108,000, but will dispute the method employed by the company to determine the amount due. This method is one mileage rather than on the actual traffic in passengers.

PATERSON REDISTRICTING DECLARED ILLEGAL.

Justice Pitney Says the Law to Make It Stand Is Unconstitutional.

Trenton, Aug. 6.—Justice Pitney handed down yesterday afternoon an opinion in the Supreme Court declaring unconstitutional the act of last winter which validated proceedings under which the city of Paterson had attempted to redistrict the city. The move was a political one, and made to give control to the Republicans.

The Board of Aldermen of Paterson were and still are evenly divided, and it was expected that by redistricting a Republican majority in the body would result. Mayor Belcher, the convicted embezzler, took an active part in the movement, and appointed the redistricting commission, but the Democrats took the matter to court.

MUTUAL LIFE'S LIST.

Superintendent After Company for Filing Incompetent Addresses.

New York, Aug. 6.—State Superintendent of Insurance Kelsey is after the heads of the Mutual Life Insurance Company administration. He has been advised by the international policy-holders' committee that the names and addresses of the Mutual policy-holders, filed at Albany, as required by the Armstrong law, is not as correct as the company could have made it.

In proof of this claim, the international committee sent a number of exhibits to the superintendent at Albany. These consisted of pairs of envelopes, one bearing the imprint of the policy-holders' committee, and addressed according to the list filed in the office of the superintendent, and the other bearing the imprint of the Mutual Life, with the full address from the new stenciled list, which the company is preparing at great expense to the policy-holders.

BRIDE KEPT HER SECRET.

Mother Finally Obtains Confession of a Secret Wedding.

The marriage was announced yesterday of Miss Sara Moran, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moran, of No. 62 Race street, Bloomfield, and Charles W. Early, of Middletown, N. Y., who holds a responsible position with the Edison Phonograph Company at West Orange. The bride is twenty years old and the bridegroom two years her senior. The young couple were quietly married in Manhattan Wednesday, April 25.

The secret was well kept until yesterday, when the girl's mother, who had heard persistent rumors that her daughter was married, asked her if it were true and she finally admitted that it was. She gave as a reason for her secrecy that she feared the objection of her parents.

Mrs. Moran, who is an invalid, said that while she was not opposed to the match, she had wished the young folk to wait a year and then have a church wedding.

NAMES CRANFORD LAWYER.

New York Physician, Now Seeking Divorce, Sues G. W. Case.

New York, Aug. 6.—Dr. Alan G. Terrell, a physician, of 406 West Fifty-seventh street, and his wife, have begun divorce suits in the Supreme Court. She sued him first, and now he has brought a similar action. Mrs. Terrell applied yesterday to Judge MacLean to consolidate the two actions.

Dr. Terrell has also brought an action against George W. Case, a lawyer, of Cranford, N. J., to recover $50,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of Mrs. Terrell, who says her husband's action is unwarranted.

Dr. Terrell has taken habeas corpus proceedings in New Jersey to obtain possession of the two children. Judge MacLean reserved his decision on the motion.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 6, 1906.

A NEW MONUMENT.

The Plainfield Trust Company, the youngest of the local banking institutions, which today opens for business in its handsome new home, has a history that challenges comparison in the annals of banking in the State of New Jersey. Its record, during the four brief years of existence, is not only a matter of pride with its capable officers and directors but with the city in which it does business. Starting in June, 1902, in a field then well occupied the Plainfield Trust Company let it be known that it intended to build up a business along modern lines, pointing to its list of directors as a guarantee that it should receive the confidence of the community. When its doors were opened for business the total deposits of the institutions did not amount to over $200,000. Since then four years have passed and today the deposits have been increased to approximately $2,000,000. Then it was satisfied with a humble little home in East Front street, which at the time was considered large enough for all purposes. It was soon seen, however, that it would only be a short time before larger quarters would be needed. The public liked the bank and liked its officers. Accordingly plans were laid for a home which would not only be suitable for many years to come but would be an advertisement of the spirit of the community. Today the building and the concern itself stand as monuments of progressive Plainfield and the institution has the confidence which a solid and progressive banking house deserves.

Pretty soon the Middlesex "new idea" men may awake to the fact that Theodore Strong is not a candidate for State Senator this year, and that attacks upon him will fall flat upon voters who are demanding to be shown reasons why they should not re-elect the ablest Senator who has represented Middlesex county in modern times, a demand so far unsatisfied.—New Brunswick Home News.

My, my, how the warm weather effects the "man on the desk!"

A New York paper devotes a column to an interview with Lord Rothchild in which the eminent financier is quoted as predicting Republican success in the next Presidential election. Probably he is right but the means employed to insure victory will not be those employed in the last two Presidential campaigns. In other words the result of the next contest will rest on the merits of the issues and not on the dollars.

Acknowledgement is made of the receipt of five dollars for the baby camp on the mountainside. The amount has been transmitted to the camp treasurer and the thanks of The Daily Press are extended to the contributor.

ZEPHYR H. AND L. COMPANY AT HOOLIGAN'S GROVE.

Firemen Spent Day at Mountainside Sunday—Games, Banquet and Speeches in the Afternoon.

Members of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company had their annual summer outing at Hooligan's Grove on the mountains yesterday. Fourteen members and twenty-seven invited guests formed the party, which went to the park by trolley at 10 o'clock in the morning. During the morning the members spent the time in playing quoits and other games under the trees.

A big collation was served at noon, and there were speeches by W. W. Coriell, Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings and Joseph Blimm, treasurer of the association. During the afternoon there was singing by a quartette composed of Joseph Martin, Calvin Sutton, "Bige" Southern and George Stites. The members were photographed in a group in the afternoon and there was also a picture of the entire party taken. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Joseph Blimm, chairman, George Mehl, Charles Glaentzer, George Studer and Thomas Hughes.

Trinity Church Excursion Tomorrow.

There is every indication that Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school and Marconnier chapel will have pleasant weather for their annual excursion to Asbury Park tomorrow. The train will leave the North Avenue Station at 8 o'clock in the morning and returning leave the shore at 7 o'clock. The committee in charge has made arrangements for the comfort of all who take the outing and a large crowd is expected to go to the shore.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

News for April 16, 1868:

Town Elections—Town meeting passed off very quietly, resulting, as usual, in the election of the entire Republican ticket, by 116 majority—a reduction, however, of the majority of last spring. The following figures will show the majority for each Republican candidate, 562 votes being polled: Town clerk, Nelson Runyon, 93; Judge of Elections, William C. Ayres, 112; Assessor, Joseph A. Hubbard, 113; Collector, Henry A. H. Martin, 104; Chosen Freeholder, Zachariah Webster, 111; Surveyors of Highways, William M. Jennings, 104, and Andrew Vanderbeek, 101; Commissioners of Appeal, Joseph B. Coward, 109, John Harris, 106, Manning Stelle, 115; Justices of the Peace, John Harris, 106, Peter P. Good, Jr., 86; Town Committee, Wallace Vail, 100, Elias R. Pope, 116, Oliver Runyon, 107, Randolph Runyon, 113, Theodore J. Gillies, 97; Constables, Henry J. Hankinson, 106, Jacob Lacy, 106, Isaac Brokaw, 105; Overseers of Roads, No. 1, Asa Vail, 116; No. 2, G. M. Angleman, 109; No. 3, J. C. Meeker, 114; No. 4, Edwin Terry, 111. Appropriations: $2,500 for making and repairing roads; $1,500 for making and repairing sidewalks; twenty-five cents per hour per man for making roads; sixty cents per hour for double team for working roads; thirty-five cents per hour for single team for working roads; township school tax, $2 per scholar; money sufficient for the support of the poor; $150 for constables, being $50 each; and an additional fee of $2 for each prisoner taken by them on commitment to the county jail. Jacob Kirkner, Democratic candidate for school trustee, was elected by 220 majority. The following officers were elected to the Plainfield fire department: For President, Elias R. Pope; for Secretary, Alex Titsworth; for Treasurer, Joseph B. Coward; for Directors, J. H. Platt and J. W. Murray.

Section 6 of the act to incorporate the Plainfield Fire Department, approved March 3d, 1854, obliges the managers to give notice of each annual meeting, and the sum of money they deem it expedient to raise, and of the purposes to which said sum is to be applied in the newspapers published in said village, and by handbills posted in five of the most public places. Has that been complied with? The laws says they SHALL do so and so. The law must be obeyed.

The Fire Department managers report paying E. R. Popem, services as Secretary six years, $60; J. VanWinkle, services as secretary, one year, $10. The act of incorporation expressly provides "That the Board of Managers shall not appropriate any of the funds of the corporation to the payment of the salary of any officer to the corporation, or as a remuneration for services of such officer, unless the by-laws or resolution under which such appropriation is made, be first presented and approved by the members of the corporation at their annual meeting." Was such authority obtained, and when? If so, all right, if not so, all wrong. Who has the record?

Bold Robbery—The store of Messrs. Pickell & Ramsey was entered by burglars on Wednesday night of last week and goods to the amount of $1,500 stolen therefrom. The thieves broke one of the large glasses in the front window, first besmearing it with paste to prevent any sound, and thus gained entrance to the inside. No clue to the robbers has been obtained.

The Union County Court commenced its session last week. Plainfield was represented on the grand jury by John Simpson, A. Bonnell and George R. Pound.

The Legislature last week elected Robert S. Green, Law Judge, and David Mulford, Common Pleas Judge, for Union County.

Baseball—On Thursday evening of last week the Plainfield Baseball Club and Mechanics' Baseball Club of this place became one. This was brought about by the united efforts of both clubs, and with the two clubs consolidated together, we may expect to have one of the best amatuer nines in the State. The new club will be called the Union Baseball Club of Plainfield, N. J. The following are the officers: President, Alex Titsworth; Vice President, William H. McMahon; Recording Secretary, C. H. Andrews; Financial Secretary, C. W. Boughton; Corresponding Secretary, John T. Lee; Treasurer, E. P. Thorn; Board of Directors, Fred Graham, Jerome Phillips, Joseph Vail, George D. Merrill, T. J. Gillies, Alex Titsworth and William H. McMahon. We understand the new club has secured grounds for playing of Clark Rogers, Esq., corner of Eighth and Centre streets, and propose erecting a club house for the use of members; stands are also to be erected for the accommodation of ladies, so we may look for renewed interest in baseball matters this season. Success to the Union.

Call—Rev. S. C. Rogers, for the past eleven years pastor for the Seventh Day Baptist church at New Market, has accepted a call from the Seventh Day Baptist church at Leonardsville, Madison county, New York.

We learn from the Union County Herald:—A collision took place on the Central Railroad on Friday morning between an oil train and a coal train. The oil train leaving Plainfield at 8 o'clock was following the coal train very closely and when between Westfield and Cranford ran into the caboose of the coal train smashing it and many of the coal cars almost demolishing the locomotive of the oil train. The debris delayed the passenger train nearly three hours. No one was injured. This running trains so near each other is a great cause of complaint on the Central Railroad, and should be stopped.

We also learn from the same source that Thomas Curran, who was so severely injured last week by being run over by a Central Railroad train, died on Tuesday last at the Alms House from the effects of the injuries then received.

Attention is directed to the card of Corra Ryno. Those in want of a neat-fitting boot or shoe should give him a call. He has a large assortment of the best material on hand, and knows how to do good work.

Among the patents issued to citizens of New Jersey during March, was one to John M. Perkins, of Plainfield, for compound fabric for covering walls, &c.

If any of our readers happen to hear an unusual noise about the time they receive their paper, they need not be frightened, as it will only be our "devil," who has adopted the plan of "sounding his trumpet" to let our patrons know he is around.

Fire—On Friday evening last, a barn on the corner of Fourth and Mechanic streets, was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was given, and our ever-ready fire department was promptly on hand, but found that their services were not needed, as the building was burned to a complete skeleton when the fire companies arrived. Gazelle Engine Company No. 1, who was first on the ground, took suction from a well near the fire, but could get no water. Shortly after, Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 pulled the burning building to pieces, and so rendered it unnecessary to throw water upon the flames, as there was no danger of the fire spreading. The steamer Plainfield No. 2 was not brought into requisition, although promptly on hand. The fire undoubtedly was the work of an incendiary (reports of children playing with fire in the barn to the contrary) as there was a strong smell of oil or kerosene about the burning building, which, together with the fact, when the fire was first discovered, the flames burst out, enveloping the whole building in an instant, the roof falling in a few moments afterward, plainly shows that the inside must have been saturated with somekind of inflammable substance. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the indefatigueable Chief, John Roselle, who, with Mr. J. F. Layton, remained at the fire all night. The wind rising during the night, they were compelled to carry water and throw it on the rekindled flames in order to subdue it. The fire companies will lose a valuable officer when he retires.

It was suggested at a meeting of the Plainfield Fire Board, held April 20th, at Gazelle Hall, "That we request the sextons of the different churches to ring the bells of said churches at every fire or alram of fire, as we have no alarm bell that we can hear." We think this a grand idea, and hope the sextons will cheerfully comply with it.

HELD UP TROLLEYS.

Passengers Insist On Right to Have a Seat.

Because he desired to sit on the front seat of a special baseball trolley car, Saturday afternoon, Borough Councilman Charles Lee held the car up for fifteen minutes at the Watchung avenue stand. It was the last special to the ball grounds and the car was crowded, the only vacant place being the front seat.

Motormen have all received strict orders not to allow anyone to sit on that seat and if a passenger persists in doing so, the motorman must not start the car until he moves. Mr. Lee finally gave up his seat and the car proceeded.

Another car was held up during the afternoon on the Arlington avenue line by H. C. Squires, who also insisted in riding on the front seat of a car. The delay in this case was not so long.

FLOCKED TO EXCURSION.

Over Three-Score Eagles Went to College Point esterday.

Headed by Worthy President Michael Higgins, 60 or 70 members of the local aerie went on the excursion of the Elizabeth Eagles to College Point yesterday. About fifteen New Brunswick Eagles accompanied them.

The excursionists left here at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, taking the boat of College Point at Elizabethport. They got back into town at about 12 o'clock at night.

Cricket at Bound Brook.

An exciting league game in the New York Cricket Association tournament was played at East Bound Brook Saturday afternoon. Kings County B eleven defeated Bound Brook Cricket Club by a margin of one run. The score was 63 to 62. F. Gauthier, wh oscored 12; J. Gordon, 16, and C. Nugent, 20, not out, for the Bound Brooks, did the best work, while L. Gould, 10; G. Hunt, 16, and A. Schoolden, 17, not out, did well. Bound Brook Club stands second in the tournament, having won seven and lost two games. Next Saturday Manhattan C. C., of New York, will play at Bound Brook.

Kate Stevens Again In Jail.

Kate Stevens is in trouble again. The dusky toper from Westfield is again in a borough cell, awaiting sentence from Mayor Smalley tonight Despite her promise to keep away from the borough, she came back Saturday night and started to pour down cooling booze. She eluded the police for the night, but residents on Howard street complained to the police about her actions through that region Sunday morning, and Chief Weiss arrested her.

Mrs. O'Sullivan Buried.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret O'Sullivan, wife of P. J. O'Sullivan, who died Friday, was held at her late residence, 1113 East Second street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 3:30. Father Bogan officiated. Patrick Driscoll, John Hammond, Edward Kelly, Edward Boyle and Edward Simpson acted as pall bearers. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

A Belated Announcement.

Marriage of Katie A. Haley, of Park avenue, and Rudolph A. Bourgeois, of East Front street, took place in New York on December 15, 1905. The groom formerly worked in the Brooklyn Navy Yard but is now employed as superintendent of a large machine shop in Mexico. The bride says she expects to join her husband in the near future. The marriage was kept quiet on account of the death of the bride's mother.

Plan for a Swim Thursday.

If Plainfield were on the coast you could bathe in the surf today. And you would, too. You'll feel just the same way Thursday, and on that day part of Plainfield will be on the coast, when that special Sunday-school excursion goes to Asbury Park for the day. The annual outing of the Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Seventh-Day Baptists.

Work Progressing at Postoffice.

Employees of the Corbin Cabinet Lock Company, of New Britain, Conn., worked all day yesterday up to 1 o'clock this morning in an effort to complete the work of installing the new fixtures in the postoffice. They were unable to finish the task by the time the office opened this morning, and they will probably be here the best part of the week.

Capt. Townley's Vacation.

Captain William Townley, of No. 3 Company, began his summer vacation yesterday. He will be off twelve days. Tillerman George Mehl returns to duty tomorrow after spending his vacation in a series of short trips from town.

Cooler at Asbury Park.

There's no breeze like a sea breeze and you don't want to wait in Plainfield to get a sea breeze. Go with the Hope chapel excursion to Asbury Park Saturday and spend the day by, on, or in the water. Return trip begins at 7:30.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

NEW ENGLAND TAVERNS.

Rough and Ready Liquor Laws of the Early Days.

In the early settlement of New England taverns were found to be a necessity, and hence were established by law. They were usually under the sanction and surveillance of the town officials, says Mr. Hudson in "The History of Concord, Mass." and these officials had to grant, limit or revoke an innholder's license, either as a victualler or a seller of liquors.

The keeper of the ordinary might be a deacon, a military officer, a civil official or a deputy to the general court. His house was a convenient place for convocations, important or unimportant, and there might be held in it a parish meeting, a military election, a council of clergymen or an assessors' talk.

So important was the ordinary that its affairs, such as the establishment of prices, the limitation of patronage and the quality and quantity of goods to be sold, were regulated by colonial law.

In order to discourage the use of strong drink at these places it was enacted about 1634 by the colonial court that not over a penny a quart should be charged for all purchased out of mealtimes. It was also ordered that not more than a penny a drink should be charged for any beverage. This was done to make the business of dramselling unprofitable. At another time it was enacted by law that every inn-keeper should sell good beer, "lest a traveler for want of it might purchase wine."

A law was passed at an early date by which a person appointed for the purpose could join a drinking company at a tavern and countermand any order made by any member of it for a drink in case he believed the member was drinking too much, and he could also direct how much liquor could be drunk.

At one time no tavern keeper was allowed to permit guests to remain at his house "tippling in an idle way." In 1664 a penalty was enacted for rude singing at inns, and the court also undertook at one time to determine how much a man might drink without being considered drunk.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

As well as his imperfect English, and vague knowledge permitted, the deputy explained the reason for Wilkinson's absence, but one fact alone was clear—the general was on an errand that boded no good to the plans of Aaron Burr. Indeed, from what little he could glean from the noncommittal Frenchman, Winslow realized that Burr was mistaken in reckoning upon the friendship and cooperation of the general. To be sure, there might be a mistake on the part of the deputy, or he might himself, mistake the latter's meaning. Nevertheless, so long as there remained a doubt of Wilkinson's attitude so long was it unwise to further acquaint him with Aaron Burr's designs.

All this went through his mind as he listened to the foreign's muddled explanation. The packet of letters was in his pocket—"and they shall stay there," was Winslow's mental comment, as he grimly buttoned his coat, "until I am better acquainted with the temper of the man to whom they are addressed."

He was bowing himself out, when the deputy detained him. "Some wine, monsieur," and from a shelf he brought decanter and goblets.

At this unique turn of threatened imprisonment Winslow's spirits rose.

"This is from the Tyrol land, monsieur," cried the host, "where we may have every season for the simple taking of a journey up or down the mountain side. Is summer, or winter, desired? voila; you have it; and the grapes—eh, bien! the winepress is more glorious crimson than the field of battle. Let us drink to your speedy release from parole, monsieur."

"Thanks," and they touched glasses.

On the tip of Winslow's tongue hovered another toast, but to that he sipped a silent draught.

Then: "Let us drink to the stars and stripes, your excellency."

"Oui, oui," acceded the other, and drained his goblet, responding to the honor of the American flag as eagerly as though it were the only emblem under which he had ever drawn sword.

Returning to the tavern, Winslow penned a second note to Lavender. In this he told her of his detention at St. Louis.

"I shall be here indefinitely, I fear, or until this absurd embargo is lifted. Under this I could not leave now, even should I have command from our chief. But the authorities may soon come to their senses, and then I shall steal away to you."

In a postscript he added: "Someone on board our boat gave the information which led to my arrest and detention here. I cannot learn who the busybody was—nor does it matter. This whole affair is so perplexing that I do not worry about trifles."

To Owatoga he confided the missive. "You need not deliver that first note I wrote, Owatoga. Instead, find her and give her this."

The Indian started at once for the village of St. Charles, 20 miles away, on that river which augmented the Mississippi with its yellow mud.

He had covered half the distance when he came upon a party of men and women, most of whom had been his fellow-passengers on the boat. They were westward bound, many of them to the settlement of St. Charles. They had heard of this place as the destination of the Creightons, and even this much knowledge gave them a feeling of familiarity. To know even the name of a future home was much in this unchristened wilderness.

"YOU WILL GIVE IT TO THE WHITE MAIDEN—QUICK!" HE DEMANDED.

There was the planter from New Orleans, the ruined player of many games; he must retrieve them in this new land, and St. Charles would do as well as another spot on which to try the dice of fortune.

The octoroon, faithful, followed him.

Senor Gonzaga, too, rode with him.

Recognizing Owatoga, he attempted to open a conversation with him, but the Indian was unwilling—instinct told him where this man was going, and why. So he only responded by a curt: "I follow the sun," to the Spaniard's: "Whither bound, my friend?"

The travelers were encamped about a small spring, and Owatoga paused long enough to water his horse, and rode quickly on.

But Gonzaga overtook him, and spoke low. "You are bent on an errand for your master?"

The reply to this was a surly grunt.

"You are the bearer of a note to Miss Creighton?" the questioner persisted.

The Indian touched his pocket significantly.

From the Spaniard's eyes flashed a smile of triumph, and emboldened by his success thus far, "perhaps I might deliver it to the lady, and save you the trouble?" he ventured.

At this the Indian frowned and his ruddy face darkened. But only for an instant, then his hand sought the pocket again, and withdrew the note.

Handing it to Gonzaga. "You will give it to the white maiden—quick?" he demanded.

The effusive reply seemed to satisfy him, for putting spur to his pony Owatoga set off alone.

But at the end of a vista of budding trees he paused, and looked slyly over his shoulder. Then from his saddlebag he pulled another note. Satisfied that it was the last one with which Winslow had intrusted him, he pushed it back with a grin of cunning, and rode on.

The Spaniard, too, smiled as he joined the more leisurely group. He read the note Owatoga had given him, then tore it into tiny pieces. Blowing these into the air. "Go, pretty words," he whispered, "bear my greeting to the robins. Tell them you will make a warm lining for their nests in summer. Yes, by all the gods, a warm lining!"

CHAPTER XI.

The smoke from a frontier cabin curled lazily out of the chimney, and mingled straight with the clouds. There was no breeze at this twilight hour—the pulse of the world was still, waiting the set of sun. Slowly he sank, entangled in a network of trees—trees newly robed in the sparse yellow-green of April.

Some fowls, picking among the gravel outside, scurried away as a woman came to the door, and, shading her eyes with her hand, looked across the small clearing, and the road skirting it, to the forest beyond.

"Daughter, supper is ready." Her voice had a weary note, but she smiled at sight of Lavender perched on the top step of the stile. The girl was watching the sunset—subdued by the mystical beauty of the hour. She was oppressed by an intense eagerness to grasp and hold the glory; saddened by the effort to feel enough. To her exuberant soul, life seemed worthy of much more than grudging nature gave.

The sky was bathed in a flood of bronze and gold, with the tawny arms of the dying sun stretched to the zenith as in benediction on the world.

At one side of the stile stood a great pine—dead, but with here and there a faithful cone clinging to the branches.

A plowed field near showed an occasional bit of grass on its dark surface, as though the virgin soil were tired waiting for the tardy sowing of the farmer. On a mullein stalk a butterfly shook its trammeled wings free of the web which a guardian spider had spun over the rose that tempted this gay wooer.

"Lavender," Mrs. Creighton called, and, waving her bonnet at the butterfly, the girl jumped to the ground, and walked reluctantly to the house, with backward glances at the gorgeous obsequies of the sun.

In the huge chimney, under the crane-hung kettle, flickered a small fire. Shadows danced on floor and walls—on the white draped bed in the corner—on the snowy cloth spread over the table, a rude slab on oaken posts.

Guns hung on the buck horns above the door; an old print of the Madonna, and a few family portraits in dull frames, decked duller wall. The coloring was somber, but the firelight glow, and the sparkle of silver on the table, brightened the interior. Everywhere was a nameless charm, foreign to the wildwood. Perhaps it was in the white curtains—in the basket of gay worsted, in the wild flowers blooming on mantelpiece and table.

When the meal was finished, Lavender filled her father's pipe. "Do you know, dad, that you are giving yourself altogether too many fancy airs? There is such a painful contrast between your buckskin coat and this gold tobacco box. And as for mother—that knot of real lace is poking fun at the linsey gown it adorns."

DIAMOND DUST.

Jimmy Beisel pitched winning ball for Glen Cove against Oyster Bay Saturday afternoon. He went in after Glen Cove's home twirler had been hammered in the third for three runs, and he held down the athletes from Roosevelt's burg while his mates scored 5 runs.

The game broke a winning streak that Oyster Bay had nursed through ten games. Glen Cove wanted to give Jimmy the keys of the village after the game.

Capt. William Townley of the fire department, saw the double-header between Newark and Jersey City yesterday.

The Hobokens started on a week's trip through the summer resorts of New York State last night. They open up today at Heischman's. The tour will tap the Kaatskill resorts. Deegan and Dougherty will twirl.

The Poughkeepsie Club of the Hudson River League is after Willie Deegan. He pitched for the team against Paterson and made a big hit. Deegan has struck his old-time gait, and the Monday crowds at Hoboken are now seing him in championship form. He is rapidly getting in the class A bunch.

The 'Plains ball team continued its winning streak Saturday afternoon by again trailing Clinton Avenue's colors in the dust and sending the nine home with the small end of a seven to six score. The game itself was one of the most exciting of the season and was won by the 'Plains team after its most ardent supporters had given up hopes of victory, many having even left for home. The Clinton Avenue team took the lead in their half of the first by pounding Johnston's delivery for three runs. The locals in their half brought one across the rubber. Neither side scored again until the sixth, when the home team brought in another, making the score three to two.

In the seventh Clinton Avenue again took a liking to Johnston's delivery and scored three runs and had a man on third base with no outs. Johnston was taken out and Frentz went in. The change saved the day as the next three men were retired in one, two, three order. In their half with the score six to two against them, the 'Plains team started a batting rally which, assisted by several errors of the Clinton Avenues, netted them five runs and won the game as neither side were able to score in the eighth or ninth. Following is the line-up and score by innings:

'Plains—Vanderbilt, rf; Reick, lf; H. Alberts, c; Baldwin, ss; Frentz, 1b-p; J. Alberts, 2b; Eller, cf; Schreinbeck, 3b; Johnston, p-1b.

Clinton Avenue—Barclay, lf; O'Loughlin, c; Nelson, cf; Giles, 1b; Emery, 3b; J. Martin, ss; Murphey, rf; Barnes, 1b; Scott, p.

DUNELLENITES VICTIMS OF HARD LUCK.

Cranford Took the Game 1 to 0, Scoring on Pass, Error and Only Hit of Game.

Playing in most discouraging hard luck at Cranford Saturday, the Dunellen nine was defeated by a single run, the score being 1 to 0. It was a game in which there was every reason to suppose that Dunellen would win out, Randolph pitched a good game, allowing but one hit and fanning fifteen men, and the Dunellenites made but a single error. But there was a hoodoo in the air for the local boys. Sensational fielding by the Cranfordites, good playing on the bases, and rabbit's foot luck in the third gave them the run that meant the game.

In this inning Page drew a pass from Randolph and went down on a wild throw for Penrose, who got all mixed up trying to handle Whitemore's grounder. Banks then came to the bat and lifted a high fly to first base. Peacock misjudged the ball and Page came home with the only run of the game. The Dunellenites steadied down after this and though there were men on second and third, and none gone Randolph finished the session by striking out the next three batters.

PHIL JAHN SAVES LIFE OF HOPATCONG CAMPER.

Camp Colby Visited by Plainfielders Yesterday—Had a Good Time.

Camp Colby, Lake Hopatcong, Aug. 6.—Phil Jahn saved the life of M. Hans Iobenbach, of Allentown, Pa., yesterday. The man was apparently under the influence of something stronger than tea and had gone down for the second time when Phil sprang in after him. He succeeded in getting him ashore where other campers worked over him for an hour before he was finally brought around.

John P. Hall, who was rescued from a watery grave on Saturday by Elmer Cutting, now feels all right again.

We had lots of friends to help us get away with some of our well cooked food yesterday and they seemed to enjoy the day. Among the Plainfielders in the party were Thomas Hanna, John Kenney, Andrew Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. John Bacher, Clarence Teel, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, William Whalen Doud, Carrol Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haynes, Mrs. Robert Jahn, Miss Alice Higgins, Miss Hannah Higgins and Miss Matilda Coddington.

Another party of Plainfielders has encamped here. They call their outdoor home Camp Buster. Their tents are pitched at Nolans Point, a stone's throw away from our own happy home. In their party are Henry Brebrock, Roy Adams, Andrew Anderson and John Brebrock.

Another drowning accident occurred here last night, the victim being William Mathian, aged twenty-two years, of Riverside, New Jersey. The body was recovered this morning. Mathian came here yesterday with a house boat party. His comrades were his brother, Herbert Mathian, E. P. Johnson and D. E. Steinhelder, all of Riverside. Mathian ate a hearty dinner and soon afterwards went into swim. He was seized with cramps and before aid could reach him, he went under for the last time.

Robert Reed left for home today. "Pete" Feiring is here for a day or two. He has promised not to start any arguments.

Elizabeth Hides Its Figures at Meeting of County Board of Assessors.

APPROXIMATE FIGURES

Complete Returns To Be Received At Session On Tuesday—To Be Complied by September 11.

Many of the assessors throughout Union county complied with the new tax law and attended the meeting held in the Court House, Elizabeth, yesterday, presenting their assessment lists and duplicates to the County Board of Taxation. Some of the assessors were unable to do so, notably those of Elizabeth, who are behind in their work. There was an impression that the Elizabeth assessors held up their list for the purpose of first ascertaining what report Plainfield would make. The local assessors got wise and although they left their books with the county board, as required, they did not certify them, intending to wait until next Tuesday, to which time an adjournment was taken.

On the second Tuesday in August the county collector is compelled by law to lay county's apportionment of State school tax before the county board of taxation, also amount to be raised for county by taxation, and on the third Tuesday in August the governing body of the taxing district is to certify amount to be raised by taxation to the county board of taxation.

The assessors from most of the townships, however, were able to hand in approximate figures, which the given below as taken by Clerk Thomas Hanna:

Rahway—1905, $3,441,820; 1906, $4,049,550; increase, $607,730; Roselle Park—1905, $931,000; 1906, $1,679,658; increase, $748,658; Roselle Borough—1905, $1,270,000; 1906, $2,086,000; increase $816,000; New Providence Borough—1905, $220,000; 1906, $465,000; increase, $245,000; Plainfield—1905, $10,251,064; 1906, $20,940,615; increase, $10,689,551; Fanwood Township—1905, $863,537; 1906, $1,113,537; increase, $250,000; Fanwood Borough—1905, $256,500; 1906, $264,500; ncrease, $7,869; Linden township—1905, $1,666,700; 1906, $3,197,755; increase, $1,531,055; Linden Borough—1905, $246,200; 1906, $404,825; increase, $158,625; Mountainside — 1905, $141,650; 1906, $264,120; increase, $123,000; New Providence Borough—1905, $152,000; 1906, $249,000; increase, $97,000; Clark Township—1905, ...; 1906, ...; increase, $15,000; Cranford—1905, $1,781,792; 1906, $3,839,000; increase, $2,057,208; Springfield Township—1905, $402,200; 1906, $846,666; increase, $444,466; Summit—1905, $3,608,000; 1906, $8,700,000; increase, $5,092,000; Westfield—1905, $2,932,000; 1906, $4,200,000; increase, $1,268,000; Union—1905, $1,927,782; 1906, $3,000,000; increase, $1,072,218.

The Elizabeth assessors seem to be in trouble for their work is very incomplete at present, the time it should be ready for presentation to the county board of taxation. The board had not been in session long when the assessors began to fire a lot of questions at the heads of the tax officials.

While the Elizabeth assessors were behind in their work they were ready with all sorts of excuses for the delay. When all of the assessors had been heard from Caleb C. Pollard, chairman of the board, announced that all books would have to be ready for revision by next Tuesday. Instantly, the assessors, who have failed in their duty, were asking how they were expected to be able to do it. If the law is carried out they must have a completed book ready to leave in the hands of the board and another for their own use. None of them have as yet begun any work on the second book. "It's an utter impossibility," declared one assessor. "Why, there is three weeks' work to be done on my books yet." However, the assessors were informed that the law required them to have their books ready at the specified time; so that the board can complete its work by September 1.

One of the Plainfield assessors complained that he and his colleagues had no real idea as to how they were to act in the case of banks and trust companies who changed all their valuable funds into untaxable securities and then came to the assessors ready to swear off everything they had that was taxable, leaving him about $19,000 of a valuable taxable.

Chairman Pollard fell back on the law and informed the assessors that the Supreme Court was the safest to follow, and the board could not venture to give any further instructions along certain lines. From present indications the whole tax question as far as the assessors are concerned and the completion of their books is in a sorry mess and many left the meeting under the impression that there would be some lively times before they got through. It is held by the board that it can adjourn from day to day after next Tuesday until all of the books are completed and turned in, but the fact that they cannot begin their work until that time is a source of much concern for them.

One of the local assessors in speaking of yesterday's meeting said that so far as the Plainfield board is concerned it proposes to assess at the true value and make its returns accordingly, no matter what Elizabeth or any other city or town in the county does, but if it is learned that there are assessors who are not assessing at true value the matter will be reported to the county board of taxation and in case that body fails to do its duty it will be taken up with the State Board of Taxation.

AUDITORIUM TO BE BUILT FOR ST. STEPHEN'S PARISH.

Permits Granted For Erection of Addition to Seat 300—Building to Be Used For Parish Work.

The newly acquired parish house of St. Stephen's church, at Woodlawn and South avenues, is to be remodelled and improved and the permits have been granted for the work. The principal change to be made is an extension which is to be added to the east side of the building, along Woodland avenue. This extension is to measure 54 by 26 feet and is to be used as a parish auditorium. The plans were prepared by Architect Jacob Wind, of Elizabeth, and the mason work contract has been awarded to J. Stewart. F. H. Bowe is the carpenter.

The extension is to be one room on the main floor, and will have an entrance from the main building as well as from the street. It is to have a large stage and small rooms on either side of it; the hall proper will seat between three and four hundred people. Over part of the hall is to be a second story, which is to contain additional rooms to Rev. Arthur S. Peck's apartments, which are on the second floor. A balcony is to be constructed at the side of the house in connection with these apartments. The building is now being painted, John Hensey being the contractor.

The work is to be pushed forward as rapidly as possible and the extension will be ready for use by early fall. The main floor of the parish house, which was but recently purchased, will contain a reading room, boys' club room, guild room, men's room, and the press room of the St. Stephen's Messenger, the parish paper. It is possible that the Sunday-school will hold its sessions in the auditorium.

GRADING SCHOOL GROUNDS.

Board of Education Will Do Work Itself, Not By Contract.

The Board of Education met in formal session last night only to pass bills, but a long consultation with Engineer F. J. Hubbard regarding the grading and gardening of the grounds preceded the meeting. That was practically the business of the session, although it was not touched on in the actual meeting. Messrs. Probasco, Lovell, Abbott and Cave were present, the latter acting as secretary in Mr. Woodhull's place.

The work of beautifying the grounds is being done by the Board itself, and not by contract. Mr. Hubbard has been placed in charge of the work, and will oversee it all through.

E. G. Kraft Signed.

Edmund G. Kraft, of Raritan, has been signed by Barart T. Conkling, manager of the West Ends, Somerville, to twirl for the remainder of the season. Nafis, who has pitched a good game all the year for the nine, has been released, for no other reason than that it was thought best to give "home" talent a chance. Kraft has been pitching a great game for various semi-professional nines and the one game he did pitch for the West Ends resulted in a victory over the Washington, Warren county, nine by a score of 9 to 0. The Roselles will be the opponents next Saturday afternoon.

THIEF IGNORED SILVER.

Amateurish Robbery at Hugh McMurray's House on Seventh St.

Hugh McMurray's house on West Seventh street was entered by a sneak thief yesterday and robbed of some plated forks, knives and spoons. From the way in which the job was done, the police believe a boy worked it.

Entrance was gained through a cellar window. Although there was considerable sterling silver and cut glass in the house, the thief paid no attention to it. A chisel stolen from the unfinished house of Councilman Randolph across the street was found near the open window. A mushy, three-volume love story was found beside the chisel.

The McMurrays have been away from town for a week. The robbery was discovered by Edward Kelly, the gardener, when he came around to cut the grass.

RULES FOR SCAVENGERS

Board of Health Orders Collectors to Use Metal Tight Wagons and Cans.

BETTER RESTRICTIONS

No Garbage To Be Gathered In Business Section After 9 Clock in the Morning—To Be Enforced.

Many garbage collectors in the city having become more or less careless in their work, the Board of Health has felt obliged to adopt more stringent rules and regulations. At the meeting yesterday action was taken in the matter and in the future the garbage men will be compelled to abide by the new rules.

According to the new regime all garbage which is taken from dwelling houses, hotels and restaurants in the city, must be removed in water tight metal wagons with metal covers or in water tight metal cans provided with tightly-fitting metal covers, and not in wooden box wagons, wooden barrels or pails, as at present. The cans and wagons must at all times be kept in repair and in a clean and sanitary condition. They must be thoroughly cleaned once each day. Lime, or other proper deordorizer, must be used at least three times a week during the months of May to October inclusive. While in the city the cans must at all times be tightly covered.

Garbage collectors will not be allowed to collect garbage in the district bounded by Watchung avenue, East Fourth street, West Fourth street, Arlington avenue, West Third street, Central avenue, Grove street and Greenbrook, after 9 o'clock in the morning. Collections in that district must be made early in the morning. For violations such offenders will have their permits revoked and will not be allowed to collect garbage in the city. These rules are now in effect.

Resolutions were adopted putting the new rules and regulations in force. Health Officer L. R. Thurlow has been instructed to enforce the rules and to send a copy of them to every person collecting garbage in the city.

305 Children at Netherwood Camp.

With the arrival of a delegation of eighty mothers and children from New York city Monday afternoon, the number of the children from the tenement districts has increased to 305. The natatorium, which was a gift of David Hand, of Netherwood, is the most popular place on the grounds and the children spend much of the time paddling in the water.

JUDGE SITS AS SQUIRE

Booream Takes Place of Justice of Peace When Latter Refuses Women Bail.

MATRIMONIAL TROUBLE

Sandfords Cause a Lot of Trouble In New Market—Prosecutor Jumps Into Case.

Dunellen justice was put at a discount in the eyes of the law when a case before Justice of the Peace Rogers, of New Market, was settled by Judge Booream, who came up from New Brunswick in an automobile and contradicted the local justice's judgment in the case of Mrs. Samuel Sanford, of Newtown, Monday night. Mrs. Sanford was arrested on a warrant sworn out by her husband, who is retaliating for a recent complaint made against him by his wife. Mrs. Sanford is suing her husband for divorce.

The legal rupture was brought about by the warrants sworn out against Mrs. Sanford by her husband. There were three charges against her—adultery, assault and battery and disturbing the peace. A warrant was also sworn out for Joseph Laurence, who, it is alleged, has been the companion of Mrs. Sanford at Myrick's boarding house in New Market. Justice Rogers was in charge of the court at New Market and Mrs. Sanford was brought in. He committed her to imprisonment for the night but she asked to be allowed to call up Prosecutor Berdine at New Brunswick. The Prosecutor requested that Mrs. Sanford and Laurence be brought before him at New Brunswick.

This could not be done, for the warrants were issued by the local justice of the peace and the case could not be removed from his jurisdiction. The Prosecutor became very angry when this was explained to him over the 'phone.

"Lock her up at Dunellen, then," he said, "I'll be there as soon as you will."

Mrs. Sanford was taken to Dunellen, where the Prosecutor was waiting when Justice Rogers, the constable and the prisoners arrived. He had come up from New Brunswick in an automobile, bringing with him Judge Booream, of that place. At the hearing held in Dunellen, the Prosecutor appealed to have Mrs. Sanford released upon her own recognizance to appear before the grand jury in September. R. P. V. Von Minden, who is Sanford's lawyer in the divorce case as well as in the matter of the warrants, objected to this, and wanted a bond. Justice Rogers also refused to release the woman on recognizance. Then it was that Judge Booream took things in hand, fixing bail of $500 on the three charges.

In the action brought by Mrs. Sanford against her husband for assult and battery and breaking the peace, he was held on $500 bail several days days ago. With husband and wife thus soaking each other with bail, the family funds are going short, so Mrs. Sanford offered as bail the farm she owns in Newtown, alleging that it was worth $18,000. It is claimed that it is assessed for $3,300 and mortgaged for $3,400, but here is where the local justice has the laugh on the legal men from down the road, for the farm was accepted as bail. To ease up the financial drain on the Sanfords to supply bail, Lawyer VonMinden appealed for a reduction of Sanford's bail from $500 to $200, on the grounds that the charges brought against him were the same as two of the charges he brought against his wife. Judge Booream granted the appeal. Laurence was held under $300 bail on charge of adultery, the complaint being sworn to by Sanford.

Sanford is boarding in New Market, next door to the post office, and Friday, seeing his wife in a rig in front of the post office with Laurence, who has been her constant companion since her separation from her husband a month ago, it is alleged, he went out and asked her about a newspaper article, alleging that the charges brought against him in it were untrue, and asking if she had furnished the material. Seeing Laurence in the rig, it is alleged, he blamed him for breaking up his home. Laurence, it is said, called him a liar, and Sanford, losing his temper, is said to have struck him in the face. Mrs. Sanford, it is claimed, seized the whip and attempted to strike her husband. He prevented her, it is said, and there was a struggle in the street. The following day, Mrs. Sanford brought action against her husband on charges of assault and battery and disturbing the peace, and he has retaliated by bringing action against her.

HALF MILLION MORE RATABLES IN BOROUGH

TOTAL VALUATION WILL AMOUNT TO ABOUT $3,000,000.

The Somerset County Board of Taxation met the county assessors at Somerville, yesterday, but little important business was done. Because some of the assessors were not quite ready to report an adjournment was taken until next Tuesday, when all the lists and duplicates will be presented.

North Plainfield's total valuation on the tax list this year will be about $3,000,000, a half million increase over last year. This will mean a decrease in the tax rate, but the taxes will be about the same as last year.

The present rate in the borough is $2.52, and it is estimated that the new rate will be a little higher than that of Plainfield. This is due to the fact that the borough has heretofore been assessed a little nearer true value, and the natural increase from year to year has not been as correspondingly large, as in some other sections.

Building in the borough, as in other places about here, was retarded some in the past year by the high price of materials and labor. The community, however, got its proportionate share of new buildings, and enjoyed a slice of the general prosperity. The exact number of new house will be made known when the details of the assessment are made known after the County Board's meeting.

THE COW IN POLITICS WIELDS GREAT INFLUENCE.

Mr. Swackhamer Speaks On That Subject To Hunterdon Dairymen at Annual Harvest Home.

"The Cow In Politics" was the subject of a talk delivered by S. S. Swackhamer yesterday before the dairymen of Hunterdon county, at a harvest home celebration held by the Hunterdon County Dairymen's Association, at Readington.

Mr. Swackhamer showed how the cow was a great factor in the prosperity of the country and how the herds of the stockraisers and farmers were of immense value. He spoke of the political influence of the farmer and stockraiser, and how they often held the balance of power.

Humor marked the address, Mr. Swackhamer touching on the cow in literature, art, romance and anecdote. He told of a painting of eight cows in London, that sold for $32,000, "making each cow worth $4,000," and of a dairyman so successful that he turned out 1,000,000 pounds of cheese a year, and ran twelve saw-mills by buttermilk.

TO INDICT ICE MEN.

Paterson Alderman Call on Prosecutor to Start Proceedings.

The suffering caused among residents of Paterson by the present high price of ice has resulted in a movement looking to the indictment of the dealers and others who have brought about this condition of affairs.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen, Monday night, Alderman Quigley introduced a resolution urging Prosecutor Raley to take steps at once to bring about the indictment of those who are alleged to have raised the price of ice by an illegal combination.

Mr. Quigley said similar action had been taken in other cities and in some instances had resulted in placing ice dealers behind the bars. He saw no reason why it could not be done in Paterson.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Aged Woman Severely Injured.

The mother of Mrs. Philip Geise, of Newark, who has been visiting her daughter in Westervelt avenue during the past three months, met with an accident on Sunday. She was fixing a hammock on the porch when she tripped over it and in falling fractured her knee-cap. Dr. Marc L. Clawson was summoned and upon his advice the woman was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital.

READY FOR THE OUTING

Republicans Complete Plans For Their Annual Frolic on the Greensward.

A POLITICAL BALL GAME

Plainfield and Elizabeth Warriors Will Strive for Glory on the Diamond, Mr. McCardell Leading Plainfielders.

All plans for the annual outing of the Republican County Committee were completed by the Outing Committee last night. The details were decided upon at a meeting in Elizabeth.

The trip will be by boat to Witzel's Point View Grove, L. I., near College Point. The steamer will leave the Fulton street dock, Elizabeth, at 10 o'clock. The tickets state that the boat will go from the Chancellor Dock, but the arrangement was changed because that dock has been closed. The Fulton dock is on the other side of the Staten Island ferry, a block to the right as the excursionist leaves the West Jersey car, instead of a block to the left.

Plainfield will be well represented on the trip. It was reported at the meeting that 125 tickets have already been sold here, and more are to be placed among Plainfielders before Saturday. Tickets sell for $3.50, but the committee of a political outing never aims to make anything, so that the ticket-holders will get $3.50 worth of outing. There will be plenty to eat and drink aboard the boat, and a big dinner will be served at the grove.

Before and after the dinner ashore there will be a lively programme of athletic sports. The big feature will be a political ball game between teams representing Elizabeth and Plainfield party workers. Andrew McCardell will captain Plainfield and Jim Worth will lead the Elizabeth combination.

Much political significance is supposed to attach to a county committee outing, but wise ones smile when the pow-wow and slate-making mysteries of the affair are mentioned. The pow-wow-slate-making feature of such affairs has become a pleasant fiction, maintained to add interest and an atmosphere to the occasion. The leaders even go through the motions of conferring, but it is precious little information that the snoopers in search of "a line on the situation" get out of the affair. But everybody in the political game goes to it, and it is interesting enough to the humble layman as a dress parade of the power behind the ballot box and the tenders of the plum tree.

ENJOYED EXCURSION.

One Thousand Spent the Day at the Shore.

The members of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school and their friends, to the number of about 1,000, enjoyed a fine day at Asbury Park yesterday, on the occasion of the annual excursion to the shore. There was a fine sea breeze all day at the beach front, which the excursionists fully enjoyed after the extreme heat of the past few days.

Charles English, of Dunellen, assistant train master of the New Jersey Central, gave his personal attention to the excursionists and made it a point to see that the water coolers in coaches were well filled for the return trip. In the afternoon about 5:15 o'clock there was a heavy shower at the shore, but this did not interfere with the pleasure of any one and coming home, after the train started, it rained until the train reached South Amboy. During the day U. B. Crane and W. H. Kirch took a short ocean trip in a large row boat and displayed a catch of forty-two pounds of fish. The excursionist arrived home at 9:15.

While on the beach Deacon M. F. Gano suffered a severe attack of stomach trouble and the pain was so intense that he was taken to the Emergency hospital. After medical treatment he was able to take the train for home.

Midsummer Missionary Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room, was addressed by Miss M. Carpenter, of Dunellen, for a number of years missionary in Japan. Her accounts of the Japanese homes and Japanese entertainments was full of interest and her contrast of Shintoism, Buddhism and Confucianism, the religions of Japan with the Christian religion showed to some extent how much woman had to gain in position and influence by the adoption of a religion "pure and undefiled." The meeting was conducted by Mrs. J. A. Cubberley.

—Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Hyde have taken possession of their new home on Mountain avenue, near that of Mr. Hyde's brother, Francis DeLacey Hyde.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The rumors current through the borough yesterday regarding the stabbing affair at the house of Mrs. John McFadden Sunday afternoon were various and all equally overdrawn. Mrs. McFadden is much incensed over reports that have reached her in which she is said to have stabbed Joseph Frentz in the back at a drunken brawl at her place on Chestnut street. Frentz did come there Sunday and tried to gain admittance to the house to see someone whom he claimed was inside. He was intoxicated and disorderly and Mrs. McFadden attempted to keep him from entering the house. He struggled with her at the door, and in attempting to wrest from her hand a carving knife which she was holding, cut himself badly in the thumb. Rumor had it that he had been stabbed in the back and could not recover. He went to Dr. Brakeley's where the wound was found to be so slight as to require but little attention.

Work was commenced yesterday on extensive improvements to Postmaster P. W. Brakeley's store on North avenue. Since the erection of the building, there has been a large back room, several feet above the level of the store, originally designed as a lunch room. The partition which separated this from the drug store has been removed and the store is now to extend the entire depth of the building. One of the back windows is to be enlarged and the other is to be changed into a back door. After the completion of the improvements, Dr. Brakeley will have new fixtures installed and the drug store will be strictly up to date. Rimmer, Apgar & Cuzen, of Plainfield, are the contracting carpenters in charge of the job.

Jacob Carpenter, of Prospect avenue, died Monday of heart trouble after a long illness. He was sixty-seven years of age and had been a resident of Dunellen for but a short time, having moved on from Bethlehem, Pa., in the spring. He leaves a widow and a married son, who is living with his mother. Funeral services will be conducted at his former home in Bethlehem, where the body will be removed for burial tomorrow.

Citizens of Dunellen are much interested in the "New Idea" meeting to be held in the borough hall this evening. Col. Alexander R. Fordyce, of Dayton, the assemblyman and candidate for State Senator, is to be the principal speaker and will talk on "Bossism." Other speakers will be Hon. George J. Corey, of Stelton; C. H. Bloomfield and Charles Prickett, of Metuchen.

John Martin Boyle, the infant son of Martin and Catherine Boyle, of North avenue, died yesterday of acute cholera infantum. He was six months of age and had been sick but a few days. The funeral will be at the house of his parents tomorrow morning at 10:30 and the interment will follow in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

The partition separating the postoffice from the adjourning store on Washington avenue has been entirely removed and the carpenters will have the postoffice box partition moved back ten feet by the end of the week. The entire interior of the office is to be renovated and a new hardwood floor laid.

A white dog owned by Wesley Gaskill created considerable excitement Monday afternoon by throwing a series of lively fits on North avenue near G. Elston Lowrie's house. It was thought that the animal had become affected by the heat and gone mad, so it was finally shot by a resident in the vicinity.

Several boroughites made the trip to Asbury Park yesterday with the postponed excursion of Trinity Reformed church, of Plainfield. They arrived in this town at about 9:30 in the evening after a pleasant day at the shore.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

One of the most desperate crimes of recent years is the theme of the attraction which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday. In "A Desperate Chance" is carefully portrayed the thrilling escape from prison of the notorious Biddle Brothers, aided by the wife of the jail warden. The scenes all are true to life, and are represented in a melodrama that is unsurpassed by any in strength and heart interest.

The scenic settings of "Secrets of the Police," which will be at the theatre tomorrow, are said to be spectacular in their immensity and the mechanical effects beyond description. "Secrets of the Police" will appeal to every person who stops now and then and thinks. There is indeed subject for thought in the little things that happen all about us everyday, but which only the observer notes. The hero of "Secrets of the Police" is a young New York detective who is said to be the most interesting character of the kind since the great "Sherlock Holmes." There are four acts and fourteen scenes. A fine acting company is promised.

Rocky Mountain life with its exciting scenes of the pioneer days in the Western mining camp, will be portrayed in a rousing manner at the New Plainfield theatre Monday, August 13. "At Cripple Creek" is the title of this most picturesque of western plays. The wild scenery in the heart of the Rockies forms a magnificent background for any play, especially a melodrama, and when Hal Reid's versatile art plays upon the feelings of an audience amid scenes of such surpassing beauty, the effect is certainly most thrilling. "At Cripple Creek" abounds in splendid heroism and scenes of sparkling comedy and quaint drollery. The first act culminates in the exciting rescue of three innocent girls from the clutches of Martin Mason, a vile half-breed and keeper of a saloon called "The Temple of David." The second act opens at Rifht Canon, near Joe Mayfield's mountain home. A pretty scene occurs here between the child Tatto and Joe, who is the owner of the "Last Dollar" mine and his thrilling rescue of Belle Gordon makes the third act one of the most novel and thrilling seen upon the melodramatic stage. Stage sets of exciting beauty and novel effects enhance the strongly dramatic scenes. A cast of unusual strength has been secured by the management, making "At Cripple Creek" at once a production as artistic in interpretation as it is magnificent in setting.

Billy Beard will cause hilarity at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday, when he appears at the head of the best bunch of minstrel comedians on the road with the ever popular Haverly Mastodon Minstrels. "Nothing new in minstrelsy" has often been remarked by critical people, until W. E. Nankeville, single handed forged to the front with regular old-time minstrelsy. An elaborate and praiseworthy programme, each act embellished with correct and artistic scenic investiture, and all the old time cheap "turns" entirely eradicated. With a company of all-star minstrels, an orchestra of picked artists, several magnificently stage spectacular scenes, a dozen soloists, the prettiest and funniest songs and the wittiest jokes which have ever been heard with any minstrel company, this monarch of all minstrel shows comes to the New Plainfield. The roster includes such well known names as Wm. A. Morris, Joseph Gomes, George Sardel, Cal Huss, Henry Hunt, Harry Parkerson, Harry Weaver, Walter Jacobs and a host of other old time favorites.

Manager Arthur C. Aiston who has given theatre-goers "Friends," "Tennessee's Pardner," "Pretty Peggy," and for the past five seasons his most successful production, "At the Old Cross Roads," will present the latter play here, on Wednesday night, August 15, at the New Plainfield theatre. No play is more welcome to theatre-goers than is "At the Old Cross Roads," the company is always kept up to a standard of excellence by Manager Aiston, who makes it a rule never to allow his attractions to deteriorate. Prominent in the cast this season are many of the original company, and several others of equal note.

Something doing all the time is what B. E. Forrester promises the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre Saturday of next week, when Yorke & Adams make their appearance in "Bankers & Brokers." Yorke & Adams are recognized comedians, and for a number of years have been top-liners in vaudeville. Away back in 1897, they scored a distinct hit in "Gay New York" during its long run at the Casino. Mr. Forrester promises a number of surprises in this new musical comedy, which includes a company of forty-five people, including Jack Vincent, Nina Collins, Albert Cunningham, Dorothy Brenner, Eva Mull, Joseph Daily, Lanier DeWolff, Frank Bassett, Eddie Barto, Mamie Lafferty, Carrie Cooper, the Colonial Quartette, the Famous Pony Ballet, and the singing and dancing chorus of twenty all from beautyland.

Miss Clara Smith, of Duer street, will take her vacation the last week in August and first week in September. She will divide the time between the mountains and the seashore.

BISHOPS' LAW UPHELD.

The liquor interests have received a set-back in their attempt to have the Bishops' law declared null and void, the Supreme Court yesterday having handed down an opinion that the section providing for the removal of saloon screens is constitutional. The court also held that if it should be decided that the clause providing for the appointment of excise commissions should be declared unconstitutional, it would not effect the rest of the act.

It is indeed refreshing to find some important law that is not unconstitutional. In recent years one after another statute of moment has been knocked out by the courts almost as soon as enacted by the legislature. The Bishops' law represents the views of the sober-thinking, law-abiding citizens of the State and was passed only after the most mature consideration not only on the part of the law-makers but by a body of men of all shades of religious and political belief.

cal belief and it is therefore good news that it will remain on the statute books.

A syllabus of the opinion delivered by Justice Fort follows:

"The right to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors by retail, by the Legislature, or by municipalities or other authority, under legislative power given, is within the police power of the State, and is practically limitless. It may extend to the prohibition of the sale altogether. A license is not a contract. It is a mere privilege.

"The privileges and immunities guaranteed to the citizen by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, relates to those rights which may be called fundamental. Those which belong of right to all citizens of a free government, and which have, at all times, been enjoyed by the citizens of the several States.

"There is no inherent right in a citizen to sell intoxicating liquors by retail; it is not a privilege of a citizen of the State or the United States.

"Legislation that classifies licenses, for the sale of intoxicating liquors by retail, so that those who are required to expose their places of business to view, are distinguished from other licensees, by palpable differences in the conditions under which the liquor is to be sold, is not unconstitutional."

COLBYITES BACK DOWN ON GEORGE L. RECORD

ESSEX ASSEMBLY DELEGATION IN FAVOR OF NO PARTICULAR MAN.

Newark, Aug. 8.—Any pledges the Colby Assemblymen in Essex county may have made to George L. Record, of Jersey City, as candidate for the United State Senate, were cancelled at a meeting of Colby delegates in the New Auditorium, Orange street, Monday night. The delegates went on record as being opposed to sending to the Legislature Assemblymen pledged to any one man for United State Senator.

Recently the Essex Assembly delegation pledged itself to Mr. Record. The practical unanimity of sentiment against the Colby plan of a Record indorsement was a surprise. Mr. Colby himself, as soon as he saw the turn affairs were taking, added his voice to those of the other delegates who were urging that the pledge to Mr. Record should be withdrawn.

The matter was thrashed out early in the meeting, after William A. Tromport had suggested that Chandler W. Riker be the reform movement's candidate to succeed John F. Dryden.

Lathrop Anderson got up and said that Riker had sent him a telephone message, requesting to have his name withdrawn if it should be suggested in connection with the office. He said Riker was not a candidate.

Then George L. Record's name was brought before the meeting. Record is favored by Senator Colby, and an effort was made to get the conference to send Assemblymen pledged for Record, but it failed.

Lawyer Henry Hahn jumped to the floor when Record's name was mentioned, and declared that any attempt to put the reform movement in the position of indorsing any one man for the United States Senate was a violation of one of the best principles of the reform movement. He made the motion that the Assembly delegation "be instructed to go to Trenton unpledged with respect to United States Senator."

"One of the fundamental planks of this 'New Idea' movement of ours," said Mr. Hahn, "is a popular expression of choice in the selection of a Senator. I think the indorsement of any man by the delegation is directly at variance with this principle. The Record indorsement would injure the chances of one Assemblyman for re-election."

Senator Colby then took the floor. There had been much speculation regarding his attitude and his remarks were closely followed by all present. In part he said:

"It is true that one of the important planks of our platform is popular expression of choice regarding United States Senator.

"But if the people don't know whom the legislative delegation favors, how can they express their choice? By endorsing Mr. Record our assemblymen have taken a stand that will enable the people to vote intelligently on the senatorial question. If they want him they can vote for our present representatives at Trenton, and if they don't want him they can vote against them. It is untrue that I asked the assembly delegation to vote for Mr. Record. I did not even know they were to hold a conference on the senatorial question. It is said they are trying to force upon the Republican party candidates of their own selection. They have simply expressed their opinion. The rest remains with the voters. But no conference can express the will of the people, and therefore I believe this convention should not pledge itself to any man as candidate for senator."

Mr. Hahn's motion was passed unanimously and without opposition.

Two other conferences were held to chose candidates for nomination for congress in the Seventh and Eighth districts. Major William H. Wiley, of East Orange, was selected to succeed himself in the Eighth district, and in the Seventh John S. Gibson, an active Colby worker and formerly secretary of the Republican State Committee, was chosen in opposition to Richard Wayne Parker, the present representative from the district, who is looking for another term.

At the opening of the county conference Colonel Henry A. Potter, of East Orange, moved that the rules be suspended and that the full assembly delegation be endorsed for renomination. The motion was unanimously carried, and the secretary cast the ballot of the convention for the following men:

Philip C. Walsh, Jr., William P. Martin, Gustav Kayser, Henry C. Hines, Gustav Sommer, Gustav Roeber, Russell M. Everett, W. Fellows Morgan, Austin Colgate, Charles R. Underwood and George F. Serbe.

THE GREAT DEMAND FOR SPARKLING GEMS.

Importations of $34,862,551 for this Year, Which is a Gain of More Than $7,000,000.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Citizens of the United States are wearing more diamonds than ever. That is shown by a report of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, which states that the imports of diamonds into this country during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, amounted to $34,862,551. This made a new record, as in the preceding year they were only $27,000,000. In 1904 lovers of jewels must have been hard up, for the importations were only $19,000,000, where they had been $28,000,000 in 1903. Here is what the government statisticians say about it:

"In addition to the $34,862,551 worth of diamonds imported in 1906 there were brought into the United States over $5,000,000 worth of other precious stones, cut but not set, including natural pearls, thus making the total value of precious stones brought into the United States in the year just ended more than $40,000,000, against $31,000,000 worth in 1905 and $31,000,000 in 1903.

"No article shows greater fluctuation in the imports than diamonds. In 1900 the imports were $12,00,000, in 1897 less than $2,000,000 and in 1893 $15,000,000.

"About $10,500,000 worth of diamonds imported in 1906 were uncut, to be prepared for use by the diamond-cutting establishments of the United States, while more than $24,000,000 worth were cut but not set. There has been a slow but steady growth in the importations of uncut diamonds, while cut diamonds have shown a greater fluctuation than those not cut. The total value of uncut diamonds imported in 1900 were a little more than $6,000,000, in 1903 nearly $11,000,000, and since that period has continued at about this figure, while cut diamonds, which in 1900 were a little less than $8,000,000, were more than $15,000,000 in 1903 and $24,000,000 in 1906.

"Practically all the diamonds imported into the United States, while the product of the African mines, are imported direct from European countries."

Loses His Hold and Drowns.

Jersey City, Aug. 8.—George McNabe, twenty years old, of 58 Clifton place, this city, was drowned Sunday when bathing in New York bay. He didn't know how to swim and was hanging from the stern of a boat and lost his grip. His body was recovered.

WEST JERSEY RAILROAD WILL START SEPTEMBER 10.

Newly Electrified Pennsylvania Railroad Short Cut to Atlantic City.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—Official announcement is made that the electrified West Jersey Railroad, between Camden and Atlantic City and Millville, will be placed in operation with the introduction of the preliminary schedule about September 10. By that date the roadbed will be in condition for permanent and continued operation, the power-houses will be ready for the transmission of ample working energy, and all the conditions which are necessary for the thorough and complete operation of the road will be matured.

The cars have been thoroughly tested and are ready for service. A lagre part of the system could be operated now, but by reason of the unforeseen delays and unlooked for obstructions which hampered the progress of the work and held back its completion until the summer season was well begun, it is deemed wiser to continue the handling of the very heavy traffic of the midsummer by the steam trains, and defer the inauguration of the electric service until the rush of the summer travel is practically ended.

Conditions of traffic existing at the date of the opening will determine the making of the schedule. The number of train, the hours of departure, the interval between trains and the exact time to be consumed in transit cannot at this time be definitely fixed, but it is announced that a schedule, both as to frequency of trains and time of transit, entirely adequate and conveniently adjusted to the requirements of travel at that season, will be provided.

A conference was held Wednesday between a committee representing the trainmen of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad and General Manager Atterbury, at which D. H. Lovell, superintendent of the West Jersey and Seashore, was also present. While its nature was not divulged by either side, it was doubtless in connection with the scale of wages to be paid for operating the electric cars, which are unsatisfactory to the men.

Find Drowned Man's Body.

Matawan, Aug. 8.—The body of Charles Corbett, who was drowned Saturday evening while bathing in the Matawan Creek with his younger brother, was found yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be from his late home in New York city, where the body has been sent. He was spending his summer vacation with M. J. Crine's family.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

From the issue of May 14, 1868:

The Old Flag—On Monday morning, from the flagstaff of the Mansion House, in this village, floated gaily the glorious stars and stripes. Many were the surmises why the patriotic proprietor of that well known establishment had thus in the early sunlight thrown his banner to the breeze. No election being on tapis, another Democratic victory was not to be expected; and the war being ended, the herald of a martial triumph was entirely out of the question. What could it mean? Some attributed it to the acquittal of the President, but that was certainly premature, as the vote was not to be taken before Tuesday; while others thought it must be for the white man's emphatic verdict in Michigan. The mystery was, however, soon solved, as the report spread around that the display of bunting was appropriately in token of the gallant Sergeant Bates, of Wisconsin, who carried the "red, white and blue" from Vicksburg to Washington, and thereby exploded a Radical calumny against the South and its people. Sergeant Bates was in Plainfield. That was why the "old flag" waved, and worthy indeed was the occasion. Our friend Thorn deserves thanks and his guest the highest of honor.

Robbery—On Tuesday night last the stables of Mr. Samuel Pound of this place was broken into, and a new set of harness stolen therefrom. Mr. S. Wright's saloon at the depot was also entered; an entrance was effected by breaking out one of the panes of glass in a window. A jimmy was found on a counter, with which the thieves had attempted to pry open a money drawer, but they were evidently frightened away before they had succeeded in opening it, by the ringing of the alarm bell attached to the drawer. All they got for their pains were some pies and boiled eggs, which we hope will affect their digestive organs so that they will not be able to try another place for some time.

We understand there is to be a Grand Organ Concert given in the Seventh Day Baptist church on the 28th of this month. Among the names of the artists to be present on the occasion are Miss Minnie Hauck, Miss Rice, Mr. George Morgan, Mr. George Simpson, and Mr. Warren. Full particulars will be given shortly.

Fire at New Brooklyn—The barracks attached to the Flax Mills at New Brooklyn were set on fire Saturday night, about 9 o'clock, and were entirely consumed with their contents of flax. The mills were at one time in great danger of taking fire, but by prompt action were saved. The fire was observed at a great distance, owing to the combustible material with which the barracks were filled. Mr. A. B. Conway, of New Brooklyn, who was engaged in pouring water on the flames from the roof of an adjoining building, while reaching down for a bucket of water, lost his balance and was precipitated to the ground, injuring himself severely.

The seconds and one of the principals of the recent prize fight at Springfield have been arrested, and held over in bail to the next court.

A young daughter of Mr. John Roselle was seriously injured one day last week by being struck by the handle of the windlass while playing around the well.

We had the pleasure of an introduction to the renowned Sergeant Bates on Monday last, he being the guest of our friend Thorn, of the Mansion House. The Sergeant contemplates delivering a lecture in Plainfield, in a short time, due notice of which will be given.

The evidence of improvement now visible throughout Plainfield is cheering. Handsome dwellings are being erected and old ones remodelled and enlarged. For salubrity of climate, good water, travelling facilities and beauty of surroundings, Plainfield is beyond doubt the most desirable place of residence within convenient reach of the metropolis. It is THE SPOT of New Jersey.

The Central Railroad Company have at last yielded to the wants and wishes of the people and stationed flagmen at Peace, Cherry and Mechanic street crossings. We thank the company for such protection of life and limb. Better do a good deed late than never. We learn that the present Superintendent is gaining repute for gentlemanly manners and efficient action.

If our citizens want to see something practical in the way of improvement, let them examine the sidewalk just laid opposite the residences of Messrs. Titsworth and Pound on Second street.

We learn that there will be a free temperance lecture delivered in the First Baptist church of this place on Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. Under the auspices of the Sons of Temperance.

The Central Railroad is increasing its facilities largely. It is stated that two anthracite passenger engines, from the Grand Locomotive Works at Paterson, have just been put into service, and two more of the same class are to follow. To meet the requirements of the rapidly increasing passenger, freight and coal business of the company, four additional passenger cars and eight engines will be added by the first of September. Twenty new passenger coaches will be placed on the road during the months of June and July next. A few of these will be run on through trains to Pittsburg, Pa., and the balance in the local trains of the road.

We learn from the Union County Herald: On Tuesday noon an accident occurred at the crossing of the Central and New Jersey Railroads at Broad street which resulted in the smashing up of one of the freight cars of the former train. The accident occurred about half-past twelve o'clock. A freight train on the New Jersey road was coming North and a freight train on the Central going east. The Central had come to a stop at the depot, but with one car on the crossing, when the weight of the New Jersey train drove the engine into the rear car of the Central train smashing things generally. The locomotive of the New Jersey train was not much injured. The matter seemed the result of sheer carelessness.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in Elizabeth on Friday afternoon, the following were elected directors for the ensuing year: John Taylor Johnson, John C. Green, Moses Taylor, Adam Norie, Sidney Dillon, Benjamin Williamson, F. T. Frelinghuysen, Asa Packer and Henry D. Maxwell.

MILBURN ENFORCES THE AUTOMOBILE LAW.

State Inspector Morgan Assists in the Arrest of Violators.

Milburn, Aug. 8.—Determined attempts to carry out the regulations for the running of motor vehicles under the Frelinghuysen law were made here yesterday. W. J. Morgan, of Newark, one of the seven inspectors appointed by Superintendent Smith, was on the grounds, and special "stop-watch" policemen were stationed along the highway. Millburn's chief of police also rendered assistance.

The officers at the junction of Morris and Millburn avenues, held up a number of automobiles, and took the number of the machines. The names of the owners of the machines violating the law will be obtained from Secretary of State, and the prosecution will be begun. The principal offense was the carrying of double numbers.

One machine was stopped and the chauffeur was found to be without a license. He was taken before Justice Schmidt, who was in waiting in his office in Milburn for all emergencies. The machine was from the Martin garage in Plainfield, and the man in charge was fined $15 for being without license.

Clarence E. Thornall, of Montclair, had no license with him and he was arrested. He stated that he had a license but had forgotten to take it with him. He was paroled and given until last night to produce the license.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tappen have returned from a visit to friends in Metuchen.

RULES FOR LEARNING TO BE FAST SWIMMER

L. E. B. HADLEY ADVISES USE OF "TRUDGE" AND "CRAWL" STROKES.

The great interest in swimming races this year has imbued many with the ambition to go in races. Many are without a teacher, and dozens have inquired for the best method of fast swimming.

Most prominent coaches and instructors of the day have come to the conclusion that the fastest racing stroke is the best for any distance. They claim that if a certain set of movements carries you through the water at the highest rate of speed in sprinting they must of necessity do the same over the distances. The problem is to time these movements so that you can hold them without becoming tired. Thus if you use thirty trudgeon strokes to the minute in swimming the hundred yards, you should use about twenty-six to the minute in swimming the mile.

In America we recognize only two standard strokes—the trudgeon and the crawl. The crawl is still too young among us to be advised as a distance stroke, though the time will come when it will be used for all distances.

The trudgeon is the most desirable at present for endurance swimming. It is more rational than the breast stroke in the position of the body. It gives far greater speed and it is no harder to learn properly than any of the slower strokes.

To learn the trudgeon lie on the side that comes most natural to you, with arms stretched up over your head, parallel and perpendicular to the shoulders. Hands with palms turned away from you. Legs straight, close together and toes pointed downward. Bring upper arm down almost straight at the elbow and a little below the surface of the water; when it reaches the hip bend at the elbow, lift over the water and carry forward to original position. Bring under arm down almost parallel to the upper, then when it reaches the hip roll the body on its face so as to be able to get it out of water and carry it forward as the other, bent at the elbow, until on the full reach again. The legs are opened as in walking, not sideways; the upper leg is kept almost straight and the under is bent as in kneeling. When the feet are about 18 inches apart they should be snapped together sharply. Open very slowly and bring together with force. For the time the upper arm starts first, the under follows it shortly and the leg are opened as the under arm goes forward. Breath is taken as the upper arm is being brought down.

For the crawl lie flat on your face with arms bent slightly at the elbow and a short reach; hands should be at the height of the head. Take a short stroke, not finishing at the hip, and keep elbows well up in the air all the time. Legs are started as in the trudgeon, and don't kick but just thrash the water up and down alternately. They should move from the knee down only, and brush against each other, never more than six or eight inches apart. Legs and arms are moved independently of each other, and breath is taken every two or three strokes by a quick turn of the head. The body should travel on its face and the movements should be very rapid when sprinting.

To a novice the crawl is advisable if he intends to confine himself to sprinting—otherwise the trudgeon is the best.

SOME CAMPAIGN DATA ON THE BISHOPS' BILL.

A Recapitulation of the Vote on Final Passage in Senate and House.

Considerable discussion is arising these days over the attitude of the Democrats, "regular" Republicans and Colbyites on the so-called "Bishops' bil" when it came up for final action in Senate and House. The matter is one which will furnish the basis for a vast deal of campaign discussion, and which will undoubtedly give rise to no end of confusion. It would be simple enough had not the original bill been so radically changed by amendments. The bill, as passed by the Senate on April 5, was so changed from the form it bore when introduced, that many who had been its most ardent champions practically repudiated it. The House still further amended it and the Senate accepted the House amendments.

Voicing a pretty general lack of certain knowledge on the subject, an inquirer writes to the Sunday Call asking for "the vote by party affiliations on the 'Bishops' bill' on final passage in Senate and House." The bill as a bill, was passed by the Senate on April 5, by the following unanimous vote:

Cornish (D.), Cresse (R.), Hutchinson (R.), McKee (R.), Plummer (R.), Price (D.) and Shinn (R.) were not among those who voted.

The bill, with its amendments, was passed by the House on April 11. The vote was as follows:

On the following day, April 12, the Senate accepted the five House amendments by a vote of 13 to 0 for the first, 14 to 0 for the second, 11 to 6 for the third and 12 to 2 for the fourth and fifth. Party lines were split on such of the amendments as were not unanimously carried.

The bill was signed by the Governor on the day following.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep sloop the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 12, 1906. Return trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. 8 4 7

The Historic Hudson.

The Hudson River has a renowned reputation in more ways than one. Its business interests are more widely known than any other stream, while for excursions and outings it has no equal. There are sights galore—the palisades—the U. S. Military Academy at West Point—the far-famed State Prison at Sing Sing and interesting Newburg. The scenery in every direction is superb, and the steamers which convey the excursionists are commodious and comfortable. On August 9, 1906, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its popular low-rate excursions up the Hudson, the rate for the round trip to be $1,00, children 50 cents, and special train leaving Plainfield at 8:46 a. m., will connect at Jersey City station with famous iron steamer "Sirius" for the trip. Don't forget date or train time. 8 4 td

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

"Let us row down and meet your brother," suggested the visitor, and Lavender, waving a mischievous farewell to America, jumped into the skiff.

"We won't row far," she called back. "Wait for us."

"In a panic, the old negress rushed to the water's edge. "Whar yo two gwine dis time o' night?"

Seeing her distress, Lavender repented. "Let us go back," she commanded. But he had Lavender alone, with the fast growing path of water between them and interruption, and Gonzaga was the last man to forego this first opportunity.

"Why do you not want to go with me, Miss Creighton?" he demanded, with uncivil abruptness.

Lavender ignored any deep meaning in the words, and there was no embarrassment, only wide-eyed surprise in her reply: "I don't mind, I assure you, but it is late, and mother will be uneasy. America, too, see, she is fidgety as a hen whose fledglings have taken to the pond.' She laughed, and, hanging one arm over the boat's edge, let the water trickle through the pink dam of her fingers.

"You don't mind being with me! High praise, indeed!" and Gonzaga shrugged his shoulders, and raised his brows sarcastically. Then, dropping the oars, and bending toward her: "Now, listen to me," he said, "I, on the other hand, declare that it is my sole delight to be with you. It has been since first sight of you was a balm to my tired eyes."

His voice, soft in time with the melody of waves against the idle oar—his face with its southern beauty, lent dignity to the words which, from a less romantic cavalier, Lavender would have scorned as mere fustian.

But there was magic in the time and place, witchery in the hour which subdued the girl's levity, and awakened a dormant sentiment. But this sentiment was not for the man beside her. With every beat of her quickened pulse, her thoughts were borne farther from him. Her eyes had a soft charm, her voice a tender cadence, but the softness, the tenderness which his words had awakened, were for another.

"You speak prettily, senor," she said, dreamily, and the unconscious coquetry led him on.

"Do you believe in love at first sight?" was his next question.

Lavender laughed uneasily—for now his tone and manner roused her—brought her back to him. "No," she declared, "I am not sure that I believe in love at all."

Ignoring her speech, he went on: "There is a southern flower that, in a night, throws all its great heart bare. So my love for you had its being."

"And so in a night it will die." Lavender tried to speak lightly, but she could not meet his ardent gaze. Instead, her own followed with dismay the starry track ever widening between her and the shore.

"It will never die, cara mia, it will live always, and from its roots shall spring another—your love for me. Is it not so?" he leaned toward her; his senses swimming in a passion for this girl in whose fair face was reflected all the crystal of moonlit wave and sky. For the first time in this man's career, something he ardently desired seemed out of reach. Gold he had won and lost as easily—land and fame had cheaply bartered for a song—a smile. But this maid, half child half woman, with at once the purity of moonbeams and a rare, earthly witchery about her, had suddenly become for him the one thing worth striving for.

"From my love shall spring another—yours for me. Is it not so?"

"I do not think so, senor. I am too modest to believe in the strength of your feeling for me. It will die before mine can have birth. No, no," she commanded, as he was about to speak, "I cannot listen; I—I am not ready now. I thank you for your love, if it be love—I do not know," she ended, dreamily.

"Then, ignoring his ardent interruption: "I am not ready to hear of love—I do not want it."

Her earnest, yet matter-of-fact tone maddened him, and he blurted out: "You do not want it? But there is another love that you do want—the love of a spy, a traitor!"

She met his blazing eyes with a look of cold disdain. "You talk in riddles, senor."

"A riddle you can easily read, lady, but if you prefer, I shall construe it. You deny me, only to give your love to that other, the champion of a bold enterprise which counts for its success upon the dismemberment of a great republic. This conspirator against the flag for which the blood spilled is scarcely dried—this brave knight-errant of the gaming table—this—"

"No more, sir! Did you, then, bring me out to listen to insult of my friends? For that you traduce Mr. Winslow, I can no longer doubt. I fear, Senor Gonzaga, that the flower which was to bear the fruit of love requited, will but nourish the parasite of hate."

Calming himself quickly. "Forgive me," he pleaded, "but as all is fair in love and war, so jealousy of a rival is not a crime. That he is a successful rival makes it all the harder."

"You presume much, senor. Mr. Winslow is no man's rival where I am concerned—he does not wish to be. But that he is a true gentleman, and an honest man, I am as sure as that this water runs."

There was a pause, while he took up the oars. "Shall I row back to shore?" he asked, humbly.

"If you please; we have been drifting away."

"And drifting apart, lady?"

She was silent.

"You are cruel—you will forgive me? Much should be forgiven a love like mine."

His voice was a yearning whisper, and he bent low to reach her ear.

She smiled faintly: "I am only too ready to forgive—we shall be friends again—on one condition."

"Name it," he demanded.

Her manner had resumed some of its archness, her voice its gayety, as she said: "Never speak again of that flower—let it die."

"It will never die," he declared, huskily. "Its perfume shall abide with you—its fragrance enwrap you like a garment. But I shall not speak of it again; not until you are quite ready to listen."

CHAPTER XII.

Against the current Gonzaga rowed, with many a backward glance. Into the stars loomed cypress and willow, bordering as with a badge of mourning the land on either side.

Soon the lights of the settlement straggled into view, and, brighter than the others, long hospitable rays shot from the tavern close to the water's side. Here the Spaniard moored his boat and stepped ashore. But he was in the mood neither for drink nor cards, still less for song and laughter. Since the tavern laggard could not be stranger to these, he would not go there to-night.

His thoughts were with the maiden he had left behind in the forest; with her whose conquest was not to be easy. Passion and threatened pride consumed him; the laughter within the tavern jarred. He was passing the door, when it was suddenly burst open from within. At the threshold stood Gerald Creighton, his handsome face deformed with anger and ablaze with wine. With collar torn, and coat awry, as if in a struggle, he stood half defiant, half afraid. For back near the plastered wall, where sputtering candles flecked the gloom, stood the small, crooked figure of a man brandishing a knife. His eyes gleamed through red lids, his voice was raucous with rage. "You want my gal, do ye? Well, git her, you might—fer women are all d—d fools—but she hain't the say-so. I'm a father as knows my business, and I'll see ye wallow in the blackest pit afore she's yourn! Ye want to marry her? No, ye don't, and ef ye did—" he broke off with a rasping chuckle, and made another dash for Gerald, but was prevented again. This time the Spaniard, watching from the willow copse, saw a woman slip quietly to the door, and close it, leaving herself and Gerald outside.

The noise from within was fainter now, and for a moment the two stood silent in the shadowy night—alone, save for the watchful presence of Gonzaga, himself unseen in the background.

Then the octoroon spoke, low, with the sibilant softness of the south: "Please hurry home now, Mr. Gerald, or there will be more trouble."

But the young man interrupted, impatiently: "I will not budge until I have seen her. I can't go to her house any more, and she promised to meet me here to-night."

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide Separate Sewers or Drains to Carry Off the Surface Water in a Portion of Richmond Street.

WHEREAS, the city finds it necessary, and the Common Council hereby so determines, to provide separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water in a portion of Richmond Street hereinafter specified, and the water flowing into Cedar Brook through said portion of said street, and the Common Council has determined, and doth hereby determine that the public good requires the construction of the sewers or drains hereinafter specified:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water in said portion of Richmond Street and the water flowing into Cedar Brook as aforesaid, be constructed in and for said city of Plainfield in Richmond Street from East Fifth Street to North Avenue, with one inlet at East Fourth Street, two at the Central Railroad of New Jersey, three at Cottage Place and three at North Avenue, as shown for said portion of Richmond Street on a map on file with the City Clerk of the City of Plainfield, entitled "Map for Separate Sewers or Drains to carry off the Surface Water in a Portion of Richmond Street, City of Plainfield, N. J., May, 1906," (to which map reference is hereby made and the same made a part hereof) said separate sewers or drains to be constructed on said portion of Richmond Street between the abovementioned points, as shown on said map, with the necessary manholes and appurtenances to complete the same, and to be of the dimensions and materials and to be laid along such lines and at such grades and in such manner as indicated and specified on said map.

Section 2. That the costs and expenses to be incurred under this ordinance shall be paid with money to be raised by taxation (by general tax for street improvements) pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, as other moneys are raised in said city.

Adopted by the Common Council August 6, 1906; approved by the Mayor August 7, 1906.

J. F. BUCKLEY, Mayor.

Attest: Geo. B. Wean, City Clerk pro tem.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.

Union County Surrogate's Office.

Application being made to me for letters of administration upon the estate of John Joseph Frank, by his widow, and it being therein represented that he was a resident of the City of Plainfield in this County; that he has absented himself from this state for over seven years last past successively and has not been heard of or from during said period, and that it is believed that he is dead;

It is on this sixth day of August, 1906, ORDERED that cause be shown before me at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Elizabeth in said County, on the seventeenth day of September next, why letters of administration should not be granted to Eleanora Frank, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided;

And it is further ordered that this order be published once a week for four weeks successively in The Daily Press, a paper published at Plainfield in said County.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Rube" Oldring, formerly of the local team, is now alternating with Knight in playing third base for the Philadelphia Athletics. The change seems to work well some days, but the records show that Knight, who was a former Central High School player, puts up a steadier game, although a trifle weak in hitting.

There is a possibility that Fred Glade, the giant twirler now with the St. Louis Nationals, may join the Highlanders, if a satisfactory trade can be made with Joe Yeager.

Local fans of Foxen, the Jersey City Eastern League twirler, are much elated over his excellent work this season. He has been very effective in a majority of games pitched.

Hawk, the former Lafayette College short-stop, who Manager Daab tried to get for his team, is playing a great game for the Nazareth, Pa., team. Last Saturday he scored two runs, made two hits, had three assists and no errors.

The sporting writers on the Philadelphia papers speak in the highest terms of the work of Charlie Walton, the clever short-stop on the Ingersoll team at Easton. Charlie has improved wonderfully since he played with Plainfield.

"Red" Waller, pitching for Long Branch, on Saturday, was bumped very hard by Red Bank, who had "Larry" Hesterfer in the box. The former Newark slab artist held his opponents down to two or three hits, and won the game by a score of 12 to 2.

"Flyck" Luyster, the star pitcher for the Hartford team, is doing great work for the Elizabethport Stars on Sundays, and Manager Burke believes him to be as strong as Waller.

"Wally" Cosgrave, who will be remembered as a member of Plainfield's team last season, is now playing ball in the Adirondacks with a number of other college men. He coached Princeton's 'varsity team this year and it made a great showing.

Patience, formerly of the Westfield and Plainfield teams, is putting up a fast article of ball in the Lackawanna League, where he is not only fielding perfectly, but hitting the ball very hard.

There is probably no State in the Union that turns out as many good ball players as Pennsylvania. Scarcely a team of any importance in any of the major or minor leagues but that has a native of the Keystone State playing on it.

Treasurer C. W. Runyon, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, has recovered from an illness that laid him up for several days.

George Bolsterle is playing short-stop for the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. nine. He is hitting heavily.

Plans are being made for a reorganization of the Watchung "league" for a September series.

Through the efforts of William A. Coles, Col. C. C. Weber and others, of that place, baseball in Metuchen is to have strong backing. An association called the Metuchen Athletic Association has been formed and will be incorporated with a capital of $2,500. C. C. Weber is president, W. A. Coles, secretary, J. T. Jackson, treasurer. Stock will be worth $5 a share and there is plenty of it for sale. Plans are being made for an enclosed field with up-to-date grand stand, dressing rooms, etc., and the only thing necessary to make the thing a success is for baseball lovers to come forward with the "hard rocks." Dollars play as important a part in the National game in Metuchen as they do in this burg. President Weber says that after the local organization is complete steps may be taken to form a county league of purely amateur teams.

GOLF.

The official handicap list of the Metropolitan Golf Association has undergone another revision since the first ratings were issued in the spring. The changes affect some seventy odd golfers, Gilman P. Tiffany, of Powelton Golf Club, champion of the Hudson River Golf Association, has been reduced to 4, while C. E. VanVleck, Jr., of Montclair, who did so well in the qualifying round of the National tournament at Englewood, has been cut to 5.

A large field is promised for the annual open tournament of the Stockbridge Golf Club, on August 28, 29, 30 and 31. The Stockbridge cup is open to all amateurs who are eligible to compete for the amateur championship of the United States. A thirty-six hole medal play handicap will be the only event on the last day.

Harry Vardon, former open champion of Great Britain, has been resting in Ireland, and is reported much improved for the change.

Changes in the handicap list of the Massachusetts Golf Association have been announced by Ralph Cracknell, the secretary of the handicapping committee. More than one hundred revisions have been made since the original list was issued in the spring.

Most of the amateurs who played at Shinnecock last week agreed that it would not require a great deal of alteration to make an eighteen-hole circuit an ideal championship course. The principal changes would have to be made at the first few holes.

A large number of Philadelphia and Atlantic City golfers are expected to enter the Highland Golf Club tourney at East Stroudsburg, Pa., which commences tomorrow. All events are open to all amateurs. There will be a prize medal for the lowest score in qualifying round and silver championship and consolation cups and cup for the best net score in all day 18 hole handicap.

The Plainfield Country Club has probably one of the finest collections of golf prizes and trophies to be found in any golf clubhouse in the metropolitan district. They include chiefly silver cups of various sizes, handsomely engraved. The club championship cup is considered exceptionally valuable because of the fine work on it. The trophies occupy a specially designed cabinet and make a fine showing.

David Patrick, the Westfield Golf Club "pro," will be among the contestants for honors at the Hollywood Golf Club tomorrow. He and "Marty" O'Loughlin were tie for third position at VanCortlandt Park, last week.

Members of the Plainfield Country Club frequently select "Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro," as a partner for a round of the course, and are thus able to get hold of some of the finer points of the game which he has acquired by constant play. The genial disposition of the home-bred makes him an ideal partner in a match.

He is the first peer in the realm. At coronations he places the crown on the head of the sovereign, and the king and queen are his domestic parishioners. The bishop of London is his provincial dean, the bishop of Lincoln his chancellor and the bishop of Rochester his chaplain.

AN INVENTION OF OF LEWIS NIXON.

Remarkable Double Action Gas Marine Engine Tested.

Jersey City, Aug. 8.—In the presence of Capt. W. W. White, U. S. N., naval constructor; L. B. McBride, chief engineer United States Navy; James A. Gifford, representing H. H. Rogers; J. J. Kirky, chief engineer New York Central's transportation and motor department; Chief Engineer Webster, of the Clyde Steamship Company; President Buchanan, of the Carbon Steel Axle Company; Grant Cramer, nephew of President U. S. Grant; Lewis Nixon and a few civilian guests, there was tested Saturday afternoon in the shops of the Standard Motor and Construction Company, in this city, the first of Mr. Nixon's new double action reversible gas marine engines.

The tests were declared to be satisfactory. At a fuel consumption of 7.10 ponds per house-power hour, the engine developed, it is said, 300 horse-power at 320 revolutions per minute. The test was made with the turbine water brake apparatus and the engine operated under the severest strain, it is said, which could be applied, with an absence of vibration and without noise.

According to the experts present the engine was in perfect balance even when the throttle was wide open and the many cranks from the gas cylinders beating away at high speed.

While the engine was under its greatest load the operator, at Mr. Nixon's direction, reversed the engine instantly. Even the sudden stoppage failed to jar the engine, which is not much larger than an office desk, and it instantly developed its full power in reverce. The new engine is the first gas marine engine, it is said, which can be run at slow speed with a development of high power.

Capt. White and Constructor McBride will make their reports to their respective chiefs this week. It is hoped the new engines may be useful for the light-house and life saving service.

NEGRO HIGHWAYMAN CAUGHT WITH PLUNDER.

Well-Directed Stone Thrown by a Farm Hand Stunned Thief Trying to Escape.

Thomas Williams, the negro who snatched Monday morning a handbag from Miss Harriet Thoma near the Anderson street bridge at Hackensack, was caught late that night near the Teaneck station of the West Shore Railroad.

John Degraw, a farmer, discovered the highwayman awaiting a freight train. He left two of his men to watch the thief while he went to the telephone to notify the Hackensack police. Sergeants O'Shea sent Detective Dawson and Policeman Barr in a hack to arrest Williams.

As the hack neared the station the negro became suspicious and turned on his heels. As he did so one of the farm hands threw a stone that struck the highwayman between the eyes and stunned him. The police handcuffed Williams and hurried him to a doctor for treatment. In his possession was found $8 and a railroad ticket taken from Miss Thoma's handbag.

BELCHER BEGINS SENTENCE.

Enters Jail As Hospital Patient—Willing To Do Anything, He Says.

Paterson, Aug. 8.—William Belcher, former Mayor of this city, was taken to Trenton Prison yesterday morning by Sheriff Bergen, and was accompanied by his counsel, William Barbour. Before leaving the jail the convicted ex-Mayor thanked his keepers for their kindness and shook hands with a few fellow-prisoners.

Trenton, Aug. 8.—When Belcher began serving his twelve-year sentence yesterday he said to Head Keeper Osborne: "Place me just where you please. I am here to atone for what I have done, and I am willing to do anything assigned to me which I am physically able to perform."

Belcher looked lean and haggard, and was so evidently in poor health that he was at once placed in the prison hospital.

ONCE WELL OFF, A SUICIDE.

Man Hanged Himself Opposite to House He Had Owned.

Henry Berguer, seventy-seven years old, who formerly was employed by the American Watch Case Company, of New York, committed suicide at Newark yesterday morning by hanging himself to a lamp-post. He used a discarded clothes line for the death noose, and hanged himself opposite the house at Vesey and Pacific streets, where he lived, and which he formerly owned.

The body was found by a policeman about 5:30 a. m. Twenty years ago Berguer was in comfortable circumstances financially, but he ran through his property and came down to working as a street cleaner.

The Misses Belle and Alice DeMott, of Somerset street, are sojourning at Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong, as the guests of their uncle, Senator L. A. Thompson, who has a summer home there.

WANT AMATEUR LEAGUE

Favors Begin to Talk of a Four Town Pennant Race.

GAMES NOT SO FREQUENT

A Plainfield-Scotch Plains-Dunellen-Westfield Organization Is the Plan—Firstbrook Favors Franchise In Lackawanna League.

With the virtual abandonment of semi-professional ball in this city, renewed talk of an amateur league has arisen. There is no hope, of course, of starting up this season, but the organization of a league next year is being urged in several quarters of the baseball world.

The plan that seems to meet with the most favor among those who have talked over the subject is for the promotion of an intermunicipal league composed of, say, teams representing Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Dunellen and Westfield. Four teams is believed to be enough to furnish strong rivalry, and the games will come to each town just about often enough to keep the stay-at-homes on edge for the sport. The four towns are within easy travelling distance of each other, and on the through line of the trolley. Every game would draw the full strength of the travelling fans and make the contests, wherever played, well attended.

Scotch plains and Dunellen have now as swift amateur teams as a lover of the sport could wish to see in action, and they can hold the combination together for the proposed league. Plainfield would find it easy to form a most formidable nine from among the players now in the game here and Westfield would have no trouble in matching the strength of the other teams.

For the local management, it is proposed to maintain the present association, re-shaped so far as Mr. Daabs' holdings are concerned, to centralize support and tend stability to the combination. Judge Runyon, Mayor Smalley and other men of influence and push would be urged to stay in command, and make the team thoroughly representative of the city and its spirit of conquer-or-die.

G. E. Firstbrook, the baseball writer, father of the old city league, believes that the fans here would warm up to the game with their old-time fervor if the city was represented in the Lackawanna league. A sweeping victory in a league like that would be worthy of more than passing comment, he points out, and games would be played here only bi-weekly, egectually checking any tendency to the satilty with which the people now seem to be afflicted. With the Plainfield team in a league of that sort, the occasional one-sided victory would not kill the interest as it has done under independent management. No matter how easily the Plainfield nine won, the fans would have the solid satisfaction of knowing that it helped to swell their percentage, and they would leave the grounds with the comfortable feeling of having something stored up against a day of reverses.

GOLFERS MAKE LOW SCORES.

"Marty" O'Loughlin Follows a 75 with a 72 In a Four-Ball Match.

Amateurs and professionals gathered in large numbers on the links of the Hollywood Golf Club, yesterday, being there for final practice rounds for the second annual open championship tournament which began this morning. "Marty" O'Loughlin, the home-bred, showed that when it comes to playing the game he is right in the same class with the best of the Scots. He followed a 75 in the morning with a 72 in the afternoon. This score was made in a four-ball match, where Horace Rawlins, of Wykagyl, and O'Loughlin defeated Jack Hutchinson, St. Andrews, and Willie Gaudin, of Poughkeepsie, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Several players reached the edge of the twelfth green over both bunkers on their second shots, and every man got his four. The hole is 434 yards. The home hole is another which favors the long players. It is 234 yards, yet on his second round O'Loughlin overdrove the green. He was driving as long a ball yesterday as any one on the course, and his performance in practice shows that if he is on his game today he will give his partner, Jerome Travers, the amateur champion, a run he will remember.

No Game at 'Plains This Week.

On account of the death of Mrs. Frentz at Scotch Plains, there will be no baseball game at that place on Saturday, two members of the team being sons of Mrs. Frentz. One week from Saturday the Dunellen team will play at Scotch Plains.

Miss Mary VanEps, of East Fifth street, has returned after spending several days as the guest of friends at Somerville.

"MARTY" O'LOUGHLIN PAIRED WITH TRAVERS

PICK OF EASTERN PLAYERS FOR M. G. A. OPEN TOURNEY AT HOLLYWOOD.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the home-bred "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, will have an excellent opportunity today to display his ability in the opening play for the Metropolitan Golf Association championship, at the Hollywood Golf Club. The Plainfield boy is paired with Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the present champion of the association, and the playing of this pair will be watched with more than ordinary interest as it will be professional against amateur. In fact in the pairings the committee has matched amateurs and professionals wherever possible.

The championship proper, which is to consist of seventy-two holes of medal play, began at 9 o'clock this morning. Travers and O'Loughlin are generally regarded as the two strongest home-breds in this country and as they represent different classes they will furnish an excellent comparison. They were scheduled to tee off at 9:50 and will undoubtedly carry a big gallery.

Prominent among the professional absentees are Stewart Gardner, Garden City; Dave Patrick, Westfield, and George Pearson, Forest Hill. Gardner is kept busy these days superintending the improvements being made to the Garden City links, but he expects to be able to play with Devereaux Emmis, in the four-ball match, on Saturday.

There are fifty-six clubs in the Metropolitan Golf Association, but less than half of them are able to boast of professionals who would be regarded as having a chance to finish near the top in a seventy-two-hole medal play event. The amateur entry is about the same as last year. The entries and pairings are as follows:

9 a. m.—John Young, Hollywood, and J. F. Shanley, Jr., Deal.

9:05—Willie Norton, Deal, and J. Campbell Phillips, Hollywood.

9:10—Joseph J. Anson, Cranford, and P. W. Kendall, Deal.

9:15—Tom Anderson, Montclair, and Frank E. Henderson, Hollywood.

9:20—Chris Crosby, South Orange, and Arthur McAleenan, Hollywood.

9:25—Will Gaudin, Powelton, and J. J. O'Donohue, Jr., Hollywood.

9:50—Martin O'Loughlin, Plainfield, and Jerome D. Travers, Montclair.

Plainfielders Go To West Point.

The annual excursion of the New Jersey Central to West Point, today, was well patronized by Plainfielders. There were 125 people who boarded the 8:46 train this morning for Jersey City, where on the large steamboats was waiting to convey the excursionists up the Hudson River. The train made the regular stops between Somerville and Jersey City, and by the time it reached the terminal there was a large crowd to take the trip.

Dog Blocked His Trip.

Leslie Mowry, of Putnam avenue, was prevented from going on the excursion this morning by his small dog. The dog sneaked after him out of the house, ran after the trolley to the station, and trotted behind him to the station. Mowry didn't notice it until he was about to board the train. He couldn't very well take the dog with him, and it would have been lost had he left it on the platform, so he gave up his trip and took doggie home.

Postponed.

FORDYCE AT DUNELLEN

"New Idea" Candidate For Senator Flays the Middlesex Machine.

SMALL CROWD PRESENT

Bloomfield and Corey Also Attack Strong and Jackson, G. O. P. Leaders, at the Town Hall.

Less than 100 voters attended the "new idea" mass meeting in the town hall at Dunellen last night. Many in the audience were Democrats but they listened as eagerly as the Republicans to the speeches of Col. Alexander Fordyce, of New Brunswick; C. A. Bloomfield, of Metuchen, and George J. Corey, of Stelton, all of whom fiercely denounced the party machine in Middlesex county.

Boss Strong and Senator Jackson were bitterly attacked by the speakers and the small crowd enthusiastically applauded every time some political sin was laid at the door of those two chieftains.

The principal speaker of the evening was former Assemblyman Fordyce himself. He addressed the meeting regarding his present campaign for the State senatorship and the overthrow of the machine and bossism. He referred to the workings of the machine party under Judge Strong in New Brunswick and told about what was being done in the way of legislation by the political bosses. He said that the only way to break up the condition of things was to expose the bad workings of the machine and see that independent candidates, not under the control of the bosses would get the nominations at the primaries on September 25.

Other speakers were Charles Prickitt, of New Brunswick, and Arthur Steengrafe, of New Market.

Miss Davies Dead.

Miss Jennie Davies, for a number of years a teacher in the Franklin school, died at Dr. Cooley's sanitarium on Friday, where she had been under treatment during the past three months for nervous prostration. Miss Davies was the daughter of a Methodist minister and was born in England. She came to this country with her parents when a girl. Her father died after his retirement from the ministry. For a long time the family made their home in the central part of New York, at which place the burial took place on Tuesday.

Miss Davies and her sister, Miss Susan Davies, who was also a teacher here, being in the Lincoln school, lived with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Doane, of East Seventh street. Miss Davies was a member of the First M. E. church, the Epworth League and a teacher in the Sunday-school, being very active in all departments of church work. She is survived by a mother and a sister, who have been making their home at Flushing, L. I.

Campers Return Home.

Bert Miller, of East Second street, accompanied by George Westervelt, of Central avenue, who have been staying at Shushane, N. Y., on account of the illness of young Miller, arrived home yesterday morning. Both Mr. Westervelt and Miller were members of the Holy Cross church choir who spent a couple of weeks in the mountains. While there Miller was taken ill with congestion of the lungs and it was necessary to take him to the village of Shushane, the camp being some distance from there. He was put in charge of Dr. Beatty, the local physician, and with Mr. Westervelt's assistance recovered sufficiently to be brought home Tuesday night, and he is now improving.

Nevins, the one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nevins, who died Monday at Asbury Park, was held from the home of his parents, 842 West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The body was brought to this city in the morning and the service was in charge of Father Bogan, and the interment was at St. Mary's cemetery.

NEIGHBORS COMPLAIN OF MANHATTAN HOTEL

PROPRIETOR SNEDEKER BROUGHT BEFORE MAYOR SMALLEY LAST NIGHT.

Upon a series of complaints made from time to time by neighbors, John H. Snedeker, proprietor of the Manhattan Hotel, on Somerset street, appeared in the borough court last evening before Mayor Smalley. There has been considerable disturbance at the Manhattan bar room for some time past and the place has been very noisy on some nights. No warrant was sworn out for Snedeker, but Mayor Smalley merely summoned him to court for a warning.

The mayor said that if there were any more complaints from the neighbors about the place as being disorderly evenings, he would take definite action, not only regarding a fine, but effecting the license of the place. Several persons living in the vicinity of the place came to court and complained of the noise and disturbance at night.

Two boroughites, arrested on a warrant for engaging in a drunken fight at the Manhattan Tuesday evening, were up for a hearing at the same time. They were William Gaub and Henry Randolph. They were both drunk Tuesday and got in a fight in the bar room. Randolph was evidently worsted, for he came to court with a black eye. The Mayor fined them each $5.

POSTPONED FIREWORKS WITH CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT.

Elaborate Display of Fireworks Arranged For In Connection With Band Programme.

Fireworks men from Jersey City were at Concert Park today completing arrangements for the pyrotechnic display in connection with the concert by LaVere's band to be held there tomorrow evening. The display was to have been held last Friday evening, but was prevented by rain. Arrangements have been made to add to the number of display pieces which were brought to this city for last week's concert, and there will be twenty-one set pieces displayed, with many wheels and rockets.

In connection with the display, two soloists, Billy Redmond and Jack Drislane, will sing several solo selections. Redmond is to sing "You're a Grand Old Flag," while the American set piece flag is being displayed. "Ted" Snyder, of the Mills music publishing company, will be in town to hear Redmond sing. Jack Drislane, of the Moss Comedy Trio, will be the other soloist. He has a special "stunt" which he introduces in the song, "When Mose With His Hand Leads the Band." The programme will be the same as announced for last week.

BIGGEST EXCURSION OF THE SEASON GOES.

Seven Churches Fill Twenty-one Cars With Seekers After Shore Pleasures.

From 7:50 until 8:20 o'clock this morning the commuters were lost in a throng of excursionists at the North Avenue station. The Presbyterian-Episcopal-Seventh-Day Baptist excursion to Asbury Park drew a crowd of nearly 1,300 and filled twenty-one cars.

It was the biggest excursion of the season so far, and it is not likely to be surpassed. Seven churches took part in it, Crescent Avenue, Grace P. E., St. Stephen's P. E., Holy Cross P. E., Seventh-Day Baptist churches and Bethel chapel. The excursionists began to gather at 7:45 and by 8 o'clock the station platform was jammed.

The train was in two sections. It was scheduled to leave at 8 o'clock, but it was 8:15 before the first section, fourteen cars, pulled out. It was filled to its seating capacity. Two cars were to have been reserved in this section for Bethel chapel, but in some way the reservation was not arranged and the colored excursionists were scattered through several of the forward cars. Seven of the cars in the second section were filled when it pulled out at 8:25.

James W. Davis Leaves Cab Co.

James W. Davis, for six years manager of the Plainfield Cab Company, has resigned to accept the management of the R. F. Munn stables in Chestnut street, Newark. The Munn stables are one of the largest in New Jersey. During his service as manager of the local cab company Mr. Davis has built that business up from almost nothing to one of the largest in Union county.

Gymnasium Shut Down.

From August 17 until September 1 the Physical Department of the Y. M. C. A. will suspend for repairs. The whole department will be gone over, including the pool, which is to be repainted.

BRYAN TO VISIT NEWARK

Democracy's Leader Accepts Invitation of Former Senator Smith.

FOR SEPTEMBER 1

To Spend Three Hours In Essex—Also To Visit Davis at Jersey City.

William Jennings Bryan, twice Democratic nominee for President, will visit Newark on the afternoon of September 1 and make three speeches at outdoor gatherings. This, in effect, is an announcement made by former Senator James Smith, Jr., yesterday morning. Mr. Smith has notified the county committee of Mr. Bryan's acceptance of the invitation he sent him some time ago, and has requested it to make all the necessary arrangements.

Mr. Bryan's visit will be of short duration, not extending more than three hours, but in that interval he will be a busy man if the tentative programme given out by Chairman David T. Howell, of the county organization, is adhered to. The distinguished Nebraskan while here will be the guest of Mr. Smith, and the Hudson County Democracy will have Mr. Bryan Saturday night.

The letter of acceptance was sent from London, which city Mr. Bryan has been making his headquarters. Mr. Smith said he did not care to make public the contents of the letter sent by the leader of the Democracy. All that could be learned was that Mr. Bryan had expressed gratification at the loyalty of Jersey Democrats, and recalled his visit here in 1900 while making a campaign for the Presidency.

August 30, upon his arrival from Europe, Mr. Bryan will be tendered a reception in Madison Square Garden.

As matters now stand he will arrive in Newark between 12 and 1 o'clock the following Saturday afternoon, coming over the Pennsylvania. He will be met at the Jersey City terminal by Mr. Smith and Robert Davis, leader of the Hudson County Democracy.

At the Market Street station the Essex County Democratic organizations and delegations from Union, Morris, Passaic and Bergen counties will be in waiting, it being the intention of the county committee to send invitations to every Democratic organization within convenient distance to join in the welcome. They will escort Mr. Bryan to Mr. Smith's residence, 10 Washington place, where he will hold a levee. Mr. Howell says the prominent men of the county, regardless of political affiliations, will be asked to meet Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Bryan will likely make his first speech in Centre Market Square. The second will probably be at Springfield and Belmont avenues, and the third at Washington Park. The exact sequence has not been determined upon, as Mr. Howell will have to secure the consent of the city authorities to the plans. Mr. Howell thinks it would be folly to engage a hall, for there is none, he says, large enough to accommodate the crowd.

The speeches will not be of a partizan nature, Mr. Howell says.

"Mr. Bryan is coming simply because the people want him," said Mr. Howell yesterday morning. "He is coming as a distinguished American citizen, and his speeches will be in conformity to that idea."

The tentative programme will allow Mr. Bryan to depart for Jersey City shortly after 4 o'clock. A meeting of the county committee has been called for next Tuesday night to take necessary action.

Mary S. Pound.

After a niliness of a year and a half, death came to Miss Mary S. Pound, daughter of the late David and Sarah Pound, yesterday afternoon. Miss Pound is survived by a brother, Edward D. Pound, of East Fifth street, and Miss Sarah Pound, of East Second street. The funeral service will be conducted at the home of her brother tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, and the body will be removed to Bound Brook Saturday for the interment.

$50,000 CIVIL SUIT SANFORD'S COUNTER MOVE

NEW MARKET COUPLE, SEPARATED A MONTH AGO, BOTH SUING FOR DIVORCE

Taking active initiative in the divorce suit brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Alice Sanford, Samuel Sanford, of New Market, today filed an answer to a cross petition in the suit, in which he allages several violations of statutory grounds entitling him to divorce. He has further authorized his attorney, R. P. F. Von Minden, to prepare papers in a civil suit for $50,000 for the alienation of affections of his wife by Joseph Lawrence, an eighteen-year-old boy, whom Sanford claims is now living with his wife at New Market.

The couple became alienated about a month ago, when Sanford left the home of his wife at Newtown and went to New Market to board. The young man Lawrence is alleged to have been a constant companion of Mrs. Sanford for many weeks past, and his alleged infatuation with Sanford's wife brought about the separation. Sanford alleges that his wife has brought Miss May Grundy, of New York, to New Market to live with her and that she did this in order to secure evidence against him in the divorce case.

Mrs. Sanford has engaged County Prosecutor George Berdine, of New Brunswick, as her attorney in the case, which is to come up before the grand jury in the September term of court at New Brunswick.

MARTINE AWAITS BRYAN.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Martine are close personal and political friends. The Nebraskan was a guest at Cedar brook farm in 1896 and the latter has visited Mr. Bryan at his Lincoln home on one or two occasions.

William Boureau Drowned.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Randolph, of West Front street, have received word from Moorestown of the death by drowning of William Boureau, a young man who boarded with them for two years. He was employed by a New York contracting firm. Mr. Bourean left Plainfield Saturday to spend his vacation at Moorestown, where his parents and brother lives, and at tlantic City. According to the report he and his brother was riding in an automobile. They approached a body of water and it was suggested that they take a swim. It is presumed that William Boureau was seized with cramps while in the water. At the time he was drowned his brother was some distance away. Later his body was recovered in another part of the pond. The legs and arms were contracted indicating that the dead man had had cramps.

P. S. C. Improvements.

A large gang of Italians are now at work on East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street, putting in new ties and rails for the Public Service Corporation. This is in line with the general work of repair being made by the company between Dunellen and Elizabeth. Large box cars are employed to haul cracked stone from Smalley Brothers' quarry at Washingtonville to various points along the trolley line. In this way considerable expense and trouble is saved over the old method of having teams cart the stone.

JOHN MOODY IS INVITED

To Be a Member of Reception Committee When Mr. Bryan Comes Home.

CRANFORD MAN ACCEPTS

Said To Be Unlikely That Nebraskan Will Speak Under Auspices of Either Smith or Davis.

Lewis Nixon, chairman of the Plan and Scope Committee for the reception to William Jennings Bryan, upon his return from Europe, has just sent to John Moody, of Cranford, President of the True Democracy of New Jersey, a letter notifying him that he has been appointed a member of the Committee of Reception. Mr. Moody has written to Mr. Nixon a letter of acceptance.

Mr. Moody's reply follows:

"Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor, informing me of my appointment by your Plan and Scope Committee as a member of the Committee of Reception to the Hon. William Jennings Bryan.

"Feeling as I do, that Mr. Bryan, more than any one man in public life today, represents the principle of True Democracy, particularly as we understand it in New Jersey, I accept the aforesaid invitation with great pleasure. It is a high honor to join in the public welcome to a man whose ideals of manhood and of citizenship are as high as are those of Mr. Bryan.

"Very truly yours,
"JOHN MOODY."

NEW IDEA'S SUCCESS AS TOLD BY FAGAN.

Says Advocates of the Movement Know No Obstacles.

"We know no obstacles," said Mayor Mark M. Fagan when asked what apparent hindrances to the success of the "new idea" ticket had been reported by his lieutenants. His statement was the keynote of the conference of Hudson county leaders in the fight to win the primaries for the "new idea" candidates and principles. Over sixty men, from all parts of the county save Bayonne, and a report of the plans for an active campaign was sent from there, gathered in Mayor Fagan's council chamber at the City Hall and discussed plans for the campaign for the primaries. Each man present undertook to do a certain work. The names, addresses and telephone numbers of the men were taken and they will all be in close communication with the central committee and subject to call at any moment for any work there is to be done.

The "cart-tail" meeting was the principal topic of discussion. Its value as a means of reaching the voters was urged by Mayor Fagan and others who have already put in a month of hard campaigning. It was finally decided to hold meetings from cart-tails nightly, beginning with next Monday.

Well Salted Down.

An employee of S. Hirsch & Co., the Elizabeth grocers, who recently bought out the Dunham Grocery Company, was storing a large quantity of salt in the barn on the company's property on West Second street and Central avenue, when he overloaded the building, with the result that the floor gave away and the man was buried in the cellar with the sale. Another workman nearby heard the man's screams and he hastened to the cellar, where, after much hard work, he rescued him. An examination showed that the man escaped uninjured.

Independent Outing Route.

Those who wish to go to the Republican County Committee outing Saturday, without leaving business before noon, may go to the grove by train and ferry. There is a ferry line from New York to College Point, near where the excursionists will spend the afternoon, which leaves the foot of East Ninety-ninth street. Republican warriors who work in New York will find that a convenient way to join in the outing without cutting out their work.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Since the Borough Council meeting Monday evening, there has been considerable talk of a so-called "split" in the Council which developed on that evening. The words between Mayor Wyckoff and Councilman Kuehns, chairman of the committee appointed to see that the fire engine was equipped with a brake, have surely caused a slight rupture, and there are those in the Council and through town who side with each of the parties. Those who take Councilman Kuehns' side seem to be in a majority, for the independent action of the Mayor in taking matters in his own hands after appointing a committee made trouble because the means employed were different. When the contract was let for equipping the engine with a brake, the lowest bidder was I. J. Stites, who made the brake, fitting it to the engine, which was taken to the shop. The Mayor heard that the engine had been moved from the house and was not pleased. He accordingly took matters into his own hands and engaged Paxton Van Ardsdale to put the brake on the engine. The job was done in the engine house. At the Council meeting both blacksmiths presented bills for the work done, and there was trouble. Seeking an explanation of his duties as chairman of the committee, Councilman Kuehns had words with the Mayor, who referred him to the borough recorder for the necessary parliamentary advice. Both blacksmiths are to be paid.

Because of the protest filed by John W. Johnson, of Plainfield, against the confirmation of the receiver's sale of the Lake Pigment plant by Vice Chancellor Bergen, an order has been filed in the Court of Chancery at Somerville ordering another sale, the date of which has been set for September 6. The first auction was held in July, and the plant was bought in by Milton Knapp. Johnson, who controls a large block of shares in the concern, was a bidder, but dropped out, and Knapp secured the plant at $6,000. Since then, Johnson has been to the court and agreed to pay $9,100 for the property, above all incumberances. Vice Chancellor Bergen refused to re-open the sale unless Johnson furnished a bond of $10,000. This he did, and at the sale in September will be forced to offer $9,100 for the plant or else forfeit the bond.

Many boroughites sought recuperation from the heat of the week by going with the excursion to Asbury Park today. The Seventh-Day Baptists of New Market made this the regular outing for the Sunday-school, and a good representation of the school was taken to the shore. The excursionists will arrive in town on the return trip at about 9 o'clock this evening.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep sloop the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 12, 1906. Return trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. 8 4 7

STATIONERY AND TOYS.

HARPER,

411 PARK AVENUE.

By Tom Muir.

The judicial committee of the privy council in London yesterday recommended the discissal of the appeal of Dunsmuir versus Dunsmuir and Hopper versus Dunsmuir. The appeal resulted from the suit of Edna Wallace Hopper to break the will of the late Alexander Dunsmuir, her stepfather, in which his brother, James Dunsmuir, former premiar of British Columbia, was the principal legatee.

The name of the new comedy in which Mary Mannering will be seen next season has been changed to "Mistress Betty," instead of "Lady Betty" as was first intended that it should be.

The German and Hungarian rights of "The Little Stranger" have been recently disposed of. The making of the version has been intrusted to one of the foremost German dramatists of the day. In its English form, this farce will mark its first American production at Hackett's theatre (formerly Fields'), New York, during the latter part of this month.

It is not generally known that R. C. Carton, the author of many successful plays, among them "Liberty Hall," "The Home Secretary," "Lord and Lady Algy," and "Mr. Hopkinson," is a confirmed invalid, and is confined to his room the major portion of his time. The wonder really is that a man so bodily afflicted can evoke that delicious humor with which all his plays bristle.

Alfred Sutro's play, "The Walls of Jericho," in which James K. Hackett will continue to appear the coming season, recently had the first performance of its German version, which was made by Mrs. Caidy Robinson, at the Municipal theatre, Mainz, Germany. From all accounts its success was just as pronounced as that made when Mr. Hackett first produced the play in New York last year.

Edward Garrett, who plays the title roll in "The Little Stranger," is a lad sixteen years of age, but his part in the play call for him to appear as a baby in arms. He is a trifle over three feet in height, and weighs 35 pounds. It must not be inferred, however, that this prodigy is physically ill-proportioned. He is perfectly formed, and in every way has an engaging appearance.

The Historic Hudson.

The Hudson River has a renowned reputation in more ways than one. Its business interests are more widely known than any other stream, while for excursions and outings it has no equal. There are sights galore—the palisades—the U. S. Military Academy at West Point—the far famed State Prison at Sing Sing and interesting Newburg. The scenery in every direction is superb, and the steamers which convey the excursionists are commodious and comfortable. On August 9, 1906, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its popular low-rate excursions up the Hudson, the rate for the round trip to be $1.00, children 50 cents, and special train leaving Plainfield at 8:46 a. m., will connect at Jersey City station with famous iron steamer "Sirius" for the trip. Don't forget date or train time. 8 4 td

Ice Trust's Scheme.

Providence, Aug. 9.—Colonel Geo. H. Webb, a member of the ice investigation committee of the Board of Trade of this city, declared yesterday that the result of the investigations recently made into the Maine ice crop by Special Agent Greenlaw, of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics, showed that the crop remaining there was being held for famine prices. Colonel Webb added: "That much I know now before the report appears. While they are asking high prices for ice now, they expect to get at least an average of $4 a ton for all they have left. That would bring it to about $12 a ton delivered here. Maine ice is usually purchased for $1 and $1.75 a ton."

You are hereby notified and required on or before September 29, 1906, to construct a sidewalk abutting on the premises owned by you, situate number 985 to number 997 Kensington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, Union County, and State of New Jersey, which sidewalk shall be constructed of bluestone flagging, smooth and even on the surface and properly laid in one course under the direction of and on such lines as shall be given by the Street Commissioner; the flags shall not be less than four feet long transversely to the length of the street, not less than two feet wide lengthwise of said street, and not less than one and one-half inches thick in the thinnest part.

In default of compliance herewith, the Common Council is authorized by law to order the required work to be done and paid for, to make the amount of the expense and costs a lien upon the said abutting lands in front of which said work is done, to be collected in the manner provided by law and to bear interest at the same rate as other assessments; or payment may be enforced by action in any court of competent jurisdiction, as provided by the statute.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A clean, wholesome melodrama, not in any sense marred by suggestiveness of any distasteful feature, but with plenty of strong situations and bright comedy is "Secrets of the Police," which A. H. Woods will present at the New Plainfield tonight. Scenically the play is said to be mamouth and should prove enjoyable in every respect. There are four acts and fourteen scenes in the new play and as no two of them are alike some idea of the enormity of the production may be gained.

Aubrey Mittenthal's "A Desperate

Chance" Company which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night, is a melodrama that has broken records in houses where great records are not uncommon. This has been done in the fourth season of the production, proving that it is a play that appeals to popular favor. In the present day, there are few plays that survive their first season, and fewer still ever witness their fourth. The play is a truthful reproduction of the crime and punishment of the notorious Biddle Brothers, whose murder of a storekeeper and a detective, subsequent escape from business with the help of the warden's wife and thrilling recapture, makes one of the most sensational bits of criminal history ever recorded in this country. True to the real story, "A Desperate Chance" depicts the entrance of the grocery store near Pittsburg, the murder of the aged proprietor, the second murder of the detective, and the incarceration in the Pittsburg jail. Although properly a drama of the most thrilling type, "A Desperate Chance" is by no means lacking in comic situations.

"At Cripple Creek," which will appear at the theatre next Monday, is the type of play that is perhaps the very best seen on the road. It is a melodrama, pure and sweet, and at the same time amusing and interesting. It teaches a wholesome lesson; it leaves no bad impressions, but rather an abiding pleasure that benefits and inspires and rests those who see and hear it. It stands in contrast to the average melodrama like the coolness and inspiring freshness of a May morning compared with the sultry and tempestuous heats. Few better things are promised at the New Plainfield theatre than this beautiful Western play.

The many lovers of old time minstrels are pleased to know that the famous old Haverly show appears at the New Plainfield next Tuesday. The type of minstrelsy presented by this grand old organization is always of a first class calibre, the singers, dancers and comedians of this season's offering are selected from the ranks of capable burnt cork artists, each and every one a head-liner in his own line. Billy Beard, "the party from the South," is making the hit of his career this season. As a comedian Beard easily heads them all in minstrelsy, his humor is spontaneous and extremely funny, keeping his auditors in roars of laughter during his presence on the stage. The assisting mirth provokers are Wm. A. Morris, Clifford Van, George Sardel, Val

Billy Beard, "The Party From the South," with Haverly's Minstrels, at New Plainfield Theatre Next Tuesday Night.

Huss and Henry Hunt. The olio features are Jacobs and Sardel, knockabout comedians; Hunt and Van, the musical marvels; the Great Lynch, "the prodigious equilibrist," "Moonlight in Dixie," the big singing and dancing number, and Billy Beard, "in his own inimitable monologue."

Considerable favorable comment has been aroused over the appearance here of Arthur C. Alston's "At the Old Cross Roads" Company which comes to the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night, August 15. This play is one of the greatest of numerous dramatic successes, having toured all the largest cities from coast to coast and being received by large audiences in every section visited. Its engagements at the Grand Opera House, New York City, were really record breakers, the big playhouse being packed to the doors at every performance. The play which is in five acts is one which tells a heart story of great interest, relieved with bright sparkling comedy at just the proper time. The company is of excellent dramatic reputation.

Gus Yorke, of Yorke, and Adams, who comes to the New Plainfield theatre August 18, in the new musical comedy, "Bankers & Brokers," tells an amusing story regarding a piece of property he recently purchased in Connecticut. Directly opposite Mr. Yorke's house are some open lots containing a number of trees and it was his custom each morning after breakfast to walk across the road and enjoy a cigar under their shelter. One morning Gus was approached by a clerical individual, who afterwards wishing him good-day, remarked: "I have noticed you on several occasions under this tree, and always find you with a cigar in your mouth. Would you mind telling me what these cigars cost you?" "Well," remarked Yorke, "this particular brand costs three for a half." "And how many do you smoke a day?" was the next question. "Oh, about half a dozen," was the reply. "Why, that's awful! Do you know that within twenty years, with interest, that amounts to over ten thousand dollars, and if you only gave up smoking you might own a nice homstead, as good as the one opposite." "Perhaps you're right," was Mr. Yorke's answer, with a broad smile, "but don't you smoke?" "Why, no sir." "And do you own that house opposite or anything of equal value?" "Oh, no, but—" "Never mind the but my friend," was Yorke's reply, "I own that house."

IS HE A GRAFTER?

The acrobatic statesman, George L. Record, who has somersaulted from one party to another and from this faction to that during his conspicuous career, is up against it. The Jersey City Journal has been shedding oratorical tears in telling the people of New Jersey how bad everybody is that he ever had anything to do with.

Before the Riparian Commission investigation, a sworn statement has been made putting Record in a most inenviable light. In plain words he is charged with being a "grafter," the crime which he has laid up against so many others.

The Newark News, his boldest champion in the fight for the United States senatorship, realizes the effect of the charge made against its candidate and does not lose any time in calling on him for an explanation.

The News says: "At the session of the Riparian Commission investigation committee, yesterday, testimony was given by Secretary Payne that on its face seems to reflect somewhat seriously upon the commission's former counsel, George L. Record. It is to be remembered, however, that this is the prime object of the investigation and hence it is but fair to suspend judgment until Mr. Record has been heard before the committee. Nobody, after reading the testimony of Mr. Payne, will deny that there is an explanation due from Mr. Record."

"What's the matter with Pittsburg?" is running in serial form in the daily papers for an indefinite period. Each succeeding chapter reveals one the Smoky City's millionaires as the chief character in a social or financial scandal.

Were they both upon the same level financially, what show would Dryden have against Stokes for the senatorship? "Think it over."

E. Burd Grubb joined the Colby movement about a month ago and has now "consented" to run for Congress. Next.

Sees Comrade After Many Years.

Rahway, Aug. 9.—At the funeral of Daniel Kavanaugh, a Civil War veteran, here Tuesday, among the pallbearers was Frank Turner, a comrade of Kavanaugh's during the war. This was the first time that Turner had seen his former comrade since 1871. Back in the '60s Kavanaugh and Frank Turner, both of this city, enlisted in Captain James H. Putnam's company in a New Jersey regiment and went to the front. Together they passed through the battles with their regiment, until they changed from the army to the navy, which they did together. After this they served on seven different battleships, always together, finally mustering out of service on the same day in Boston. Then they did not meet again until 1871, when Captain Turner, home in Rahway from a bridal trip, met Kavanaugh on Main street.

LIMITING OF SCHOOL DEBTS STOKES VETOES.

Governor Says Valuation Should Increase With Bond Issues.

Trenton, Aug. 9.—Governor Stokes yesterday took a look at the five Legislative bills awaiting his action, and approved House 324, which provides for a salary of $1,000 for the health officer of the port of Perth Amboy, in lieu of all fees, and makes necessary by that officer a thorough search of marine vessels in order that communicable diseases may not be brought into the port by vessels.

The Governor disapproved House 381, a measure for limiting the expenditures of a school board, and for a new system of caring for finances of such boards. In vetoing the measure, the Governor wrote:

"Assembly bill 381: This bill is disapproved. Generally speaking, I am opposed to an increase in the limitation of bonded indebtedness.

"Wise finance demands that the increase in the valuations should keep pace with the increase in bond issues. There seem to be in this case, however, reasons why an exception, to this general provision might be made and the bill signed, but conditions have arisen that enable the improvements contemplated in this measure to be carried out without the approval of the bill, and I therefore adhere to the general principle expressed above and veto the same."

HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

Miss Edna Dobbins Was Nearly Drowned While Bathing.

Asbury Park, Aug. 9.—Miss Edna Dobbins, of Newark, was nearly drowned here while in bathing at the Fourth avenue grounds, late Tuesday afternoon. She had been stopping at 615 Lake avenue. Miss Dobbins, with her sister, got out fully 200 yards from shore. Both were good swimmers, but Edna was thrown against a bathing pole by a heavy breaker and lost consciousness. Her sister summoned aid, and it was necessary for the life guards to dive for the body. The young woman was under the water for five minutes, and it was with great difficulty that consciousness was restored after she had been worked over for forty minutes. A great crowd witnessed the thrilling rescue. Miss Dobbins is suffering from shock, but she was not seriously injured.

Fight Over Name of Hotel.

New Brunswick, Aug. 9.—A fight over a hotel name is to be argued before Vice Chancellor Pitney on August 21. Edward Busch seeks to restrain William, Gross, owner, and James J. Herson, tenant, from using the name "Metuchen Inn." Busch established the Metuchen Inn, in Metuchen, on Main street, but last spring the building was leased to Gross and sublet to Herson, Busch being compelled to move to another building, where he established "The Metuchen Inn." He claims that Gross and Herson are damaging him by calling their place "Metuchen Inn." Gross and Herson insist they have a right to use the title. Busch has secured an order directing them to show cause why they should not be restrained from using the name.

Total Abstinence Union.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 9.—The national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America began yesterday, when a majority of the 800 delegates assembled in Music Hall for the formal opening exercises. The delegates represent a membership of about 100,000 in the United States, and they are headed by Bishop J. F. R. Canevin, of Pittsburg, as president. Prior to the formal opening of the convention a solemn pontifical mass was celebrated at the cathedral by Bishop Matthew Harkins, of the Providence diocese. Rev. Walter Shanley, of Danbury, preached the sermon in the absence of Rev. James M. Cleary, of Minnesota, who was unavoidably absent.

Substituted the Baby?

Camden, Aug. 9.—There was a tinge of "paper-back" romance yesterday in the hearing of Mrs. Bessie Harmon, who was committed to jail on a charge of kidnapping the month-old baby of Mrs. James Alston here two weeks ago. According to the story told in court, the Harmon woman visited the Alston home and asked to take the baby out to have it photographed. She never returned, and yesterday was arrested at Goshen. It is asserted that Mrs. Harmon had a child a month ago in a Philadelphia hospital. It died, and she returned to her husband with the Alston infant, which Harmon, the husband, thought was his own.

Swears He "Fit With Perry."

Eddystone, Pa., Aug. 9.—A unique visitor to the borough yesterday was a centenarian a veteran of the United States navy, Michael Hughes, who was on his way from the Naval Home at Arlington Heights, Washington, D. C., to Camden, N. J., where he is in search of an old friend. Hughes stopped at the parish house of the St. Rose of Lima Church, where he told the rector, Rev. Thomas F. Ryan, that he was over 108 years of age and that he had fought in the war of 1812. He distinctly remembers the late Commodore Perry, and said that he had trod the deck of the famous old fighting ship, the Constitution.

PRIEST ATTACKS NEW EXCISE BOARD.

Declares Jersey City Officials Have Issued Licenses to Evil Resorts.

Chief of Police Murphy, of Jersey City, issued yesterday an order extending the time for the removal of side rooms and all other interior obstructions in saloons until August 28. Any saloon-keeper who has failed at that time to comply with the law will be prosecuted.

Rev. Father John F. Ryan, rector of St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church, who was one of the advocates of the present excise law, issued a statement yesterday criticising the new Excise Board for granting licenses to objectionable places:

"If the character," said Father Ryan, "of these places that have been relicensed, was such that the former Excise Board saw fit to refuse them a renewal of their licenses, it seems strange that the new board, after such a short experience and with presumably very little knowledge of the character of these places, would grant them the renewal of their licenses.

"If the places are such as rumor describes them to be, they are a positive detriment to the city, and it is again very strange that the Excise Board would have such little regard for the moral tone of the city as to allow them to exist.

"Places such as rumor describes these to be should be stamped out unmercifully.

"Whenever an Excise Board becomes very careful of the licenses it grants, it makes saloon men of a certain class very careful as to what persons frequent their places. On the same ground, when an Excise Board grants licenses after the manner of the present Excise Board, with the places licensed, carrying what must be regarded as an evil reputation, it cannot but lead the proprietors of evil resorts to think that they will stand for a traffic that a former board endeavored to suppress."

Perth Amboy's Lid.

Perth Amboy, Aug. 9.—The local authorities have no little difficulty in keeping the "lid on" since the enforcement of the "bishops' law." The foreign element, especially, cannot seem to realize the import of the ruling, and they still consider it from a narrow-gauge standpoint. County Prosecutor George Berdine, prior to the passage of the bill, had ordered all saloons closed Sunday, but it is understood that a few of the places on the outskirts of the city disobeyed the order. Now the ruling is being strictly enforced, and it keeps the police officials busy.

BELCHER MEETS VICTIM.

Man Who Measured Him for Prison Stripes Was Allee.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 9.—When William H. Belcher, ex-Mayor of Paterson, was taken to State's prison Tuesday to serve his twelve years' sentence for embezzlement and forgery, his pedigree was taken and he was measured for his convict's suit by George W. Allee, ex-Secretary of the Manchester Building and Loan Association, of which Belcher had been President and which was wrecked as a result of Belcher's operations. Allee is serving a year for embezzlement and is assigned to clerical work.

The meeting between the two men was dramatic in the extreme. To Belcher it was entirely unexpected. When the ex-Mayor was lead up stairs to the office of the prison and saw Allee, he started back amazed. Finally he mastered himself and exclaimed, "Hello, George!" at the same time extending his hand. Allee shook it, and then proceeded to put the usual routine questions. Belcher answered in a mechanical way.

When the ordeal was over, Belcher was taken to the prison hospital, where, for the present, he will be treated for rheumatism.

TATTOO MARKS ON SAILORS.

Enlisted Men Start Movement to Do Away With Custom.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Enlisted men in the navy have instituted a movement to do away with tatoo marking which was formerly so popular with sailors. Since the conviction of a Brooklyn man through the officers of the Humane Society, for mutilating the arms of a young boy by decorating them with India ink designs, tattooers have shown unwillingness to embellish the bodies of men who are not known to be of age, and as few adults care to have their bodies decorated the practise may soon become a thing of the past.

The following description of a deserter from the navy shows to what extremes some men have gone in decorations which cannot be removed: Tattoo marks on chest, shoulders, arms and back, viz., eagle, ship, woman, flag, sailor, cards, clasped hands, flag, and flowers." Tattoo marks are a ready means of identification of deserters.

$3,000 for Mayor Brush's Ice Plant.

A crowded mass meeting, held last night in Mount Vernon to discuss Mayor Brush's proposal to establish an independent ice plant, subscribed 300 shares at $10 each to the project. The Mayor said that if enough customers could be obtained he could get a car of ice every day for a month.

HOLDS COURT IN AUTO IN STREET.

Then Violent Woman, Who Used Snuff as Weapon, Was "Whizzed" to Jail.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 9.—Justice Rouh held court in an automobile in the street yesterday.

The fact may offer a sugestion to policemen, in autos, who chase overspeeding autoists—let the police take along a judge and try the offenders the moment they capture them.

The case here is more remarkable in that it adds snuff to the hat pin as a woman's offensive weapon. Ellen Develin, fifty years old, was the prisoner. She was arrested at Gloucester charged with assault and battery on a boy. She swore she would not go to Camden, and it took six men to subdue her. While they were struggling with her, Mrs. Develin emptied her snuff-box in the eyes of two of her captors, burning them severely. Finally she was bound hand and foot with a light rope, placed in an automobile and whizzed here.

When the auto arrived at the court house Mrs. Develin was still fighting fiercely. So, to save the trouble of carrying her in and out again, the obliging Justice Rouh went out, stood in the driver's seat of the auto, asked Mrs. Develin some brief questions which she answered with sulphurous threats, and committed her to jail in default of $500 bail.

The woman was taken to jail in the auto. There she fought so viciously that it was deemed best not to loose her bonds.

RECORD DELINQUENT.

"New Idea" Leader Owes State $379.

Trenton, Aug. 9.—At the continuation of the Riparian investigation here Monday by the joint legislative committee, it was shown that George L. Record, one of the leaders in the "New Idea" politics, has been delinquent in his rent for a State Riparian lease since December, 1904, the amount to the State being $379. Record was formerly counsel for the State Riparian Board. It was also shown that February 2, 1905, Record paid over eleven years' rent arrearages, amounting to $2,904.99. It was further claimed that he is interested in a lease made by the board to DeWitt Van Buskirk, in which a rental of $330 is a year and six months overdue.

State Treasurer Briggs presented a statement to the committee showing that the rent is arrears on fifty-one leases, the arrearages amounting to $98,194.

The Record allegations were contained in this statement.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

From the issue of May 21, 1868:

More Robberies—On Friday night last the boot and shoe store of J. N. Honeyman and the confectionery store of J. L. Laing in Cherry street, were burglariously entered, but not much booty obtained. Mr. Honeyman lost two or three pairs of shoes and Mr. Laing about $6 in pennies. It is pretty near time to put these little affairs to a stop, and we know of no better plan to stop them than to have a well organized night watch. Since the withdrawal of a night patrol there has been enough property stolen to have paid for the services of two or three good men. Who will move in this truly important matter?

Improvement — Mr. William H. Voorhees has made a decided improve to his neat drug store by putting in a fine show window.

The attention of contractors is called to the advertisement of the township committee for proposals to grade Cherry street, from Front to Second. This is a needed improvement for the street at this point has always been a quagmire of the worst description.

It gives us pleasure to hear that Signor Borra has met with much encouragement in forming a class in our flourishing village to be taught under the Chewe system, which has been received with so much favor throughout the country.

Base Ball—We visited the grounds of the Union Base Ball Club on Saturday last, and found it in quite a forward state of preparation. The club expects to commence play about the last of the month. The ground was prepared by our townsman, Samuel Varian, Esq., and will compare favorably with any base ball field in the country.

To Lovers of Good Music—There will be a Grand Organ and Vocal Concert given at the Seventh Day Baptist Church, on Thursday, May 28th, where all can enjoy a rich treat in listening to some of the finest musical talent that has ever visited our place. Mr. George W. Morgan, though he has visited us twice, always renders something new and attractive, and in such style as he alone can do. Mr. Samuel P. Warren, organist of Grace Church, New York, has a great reputation as being a skillful performer on the organ. Miss Minnie Hauck, soprano, has a charming voice, and uses it with increasing skill. Miss Florence A. Rice, contralto, the mentioning of her name, with her powerful voice, is enough to fill every seat in the house. Mr. L. P. Thatcher, tenor, though a stranger to most of us, has a sweet tenor voice, and is spoken of with high esteem in musical circles. We are sorry to say that the agent whom had procured the services of Mr. Simpson made a mistake in the evening, and before he could be seen again had engaged to sing at Hartford on the 28th. Therefore, we will have to forego the pleasure of hearing his fine voice until some other time, but we trust the public will feel well paid by attending this concert. We hope to see a full house.

A little son of J. Mallison, of this place, about five years of age, took a notion in his head to go in swimming in Randolph's pond on Monday last, and came very near drowning. He was going down for the last time when rescued.

Our readers will be pleased to learn that Mr. Thomas Royle, the stone cutter of the First Baptist Church, has started a new stone yard at Elizabeth, where he will be pleased to receive the patronage of the masons and others of Plainfield, who will be kind enough to give him a call. He is prepared to furnish all kinds of cut stone. He is worthy of patronage.

Hon. George T. Cobb has been re-elected Mayor of Morristown.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Democratic electors of Westfield was held on Saturday, May 16th, and the following delegates were elected to the convention to be held at Trenton June 10: James Ritchie, George R. Nichols; alternates, Amos P. Scudder, John H. Martine. A committee was appointed to draft by-laws for a "Jackson Association," to be formed immediately. Our enterprising friend, John M. C. Marsh, is building a fine hall (which is to be hurried up) so the Democrats will soon have a comfortable place to hold meetings.

Accident—A son of Cortenus Young, of Plainfield, on a visit to this place, was slightly injured Friday evening last, by being run against by a horse, while playing in the street.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

A Nuisance—The corner of the Broadway of our town and Somerset street is nightly blockaded with fish, cement and patent medicine peddlers, who make night hideous with their miserable attempts at forensic display, and the crowd of urchins who congregate around the vendors make it almost impossible for our citizens to pass, and ladies are often compelled to go some distance out of their way, in order to get clear of the crowd. Cannot this thing be stopped?

Professor Dunn closes his highly interesting course of chemical lectures by an exhibition of laughing gas at Laing's Hall on Monday evening next. Everybody should be there on that night. It will be rich and racy.

Base Ball—The Unions, despite the unfavorable weather, are not cast down, and if Jupiter Pluvius will only let up a little, they will take advantage of his kindness and commence to play. We understand they have had a challenge from the Basking Ridge Club, but it was declined. The boys do not intend to play any matches until their nine is fully organized, when they will be ready to try their skill with any amateur nine in the State.

Our brethren of the Union County Herald complain that they have not received our paper lately. We have sent it regularly, and shall continue to do so. There must be something wrong in the Post Office Department.

Lamon & Marsh, of Westfield, sold last week the two-story, French roof house on Westfield avenue erected by Horace J. Staples, for $6,000; also house and three acres of J. B. Fowler, one mile from the village, $3,500.

We learn that the Central Railroad Smoking Car accommodations, especially on the second morning train to New York, (7:28) falls short of meeting the daily wants of the travelling public, and that the commuters think of petitioning the company for either a larger or a duplicate car of the kind. As smoking is now an established institution we doubt not such a well founded request will be speedily granted. To be compelled to prematurely throw away a fragrant Havana or a well filled meerschaum because of no room in the car but standing, and sometimes little of that, is a pregnant sorrow which only those who use the weed can properly comprehend. We hope the generous hearted R. R. Superintendent will come to the immediate relief of our afflicted fellow-villagers, and we would respectfully suggest, that he also issue an order forbidding ingress into the Smoking Car of any person who does not either puff or play cards.

We understand that two or three of our citizens had their pockets picked on the grounds of the European Circus which visited our place last Friday, which fact does not speak very well for that institution. We will say, however, (if we did not get an advertisement) that the circus is one of the best now travelling. The procession was very fine, and the performance the best we ever witnessed.

The Summit House, kept by E. C. T. Knight, at Summit, N. J., on the Morris & Essex Railroad, was destroyed by fire last Friday morning. The family were saved by a warning from the watchman employed by the Railroad Company. Nearly all the furniture, books and papers belonging to Mr. Knight were burned. The house and goods were partly insured.

To End Long Pastorate.

North Branch, Aug. 9.—Rev. Dr. Philip M. Doolittle, who recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination and installation as pastor of the Reformed church in this place, with elaborate ceremonies, is to retire from the ministry in the near future. He will tender his resignation as pastor here in time for it to be acted on at the stated fall session of the Classis of Raritan. It is said Dr. Doolittle has expressed his intention of residing in Somerville after his retirement from the ministry.

Absolute Divorce Refused.

Paris, Aug. 9.—The civil tribunal of the Seine yesterday confirmed its decree granting Mrs. Maud Gonne McBride (known as the "Irish Joan of Arc") a judicial separation from her husband, Major McBride, but the tribunal refused to grant her an absolute divorce on the ground of her Irish nationality. Mrs. McBride was awarded the custody of her child. The major's cross bill was overruled. Major McBride served in the Irish brigade of the Boer army during the South African War.

Stokes To Be Shriner.

Governor Stokes is to ride the goat that buts through the door of the temple of the Mystic Shrine, which will be established in Atlantic City, September 16, and a big "bunch" of nobles from all the towns in southern Jersey, to say nothing of the crowd that will be there from the upper part of the State, from over in Philadelphia and from the entire State of Pennsylvania, will do everything in their power to make things pleasant for him.

The Iceman.

It's all very nice to ask, "How'd you like to be the iceman?" with the mercury in the raging nineties, but we note that fourteen icemen in Philadelphia have just been indicted; that the aldermen of Paterson have "rezolooted" for some indictments of icemen there, and that the New York Grand Jury is getting busy in the same direction. Truly, every rose has its thorn!—From the New York Tribune.

...ug. 12: "Public Worship and Spiritual Refreshing"—Luke iv, 16; Heb. x, 24-25; Matt. xviii, 20; Ps. xiii, 1-5; cxx, 11; lxxiii, 16, 17.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

It has been found that the tattoo marks on the skin of the arm of a sailor penetrated to the bone and were reproduced there. Just as deeply into the constitution of the soul do the little habits of daily life penetrate and leave indelible impress.

The habit of evening prayer learned at the mother's knee held President John Quincy Adams to his death so that in all his busy mature life he never went to bed without repeating before he slept the prayer his mother taught him, "Now I lay me down to sleep," etc.

One of our old proverbs declares, "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined." Habits of religious worship are among the strongest bonds which keep us in the path of rectitude.

The man who succeeds in business has regular hours and during those hours concentrates his attention and work on his business.

The student and professional man who get ahead have to do the same. Haphazard work and desultory studying never brought success. The same principle holds good in religious things. If it takes constant and long continued practice to become a violinist, a pianist, an elocutionist or anything else worth being, how can one hope to become at all advanced in the religious life without steady attention to its requirements?

In public worship the soul has opportunity to grow as it cannot when all the energies are absorbed in business, home cares or social tasks. In quietness the mind meditates; memories of past blessings call forth gratitude and fresh resolutions of usefulness; thoughts of mistakes and errors of heart and head bring sorrow, contrition, determination of amendment and reparation. The quietness of the place, the music, the attitudes of devotion, the Scriptures, all bring a spiritual culture nowhere else to be had. The religious life grows in this way. The sermon, the exhortation, the benevolent offerings, broaden intelligence, awaken emotions, strengthen purpose and aid in development of the soul powers.

Whoever does not maintain habits of regular attendance on public worship when it is possible to attend will inevitably lose much from his religious life.

There is no substitute for this. No pressure of business or any other cause should be permitted to long interfere with regular attendance on public worship.

With children it is especially important that the foundation of the habit be begun early. As soon as a child can be brought to be quiet he should be taken to the public service, and this should be continued through all the years of youth.

The service should be made to hold the children when they come to the restless age. This can be done so that the young men and boys will not willingly be absent from church service.

If we are to grow in grace we must use this means of grace, the public worship of God.

Job's Impatience.

The real grandeur of Job was his impatience. His humility before God is but the more beautiful side of his anger with his friends, and his self abasement before his Maker is the crowning dignity of a self respect which is one of the epics of the world. The only proof he had of his righteousness was himself, and he bowed before his Maker and believed in Him because he dared to believe in that self against hell and fire and death and the words of men and the fear of their prim little dogma god. "My righteousness I held fast and will not let it go"—the parable of every hero, wonderful now, but more wonderful then, when Job fought the mighty fight alone and went before us all down through sorrow to the heart of God.—Gerald Stanley Lee.

The Peaceful Life.

Let us not live fretful lives. God will never stretch the line of our duty beyond the measure of our strength. We ought to live with the grace of the flowers, with the joy of the birds, with the freedom of wind and wave. Without question this is God's ideal of human life.—W. L. Watkinson.

The men who stand straightest in the presence of sin bow lowest in the presence of God.—F. B. Meyer.

Love prays, because before love can bless it must be allied with wisdom and power.—W. R. Nicoll.

How unworthily of immortality do I bear myself when my impatience cannot wait a year for a promised blessing!—Amos R. Wells.

To be able to have the things we want, that is riches; but to be able to do without, that is power.—George Macdonald.

You may have to suffer, you may have to die, but no power on the earth can make a man do wrong without his own consent.—Isaac Sharpless.

True kindness does not require that we try to suspend for any one the fit operation of the laws of human life or that we excuse him from obedience, most of all to the moral law.—N. P. Gilman.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 12.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ's Life VIII. My favorite parable and how it helps me.—Matt. xiii, 10-17; Ps. cxix, 97-104.

To select any one of the many beautiful and priceless parables of Christ and to look upon it as a favorite parable would perhaps to most Christians be impossible. They are all favorites, for they are all the precious words of Christ, illustrating different forms of truth. And yet it may be that because of some association, some personal experience or our spiritual temperament or condition, some one parable may appeal to us above all the others. To many prodigals who have returned to God the parable of the prodigal son would likely be a favorite. To those who have been influenced by the parable of the virgins no longer to delay acceptance of Christ and consecration to Him that parable would be especially precious. And hence it may be that many may have their favorites among the parables of Christ, and if so they should be of especial helpfulness to them.

Favorite parables should help us in many ways. They should help us to appreciate Christ as a teacher. "Never man spake as He spake," and His most unique and forceful way of teaching was by parables. For beauty, interest and the power to instruct the mind and touch the heart the parables of Christ have never been equaled. And if any one of them for some reason has become a part of ourselves more than the others, through that one we should be impressed with the teaching power of Christ, and we should more and more sit at His feet and learn of Him. Favorite parables should also help us to understand divine truth. Christ spake in parables that men might the better understand the truth of God, and if the truth of one of them has become more clear to us through association or personal experience we should rejoice in this particular understanding and be led to more highly prize the entire word of God and to spend more time in the study of it and meditation upon it. Favorite parables should help us to appreciate the goodness of God in making it possible for spiritual truth to be set forth in the most common and familiar incidents of life. To our minds and hearts many precious truths might have been impossible of understanding but for this wise provision of God. Let us therefore more fully appreciate the parables of Christ and use them as a means of comprehending the deeper truths of God.

Christian Endeavor In Russia.

The great progress of Christian Endeavor in the Russian Baltic provinces, where a Lettish union has been formed, is largely due to the untiring efforts of Rev. Robert Bahtz, the C. E. traveling secretary among the Lettish people, through whose visits several of the societies have been formed. A weekly paper entitled Evangelists is printed and circulated in the Lettish language, and an inspiring convention was held in June last at Rujen in the province of Livonia.

REV. ROBERT BAHTZ.
[Lettish Christian Endeavor field secretary.]

In Russian Poland societies exist among the Bohemian churches as well as the Polish; and good news continually comes to hand. The topic lists were published for the first time during the present year through the continually extending efforts of the German national union.

Never as Now.

Christian Endeavor never had so much to be thankful for as today; the sky of promise was never so bright, the open doors of opportunity were never so many, the loud ringing calls for an exercise of the heroic never sounded as they do this hour; and best of all, the great army of the young never mustered so many valiant fighters as now. "Best of all," did I say? It should have been second best, for first and paramount stands the thrilling truth of power from on high, to be had for the asking—power that will vitalize our efforts and make our service of some avail. For ours is Christian Endeavor.—John R. Clements in Convention Bulletin.

Godlike Ideals.

It is worth more than one can measure to know that there is in America and throughout the world a band of several hundred thousand young men and women whose ideals are those of the Son of God.—Charles M. Sheldon, D. D.

Quality.

In striving for quantity let us not forget quality. Efficiency must never be sacrificed for numbers. Every new member should add vitality and power to the movement.—E. H. Beaney, Australasian Superintendent.

Worth It All.

To make Christian Endeavor the power it has yet to be nights of anxiety, hours of hard thinking, months of patience, years of toil, will have to be spent. It is worth it all.—Rev. Herbert Andersen of India.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

"But if you love her, you ought not to let her make such a promise. It is a great risk for her to come alone so late, and against her father's wishes."

"But what are we to do?" the youth demanded, hotly. "Never see each other again, and all for a drunkard's whim? Absurd! I have told him that we are to be married as soon as I can support a wife. If he refuses to believe in my good intentions, what more can I do?"

In a conciliatory tone the woman advised: "Wait; he may feel differently some day."

Then tentatively she ventured: "It might satisfy him if you would visit Susan more openly—with the knowledge of your family."

"Nonsense! It is not worth while bothering them with my love affairs; and, well—" he spoke confidentially, for wine is a leveler of rank; "you know my family would not care for the connection. I'm waiting for—I scarcely know what. I only know that Susan is an angel, and I'm not going to be bulldozed out of her society. She will come here to-night—"

"But you will not be here," the octoroon pleaded; "don't risk it to-night. Her father suspicions that there is to be a meeting, and—a crazy drunkard he may be, but his aim is true, his trigger quick. Be careful, and—good-night."

So, gently urging, she coaxed and pushed him toward the beach, where his skiff was anchored.

The Spaniard, partly from interest in Lavender's brother, partly from an idle curiosity, followed at a safe distance, in time to hear the rest of the conversation.

"You will see her to-night, and explain my absence?" Gerald asked, and the woman promised.

"And tell her," he continued, "that I will meet her the night of the merry-making in Rogers' barn: I'll slip off from the dance and join her here about midnight—by the pollard window at the curve in the road. Tell her not to fail! The night of the sixth. I will come surely. Remember, you are my friend, Belle, and hers."

"And Miss Lavender's," the octoroon added. "She might not want me to help in this affair, but it is better than open war with that poor old father, and so—well, I'll do what I can."

Gerald bade her a hurried good-night, and rushed off.

She watched him as he made his way to the sandy beach. There was a scraping of keel, and the measured plash of oars; then, with a sigh of relief, the woman turned and reentered the tavern.

In the darkness the listener stood alone, pondering upon what he had heard. To-night Senor Gonzaga's mind was bent upon one hope, and how to accomplish it. To his temperament passion was all-absorbing. It was his boast that love for any woman was, while it lasted, the one thing worth living for. And now this habit of amorous trifling had grown to an unalterable purpose—to win and keep its object. Everything, therefore, appealed to him, only as it might affect that purpose. Thus, when he overheard Gerald arrange a midnight meeting with a woman, wild thoughts surged through his brain. What use could he make of this intelligence to aid his cause with Lavender? He might bring her here to witness the meeting, but, no; he would gain nothing but Gerald's ill-will.

Should he try to make her jealous by pretending that he himself was to meet this Susan? This idea, too, he rejected. For it was his wish, rather, to convince her of his devotion, and he would like some opportunity to place his own suit in favorable contrast to that of Winslow, who, to the hot-headed Spaniard, seemed a tardy wooer.

Yet in this same laggard his lady had implicit faith; what if he could shake it? How if he might so arrange it that Winslow would appear as the lover of this rustic maid? He would like to make use of this midnight meeting to cast a stain upon his rival in the eyes of the girl they both loved.

But Winslow was not here—could he bring him here? The idea, once rooted in his mind, grew to a settled scheme, as, brooding on it, he slowly paced the weedy, sand-beaten shore.

Within the public house the brawlers were assembled—some at tables, others leaning against the board on upright posts which served as bar. Behind this, with much clatter of mugs and bottles, stood the man from New Orleans—once the wealthy planter, now the keeper of this little tavern in the wilderness.

At a signal from the octoroon, the landlord began to clear the room of loungers dismissing some peremptorily, cajoling others, until few remained.

Among the last was a man past middle life, with a face so marked by drink and evil passions that there was little remainder of features that had once been handsome. The misshapen body was too small for the head, which barely reached above the level of the table. Before him stood a glass of spirits which he drained noisily. The landlord removed the empty glass, ignoring his demand to "fill 'er up again."

"Time all honest folks were abed, Jabez," he urged. "It's after midnight."

The man's companions shuffled out, but he remained obstinately. "Here I sir; go on to bed, if ye want to; I'm waitin' fer company home," and he gave a hoarse, sardonic laugh.

While yet her master argued with him, the woman's quick ear caught the sound of footsteps on the ground outside. She stole to the door, closing it quietly.

There, in the dense shadow, straight and slim as the sapling against which she leaned, stood a girl, who neither moved nor spoke until the other's muffled call: "Miss Miller, is that you?"

At this she came nearer the light, but the octoroon laid finger on her lip. "Hush, your father is there," and she pointed to the tavern. "He knows you expect to meet Mr. Gerald to-night, and they had some words, but—"

"Was anybody hurt?" breathed the girl, in a frightened whisper.

But the dark woman reassured her. "I took it upon myself to persuade him to go home," she said, humbly. "I knew you would not want him to risk any more trouble."

Unheeding the girl's deprecatory interruption, the octoroon continued: "He left word for you to meet him the night of the sixth. There is to be a dance in Rogers' barn, and Mr. Gerald will come here afterwards. Be at the pollard willow at the curve in the road about midnight. I hate to give a message telling you to come out at that time of night, but he seemed set on it. Excuse me, Miss Sue, but I wish for the day when you and he can meet before the village in the open light."

DIAMOND DUST.

Every member of the Plainfield Baseball Association who is interested in the success of the game is requested to attend the meeting to be held at the Hotel Iroquois tonight at 8 o'clock. Matters of concern to all will be discussed.

"Pop" Foster, who has played with the Elizabethport Stars against Plainfield, has jumped his contract with Newark and joined the Lancaster Tri-State League Club. He is to receive $1,000 for the rest of the season and $500 a month during the season of '07.

It is quite likely that Umpire Hank O'Day will return to his position in the National League, which he resigned because of what he called an unjust fine of $50. He will probably protest the fine and again handle the indicator.

The incident at the Polo Grounds on Tuesday, when Umpire Johnstone was refused admittance to the grounds to umpire the game between the Giants and Chicago, and in consequence no game was played, will not help the Giants materially the rest of the season. It is a serious matter when 10,000 people are disappointed and they are not likely to forget it soon. It looks as though the Giants are beginning to show the white feather. President Pulliam in declaring that he will stand by the umpire, who was not permitted to enter the grounds and officiate at the game, has made a lot of friends. Umpire Johnstone declared the game forfeited to Chicago 9 to 0, and "Sammy" Strang, who was called upon to act as an umpire, also gave the game to New York by the same score.

Several big league managers are scouring the country for promising young players, and it is likely that before long announcement will be made of several changes for the coming season.

When it is considered that 800 is about the average attendance at an Eastern League game in Newark or Jersey City, Plainfield is not so far behind in its showing. It is a rare exception for the Newark team to attract a big crowd on Saturday.

Pitcher Jack Burke, of Montreal, lost his first game of the season on Monday, Providence beating him 1 to 0.

The local Colored Giants have scheduled a game with the Clinton Avenues for Saturday and they want to play on Crescent Oval. In case the Plainfield team does not use the oval the other contest will probably be held there.

There are a large number of loyal baseball fans in Plainfield who always support the game and never grumble and they are entitled to all the credit possible. Criticism about the "knocking" element is not intended for them.

It is said that the Philadelphia Quaker Giants and the Royal Giants are the only two colored teams of the semi-professional class travelling on the road that are making any money, and that in the case of several other teams the players have not been paid any money of late.

Dunellen will play Scotch Plains Saturday afternoon, August 18. Both teams have been playing very fast in their class, and a tight contest is certain to result from the meeting.

The Lawyers and the Newspaper men will meet on the diamond tomorrow afternoon. Captains Nash and Hacquer completed arrangements of the game this morning. First Baseman Norton, of the undefeated Newark News team, will probably play first for the local scribes.

Taylor Mehaffey has quit the Somerset A. C. as third baseman. He has not signed with any other team so far.

Art Jacot is putting up a lively game for the Sterling-Gillette team. Like his brother John, he practices hard during the week.

GOLF.

The open championship golf tournament opened at the Hollywood Golf Club this morning. Play will continue until Saturday.

These are busy days at the Deal Golf Club, where a large number of amateurs are practicing for the big tournament which opens on August 16 for three days.

Jerome D. Travers, amateur champion of the Metropolitan Golf Association, will take part in the tournament at the Hollywood Golf Club this week and then go to Manchester, Vt., for the Ekwanok tourney. He is not likely to remain for the four-ball affair which will bring the M. G. A. tournament to a close on Saturday.

In the competition for the Marshall Field trophy at the Onwentsia Golf Club, Chicago, on Monday, H. Chandler Egan, who was a member of the home club team, equaled the thirty-six hole record for the course with 150 strokes for the double journey. Nine teams took part in the play.

The competition at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday will be a continuation of the qualifying round play for the September cup, Class A and B.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow is one of the strong players at the Park Golf Club and he frequently returns a low score in competition. He is a weekly visitor to the course and enjoys the game greatly.

Robert Abbott, Dudley H. Barrows and C. B. Morgan are among those who are sure to compete in the amateur golf tournament to be held at the Deal Golf Club on August 16, 17 and 18. Inasmuch as they are at the top of their game good work should result.

Within the next two weeks many members of the Plainfield Country Club and the Park Golf Club will be returning from their vacation and there will be a larger attendance on the local golf courses.

A pleasing diversion during the summer at the Plainfield Country Club are the luncheons and informal dinners given at the clubhouse. The house occupies an ideal site and when it is extremely warm in town there is always a cool breeze blowing on the hill.

In comparing golf courses it is a noteworthy fact that there are very few in the Metropolitan district that are better than that of the Plainfield Country Club. It is undoubtedly one of the best 18-hole courses in the country and it has been in exceptionally good condition this season. For a nine-hole course as much can be said of the Park Golf Club.

There will be the usual extra attractions at the Plainfield Country Club on Labor Day, including several special events in golf as well as tennis. This day will mark the opening of the fall season.

Martin O'Loughlin, the Plainfield "pro," is booked to play this morning at 9:50 with Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the amateur metropolitan title holder, at the second annual open championship of the Metropolitan Golf Association at Hollywood. They are rated to be the best of the young American productions in their respective classes.

A Blow Instead of a Kiss.

Millville, Aug. 9.—"Kiss me goodbye before you leave me," asked Mrs. James McDowell, of her husband, who, after having packed his clothes following a quarrel, stated that he was going to leave her forever. In reply to her request he struck her a blow with his clenched fist, which knocked her down. Seizing a hatchet, Mrs. McDowell struck her husband on top of the head, felling him to the floor. She then hurried to a physician's office, sent him to care for her husband and hurried on to Mayor Payne's office to have him arrested when he should be resuscitated. Before a policeman could reach the house, however, McDowell had revived and departed for parts unknown. He has not since been seen in the neighborhood. Since the couple were married they have had considerable trouble.

Sues Church for Legacy.

The First Presbyterian church of West Hoboken was defendant in a suit brought before Vice-Chancellor Stevens, in Newark, trial of which was begun yesterday. Mrs. Anna R. Snyder, widow of George M. Snyder, is the complainant, and seeks to have a legacy of $10,000 bequeathed to the church in 1900, "to be paid upon the commencement of the erection of a new church, and solely for the purpose of erecting a new church edifice," revert to the estate because the congregation had made no effort to build a new church. There was considerable testimony to be taken when the hour of adjournment came. The case went over until September 12.

Health Board Sues P. R. R.

Jersey City, Aug. 9.—Hudson County's Board of Health has brought suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in maintaining a nuisance in the manure pile on the Kearny meadows adjoining the Newark Turnpike. A request from the Jersey City Health Board that the county board join with it and the State board in an effort to suppress the manure pile nuisance was received at the last meeting, and Clerk C. J. Rooney was directed to notify the Jersey City board that Eugene Y. Leake, counsel of the county board, had already brought action against the railroad company in connection with the matter.

Long Branch Carnival Plans.

Long Branch, Aug. 9.—Plans for holding a river carnival were completed at a residents' meeting held in city hall Tuesday night. The various committees were appointed, while invitations were extended to the Shrewsbury and the South Shrewsbury Yacht Clubs, the Meadow Yacht Club of Seabright, the Monmouth Yacht Cub of Monmouth Beach and the Long Branch Power Boat Association. The affair will take place in the evening, and more than 100 craft are expected to be in line. Silver cups will be awarded in the different classes. To Vote on Franchise in Summit.

Orange, Aug. 9.—A special election will be held in Summit on December 11, for the voters of the city to approve or disapprove the grant of a thirty-year franchise to the Morris County Traction company. The franchise for thirty years has been awarded the company by the Summit Common Council, and it authorizes the company to construct a trolley line in the city of Summit. Property owners to the number of 400 petitioned the council to grant the franchise for forty years, but it was deemed best for the interests of the city to give the company privileges for only thirty years.

Standard Oil Indicted.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—After an investigation lasting just three hours and a half the Standard Oil Company was indicted by the special Federal Grand Jury yesterday afternoon on the charge of accepting rebates from the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad. There are nineteen counts in the indictment, and the penalty, if conviction follows, may be $20,000 on each count, or a total of $380,000 in fines, while the total amount of rebates received is the comparatively insignificant sum of $8,500.

Milk Dealers Fined.

Judgment was entered by udge Carrick, in the 1st District Court, Jersey City, against four milk dealers—Michael McIntyre, Charles Stier, Abraham Berman and J. Edeburg—who were sued by the State Board of Health for selling milk that was not up to the required standard. The penalty against McIntyre was $50, as his sample was taken before June 1, when the new act became operative. The others will pay a fine of $25 each and costs.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

"Parable of the Two Sons" was the subject of the mid week prayer meeting at the First Baptist church last night.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of this city, will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday, morning and evening.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley returned yesterday from New Haven, Conn., where he supplied the pulpit of the Howard Avenue Baptist church last Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Bergen D. Stelle, of Philadelphia, who preached at the First Baptist church last Sunday and who will occupy the same pulpit next Sunday, will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday, September 2.

Some time ago the members of the Congregational church voted unanimously to adopt the individual communion service. The committee in charge of the matter has been looking at the services used by other local churches and hope to secure a suitable one in time for the next communion service at the church. It is understood that two prominent members of the church will stand the expense, having expressed a desire and willingness to do so.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Governor Stokes continued his entertainments last Thursday by having county officials from all over the State as his guests at luncheon. The Governor has made his entertainments at Sea Girt more in the nature of public functions than any of his predecessors. This has been more practicable than it was, by reason of the larger building, which affords ample space for as many guests as the Governor could well invite for a single occasion. The house—the New Jersey building at St. Louis—has large offices at one side, a big reception parlor in the centre, and a large dining room at the other side, with a kitchen addition, and several bedrooms. It cost only $12,000 to put it up at Sea Girt, and the money came from the unused surplus of the St. Louis appropriation. Not only are the regular entertainments given by the Governor of a public nature, but visitors are welcomed at any time, and many of the shore visitors call there every pleasant day. This has been a very popular arrangement, as may be imagined. The Governor and his secretary, Edward H. Gray, are usually there to welcome visitors.—Newark Call.

Much feeling is being manifested among those who supported Everett Colby in the primaries last fall by what many of them regard as his dictation of nominations. He is charged with compelling the Essex Assemblymen to indorse George L. Record for the Senatorship, and with commanding the nomination of John S. Gibson for Congress against R. Wayne Parker at the "conference" to be held next week. Republicans fear that this will result in Democratic success. Mr. Parker's abilities and high position in the House of Representatives make his return seem desirable to thousands who are in no way interested in him personally, but who do care greatly that the district should be represented by a man who could command influence.—Newark Call.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and receive several propositions.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle of Warren, Hunterdon and Sussex counties will hold a convention in the hall of Warren Council, at Phillipsburg, Monday, August 13.

A New Story by E. F. Benson.

The famous author of "Dodo," which a few years ago set the reading world agog, has written a new novel especially for The Sunday World, which begins Sept. 2. It is entitled "The House of Defense." This story will be printed in illustrated sections and completed in four issues of The Sunday World. It has never before appeared in print. This is another of The Sunday World's Great New Fiction series.

Wanamassa Carnival.

Camp Wanamassa, which is conducted by members of the Wanamassa Boat Club, will hold a water carnival at Deal Lake Labor Day afternoon.

The programme will be long and more than usually interesting. Canoe-tipping contests and the usual features of such affairs will be carded and a number of Plainfielders will attend.

Dog Saves Child's Life.

Fairview, Aug. 9.—A dog saved Tuesday afternoon the life of Frances Arnold, 5 years old, at her home in Fairview. The child had been placed on the roof of the rear porch to keep cool. On it at the time were the dog and a cat. The animals got into a fight and were rolling about when little Frances tried to separate them. In this she was unsuccessful. She was knocked down and she rolled over toward the edge of the roof. Just as she was about to fall to the ground the dog let go its hold on the cat and caught Frances by her dress. It pulled her to a point of safety, and then, when her mother, attracted by her little one's screams, had taken her into the room the dog resumed its quarrel with the cat and drove it from the roof and into the limbs of a tree. When the dog followed and leaped to the ground it fractured its leg. Mrs. Arnold called in Dr. Harrison and he set the injured limb.

—John DeMeza, of the local telephone office, will leave Saturday on his vacation. He will spend a week at the Cataract House, Delaware Water Gap, Pa., in company with George Saunders, of Orchard place.

Paid High to Sell His "Wine."

Orange, Aug. 9.—It cost Liberatore Colantuini, a dealer at No. 318 East 107th street, Manhattan, just $238 to dispose of a gallon of "wine" in Orange yesterday. He was arrested by Patrolman Roberts, and that was the aggregate fine he paid. The Internal Revenue Department has also been told of the case. The police have been looking for this man for six months, and this morning Roberts found him, and later Detective Sergeant John Drabell found a man who had bought a gallon of "wine" from him for 55 cents, which is somewhat below the prevailing market price for the real thing. The man's wagon has been installed in a local livery stable, and the local wine connoisseurs are looking forward to a "big" time.

Car Kills Flood-Driven Rat.

During the heavy rainfall yesterday afternoon, a big rat crawled out of the sewer at Front and Park avenues, to escape the incoming flood. It started across the street, but was caught by a main line trolley car, and cut in two. The incident attracted a lot of attention for the storm-bound pedestrians in nearby doorways.

DAAB QUITS PLAINFIELD

Baseball Association Decides Upon an Amateur Team For Rest of the Season.

TO SETTLE ACCOUNTS

Daabsters to Play at Red Bank in the Future—No Game This Week.

With the idea of "making good" by finishing the season, as originally planned, the Plainfield Baseball Association decided at its meeting, last night, to get together a strong amateur team and play the remaining dates up to and including Labor Day. Assurances were given that a good team could be organized among local players and in case it should be impossible to secure the services of a strong local pitcher it was stated that a well-known out-of-town amateur twirler would be available. It was suggested that a series of two or three games be arranged with Somerville, and Manager Conklin, of the West Ends, will be seen within a few days with that end in view.

It is believed that with an amateur team here, Somerville will be willing to entertain a proposition for a series and that such contests will be the means of reviving interest in the game as nothing else will at this time.

It was announced that so far as Manager Daab and his team is concerned they will not play here again this season. Mr. Daab has made arrangements to go to Red Bank on Saturdays for the rest of the season and represent that town in the Atlantic Coast League. In consequence, "Dave" Driscoll, "Al." Farmer, "Red" Waller and the other members of the Red Bank team will not play there. It is understood that they will go to Elizabeth and play Saturdays and Sundays for the Invaders.

The local baseball association will pay all of its indebtedness as soon as the bills are collected, and after this is done there will be a surplus with which to complete the season as planned with an amateur team. There was no discussion regarding next year, except that if the remaining part of the season should be successful with an amateur team, it might be possible to continue the game next season along the same lines.

Manager Daab and the baseball association are owners of the local franchise and the question of disposing of that will come up at some future time. It cannot be sold without the consent of both parties.

The members at the meeting were of the opinion that considering the many things that have worked against the interest of the game here this season, the association has done as well as could be expected. There were such counter-attractions as the hospital carnival, three Saturdays, the horse show, the steeplechase and several Saturdays when it rained.

An amateur team would not cost one-half that of the present aggregation and with moderate guarantees would make it possible for the association to make some money during the remainder of the season.

Treasurer Charles W. Runyon informed the association that the manager of the Philadelphia Quaker Giants, which team played here last Saturday, had opened negotiations with him with a view to securing the oval for the remainder of the season. The Quaker Giant manager offers to give the local association one-third of the profits. Mr. Runyon will confer with the management of the colored team and learn more about his plans. It is understood that the team would play such aggregations as the Cuban X Giants, the Cuban Stars, Royal Giants, Philadelphia Giants and teams of like strength. The manager while here last Saturday was much taken with Crescent Oval, expressing the opinion that it is one of the best in this part of the country, and if he could arrange it would like to play here instead of at Atlantic City.

The Plainfield team will not play at Crescent Oval on Saturday, owing to the Hope chapel excursion and the Union County Republican outing, but it is hoped in the meantime to complete arrangements for a game there on Saturday, August 18.

Tax Collector's Vacation.

Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown, of Grove street, will leave tomorrow for Mount Pocono, Pa., with his wife. He will be gone three weeks. Mr. Brown has been ill for several weeks past, and the trip will afford him a means of recuperation.

Visit From State Councilor.

Martha Washington Council, D. of A., will have a big session Saturday night. The State Councilor, Mrs. L. A. W. Perkins, will visit the lodge, to witness the degree work. Several propositions well be received.

STORE KEEPERS PAY MORE FOR THEIR ICE

CONFECTIONERS SERVED BY NATURAL ICE COMPANY.

The threatened raise in the price of ice came this morning. It was not general, only ice cream manufacturers reporting an advance.

The cream makers supplied by the Natural Ice Company were compelled to pay forty cents a hundred pounds, an advance of ten cents. Saloon-keepers are said to have been raised five cents, to thirty-five.

John Morton, one of the dealers, acknowledged that the rate had been raised on him. He hadn't raised rates on the wholesale trade, but would have to, he said. His rate to the house consumers would not go up. At the office of Frank T. Ostrom, of the Hygeia Ice Company, it was said that the rates were as they had been since ice went up to sixty cents a hundred for the retail trade. The stores get it for thirty-five cents a hundred, the reporter was told, which was not, the young woman at the office said, an advance.

Nn information could be obtained at the office of the Natural Ice Company.

"Has ice been advanced?" Mr. McDonough was asked over the 'phone.

"Oh, you'd better get your information somewhere else," said Mr. McDonouyh, and hung up the receiver with a bang. He seemed peevish.

The dealers have been warning the public to expect a raise for some days. It is claimed that the natural ice stock is practically exhausted. Mr. Morton declared this morning that he was selling at a loss.

MISS IRENE HOPE NOW MRS. WELLBROCK.

A Daughter of Mrs. C. R. Hope Was Married Quietly Last Night.

Miss Irene Hope, daughter of Mrs. C. R. Hope, of West Fourth street, and George D. Wellbrock, of Brooklyn, were married last night at 8 o'clock at the home of Rev. Dr. George W. Whitney, who performed the ceremony. Miss Violet Hope acted as bridesmaid and Benjamin J. Davis was the best man.

The bride was gowned in white batiste and wore a large white hat. The bridesmaid was also gowned in white, trimmed with blue. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's mother, where an informal reception was held for the relatives and a few friends.

The groom, who is employed in New York as an electrician, is well-known here. Last night the couple left for a wedding trip through the South and upon their return will reside with the bride's mother in West Fourth street.

"CAMP PLAINFIELD."

Theodore Shirley Has the Largest Tent at Lake Hopatcong.

Among the prominent campers at Lake Hopatcong are Theodore Shirley's party from this city. Mr. Shirley, who is senior member of the firm of Shirley & Johnson, has the biggest tent at the resort. It is commented on by everyone who passes it.

In the Shirley party are Mr. and Mrs. Shirley, their two children, Harold and Leon; Mrs. E. E. Winn, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baker, and the Misses Henrietta and Elizabeth Winn. They have entertained many Plainfield friends.

The camp is known as "Camp Plainfield." It will break up tomorrow. Mr. Shirley is one of the best known campers at Hopatcong, having gone there many seasons. Next year he will probably build a cottage on Halsey Island.

Successful Excursion.

After an ideal day at the seashore, the trainload of excursionists from local Seventh Day, Episcopalian and Presbyterian churches, returned to this city from Asbury Park at about 8:30 last night. The day was without accident and was clear, with a light, cool breeze. The water was particularly calm, there being hardly any surf. The tide set far out and many of the summer boarders at the Park remarked at the unusual appearance of the water. During the day's outing many took advantage of the opportunity of surf bathing.

E. Millstone and Raritan Will Play.

The East Millstone team has scheduled a game with the Raritans to be played at Raritan, tomorrow. These teams met a few weeks ago, when East Millstone was defatd by a big score. They hope to win tomorrow, however, for they will have Minford and Overton, of this city, as a battery. Minford has been pitching great ball this season, winning a majority of games for his team.

G.O.P. OUTING TOMORROW

Expected That 150 Local Party Workers Will Go on the Trip.

DAY AT VIEW GROVE

Frank Smith to Umpire Game Between the Nines of Captain McCardell and Captain Jim White.

One hundred and fifty party workers will leave town early tomorrow morning to spend the day with the rest of the "faithful" at the Union County Republican Committee outing at Witzel's Point View Grove, Long Island. The steamboat will leave Fulton dock, Elizabeth, at 10 o'clock and the local Republicans will take the 8:30 train from the North Avenue station in order to have ample time at the port. The Fulton dock is on the other side of the Staten Island ferry, a block to the right as the excursionist leaves the West Jersey car, instead of a block to the left.

In the Plainfield delegation will be Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, Senator E. R. Ackerman, County Registrar F. H. Smith, Mayor James F. Buckle, Tax Collector John W. Murray, Jr., Councilmen Frank deKentucky, Randolph, Charles W. Randolph, Francis W. Montgomery, Ralph I. Tolles, Herbert Buxton and William L. Gloak, Acting City Clerk George Wean, George J. Tobin, Walter L. Hetfield, 2d., and former Police Commissioner Amos Andrews.

As in former years, the outing will have no political significance attached to it whatever. There will be, of course, much informal talk on the political situation and the party workers in various parts will be able to get a line on "how things look" throughout the county. It is expected that former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean will be in the party when it boards the steamer.

In the afternoon Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell will captain a team that will try conclusions with a nine mustered together by James White, of Elizabeth. McCardell refuses to divulge his lineup but says he has some heavy sluggers including Alick Ayres and James Morrison. F. W. Montgomery has promised to make his first appearance in ball togs provided he is given a position as far away from the bat as possible. He says he doesn't hunt trouble and would prefer a job in outfield. Frank Smith will act as umpire until bricks come his way.

IS CONROY DEAD?

Ex-Special Policeman Is Said To Have Died In Trenton.

John Conroy, a hackman and ex-special policeman, was reported dead in Trenton, this morning, by way of Orange. The news of his death came to Chief Kiely from a brother-in-law of Conroy, who telephoned it. Conroy came here from Orange about seven years ago.

Details of the man's supposed death were not furnished. He is said to have died yesterday, at St. Francis' Hospital. It is assumed that his death was natural. He was seen going in the direction of Trenton several days ago on a freight train.

Conroy recently got into a serious mess with the authorities through a woman of unsavory record. He was married, but his wife is said to have left him. She is not in Plainfield now.

Clementine D. Clannen.

Mrs. Clementine D. Clannen, widow of the late Peter Clannen, died Wednesday evening at her late home at Poters' Corners, near Mount Pleasant. She was 90 years of age and was respected and loved by all in the community, having lived the greater part of her life near Mount Pleasant. About two weeks ago, Mrs. Clannen fell and broke her hip, and the nervous shock received at the time of the accident, together with her old age, caused her death. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel at Mount Pleasant, and the burial was at Evergreen cemetery.

Still a Demand for Homes.

There is still a steady demand for homes in Plainfield. Scarcely a day passes but that the local real estate agents are sought by out-of-town people looking for houses to lease and sometimes they want to buy. The scarcity of small houses at moderate rent is just as apparent as ever and it is largely this demand that the agents cannot supply.

In Southampton's Whirl.

Society notes from Southampton, L. I., record the registration at the Maidstone Inn of A. D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood, and the membership subscription to the Maidstone Club of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hooley and the Misses Hooley, of Rockview avenue, who are spending the summer at Southampton.

CARNIVAL AT RED BANK

Marine and Land Parade on the Varied Program of Amusements.

DRYDEN WAS ON HAND

Carlisle Indian School Band a Card —Firemen Contested For Valuable Prizes.

Red Bank's most successful carnival was held yesterday. The town never before contained so many persons, and the visitors were entertained with a varid programme of amusements provided by the carnival committee. The day broke with a cloudy sky, which threatened to empty rain on the festivities before the day was done, but in the middle of the morning the sun came out and the weather was ideal for the remainder of the day.

The motor launch races were held in the morning, and they brought together a lot of the best boats in this part of the State. The opening contest was a five-mile race for pleasure launches. It was won by Fred S. Solomon's Eclipse.

A large number of firement took part in the parade, which was reviewed by United States Senator Dryden, State Senator Brown, Representative Howell and others. The towns represented in the line were Red Bank, Fair Haven, Sea Bright, Summit, Long Branch, Freehold and Atlantic Highlands. The Long Branch company was accompanied by the Carlisle School Indian band. The 2d Cavalry Troop, Captain Edwin Field, headed the procession. After the parade the firemen dined at the Town Hall.

Special prizes for the best appearing apparatus and best appearing company were won by Fair Haven and Sea Bright. The firemen also engaged in several contests, which consisted of a hook and ladder race and a hose-laying race. The contests were won by Sea Bright and Long Branch. Tonight an illuminated boat parade and display of fireworks were the features.

A baseball game yesterday afternoon between the Red Bank and Matawan teams was won by Red Bank by the score of 6 to 3.

ROBERT M'ADAMS SLATED AS ELECTION BOARD HEAD.

Union County Board Effects Organization at Elizabeth This Afternoon.

The Union County Board of Elections, which meets for organization purposes this afternoon, will in all probability choose Robert McAdams, of Elizabeth, as chairman. It is understood that S. Rustling Ryno, of Rahway, will be retained as secretary.

The meeting will be held at the court house, in Elizabeth. The board is bi-partisan membership. It consists of Captain Robert J. Kirkland, of Elizabeth, and Walter L. Hetfield, 2d., of this city, Republicans, and Robert H. McAdams and Frederick Zior, both of Elizabeth, Democrats.

SOMERSET'S ELECTION BOARD DOG CATCHER IS WANTED.

Lists of Members In Various Districts Must Be Filed September 1.

The Somerset County Board of Elections met in the Court House at Somerville yesterday afternoon and reorganized by the election of Charles H. Bateman president and John H. Mattison secretary. The board is now composed of Jacob Shurts, John H. Mattson, Charles H. Bateman and H. W. Reusswig as members. The latter is the newly-appointed member, he succeeding Joseph Fitzga.

An order was issued directing that the lists of members of the boards in the different voting precincts be filed by September 1.

Another Melodrama.

"Secrets of the Police," another of A. H. Woods' melodramatic offerings, was presented at the New Plainfield theatre, last night. The house was light. "A Desperate Chance," the "thriller" founded on the jail-breaking of the Biddle brothers, will be here tomorrow.

Next Week's Excursion.

Warren Chapelites will spend Thursday at the shore next week on the occasion of the annual outing of the Sunday-school to Asbury Park. It's getting late in the excursion season, and you want to see the ocean once more this summer. Make that trip Thursday.

Painting Borough School.

TAX ASSESSORS' DILEMMA

Piano Man Willing to Pay Tax on His Stock but Officials Hesitate to Demand It.

NOT DUE UNTIL DEC. 20

In the Meantime the Goods May Be Removed—Collector Declines to Get in Mix-up.

In the performance of their official duties the Plainfield Board of Assessors are confronted with a knotty problem which they are trying to solve. During the past few weeks a piano concern came to Plainfield and leased a store on East Front street, wheer it has been conducting what is called a "manufacturer's sale of pianos." Soon after the concern began to do business some of the assessors got busy. The could see no reason why the pianos in the store should not be assessed the same as other property.

Three members of the board called on the man in charge of the piano store and informed him that he must be assessed and pay a tax, even though he did not intend to remain indefinitely. The proprietor showed his willingness to be assessed and pay the tax, but he wanted to know how much he would be assessed.

One of the assessers, acting as a spokesman for the others, fixed the amount to be assessed upon as $2,000, which appeared to be satisfactory to the proprietor of the store, but when he asked what the rate would be on the $2,000, the assessors were "stumped." They could not apply the old rate of $2.48 and they were also unable to quote the new rate, as it has not been fixed yet.

"If you will tell me how much tax I owe I will gladly pay it," declared the piano man, but the assessors could not give the information and besides they could not compel the man to pay a tax until it is due, which will be December 20, after which time it will be delinquent. There was some talk of threatening to close up the business if a tax was not paid. The matter was referred to Tax Collector J. W. Murray, Jr., and not being absolutely certain of his position as to whether he ought to try and collect a tax sought further information. He was advised not to try to force payment for the reason that taxes will not be due until December 20.

In the meantime the piano concern will enjoy immunity and should it leave town before the collection of tax begins it will escape entirely and there is no power to force payment.

DENNY CARNEY'S HEALTH FAILS IN COUNTY JAIL.

Mayor Buckle Grants Family's Plea and Remits Rest of His Sentence.

To save him from a serious illness, Denny Carney, the imprisoned mayor of Cottage place, has been pardoned from the county jail. A day or two after his imprisonment last week Carney's health began to fail, and a plea for his release was made to Mayor Buckle, who as the committing magistrate had the right to remit the sentence. It was found that Denny, who is over seventy, would go to pieces physically if not released from the jail, and Mayor Buckle, after assuring himself that the case warranted the action, promptly remitted the rest of the sentence.

The papers were given to Carney's son this morning, and he left at once for Elizabeth to get the old man out. Denny was sent down for thirty days, for beating and abusing the members of his family in a drunken rage.

Denny's own plea was added to that of the family when the Mayor was asked to release him. He promised to reform. He says he will take the pledge as soon as he gets home.

Presented With a Silk Parasol.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sidell, of this city, who have been enjoying their outing at "Ye Old Mountain Camp," Berkeley Heights, were given a great send off yesterday when they left for home. As a token of appreciation for her many courtesies during her stay at the camp, the guests presented Mrs. Sidell with a handsome silk parasol. The presentation was made by Francis E. Bodin, president of the camp company, on behalf of the guests. After Mrs. Sidell thanked all for the gift, all the company gave three rousing cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Sidell.

Utzinger Case Postponed.

The hearing of the case brought by Mrs. Anna Utzinger against her husband, August Utzinger, whom she charges with desertion and non-support, was adjourned by Justice Mundy last night to next Friday night. F. J. Blatz is counsel for the complainant and Walter L. Hetfield is attorney for the defense.

CAMPERS FIVE REMAIN AT LAKE HOPATCONG

CAMP COLBY STILL GAY, WILL BE BROKEN SATURDAY NIGHT.

Five of the Camp Colbyites are still at Halsey Island, Lake Hopatcong. William Fering, Elmer Cutting, Philip Jahn and John Cose left early in the week, but Judge Runyon, George Cose, John Hall, Thomas Muir and B. C. Firstbrook remain. They miss the departed comrades, but the round of gayeties keeps them from repining too seriously.

They have become very popular with the other campers and vacationists at the resort. Wednesday afternoon they entertained the guests at the Woodport Hotel, at the end of the lake, with a potpourri of minstrelsy. They were made much of, and escaped a social mobbing with difficulty. At night they were given a moonlight sail in a launch by Mrs. Aubrey Woodward, of Brooklyn, who is spending the summer at the lake. She is a cousin of S. S. Swackhamer.

The campers will strike their tents Saturday night, and start for home at once. They have been having as good a time as may be, sans mosquitoes and other great annoyances. The mosquito evil has visited the mainland at times, and a party of Orange campers opposite the Plainfielders were driven out Wednesday morning, but the Colbyites have been spared.

ALL IN READINESS FOR CONCERT AND FIREWORKS.

Rain Tonight Will Postpone the Affair Until Monday Evening.

Bandmaster Ben LaVere announced this morning that if it were not raining at 8 o'clock, the time set for the band concert and fireworks display at Concert Park this evening, the program of the evening will be carried. If the rain comes, the concert and fireworks will be held Monday evening instead.

The band concert programme will be the same for this evening as for last Friday night, when the concert was postponed on account of rain. Arthur Drislane, author of "Keep on the Sunny Side," and Billy Redmond, the popular open air singer, will render selections in connection with the musical programme, and the fireworks exhibit will be the most elaborate displayed in town this season. Admission to the grandstand will be twenty-five cents.

THE MAYOR KNEW.

He Understood What Ailed Painter Arraigned In City Court.

Herbert Mason, a painter, whose home is in Brooklyn, was arrested last night for drunkenness. When Mayor Buckle, who is the junior member of the firm of Woolston & Buckle, saw Mason's trade on the record card before him, he looked understandingly at the prisoner.

"On a painter's drunk, eh?" he asked. "They are bad things."

Mr. Buckle learned that Mason had committed no disorder and suspended sentence.

Big Ox Roast.

Plans for an ox roast to be held on the Mowrey farm, Rock avenue, Sunday, August 26, have been made by a coterie of Saengerbund members. Jules Hietel is head of the committee. The roast will be a big affair. A 600 pound ox has been ordered from the Swift beef house, and feasters enought to clean it up are expected. The ox is to be roasted over a huge fire, above which an eight-by six-foot oven has been built. There will be a programme of athletic events.

Committed a Nuisance.

John Jacomo, a foreman employed by the P. S. C. on a job at Clinton avenue and Front street, was arrested this morning by Patrolman Stillwell for committing a nuisance. He was released with a warning, after Mayor Buckle had ascertained that the man's offence was committed through ignorance.

In Camp at Staten Island.

Camp at Sea Breeze Point, S. I., was established this morning by P. A. McVoy and George McVoy, of East Front street, and John Linbarger, of Brooklyn. They drove down with their tent and utensils at five o'clock. They will remain in camp until the middle of next month.

Badly Injured By a Fall.

Westfield, Aug. 10.—John Kelley, of this place, fell out of a hay loft of Robert Woodruff's barn Wednesday and was so badly injured that it was necessary to send him to the Elizabeth General Hospital. One leg and several ribs were broken and one ear was partly torn off.

—Neuman Brothers' display of fruits and vegetables for today and tomorrow is worth your attention. They are just the kind that will make a fine Sunday dinner.

HOPE IN BURT'S PLACE

Report That New General Passenger Agent 's Position Will Go to Roselle Man.

LONG ASSISTANT G. P. A.

North Plainfielder Leaves Jersey Central to Go With Boston and Maine September 1.

It is reported on the best of authority that the successor to Charles M. Burt, as general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, will be W. C. Hope, of Roselle, who for many years has been the assistant general passenger agent. It was thought for a time that a man from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road, would be chosen for the place, as in some respects there is a community of interest between the two roads. However, there was a persistent rumor that Mr. Hope would be selected. It is said that official announcement will be made within a few days.

It is said that Mr. Hope would be in every way satisfactory to all interests concerned. He was associated for a long time with H. P. Baldwin, when he was general passenger agent and he has full knowledge of that department of the business and is well qualified for the advanced position.

Charles M. Burt resigned his position recently to accept a similar one with the Boston and Maine Railroad, with which road he was connected as assistant general passenger agent for one year, prior to coming with the New Jersey Central five years ago. It is said that the salary of his new position with the Boston and Maine will be about $10,000 a year.

MISS KEENEY A CLEVER PAINTER ON CHINA.

Jersey City Artist Who Has Come Here to Live Exhibits Her Work.

Miss Lavinia Keeney, an artist who came to this city from Jersey City early in the summer, opened an invitation exhibition of decorated china in her rooms at 256 East Front street yesterday. She received from 3 until 6 and from 7:30 until 10. The exhibit will close this evening.

Miss Keeney is an exceptionally clever painter on china and has had a large vogue in Jersey City, where her work is well known. She still maintains a studio and a school there, but will make this city her residence, and do considerable of her work here.

The pieces she exhibited yesterday were admirable. They were marked by originality in treatment, not only in design but in tinting. The technique and the general effects were of an unusually high order and explained why Miss Keeney, trained in oil painting, gave up canvas for china. That is very plainly the medium through which she can best express her art.

SOMERVILLE DOGS BITE; DOGCATCHER IS WANTED.

Three Persons Victims of Canines; But None Seriously Hurt.

Louis Ramsey, a resident of East Somerville, was bitten through the hand yesterday by a dog owned by Orlando Van Arsdale. Mr. Ramsey was well acquainted with the beast and was about to pat it on the head, when it bit him without warning. The wound has been cauterized.

A few days ago a young son of Barney Carey was bitten by a dog that chased him on the street, and the little daughter of Dr. Henry V. Davis, who also lives in Bridgewater township, was bitten in the hand by a fierce bulldog belonging to Henry Mingle.

The great pest, curs roaming the streets, particularly at night, is causing the Bridgewater Township Committee much trouble, but the mandate issued some time ago to shoot unmuzzled dogs seems to have little effect because no one will take the office of dogcatcher, and none of the beasts have been shot.

One boy died within the township from hydrophobia.

Salvation Army Changes.

Adjutant Annie E. Hopkins and Captain Eva H. MacDonald, who are now in charge of the local Salvation Army Corps, will have their farewell service at the Salvation Army Hall on Sunday night. They have been granted a vacation and at the end of that time will be put in command of a corps in another city. Their successors will be announced later.

George W. Force, Jr., formerly of this city, but now of New York, is spending August in Bangor, Me.

Miss E. V. Grant, of this city, is spending the month of August with her parents at Amherstburg, Ontario.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

With the granting of permission to the Public Service Corporation to erect car barns near Gallagher's corner, just west of the town limit, the question of fares has been much discussed. According to the arrangement now in practise, this would mean that inhabitants of the western part of the borough would have to pay two fares to reach the centre of town, the second fare on boarding the through car at the loop. The company regulates the districts of fares according to the distances and points of transfer, but is going to make a concession to Dunellenites on this one point. Col. Hine, the corporation representative, was at the Piscataway township committee meeting Tuesday evening and the matter was put before him. He said that the five-cent fare would hold for Dunellenites up to the Parker school house, and has given directions to conductors about this.

Septicemia poisoning caused the death of Mrs. Mary Ella Scheurman, wife of Charles Scheurman, after an illness of about a month at her home near Washington Rock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Scheurman was thirty years of age and leaves a widower and five small children. Rev. E. C. Bowers will officiate at the funeral to be held at the church at Coontown at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The interment will be at Coontown.

Anxious to redeem themselves for the hard luck defeat they met with last week on the local diamond, the members of the Dunellen nine will journey to Glen Gardner tomorrow with the intention of taking a fall out of the ball team of that place. They will carry with them a half barrel of horseshoes, which the Cranford team left scattered about the field last week.

Nearly 300 members of the Sunday-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church went down to Asbury Park yesterday on their annual outing. The day was without accident and the excursionists returned, together with the Seventh-Day Baptist, Presbyterian and Episcopal church people, late in the evening, arriving in town at 9 o'clock.

Miss Edith Wyckoff and Miss Lillian Fisher left yesterday with Miss Edna Hoffman, who has been the guest of Mayor Wyckoff for the past week, to spend a few days at her home in Annandale.

Mrs. Mary A. Martin has returned home after spending several days as the guest of friends in Somerville.

Edward P. Dorman has returned after spending a few days as the guest of friends at Lynn, Mass.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The management of "A Desperate Chance," the play founded on the exploits of the notorious Biddle boys, which is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night, has a lot of gruesome relics of the outlaws. An agent who was sent to Butler, the scene of the unique drama, returned with a case full of souvenirs, to attest the authenticity of which he secured affidavits from the sheriff and detectives concerned, and also a testimonial from the county judge. The most interesting objects in the collection from the view point of those glorying in vivid and bloody sights, are the two pistols with which Ed and Jack Biddle made their last stand against the posse which pursued them and the warden's wife. Beneath the revolvers is a pair of manacles with which one of the mortally wounded but desperate men was secured when he could fight no longer. Within the iron band are two pieces of chewing tobacco taken from the desperadoes' pockets. Of much interest to the morbidly emotional is a handkerchief of the warden's wife with which she attempted to stop the flow of blood from the wound made by a bullet intended for the outlaws. The piece of cambric is stained with suggestive red and is not free of dirt. The most gruesome objects in the collection are photographs of the dead murderers as they lay in their coffins. Realistic in their drawn pallor, these will give pleasurable shudders to the novel-reading youngsters who will patronize the play.

A powerful drama of Western life entitled "At Cripple Creek," is scheduled for presentation at the New Plainfield theatre, Monday, August 13. This play is by the well known author, Hal Reid, and is written in his happiest vein. The story is unconventional, brisk in action and strong in motive and appealing human interest. The scenes are laid in the Rocky Mountains and many novel effects and startling sensations are introduced. The scenic surroundings of the production are superb, the third act being the heaviest and most elaborate ever carried on the road for a melodrama. A glance at the names of the members of the cast of "At Cripple Creek" is sufficient guarantee of the high order of the organization.

Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels will appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday. The public loves a bright minstrel show and Haverly's has been a household word for a generation. People know what to expect at the Haverly show; hence its popularity. They are sure of jests from the interlocutor, interruptions from the end-men, more or less obstreperousness on the part of original fun-makers, old fashioned songs and new ones and a wide expanse of burnt cork smile. All these things are presented in this season's edition of Haverly's.

One of the principal dramatic novelties of the current dramatic season will be the appearance of "At the Old Cross Roads," which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre for the first time here on Wednesday night, August 15, by Arthur C. Alston's excellent company of players. It is extremely doubtful if any other portion of our own country lends itself more readily to the purposes of the dramatist than the romantic South. The story that it reveals is highly dramatic; the situations and climaxes thrilling in the extreme; but the whole is so happily blended with unctuous comedy scenes and incidents that it charms all. The play gives a splendid opportunity for elaborate toilette displays by the feminine portion of the company, which is taken the best advantage of. Manager Alston is credited with furnishing a complete and elaborate production, and best of all has been fortunate in retaining an excellent company of ladies and gentlemen of established reputation. In fact the company this year is conceded to be the best ever sent out in the play, and will include twenty well known people, including that famous Hippodrome Quartette.

"Bankers and Brokers," the musical play in which B. E. Forrester will present the well known dialect comedians, Yorke and Adams, here Saturday night of next week, will be a new departure in the way of musical comedy. It combines good, healthy fun, lively pretty girls, handsome costumes and graceful dancing into an effective entertainment, further enhanced with elaborate scenery and dazzling effects. Unlike the average so-called musical comedy, "Bankers and Brokers" has a well defined plot, there are a series of skillfully advised stage pictures, and the chorus possesses more than the customary amount of good looks. Yorke and Adams, as two Hebrew-comedians, who are desirous of butting into Wall street, have exceptional opportunities to display their infectious humor and wholesome comedy. The music all has a decidedly catchy swing. Among the many song hits being: "Just a Little Fond Affection;" "Underneath a Parasol;" "Mary of the Prairie;" "Mooning Time;" "Egyptian Maid;" "Would You Leave Your Happy Home For Me?" "The Pen Is Mightier Than the Sword;" "Gator and the Coon;" "What Would You Do;" "Holding Hands."

That jolly musical oddity, "The Rollicking Girl," which held the boards at the Herald Square Theatre, New York, for over two hundred and fifty nights last season, is the pleasing announcement for Labor Day at the New Plainfield. At the head of the seventy-five fun-makers comprising "The Rollicking Girl" forces this year is that prince of fun-makers, Barney Bernard, appearing as "Schmaltz," the wigmaker. Others prominent in this year's cast are Paul Dexter, Julia West, Helen Dexter, and many others equally prominent in the musical line before the public today.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep sloop the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 12, 1906. Return trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. S 4 7

GERMS CAUSE DYSPEPSIA

IF YOU DON'T KILL THE DISEASE GERMS THEY WILL KILL YOU. PEPSOIDS DRIVE THE GERMS OUT OF THE STOMACH AND REBUILDS IT. WRITE FOR A FULL SIZED BOTTLE—FREE.

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oldman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of inferior disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered, for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the worn out lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

Pepsoids are sold at drug stores at 50c. a bottle on an absolute guarantee or money refunded.

If you have not used Pepsoids before, we will send you a 50-cent bottle FREE. Send us your name and address and you will receive promptly, a full sized bottle.

You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask, after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Try Pepsoids to-day—they will cure you. The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill. 9

The two big events of the coming week at Pain's Fireworks Amphitheatre, Manhattan Beach, will be the benefits of the Catholic Benevolent Legion and the Actors' Church Alliance. The former will take place on Wednesday, August 15th, and the latter on Friday, August 17th. It is the first time that either of these organizations have visited the Fireworks Amphitheatre as a body and each have made great preparations in honor of their own night. Mr. Pain has promised to be most liberal to both organizations. Monday night the children of the Parkville Congregational church and the Ridley M. E. church of Parkville will be guests of Mr. Paine. This shows that every night will be a busy one during the week.

Dustin Farum in "The Virginian," supported by the Kirke La Shelle players, will begin a brief engagement at the Academy of Music, New York, Thursday evening, August 9th. The stage adapatation of Owen Wister's idyl of the plains has already proven one of the most popular book dramatizations of recent productions for it has captivated even those unfamiliar with the novel, while to the multitude to whom the story has become a loved association the play is especially delightful. The virtues of the story have all been carefully preserved in the transition from book to play and in the production it is known that every effort has been made to have the scenery, the incidents, the graphic and absorbing narrative and the sense of atmosphere on the same high and spirited plane that popularized the novel. This season's supporting company, we are told, is substantially the same seen last season, the only important change being in the character of Molly Wood, the school teacher heroine, to be played by Katherine Bell. Frank Campeau will again be the skulking cattle rustler, Trampas; Bennett Musson will play Steve; C. R. Gilbert will play Spanish Ed, and others are Frank Nelson, Harry Holliday, J. R. Furlong, Charles Stanley, Craig Muir, Frank Vail, Eleanor Wilton, Helen Whitman, Lillian Corbin, Frances Hemric, Bessie Starr and Jane Taylor.

Miss May Batchelor, of West Seventh street, is spending the summer in Maine.

James Field, formerly of this city, but now of Somerville, has been visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Braider, of East Front street, who are spending the month at Landing, N. J., will return home the first of September.

You never realize how many speeches he made or how much he really accomplished for his country's welfare until your congressman or senator comes up for re-election.

The best campaign card that the adminsitration holds is the fact that there has never been any suspicion of graft in the conduct of the municipal government. Few cities in the United States can make a similar boast.

An exceptional opportunity is afforded people who want an investment as good as gold with handsome returns to plant their money in Plainfield real estate just at this time. Five years from now present values will be looked upon as ridiculously low.

It is unfortunate for the Democrats that the factional fight in the Republican party is not to be settled on election day. Under such conditions they would have the best chance they have had in years of getting some representation in the Common Council. That there should be minority representation, no fair minded citizen will deny.

Arrangements have been completed for the holding of the State convention of the Ancient Order of Hiberians in Columbia Hall, New Brunswick, on August 21. It is expected that there will be 500 delegates in attendance from all sections of the State. Mayor Drury W. Cooper will be invited to welcome the delegates and the city officials will also be invited to attend the opening exercises of the convention. In view of the fact that Bishop McFaul has sailed for Europe the opening address will be made by Father McLoughlin, of Hoboken, the State chaplain. Delegates from nineteen of the twenty-one counties will attend the convention. Mass will be attended at St. Peter's church at 8 o'clock, Father O'Grady officiating.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

From the issue of June 4, 1868:

The Country's Dead—We find in looking through our exchanges that the beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of our fallen Heroes with flowers, was, owing to the unfavorable state of weather, postponed from Saturday until Sunday, and from all parts of the country comes reports of processions, eulogies, and tears for the noble Dead, but we are sorry to say that in our beautiful village, where are buried quite a number of brave spirits, who went forth at their country's call to arms, but very little demonstration was made, and had it not had been for one or two of our citizens, we should scarcely have known that the ceremony was to have been observed. At the Evergreen Cemetery a slight attempt was made to observe the ceremony, but the other burial grounds were passed by, and why was it so? In one of the neglected homes of the Dead there were seven soldiers buried, and at another two.

Fourth of July—The anniversary of our National Independence is drawing near and we have not heard a word said in reference to celebrating the day in Plainfield. Where are our City Fathers? or if we haven't got any, won't somebody act in their place, and set the barrel rolling. Let us have a celebration of some kind. Let our Fire Companies turn out, if nothing more. It is a lamentable fact, that while other towns around us, can get up a good celebration on the Fourth, our beautiful village is always behindhand. There certainly ought to be enough patriotism left in Plainfield to have a good time this coming Fourth.

A New Flag Pole—We were somewhat astonished on Sunday morning, while passing our office, to notice a large evergreen tree reared towards the sky from one of the chimneys on top of our office. Can this be the new Flag Pole we have heard talked of in our town? If so, we must say, the parties who erected it have chosen rather neutral ground, it being hard to tell whether the honor was intended for us or our worthy landlord, Mr. Vanderbeek (who, by the way, is agent for some splendid pianos, organs, &c., which he sells remarkably cheap,) but as it somewhat interferes with the draft of our chimney, we have been obliged to take it down. We would suggest, however, to the friends who did us this honor, to select some other locality next time, as they may in their endeavors to please us fall off the roof and hurt themselves.

We notice that our Town Committee has issued a notice setting forth the law in reference to cattle grazing in our streets, which reads that all such are liable to be driven to the pound. We are glad that our town officers have taken this matter in hand, and hope the law will be enforced in reference to it. Mr. Asa Vail is the Pound Keeper.

Improvement at Scotch Plains—We notice a pleasant cottage being erected in Scotch Plains, near the corner of North First Street and Westfield Avenue, by Mr. William Bartle, for Mrs. A. Jeroleman. Mr. Bartle proposes to build two more houses as soon as this one is completed, and Mr. Randolph Drake and Mr. William VanValkenburg contemplates building two houses the present summer. Mr. Joseph M. Osborn and Mrs. Melvin Parse have been making some very decided improvements to their houses. Our neighbors at Scotch Plains are certainly making a start in the right direction.

The Concert given at the Seventh Day Baptist Church on Thursday evening last was a decided success. It was unquestionably the best Concert of the kind yet given in our town. The Church was filled with the elite of Plainfield, and judging from the frequent applause bestowed, the efforts of the artists to please the audience were highly appreciated. Miss Minnie Hauck is indeed a beautiful singer, and may truly be called the second "Parepa." Miss Rice sang with her usual ability, and Mr. Thatcher, tenor, has a rich voice. The organists, Messrs. George W. Morgan and Samuel P. Warren, did their parts as only they know how to do. The Committee of Arrangements deserve thanks for the efficient manner in which the concert was conducted, and we are glad to report that their efforts have been crowned with such good success. We hope the Concert may be repeated at some day not far distant.

Plainfield Driving Park Association—A reorganization of the above association has been effected, and the following officers unanimously elected for the ensuing year: R. F. Harriott, President; John Roselle, Vice President; Elias R. Pope, Treasurer; John T. Lee, Secretary. The opening trot will take place on Wednesday, the seventeenth instant, at 3:30 p. m. Open to all horses belonging to members on or before the tenth instant, at which time the entries will close. Purse, $65 set Harness. Trot in Harness, best three in five—mile heats. A special meeting of the Association will be held with particular reference to the above trot, at Laing's Hotel, on Wednesday, on the tenth instant, at 8 p. m. A full attendance is requested.

Base Ball—The "Unions" were out for the first time on Saturday last, and had a little preliminary practice. The work on the Grand Stand and Club House was commenced on Monday by John King, Esq., and will be completed this week. The interest taken in Base Ball matters by the citizens of our beautiful village has been shown by the very liberal subscriptions made by them to assist the "Unions" in having first class accommodations for visitors. The boys intend to be second to none in the State, and the lovers of our National game, will always find the ball tossers ready to welcome them. The opening game will probably take place on the thirteenth upon which occasion, the members of the club will be happy to see their friends on the grounds—corner Eighth and Centre.

We are glad to learn that the nuisance of fish vendors, &c., which we spoke about last week, is about to be abated, our Town Committee having taken the matter in hand. That is right. It should have been stopped long ago.

Thieves—On Tuesday night last, Mr. R. B. Hutchings of New Brooklyn had a set of harness stolen from his stable. Also, Mr. William Stines, on the New Brooklyn road, had his harness room stripped of all his harness.

The members of Plainfield Division, No. 33, Sons of Temperance, are earnestly requested to meet in their new hall in T. S. Alberti's brick building, on Monday evening, June 8, to make some arrangements to dedicate the hall this month.

We would call the attention of our citizens to the advertisement (in rhyme) of Rogers & Hubbard, who have ground out a good specimen of machine poetry for the information of all who are in need of anything in their line. They have added a steam whistle to their establishment and we can now have Benedict's time without going to the depot.

We learn that since the contract was given out in reference to macadamizing Cherry Street there has some difficulty arisen among the property holders, between Front and Second street, in regard to the money to be raised. Therefore the street will first be graded, and macadamized from Second street to the Railroad.

Removal — Messrs. Kinyon & Schenck, machinists, have removed their machine shop to a building erected for them next to the gas works. They have a good shop and turn out good work.

The Diocesan Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of New Jersey held its eighty-fifth session in Grace Church at Newark last week. Bishop Oldenheimer delivered his annual address, showing the work of the year. He stated that since his last report 1,119 persons were confirmed in the Diocese, making 7,825 since he was elected Bishop. He has consecrated five priests and two deacons during the year. There are now 115 priests and 5 deacons attached to the Diocese. He has also instituted two rectors and consecrated two churches since the last convention. There are now 111 parishes and 19 missionary chapels in the diocese. The Bishop urged the importance of harmony and efficiency in the missionary work, to the end that the largest possible results may be achieved. The following were elected to the General Convention: Clerical, Drs. Hodges, Stubbs and Abercrombie, and Rev. Mr. Rice; Lay, J. M. Thompson, J. C. Garthwaite, R. S. Conover and H. Miegs, Jr.

Miss Mabel Gulten, of Plainfield, is visiting friends in New Brunswick for several days.

Preserving Time Is Here.

Of course you will be doing some preserving and spicing soon—and in this connection we desire to call your attention to the splendid line of spices and condiments we carry. Just the thing for helping you to do your preserving and pickling properly. Prices are reasonable—we would be pleased to have you place an order with us for some of the above.

SHE FOUGHT AGAINST LICENSE AND SHE LOST.

Became Excited When Told Saloonkeeper's Friends Planned to Burn Her in Effigy.

Some one told Miss Margaret Pfeiffer, of No. 15 Cliff street, Jersey City, that Austin Ruvane, a saloonkeeper of No. 3200 Boulevard, was planning to burn her in effigy in front of her home. When this was to be done Miss Pfeiffer's informants did not know, but they were certain that the time was not far off.

The woman had reasons for believing that Ruvane would not hesitate to humiliate her in any way he thought possible, for he had told her to her face that he would get even with her some day.

Miss Pfeiffer had protested to the Board of Excise Commissioners against the granting of a license to Ruvane, who, she declared, was unfit to conduct a saloon. She told the licensing body that her father spent most of his time and money in Ruvane's saloon, and that when she appealed to the saloon-keeper not to supply him with liquor he told her to go about her business and declared that he would sell all the liquor her father could drink if he had the money to pay for it.

Despite her objections Ruvane obtained his license, and the rumor was circulated that he intended celebrating his victory over Miss Pfeiffer by having a torchlight procession to wind up with the burning of the woman in effigy. As soon as Miss Pfeiffer heard this she went to Police Headquarters and asked that she be protected from such humiliation. Ruvane when interviewed by the police said there was no foundation for the report. Miss Pfeiffer was much relieved when this information was communicated to her.

GOOD TIMES ARRANGED FOR CHILDREN AT NETHERWOOD.

Ice Cream Eat for Them This Evening. Christian Endeavorers at the Home Last Night.

Donations on the part of Dr. Anthony Bassler, of New York, and W. W. Warnock, the confectioner, have made it possible for the 300 children of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home to enjoy an ice cream eat at the camp this evening. Dr. Bassler is the physician who looks after the health of the little children at the Little Missionary's Day Nursery, in St. Mark's place, New York, winter and summer, and he has forwarded a substantial donation for the good time. Warnock is to supply the ice cream and cake, and has added a liberal donation. Dr. Bassler will come to Netherwood to spend Sunday at the camp and look after the health of some of the little New Yorkers who were sick when they left the city.

A delegation from Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church conducted a song and praise service at the home last evening. Mr. Smith, of the organization, was in charge of the meeting, and addressed the children. Singing by the children was a feature of the service.

Jesting With a Bachelor.

A bundle that D. J. Carney tied up very carefully for shipment home before he left Morris Cove, Conn., where he spent the early part of the week, came to town yesterday, and Mr. Carney sent it to a clothes cleaner. It was supposed to contain clothes. When the cleaner opened it he found a lot of papers, in the center of which reposed an old shoe and five pounds of rice. Mr. Carney's friends are fond of joshing him about his bachelordom.

To New Hampshire In An Auto.

Benjamin A. Hegeman, of Myrtle avenue, accompanied by Elston M. French, of Somerset street, left today in Mr. French's automobile for Wolfboro, N. H., where Mr. Hegeman's family is spending the summer. They started from New York and expect to reach Wolfboro tomorrow.

John Chandler Worse.

John Chandler, of East Fifth street, who suffered a paralytic stroke a few days ago, is in a critical condition today. He is weaker than at any time since he was taken ill. A trained nurse is in constant attendance.

Colby Club Formed In Elizabeth.

Thirty voters from the Twelfth ward, Elizabeth, met last night and effected the preliminary organization of a Colby Club. Owing to the absence of certain members of the party it was decided to adjourn to some future date to complete the organization. There was considerable enthusiasm among the Colbyites present and they predicted success for their ticket at the primaries. It is expected that Colby Clubs will be formed in nearly every ward in Elizabeth before September 1.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Essays of Perennial Charm.

Addison, Joseph.—Selected essays. He is entitled to be considered not only as the greatest of English essayists but as the fore-runner of the great English novelists. His best essays approach near to absolute perfection; nor is their excellence more wonderful than their variety.—Macaulay.

Bacon, Francis, viscount St. Albans.—Essays.

They are deeper and more discriminating than any earlier, or almost any later, work in the English language; full of recondite observations, long matured and carefully sifted. . Few books are more quoted.—Hallam's Introd. to the literature of Europe.

Birrell, Augustus.—Obiter dicta. 2v.

The work which established his reputation as a critic and humorist. Bright facile, urbane essays.—Saturday Review.

Burroughs, John.—Pepacton.

A delightful book. . . It is redolent throughout of the fresh air and the woodlands; and yet it is as full withal of culture as an egg is full of meat.—Grant Allen, in the Academy.

Carlyle, Thomas.—Sartor resartus; the life and opinions of Herr Teufelsdrockh.

The most original, the most characteristic, the deepest and most lyrical of his productions.—Frederick Harrison.

De Quincey, Thomas.—Flight of a Tartar tribe.

The best passages of De Quincey have never been surpassed for sustained splendor of language, exquisite balance and modulation and rythmic charm.—W. J. Dawson.

Emerson, Ralph W.—Essays. Ser. 1-2.

It is just in the combinations of an ideal height and range of thought with balance and sanity that we find Emerson's charm.—Saturday Review.

Fiske, John.—Excursions of an evolutionist.

A luminous mind expressing itself through perfectly transparent language.—Atlantic.

Lamb, Charles.—Essays of Elia.

Everything that rises up before his mind is set before us in vivid beauty. The style of his prose is exceedingly beautiful in imitation of those rich elder writers of ours, but always easy, simple, graceful and concise.—Blackwood's magazine.

Lang, A.—Letters to dead authors.

One of the minor masterpieces of literature, the keenest and cleverest volumn of playful criticism since the Fable for critics.—Brander Matthews.

Lowell, J. R.—Among my books. Containing the deliberate words of perhaps the best of living English critics,—his final judgments on many of the great names of literature; judgments which are the result of long and wide study and reading, of marvellous acuteness of sight and delicacy of sympathy; containing a poet's opinion of other poets, a wit's opinion of others wits . . one of the best gifts that for many years has come to the world of English literature.—Nation.

Montaigne, Michel Eyquem, de.—Essays.

Prince of egotists. . admirable gossip. The sincerity and marrow of the man reaches to his sentences. . . I know not anywhere the book that seems less written. It is the language of conversation transferred to a book. Cut these words and they would bleed.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Pater, Walter. — Appreciations; with an essay on style.

An unusually catholic spirit; he takes genuine and cordial delight in the qualities of the men he writes of. A predominant sense of beauty in form, of charm in the spirit, of truth in the matter characterizes his work. —C. E. Woodberry.

Stevenson, Robert, Louis, Balfour. —Virginibus puerisque.

The collection of short essays which is most a record of his opinions—that is, largely, of his likes and dislikes. . Before all things he is a writer with a style.—Saturday Review.

Thoreau, Henry David.—Walden; or, Life in the woods.

Describes his attempt to solve the problem of simple living by building and occupying a small house in the woods. Keen observation on animals, plants, and birds.—Leypoldt and Ilas.

Warner, Charles Dudley.—Fashions in literature and other literary and social essays and addresses. . . 1902.

We find genial humor, unfailing but not unreasoning optimism, and infectious enthusiasm for the best in American life and letters; and we close the book with a sense of widened reach and deeper insight.—Dial.

AT THE FOUNTAIN.

Hear the gurgle of the fizz—
Sparkling fizz!
Singing songs of soda biz—
Good cash biz.
As it spurts, spurts, spurts,
What a lively stream it squirts—
Stuff that cheers, but never hurts.
Hear it sizz!

Note the draft tube's merry gush—
Aqueous gush!
All around there is a push
And a crush.
Never were such throngs. I wis;
Stately dame crowds pretty miss.
Certainly such wine as this Needs no bush.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.
Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.
Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.
"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect."
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

The young girl winced. "Yes, Belle—in quality fashion—we may some day. In the meantime," she ended in a passionate whisper that was half a sob, "I must see him, and this way is better than none."

The octoroon gave a hurried glance toward the tavern. "You had better run on home now, Miss Sue; your father might come out any minute. Are you afraid?"

From behind the horizon the moon threw sickly beams over the tree tops. It lit up the wan faces of the two women—the girl's tender and soft, with a pleading prettiness, the other sad and dark, with earnest eyes full of loyal affection. She repeated: "Can you go back alone?"

Sue Miller brushed the straying locks from her forehead with a defiant nod. The small, checked shawl that had half slipped from her shoulders she knotted loosely about her head. "I'll come as Gerald tells me to, without fail; 'after the frisk, at the willow by the turning yonder.' Yes, I'll remember," and with a parting good night she sped down the road that led away from the settlement to the gloomy cabin on the edge of the common field.

Within the tavern the argument proceeded. "They call me 'Branch-water man,' do they? And my gal 'Branch-water Sue?' Well, let 'em call us what they please, and be damned. Ef I don't want ter dig a well, ain't that my business? Ef branch water's good enough fer me to drink, 'tain't them as has ter drink it. Shif'less, am I? Well, it's me. My gal earns a livin' fer us both, does she? Well, it's her. I ask naught o' their cursed set but to be let alone. I'll show 'em that a branch-water man is smart enough ter look arter his kin, spite of any upstart with his danty airs!"

In this strain he muttered half to himself, half aloud, until the fan of words cooled his rage. In silence he watched the woman as she went quietly about putting the place in order, while the landlord adjusted the bars at the windows. By and by, his suspicions lulled, he, too, shuffled into the darkness.

The moon had utterly withdrawn her light; the trees towered black against a purple sky.

Once in the road, Jabez Miller slunk slily from right to left, peering into the shadows at every turn. Satisfied at last that his daughter was nowhere about, he followed the path she had taken a short while before.

The branch-water cabin was some distance away from the center of the village. Unsightly and forlorn, its brown and dingy logs were scarce distinguishable in the dark. Thick tamaracks clustered about, their spiky branches churlishly outstretched as if to obscure all light and air. Underneath one of these the man paused. Lifting his crooked body on tiptoe, he carefully examined the trunk whereon two cuts with the tomahawk were plainly marked. Two or three others near bore the same sign.

"Mine, mine; this land is mine," he muttered, then walked to where were traces of earth newly turned. These he covered with brush and leaves, all the while chuckling and talking under his breath. When no sign remained of the hole which had been partly dug and left in evident haste like a grave defrauded, the hunchback went on to the cabin, dragging his tired feet over the uneven path.

Light shone from the window, and through the chinks in the logs. At the door he paused to listen.

"Is that you, father?" came Sue's voice from within, and she lifted the latch in response to his gruff "Open the door!"

He glowered suspiciously around. "Been out, hev ye?"

Sue did not reply, and he turned fiercely. "Did ye see him to-night? Did ye see the stylish blackguard as wouldn't stay ter face 'yer old father like a man, but sneaked off to—"

"Don't abuse him!" flashed from his daughter's lips, then gently going up to him: "It is because you are old, father (or, much older than him), that Mr. Creighton does not want a fight."

Slightly mollified, he reverted to the former question: "Did ye see him to-night, Susan? Answer."

The girl lowered her eyes as she replied evasively: "I did not; I have not seen him since you forbade him the house."

This seemed to satisfy her father, for he let go of her shoulders, which he had held in a rough grip, and turned to the seat in the chimney-side, where he lit a pipe.

Susan watched him, every nerve a-quiver, every expression revealing the strife between filial affection and the inborn refinement upon which his conduct and appearance grated. To act the daughter's part, and yet keep disgust and fear within bounds, hid even from her own heart, was a pitiful effort.

She said good-night and was going off to bed, when he stopped her. "That feller's got wind o' my find, and that's why he wants yer."

Susan returned to his side. "Indeed, you are mistaken, father. When you discovered the coal, didn't I promise to keep it secret? And I have. Honest truth I have!"

Her father's small eyes contracted in a cruel leer. "Ye hev, hev ye? Then why does he gallivant after ye? There ain't no reason fer sech a high and mighty chap hangin' 'round, unless he knows my land is rich, and is willin' ter marry ye to git a-hold of it."

She shuddered at this, and her face grew white as he added with a look of evil insinuation: "Or mayb he hain't no thought o' marryin' ye at all?"

Choking an indignant sob, his daughter said: "He does mean to some day, father, but he must first help his own family to make their home. As I promised you, I have let him think me poor as he is, and so we must wait until—"

But her father interrupted with sudden suspicion: "Mebbe he saw where I hed been diggin' the well? He noses around a good deal, like all the rest o' the meddlesome set, worryin' on account o' our drinkin' the branch water. Calls me lazy ter hev diggin' a well. So, to please 'em, I dug one, and what did I find? Coal! Coal everywhere! I'll be rich, rich, and all from takin' their advice, bless 'em." The light of the miser shone in his eyes, and he laughed low with triumphant derision.

"Why don't you want it known, father?" the girl pleaded. "Nobody would cheat you out of it; the land is ours."

"Ours?" yes, but who kin prove it? These tomahawk rights are damned onsartin things, and some o' the big bugs in the village might take a notion to some o' that there coal. Then, how long would a few scratches in the trees help me? No, sir"—and he brought his fist down on the puncheon stool with a defiant thwack—"I'll lay low for the present, and after a few months the claim will be mine sure as shootin'. There are better ways than tomahawk rights, and ye kin bet I'll use 'em. Nobody knows of the vein but this smooth-jawed lover of yourn, and I wish he was in hell!"

"But, father, what makes you think that Gerald—Mr. Creighton—suspects? Why should he? And if he did, wouldn't he talk to me about it? He is always saying how sorry he is that we haven't any prospects so that—oh, father, try to think I'm right."

She knelt on the tiny rug at his feet. "He is not mean; he has no underhanded object; he is really true, and loves me—well, just because it's me," and the fair face was suffused as at some fond recollection.

But the branch-water man pushed her roughly away, while his face, already red with drink, changed to purple under the violence of temper. "'Just because it's you,'" he mocked, "just because it's a soft fool! But I know how to look after ye, ef ye can't take care of yourself, and damn me if I don't do it. It's one of two things—ef he means to marry ye, it's to git that coal; ef he don't—well, ef he don't"—his voice died away to a threatening whisper, hissed between clenched teeth.

Full of a vague alarm, Susan slipped away to her own little curtained corner, while her father, nursing wrath and greed and plotting revenge, alternately smoked and dozed the night away.

DIAMOND DUST.

Failing to deliver the goods in the much heralded Invaders, when they played Plainfield, The Evening Times, of Elizabeth, is now crying for a game between the Elizabethport Stars and the locals. It was known that Manager Nuebeck's aggregation could not beat the Daabsters and it is the belief that the Stars cannot turn the trick, although fandom knows that Frank Burke would present a first-class team.

An Elizabeth sporting writer dopes out the following: "With Linderman on the firing line the chances of the Invaders defeating the Plainfield team when they meet again are better than ever. If the Invaders can pull a 4 to 1 game from a bunch of fast players like Potter brought to town Sunday they ought to take the next game from Daab." There might be some reason for this statement if the Invaders played as strong a team Saturday as it does on Sunday.

"Pop" Foster, who is now playing short-stop for Lancaster, is hitting the ball harder than ever and fielding his position perfectly. The Newarks lost a good man in "Pop."

Billy Ross, who formerly played with the Trenton Y. M. C. A. team, is now playing at Atlantic City and the clever backstop is putting up a great exhibition.

All true sports who are for fair play will rejoice in the unanimous support given President Pulliam by the press of New York, with one exception, in the troubles between the New York and Chicago Clubs over Umpire Johnstone. It will result in strengthening the National game and eliminating rowdyism of the McGraw type. The National game can have no use for men of the McGraw type, especially when he resorts to such underhand methods to win games. It is safe to say that the Board of Directors of the National League will sustain President Pulliam and thus save the reputation of the game.

Several local fans who journeyed to the Polo Grounds on Tuesday expecting to see the New York-Chicago game and were disappointed, declare that they would not go there again this season. Of course, the National League can get along without their support, but it is estimated that Tuesday's fuss cut down Wednesday's attendance between 4,000 and 5,000.

"Warry" MacLaughlin has been pitching fast ball for the New London team this season and has won a majority of his games. He has also been hitting the ball hard.

There is a possibility that the Jersey City Eastern League team will play an exhibition game in this city on October 9. Eugene McCann, of the twirling staff of the "Skeeters," is planning a barn-storming tour.

Manager Daab and his Hoboken team is on a barn-storming trip this week in New York State. On Wednesday the team played under the name of "Chanley" for Barrytown, N. Y., against the Murray Hills, who were representing a rival town. Deegan and O'Neil formed the battery for Hoboken and they shut out their opponents by a score of 4 to 0. "Silent Willie" allowed but one hit. The Hobokens will return home in time to meet the Quaker Giants at St. George's Cricket Grounds on Sunday.

West End's Lineup.

Still another change will be made in the line-up of the West End team of Somerville for the balance of the season. Hardy, who played in the outfield, has been released and Elmer Bragley, of this place, who has been putting up a star game for the New Jersey Centrals and is a good hitter, will replace him.

GOLF.

Continuation of play for the Golf Committee and August cups will be the attraction at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow, also play for the semi-scratch cup.

The weekly competition for the President's and Park Golf Club cups will be the scheduled events at the Park Golf Club tomorrow, and as many members have returned from their vacation there should be a large field.

W. Lester Glenney being engaged in business in New York, has not been able to devote as much time to tournament play as formerly. However, he always plays a steady consistent game as is shown by his low scores at the Plainfield Country Club.

While he has been playing the game more or less during the past two years, George F. Schoonmaker has suddenly come into prominence at the Plainfield Country Club. Recently he won first honors for the Golf Committee cup on two consecutive Saturdays.

C. B. Morgan, Robert Abbott and Dudley H. Barrows will leave for Deal Beach early next week to practice for the amateur tournament to be held on the course of the Deal Beach Golf Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday August 16, 17 and 18.

Among the local golfers there are none who enjoy the game more fully than Councilman H. D. Hibbard, and he is one of the best players at the Plainfield Country Club. In driving, putting and approaching he is constantly improving his game and frequently wins points in the various competitions.

Since the big tournament at Englewood last month, Frank C. Talmadge has apparently given up the game for the time being. He is, however, likely to return to it in the fall and take part in the events at the Plainfield Country Club.

The introduction of the handicapping system invented by Leighton Calkins, secretary for the Metropolitan Golf Association, has resulted in general satisfaction among all players in the association. The system aims to be perfectly fair to every person playing the game and it also tends to encourage the sport but not discouraging the novice or the crack player. Since working under the system there has been practically no criticism.

Now that the New Brunswick Golf Club has been re-instated by the Metropolitan Golf Association it is expected that some of the crack players of that club will be seen competing for honors in some of the big tournaments.

ROD AND GUN.

Theodore Shirley, who is camping at Lake Hopatcong, has been having great luck with hook and line. He has pulled in big messes of bass, pickerel and perch daily, while other fishermen wait vainly for a strike.

—All the white duck, dull leather and patent colt pumps have been put in VanArsdale's special sale of shoes, which means a big saving for everybody who wants good shoes at a low cost.

O'LOUGHLIN ONE STROKE BEHIND CHAMPION TRAVERS.

Clever Work in M. G. A. Open Championship at Hollywood.

George Low, of the Baltusrol Golf Club, led the field at the end of the first thirty-six holes of the second annual open championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association on the course of the Hollywood Golf Club, yesterday. He returned a score of 145, four strokes better than his next nearest opponents, Isaac Mackie, of Fox Hills, and Jack Hutchinson, of St. Andrews.

Jerome D. Travers, the present amateur champion, and "Marty" O'Loughlin, the Plainfield "pro," attracted considerable attention; the former because he is regarded by many as the representative amateur of the east, and O'Loughlin because he enjoys a similar position among the home-bred professionals. In the morning he tried too hard and made a few mistakes. He also had hard luck, notably at the seventh hole in the morning, where his ball became buried in the soft turf after the drive. He played out in masterly style, but at that the hole cost him a 6.

Travers followed up a superb long game with deadly iron play, but was clearly off on the greens. When put after put refused to go down he lost confidence, with the result that he began to miss the short ones. In the afternoon he took three puts on five greens. Had he not thrown away those five strokes, he would have finished the first half of the journey in second place. As it was his score of 153 is a stroke beter than that of O'Loughlin, who promises to do better today.

O'Loughlin went out in 78, came home in 76, a total of 154, while his opponent Travers went out in 76, came home in 77, for a total of 153.

If it doesn't rain this afternoon, the Lawyers and the Newspaper Men will play on Crescent Oval. V. W. Nash will captain the barristers and twirl for them. H. Runyon, who used to play the game, will be at third base. Captain Hacquer's men will play their usual positions, Hoffman pitching.

GIVES LIFE IN VAIN FOR SON.

Lambertville Woman Tries to Save Boy and Both Are Drowned.

Lambertville, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Keziah Snyder, twenty-seven years old, and her eight-year-old son, Raymond, were drowned at Titusville, in the Delaware and Raritan Canal. The mother died trying to save the boy's life.

The lad was fishing in front of his home, while the mother was sewing. The boy slipped from a log, upon which he was sitting. The mother saw the accident and attempted to grasp the lad's clothing, but, being unable to do so, jumped into the water.

Mr. Snyder returned in the evening, walked into his home and sat down a few minutes, believing his wife was upstairs. Afterward Snyder gave the alarm, and a party used grappling irons in the water. Mrs. Snyder's body was found after a two hours' search. The boy's body was found later.

BRYAN IN SWITZERLAND.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 10.—William Jennings Bryan, who has been visiting at Zurich as the guest of Robert Hunter, of New York, was banueted Wednesday night by Baron and Baroness Louis Lombard at their beautiful chateau Trevano, near Lugano. A dozen prominent Swiss leaders were invited to meet the American statesman. Mr. Bryan made a happy speech, in which he compared the smallest and the largest republics.

During his stay in Switzerland Mr. Bryan is making a study of the Swiss Constitution. He is spending his leisure hours in mountain climbing. He has declined to grant interviews, saying he wants to rest.

IN PLAINFIELD PULPITS

Visiting Ministers Will Officiate For Dominies Enjoying a Rest.

DR. WHITON COMING

Editor of Outlook to Preach at Congregational Church—Rev. Dr. Egar at Grace Episcopal.

There will be a change of supplies in nearly all of the local churches tomorrow, during the absence of the regular pastors, who are away on their vacation. This arrangement affords an opportunity for the church-going people to hear different preachers during the summer season.

Rev. Dr. Bergen D. Stelle, of Philadelphia, who preached at the First Baptist church last Sunday, will again occupy the pulpit tomorrow, morning and evening. Rev. J. A. Cubberley, formerly of South Plainfield, but now of this city, will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church, morning and evening.

Rev. Dr. Henry L. Mott, of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, will preach in the morning at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. There will be no evening service.

Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of Marconnier chapel, will preach at Trinity Reformed church in the morning, and there will be no service in the evening. This arrangement will continue during August.

Rev. James M. Whiton, editor of The Outlook, and a brother of John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church at 10:45 o'clock in the morning. After tomorrow all services will be suspended at this church until September 1.

Rev. Dr. G. V. Morris, of Lexington, Ky., will be the preacher at the First M. E. church, at the morning service. There will be no service in the evening. Rev. H. N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will preach morning and evening at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

Rev. Dr. Egar, of North Plainfield, will have charge of the services in Grace church, tomorrow morning and afternoon, and at the Holy Cross church the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, will have charge of the services.

The supply at Warren chapel will be Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who will preach both morning and evening. At Faith chapel, Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, will occupy the pulpit, morning and evening.

Rev. Mr. Kennedy, of Philadelphia, who has heretofore preached at the First Presbyterian church during the vacation period, will occupy that pulpit, tomorrow morning and evening.

At the First M. E. church, the Epworth League service will be held at the usual hour on Sunday, and the Christian Endeavor Society will hold its regular meeting at the Congregational church tomorrow.

RAIN DIDN'T SCARE THEM.

Hope Chapel Excursionists Turn Out In Their Usual Numbers.

Weather vagaries had no terrors for the Hope chapel excursionists this morning. Fifteen carloads of pleasure-seekers defied the rain and the threat in the leaden sky.

Whatever the committee may have felt, the excursionists never had a doubt as to whether the excursion was to be run. They came out in old-time numbers at the Grant Avenue station on time, and another big crowd swarmed up and took possession of North avenue.

A telephone message to Asbury Park brought them cheering news. The sun was shining there, and no hint of rain was in the air.

Crowded to the limits of its capacity, the fifteen-car train left at 8:30. Thirty minutes after it went, Old Sol, as if shamed by the spirit of the excursionists, assailed the clouds and pushed his way out.

Close Ice House.

The Natural Ice Company closed its storage house at Washingtonville today, to hold the depleted stock in it for emergencies. The ice sold here through the rest of the summer will be imported. The stock at Washingtonville will be used as a safeguard against a possible failure of the shippers or the railroad getting the carloads of ice to the city as required.

Juniors Up the Hudson.

Several members of the local councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., accompanied W. A. M. Mack Council, of Elizabeth, on its annual excursion up the Hudson this afternoon. The start was made from Elizabeth at 2:30 o'clock and the boat will leave West Point at 11 o'clock tonight on its return trip.

LAWYERS WERE DRUBBED

Newspaper Men Trim Them Although Strengthened By Outside Talent

NEWSBOY—BARRISTERS

Willie Mullen and His Ball-Playing Pals Become Lawyers Very Suddenly—Nash's Curves Pounded.

Leading a make-believe team, Captain-Manager V. William Nash, of the Lawyers' Nine, assailed the Newspaper Men on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon. It was a real sour one he got. Size, weight and color, 14 to 4.

Manager Nash's outfit was a legal fiction. It did look something like a baseball team at times, but some of the lawyers who pranced out in the uniform of the barrister bunch were regarded with suspicion by the Newspaper Men. They remembered having seen Fred Huff, Henry Crane and the pushful V. William in the guise of lawyers before, and it seemed as if something had been said in duly attested records of Philip Leichentritt's good standing as a law student, but they couldn't recollect when Willie Mullen, "Biff" Coriell, "Iky" Elliott, Con Schropfer and Willie Lambert became barristers or earnest students of Coke on Littleton and the other mysterious things of which lawyers are made.

Manager Nash submitted a brief to Manager Hacquer, in which he argued for a rule to clothe Mullen et als with the rights and privileges of the law while on the field. He said the real lawyers whose places they took got cold feet when they heard Bob Hoffman would twirl, and barricaded themselves behind statutes and precedents when he ordered them out. Willie and his pals were admitted to the bar under the rule asked for. They played with the dignity becoming barristers, taking only one chew apiece, and cussing not louder than seven tones above the "Wuxtry!" yell.

Manager Nash twirled. He worked hard, but it was no go. The heartless scribes belted his offerings to all sections of the lot. He did a few fanning stunts, but there was no comfort in it, because the fannees had a mean habit of coming back at him the next time with a healthy lick to the grass. Nash's pals couldn't duplicate the stunt, although he showed them how to swat. Hoffman held the lawyers, real and otherwise, in fast grip, and his infield was a stone wall. Firstbrook and Norton, of the Newark News team, were in the Newspaper ranks, and they hit up a fast pace. Foxy made some big league stops, and Norton, at first, smothered all the things within his reach.

Henry Crane surprised the talent by eating 'em up at short. He looked like a real promising player. Fred Huff created a furore by freezing to a line drive, and once he almost hit the ball.

The Lawyers will play another game with the scribes, next week, with nine actual and undoubted barristers in action. Hoffman has twenty-three strike-outs framed up.

The line-up: Newspaper Men—Hoffman, p; Vail, c; Norton, 1b; Sullivan, 2b; Firstbrook, ss; Colthar, 3b; Hacquer, lf; Waters, cf; Banghart, rf. Lawyers—Nash, p; Elliott, c; Coriell, 1b; Schropfer, 2b; Crane, ss; Mullen, 3b; Leichentritt, c, 3b, lf; Huff, cf; Lambert, rf.

After the game, the social committee took charge of Norton and made him forget home and kindred. He lost three trains last night, and nearly missed another this morning.

"It's a lovely town," he said as he clung to a fleeting handrail in the dewey dawn, "I'm coming back when I have a week in which to get home."

Buried At Bound Brook.

The funeral of Miss Mary S. Pound, who died Wednesday, was held at the residence of her brother, Edward D. Pound, of East Fifth street, last evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Lewis Bond officiated at the service, which was attended by many friends of the departed. The body was removed to Bound Brook today, where the interment will take place this afternoon.

Mrs. William J. Mattox.

After an illness of but three days' duration, Mrs. William J. Mattox died yesterday of apoplexy. Mrs. Mattox, formerly Harriet E. Snow, was the daughter of Alexander and Harriet Snow, of Newark. She was forty-four years of age. She is survived by a husband and six children.

TUNXIS CLUB POPULAR

Resort at Tolland, in Massachussetts Hills, Attracts Plainfielders.

MILES ROBERTS' WORK

Local Man, Vice President of Club, Has Done Much To Develop Sporting Resort.

Developed into a thriving little village through the influence of Plainfielders, Tolland, a quiet spot among the hills of Western Massachusetts, has become this season a most popular summer resort for metropolitan pleasure seekers during the hot months of the year. Situated in the heart of the hill country, near Noyes Pond and in a valley crossed by numerous streams, the resort is a fisherman's and hunter's paradise and New York sportsmen are coming more and more to discover its possibilities for recreation and rest. Its territory adjourns the State of Connecticut, and it is situated in Hampden county, near Springfield, and but a few miles drive from Westfield, Mass.

This spring and summer the land has been opened up by the formation of several big real estate corporations and the Tunxis Club, a hunting, fishing and outing association, of which Miles Roberts, of Kensington avenue, this city, is the vice-president, owns a large tract of the choicest land of the region. As officer of this organization, Mr. Roberts was instrumental in the development of this region of sport and recreation. Walter T. Griffin, of East Seventh street, former consul from the United States to Limoges, France, also became interested in the place and is a member of the club. Several Plainfielders known of the place and some have spent vacations there. Edward E. Pray, of West Seventh street, is a member, and will go to the club Monday for a brief sojourn. Miss Halloway, of East Fifth street, also leaves the first of the week for Tolland, where she will spend a week or ten days at the club.

On the shore of Noyes pond was established about six years ago a Tunxis Hunting, Fishing and Outing Club. Noyes pond is a beautiful sheet of water, over a mile long and half a mile wide, almost entirely surrounded by woodland. The property is administered by a holding corporation called the Colonial Foresstry Company. There are only five or six men interested. The president is A. S. Brownell, president of the New York Realty Trust Company and the secretary and treasurer is Miles Roberts, conected with the United States Realty Trust Company in Wall street.

The club owns about 4,000 acres, including all the land around the pond, and Mr. Brownell, its president, individually owns about 1,000 acres. The plans of the club are ambitious. It will attempt, it is said, to attract New York millionaires to Noyes pond. It will also give considerable attention to the subject of forestry, as a large portion of the estate is growing up to timber.

The plans of this club have been the object of considerable curiosity in Tolland. It is understood that the original purpose in buying land around the pond was to establish a clubhouse for the New York Athletic Club. This plan was eventually abandoned, but the promoters have other ambitious projects on foot.

Mr. Brownell recently bought an estate several miles from the pond, where a lot of money is being expended in remodeling a large farmhouse and fitting it up as a fine country residence. The future ownership of the property is clothed in mystery, but it is believed to be some man of note.

Miles Roberts, whose home was formerly in Connecticut, a few miles from Tolland, attracted others to the place, and they began buying land there in 1900. They bought 1,300 acres for $5 an acre, 280 acres was bought at sheriff's sale for less than $1 an acre, and another tract of 300 acres was bought for $400. The highest price paid was $12 an acre for 60 acres with a house on it. Originally 30 farms were comprised in the club's holding of 4,000 acres.

Rising from the north shore of the pond is an elevation 1,500 feet above sea level commanding beautiful sylvan scenery in the foreground while many remote mountains and villages are visible in the distance.

There is considerable pine growth on the preserve, and the club has had a Government forester there thinning out one tract, while small pine trees have been set out in other parts.

The buildings of the club comprise a spacious farmhouse, cottage and annex, and a large barn, all within a few rods of the pond, where a boathouse has been built.

In an illustrated article in Country Life in America Miles Roberts says: "In acquiring this tract, the pur-

HETFIELD SECRETARY OF ELECTION BOARD

YOUNG PLAINFIELD LAWYER CHOSEN OFFICER OF UNION COUNTY BOARD.

When the Union County Board of Elections met at the Court House, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, for organization, Robert McAdams, Democrat, of Elizabeth, was chosen chairman, and Walter L. Hetfield, 2d, Republican, of Plainfield, the new member, who succeeds J. W. Murray, Jr., was chosen secretary. The other members of the board are Fred Zior, of Elizabeth, Democrat, and Captain Robert Kirtland, also of Elizabeth, Republican. This makes the board bi-jartisan. According to the annual custom, S. Russling Ryno, of Rahway, was elected clerk of the board, and Oliver Conlin, of Elizabeth, sergeant-at-arms.

Several matters of more or less importance were discussed while the board was in session, and adjournment was taken to Thursday afternoon, August 16, at 2 o'clock, when several important matters will be taken up. For that time until after election the members will be kept pretty busy.

TO CONSIDER TAX MATTER TUESDAY NIGHT

COMMON COUNCIL WILL HOLD AN ADJOURNED MEETING.

The Common Council will meet Tuesday night when further progress will be made regarding the tax matter which was reported at the regular meeting this week. At the meeting Monday night provision was made for a contingent fund of $15,000 to meet the additional expenses of the city, such as the salary of the district court judge, and any other expenses that may arise during the year. While the amount was fixed at $15,000, this sum will now be used; in fact it is the intention of the finance committee to shave that down considerable.

It is for the purpose of not cramping the finance committee that the figure named was determined upon. Last year the Common Council lowered the tax rate two points and it left no surplus to provide for any emergencies, unless it desired to borrow by resolution and secure the amount by notes. This method was criticised severely by Mayor Buckle in his annual message and since that time the city fathers have endeavored to avoid the borrowing habit as much as possible.

With the great increase in the property valuations this year and the announcement that the tax rate is not likely to be much more than $1.25 per one hundred, the city is guaranteed a sufficient amount to run the government. As soon as the city can ascertain the amount of county and State tax it will have to pay it will be able to determine its own rate. It was largely for this reason that the Elizabeth assessors this week held up their list of assessments, preferring to find out what valuation Plainfield would report in the hope that they could adjust their figures accordingly. The county assessors will meet at Elizabeth on Tuesday, when it is hoped that all lists will be completed.

Fresh From Camp Colby.

Lake Hopatcong, Aug. 11.—Special by pneumatic tube—delayed in transmission—Camp Colby will end its first season tomorrow morning in time for its survivors to attend Sunday-school at home. W. Wilson Warnock, dough-mixer, arrived in camp last night with a report that walking was good. Judge Runyon had charge of a minstrel show at "42nd and Broadway," a lively nearby camp on Tuesday night. He predicted success for the Colbyite movement and sprung some other good jokes. Bill has had heart-to-heart talks with Press Agent Muir for the last three days on the baneful influence of such admixture as Canadian Cough Syrup and Watermelon rind. Tom says he will cut the rind in the future. J. C., we dare not mention his name in print, has unfurled a banner proclaiming himself the original Colbyite anti-office seeker.

Sunday Afternoon Meeting.

Rev. William B. Hamilton, of Elizabeth, will be the speaker at the afternoon meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow at 4 o'clock. Clarence Titus, of Roselle, will be the leader of the service and there will be singing by the children at the home and special music by a male quartette from Elizabeth.

Miss Elsie Drake, of Somerset street, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. P. M. Demarest, of Syracuse, N. Y.

—Miss Guinee, of The White Store, has returned from her vacation spent at Brighton Beach.

CITY IS POLITICIANLESS

Republican Patriots All Go on the County Committee Outing.

HEADED BY Mc CARDELL

Long Sail to Long Island Resort, Where a Big Dinner Will Be Served—Athletic Programme.

There are no politicians in Plainfield today. The Colbyites have the political fold all to themselves. If a distinguished reformer came to town and Judge Runyon's followers wanted to show him a horrible example they would have to keep him until the Republican County Committee excursion wound up. All the Plainfield political lights, bright and dim, flocked to it this morning. Big fellows and small fry, they all left home and business to foregather with the faithful from all over the county at Witzel's Point View Grove, Long Island.

The excursion boat left Elizabeth at 10 o'clock. The Plainfielders started for it on the 8:36 train in a body. The weather didn't affect their numbers. Over 100 of them, from Factory Inspector Andy McCardell, chieftan of the unterrified, and Frank H. Smith, county chairman, to ward workers and the shouter in the ranks, boarded the train.

Just before the 8:36 came in, the North Avenue station platform looked like an open-air city convention. Inspector McCardell and Chairman Smith held levees at one minute intervals, and a glad-hand brigade helped them receive. The brigade included former Sheriff B. F. Coriell, Councilmen Herbert Buxton, F. L. Montgomery, and R. I. Tolles, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, Secretary Thomas Hanna, of the County Tax Board, W. L. Hetfield, 2d, secretary of the County Board of Elections; "Col" Frank Randolph, Judge Newcorn, William Townsend and Overseer of the Poor Aleck Ayers. They beamed on the faithful from the ranks in their best company manner.

Excursion tickets were kept on top for the faithful who might have mislaid the price. They were supposed to be on a strictly cash basis, but if some of those who held the three-dollar bits of pasteboard in a firm grasp paid real money for them, it was the first time they ever did anything so thoughtless.

Spot cash or graft, however, the ticket holders will have a lively day. They will not only consult with all the big guns of the county and a few of the State organization heavyweights, but they will have a long sail on a fast steamboat, a big dinner at the grove, and, if the weather permits, an athletic carnival. A game between Elizabeth and Plainfield politicians, the latter captained by Andrew McCardell, is scheduled.

M. G. A. GOLF TOURNEY CONCLUDED AT HOLLYWOOD.

George Low, Baltusrol, Wins Title—"Marty" O'Loughlin Does Better in Second Day's Play.

Play in the second annual open golf championship tournament of the M. G. A., at the Hollywood Golf Club was concluded yesterday the second day of play. George Low, the professional of the Baltusrol Golf Club, won the title, with a score of 294 for the seventy-two holes of play. "Marty" O'Loughlin, the only local contestant, finished in ninth place among the "pros," showing a card of 307 for the two days play. His score Thursday, when Jerome D. Travers, the Metropolitan Golf Association amateur champion, only succeeded in getting him 1 up in 36 holes, was 154 and yesterday he did one stroke better, going out with a 78 and coming back in 75. His total of 307 is five strokes poorer playing than he did in the VanCourtlandt Park tournament. The links at Hollywood made trouble for many others of the professionals, for the course is sandy and in many cases the ball would get a bad lie from a drive or iron shot. "Marty" had this happen Thursday, when he got a lie in deep sand that made him work a 6 for the hold.

Locked Up for Stealing.

Arrested on warrant of William Jones, the colored man who takes the mail from the North Avenue station to the post office, Cephus Floyd, who lives on Plainfield avenue, is locked up in the city jail charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Sylvester Johnson. The bike disappeared yesterday and Johnson "had his suspicions" upon Floyd. He was arrested and taken before Justice Mocher this morning, when the hearing was postponed until Monday morning. His friends are skurrying around to gather $200 bond imposed by Mosher.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dolliver will spend today and tomorrow at Asbury Park.

Treasurer Charles E. Steiner makes the following statement regarding the weekly open air band concerts:

Editor The Daily Press:

As Treasurer of the Band Concert Fund I have been told that we must be making a barrel of money from the receipts of the concerts given, and to offset that claim would like to state some facts. We have a balance on hand in bank of $66. We owe for lumber and balance due on grand stand $95. The receipts of last night's concert were $121.46, and the cost of same $152.55, which does not prove the above statement of some of our many friends who would "rather be on the outside looking in" because it is cheaper and many of whom also fail to see the collection boxes when they are passed around. Of course there are some generous ones on the "outside" who do put their mite in the box, as last night's collection of $4.77 shows from an audience of 2,000 or more.

Will say that it is due only to our many friends who would "rather be on the inside looking out" and are willing to pay for so doing that makes it possible to give the concerts at all, and as last night's receipts show we need many more of the "inside" kind if the concerts are to be continued. People on the "outside" cannot realize that it costs money to build grandstands, give fireworks displays and engage bands or they would be more liberal when the box is passed. There is no doubt but that they enjoy the concerts for they are always on hand. I have also heard something said about "Graft." I would like to state and stand ready to prove it that Mr. LaVere and everybody connected with the charge of the concerts, namely ushers, ticket sellers and takers, do not realize one cent for services rendered. We do pay for band, fireworks, police and collectors.

CHAS. E. STEINER,
Treasurer.

FIREWORKS AND CONCERT DESPITE CLOUDY EVENING.

Singers Make Hits at Concert Park Band Concert Last Night—Fireworks Enjoyed by All.

Threatening weather last evening kept many away from Concert Park where LaVere's band rendered an excellent musical programme, and where there was a display of fireworks. The crowd numbered about 2,000, many of whom came late, and promenaded near the park rather than take grand stand seats.

Two soloists, Billy Redmond and Jack Drislane, rendered selections which won them a good reception from the crowd and called them back for encores. Redmond made a hit with "I'd Rather Be on the Outside A-Lookin' In Than on the Inside A-Lookin' Out," and Drislane's rendition of "When Mose With His Nose Leads the Band" woi three encores. This piece, in Yiddish dialect, is one of Drislane's own compositions, and his imitations during the rendition of it added greatly to the song.

The fireworks were set off between each of the band numbers. There were lots of them and as a whole the display was good. There was a tendency on the part of some of the big revolving set pieces to get jammed and several of them lasted but a minute or two. The fireworks company from Jersey City was in charge of the display, and handled the crowd well, preventing accident by keeping the roped off spaces clear.

May Take Up Colby Movement.

The Republican county executive committee of Somerset will meet today at Somerville at the call of the chairman, J. S. Frelinghuysen. It is probable that the advance of the Colby movement in the county will be one of the matters taken up. Dr. J. H. Moldenke, of Watchung, is said to be the Colby candidate for member of Assembly. Dr. Moldenke has not yet publicly announced his candidacy, but this is expected shortly. The only candidate yet spoken of by the county machi enis W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook. It is said that the Colbyites will indorse Ira W. Wood for Congress.

Inspecting Roads.

State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker and County Engineer Dougherty, of Somerville, inspected the Wagner's Corners and North Branch roads on Wednesday, the latter now under construction. The Rocky Hill road is about completed and ready for acceptance.

MARTINE GIVES ADVICE

Bryan Warmest Friend in Jersey Deplores Wrangling Over His Visit.

TEMPEST IN TEAPOT

Farmer-Orator Says It Doesn't Matter Who Receives Bryan —All Whoop It Up.

James Edgar Martine, "the farmer-orator of Cedarbrook" and consul-general of William Jennings Bryan in New Jersey, is much wrought up over the wrangle between the "True Democracy" and the party organization concerning "the peerless leader's" visit to Newark. Martine is friendly to John Moody, of Cranford, and very friendly to James Smith, of Newark, the rival leaders playing the heavy parts in a "Much Ado About Nothing." Consequently while he does not "view with alarm" or "arriagn with indignation," he frankly states that petty jealousies and factional feeling should be cast to the winds when once the Democratic leader and phrase-maker makes his grand entry into this State.

"What does it matter," says the farmer-orator, "whether 'Jim' Smith got a letter or what was in the letter? If Smith refuses to show the letter he is doing right for no man should be called upon to produce private correspondence just because some other fellow is envious. I believe that all this rot and nonsense about who should receive Bryan is harmful. Let's all receive him—that's the way to settle it."

Continuing Mr. Martine declared: "It doesn't matter much to me whether James Smith or John Moody or some "Tom, Dick or Harry" man ushers Bryan about. For my part I'm going to go to the receptions and help in the hurrah, no matter where he is entertained and no matter whether I get an invitation or not. Bryan is my leader and he's the leader of every other good Democrat."

Captain W. B. Martin, of Co. K, will today select the six-man team from the company that is to compete for honors at the State range at Sea Girt on Monday, August 27. This team will be expected to compete against the crack shots of the army and navy, for any ship's company or National Guard, as well as the regulars are privileged to enter a team of six men in the shoot. The entries will probably be large.

Poked Out Kitten's Eyes.

A citizen saw the boy poke out the eyes of a tiny kitten with a stick Wednesday afternoon, and he reported the occurrence at police headquarters. He didn't recognize the boy, but judged that he lived on the Washington street block, where he maimed the kitten.

Jag in the Borough.

Roundsman Pope of the borough police found Charles Reuttenhouse helplessly intoxicated on Somerset street late last night. He escorted him to the lockup, where he is spending the day, sobering up to appear before Mayor Smalley at his hearing tonight.

Plans Ready Next Week.

Architect A. L. C. Marsh, who is at work on the plans for the proposed improvements at the Dime Savings Institution, expects to have them completed next week, and if approved the work of securing bids will be undertaken at once.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The talk of forming an amateur baseball league next season meets with the hearty approval of the local fans here. POPE GIVES REWARD TO ALL TOTAL ABSTAINERS.

Sends a Promise of Plenary Indulgence to All Members of Church Who Join "Union."

Providence, Aug. 11.—The National Convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America began Wednesday. The 800 delegates represent a membership of about 100,000 in the United States, and are headed by Bishop J. F. R. Canevin, of Pittsburg, as president.

A letter received from the Vatican at Rome was received by the bishop.

The Pope expressed the hope that all members of the Catholic church will become total abstainers, and as an encouragement granted several indulgences. The leter said in part:

"We desire to encourage the efforts of the Union by a tender of spiritual gifts, and for this reason we confirm the privileges accorded the Union by Leo XIII., of happy memory, and grant especially those which follow: "A plenary indulgence on the usual conditions to each member on the anniversary of his admission; furthermore, those who join the Union in the future, may gain the same grace on the day of their admission.

"To all present and future members we grant a plenary indulgence at the hour of death, provided they have confessed and received the holy eucharist, or if this be impossible, provided they invoke the names of Jesus.

"A plenary indulgence likewise, on the principal feast day of the Union, to all present and future members, provided they observe the due conditions.

"An indulgence also of seven years and seven times forty days to present and future members on five days in the year, provided each one visits his parish church and prays for the intention of sovereign pontiff.

"We permit all these indulgences to be applied as suffrages for the souls in purgatory. It is our hope that by conferring such abundant favors not only bishops, priests and men of religious orders, but also the rest of the faithful may resolve to bear witness to their regard for the Union and become members of it."

In closing, the apostlic blessing was bestowed.

There was much interest among the delegates to the national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union in session here over the selection of a successor to Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin, of Pittsburg, the retiring president. The Pennsylvania delegation is urging the choice of Rev. Father J. J. Curran, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., and it is said his chances are good. Father Curran is seeretary of the Union. He assisted in bringing about the arbitration of the great coal strike several years ago.

The sessions of the union were resumed today.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Aubrey Mittenthal's "A Desperate Chance" Company, which Manager Counihan is to present at the New Plainfield this afternoon and tonight, tells, in Theodore Kremer's inimitable style, the story of the Biddle Brothers who figured in one of the bloodiest tragedies in the criminal history of the country. The events occurred a few years ago in the vicinity of Pittsburg and, in their consequences, shocked almost the entire civilized world. The Biddle Brothers were notorious thieves. One night they forced an entrance into a grocery store in Pittsburg. The proprietor, in defending his property, lost his life. An officer was killed in attempting to arrest the outlaws. Capture followed swiftly, and the Biddles were sentenced to death and confined in the Pittsburg jail. One of the boys was possessed of a hypnotic power over women. He used this on the wife of the prison warden, and through her obtained weapons and the means of escape. Gaining the outside after a battle with the guards, a sleigh was in waiting to assist them in their desperate flight. The woman accompanied them in the midst of a snow storm. It took the officers but a short time to win a running battle of bullets, during which the Biddles were mortally shot. The woman also was seriously wounded and, for a time, her life hung in the balance. Returned to consciousness and relieved of the hypnotic power that had been cast upon her, she realized the wrong she had done. The warden, her husband, had at once resigned his position and was obdurate in the reconciliation proposed. A little daughter who is made one of the principals in the drama is the mediator.

"YOU WOULDN'T HURT MY PAPA, WOULD YOU

E. J. Carpenter's "At Cripple Creek" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night by a company of extraordinary strength. The play is by Hal Reid, author of "Human Hearts" and is a cleverly drawn picture of life among the Rocky Mountains. True-hearted, earnest and straightforward in all that he says and does is Joe Mayfield, the hero of the play. The character of the young miner is the ideal of America's best type of young manhood—one to be long remembered and loved. In sharp contrast is Martin Mason, a villian of the blackest dye. The Mexican Alvarez, is another subtly outlined figure, crafty and cunning in the way of crime. A car-load of special scenery is carried for the production and no detail is overlooked which could add to the completeness and unity of the performance.

An old and true saying, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." This true saying applies to grown-up folk as well as the children. It is a deplorable fact that most of us are so busy chasing Fortune, the vacillating will-o-wisp, we neglect to rest the body and the mind by snatching a short recess of amusement. A respite from the worry and cares of business is as essential as food and clothing. What sort of a nation would this be if we had no means of diversion or amusement? It would be a sorry affair at best. There are many theatrical organizations that are wholly unworthy of the patronage of the public. It is safe to say that many of our theatrical friends should be in other walks of life which are better suited to their abilities. Many a good cook or farmhand has been spoiled by the foolish hallucination that he could sing or act. The Heavenly Minstrels which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday is old and tried, and the management is to be congratulated in presenting a programme this season of more than ordinary excellence. It is replete with all that is good in minstrelsy. Singing, dancing, fun fast and furious, acts of daring and dexterity. Here you will see the master-hand, beautiful scenic transformations embellished with modern mechanical and electrical creations away from the beaten path so often employed by similar organizations. After the evening is done you will deem the time well and pleasantly spent and be better armed on the morrow to take up the work where you have left off.

A play must contain an interesting combination of pleasing qualities in order to hold the boards for six consecutive seasons and to be in demand in every section of the country. Such a play is Arthur C. Alston's "At the Old Cross Roads," now on its sixth annual tour and which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday, August 15. The scenes of this play are laid in the vicinity of Natchez, Miss., a place noted for its pictures, surroundings and odd characters, and naturally calls for appropriate scenic embellishment and also a coterie of stellar players capable of interpreting the characters properly. The company this season will be stronger than ever and will number more than twenty people. The scenic effects are entirely new this year.

Infectious humor and tuneful music will hold sway at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday, when B. E. Forrester will present the inimitable dialect comedians, Yorke and Adams in the new musical comedy, in two acts, "Bankers & Brokers." The play is a kaleidescope of pretty girls, rich dressing and pretentious scenery. Fun and glitter are combined with musical numbers of the type that will be whistled and played long after the merry company has gone on its trimphant way. Just a Little Fond Affection; Underneath a Parasol; Mary of the Prairie; Mooning Time; Egyptian Maid; Would you Leave Your Happy Home for Me; The Pen is Mightier than the Sword; Gatior and the Coon; What Would You Do; Holding Hands, are some of the song hits, and there are twenty in all. The company of forty-five contains besides its score of clever principals, an active and well drilled chorus of twenty. Bright, clean, sparkling with a complete series of up-to-date specialties are promised all who attend.

"The Rollicking Girl" which scored such a reputation in New York the past season at the Herald Square theatre principally gained its fame and fortune by the pretty, refined and catchy musical numbers that it contains and are whistled daily the country over. There is a certain swing and dash to the music in this piece that ever recalls one to the rollicks and swings of an always pleasing sensation and causes an infection that tunes the tongue up to that whistling attitude. Barney Bernard, as the humerous "Schmaltz," the funny wigmaker, is always keyed up to the highest notch of funmaking in this character and gives his audiences no rest from laughter. "The Rollicking Girl" and its seventy-five odd members, which held the stage of the Herald Square theatre in New York city for over two hundred and fifty nights will be at the New Plainfield theatre Labor Day.

A Picturesque and Reasonable Outing.

The most picturesque town in America is only a hundred and twenty miles from New York. Mauch Chunk, in a narrow pass between the Lehigh river and the overhanging mountains, rises on the slopes like a quaint Swiss village. Historically the locality is known in connection with the discovery of anthracite coal. This discovery led to the construction of a bit of railroad which is the oldest in the country. Originally the track was laid to convey the coal to the river, but now it is maintained solely for recreation purposes. The cars are first hauled up a high hill, and from that point they travel by their own gravity around a circuit of nearly eighteen miles. As one ascends the steep sloop the buildings below, the town and the nearer landmarks drop away in perspective with kaleidescopic suddenness, and the doubling valley of the Lehigh spreads out in thrilling panorama. Sights of great interest abound along the route. Old Indian trails over the hills are pointed out, the primeval forest envelopes the track for long stretches, and glimpses of old mining settlements are caught in the valleys. At Summit Mountain a halt is made and opportunity is given to visit the mines. The burning mine which is situated here has been smouldering since 1832 in spite of elaborate and costly undertakings to extinguish the fire. Returning from Summit Mountain the car attains great speed, and, as the visitor always thinks, the inspiring ride is over all too soon. The New Jersey Central will operate one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk on August 12, 1906. Return trip $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. 8 4 7

—There will be a postal examination at the postoffice on Wednesday, August 13, for those seeking positions as carriers or clerks for Uncle Sam.

—It is expected that several local thoroughbreds will be exhibited at the Bernardsville Horse Show on September 7 and 8. The entry list promises to be very large.

—Patrick McDonough, of the Plainfield Natural Ice Company, has commenced the erection of a $4,500 dwelling house on his lot on West Sixth street, near Monroe avenue.

LEARNED TO LOVE HER AS NURSE IN HIS FAMILY.

When Sick Person Recovered George Leonard Pledged Himself to Miss McGuinness.

Miss Margaret McGuinness, of Secaucus, was married Wednesday night to George Leonard, of East Rutherford, by Justice Ludlow, at his office in Eighth street, Jersey City.

The marriage was the culmination of a romance that began in the home of Mr. Leonard's widowed mother two years ago. Miss McGuinness was called to the home of Mrs. Leonard as a trained nurse to take care of a serious case of sickness.

Mr. Leonard was supposed to be an unimpressionable bachelor. He fell in love with her. She reciprocated. The sick one was restored to health and when Miss McGuinness left the Leonard household it was with a promise that she would marry George.

About tow weeks ago Miss McGuinness was called as a trained nurse to Manhattan. When returning home Wednesday night by previous arrangement over the 'phone she met Mr. Leonard at the Erie Railroad station at Jersey City. The two went to the office of Justice Ludlow, who married them.

TAXATION MIX-UP AT COUNTY SEAT

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION ORDERS REASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY.

The State Board of Equalization of Taxes late Thursday afternoon decided the appeal taken by the city of Elizabeth against the assessment made by the State Board of Assessors of second class railroad property belonging to the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Elizabeth. It was alleged that the railroad property had been assessed below the true value. In turn the railroad company alleged that all the assessments in Elizabeth had been assessed below true value. The State Board of Equalization of Taxes after having given both sides a hearing on May 28 decided that there should be a reassessment of all the property in Elizabeth for 1905, the appeal having been taken on the assessments of that year.

The board realizes that this will cause great confusion, inasmuch as a great part of the taxes of 1905 have been paid, but the board says that it can see no other way out of the difficulty than to order a reassessment.

In the appeal proceedings the railroad company claimed that its property had been fully assessed and that it had been assessed at a far greater rate than other local property.

The city of Elizabeth maintained that the whole question under discussion was whether the railroad property had been assessed at its true value and declined to enter a discussion as to the assessments of other property in Elizabeth.

The board in its decision, given out yesterday by Secretary Lehlbach, says that it is unable to state the true value of all the property in Elizabeth, but it believes it to be considerably above the amount of the assessments and that some of the pieces of property involved are not assessed in excess of thirty-five per cent. of their true value by the State Board of Assessors.

The State Board of Equalization says that in view of the untrue and unlawful valuation placed upon property surrounding railroad property, it feels that it is only just to order a reassessment for the year of 1905.

The board will settle the terms and the conditions to be signed on the first Tuesday in September when the counsel of both sides will be present.

The decision is taken to mean that assessments on second class railroad property must be made at true value and it must necessarily follow that local assessments must be made at the same value in order to avoid discrimination.

MAYOR AND EX-MAYOR NEARLY COME TO BLOWS.

George H. Steil and Lawrence Fagan, of Hoboken, Have a Wordy War at a Picnic.

Hoboken, Aug. 11.—While both were guests at the picnic of the Hoboken Patrolmen's Benevolent Society, Wednesday night, at Union Hill Schuetzen Park, Mayor George H. Steil and former Mayor Lawrence Fagan had a quarrel, which was barely prevented from becoming an exchange of blows. The cause was the announcing by Dr. William J. Arlitz, who accompanied former Mayor Fagan, that he (Fagan) would positively be a candidate for Mayor of Hoboken in 1907 and that no money or pains would be spared to defeat Steil should he be a candidate for re-election.

The quarrel occurred at a table, where Steil and a party of friends were sitting. Fagan and Dr. Arlitz came along and, according to some present, Police Commissioner Oscar Frommel requested the pair to sit down and join in a drink. Mr. Fagan is said to have declined the invitation, and at the same time stated that he didn't particularly care for the company. Frommel is alleged to have questioned this, and then Mr. Fagan is said to have replied, "I have nothing against you, Oscar, but I am against Steil, and will defeat him for Mayor as sure as his name is Steil, if I live until the fall of 1907." One word brought on another, and many unpleasant things were said before the parties separated.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 11, 1906.

John Moody, originator and chief mogul of the True Democracy, otherwise known as "the new idea" of the minority party in New Jersey, has taken his gun down from the rack again. This time he is hot after "Jim" Smith. The Cranford statesman doubts the word of New Jersey's Belmont and takes the position of "the man from Missouri." What Moody demands is that Smith produce the letter alleged to have been received by him from "our peerless leader, William Jennings Bryan," accepting an invitation to visit Newark under his chaperonage. Being a warm friend of the Nebraskan he doesn't care to have Bryan fall in with such company. It may be only "a tempest in a tea pot," but it is certainly up to the Newark man to make good. Show the letter.

When a reporter has the impudence to ask Peter McDonough, president of the Natural Ice Company, whether there has been any increase in the wholesale rate, that king bee of the ice barons is polite enough to tell him to get his information elsewhere. For Mr. McDonough's benefit it may be said that some information that may prove interesting is being gotten elsewhere.

All signs point to a Democratic victory at the coming Presidential election.—Bound Brook Centre-Record.

Now what is there about that to remind you of "Jim" Martine?

Through a member of Charity Circle, King's Daughters, five dollars has been received by The Daily Press for the baby camp on the mountain. The sum has been transmitted to the camp treasurer.

Those awful naughty Republican leaders are enjoying their annual outing today. Their annual inning is scheduled for September 25.

SAVES LIFE OF HER HANGING HUSBAND.

Mount Holly, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Joseph Sharp prevented yesterday morning her husband from committing suicide at their home near Marlton.

Going to his barn, Sharp climbed a ladder, fastened one end of a rope to a rafter, adjusted the other end around his neck and then swung off from the ladder. Entering the barn, Mrs. Sharp found her husband suspended in the air.

She did not faint nor even scream, but raised the nconscious man in her arms to take the strain of the rope from the neck. Finding that she was unable to release the head from the noose, she gently lowered the body and ran to the house, where she got a butchr knife.

Returning to the barn, she cut the rope, and after laying her husband on the floor ran for a doctor who lives near by. The doctor restored Sharp to consciousness with great difficulty, and afterward said that if the man had been suspended two minutes longer he would have died. Sharp had been despondent for some time past.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

From the issue of June 11, 1868:

We hope our readers will excuse the dearth of local matter this week, but the fact is we have been so overrun with work, and having a great amount of advertising coming in, we have been unable to attend to the local department as heretofore. If advertisements don't stop coming in (and we hope they wont) we will have to enlarge our paper soon. We have got a live paper, and people are just beginning to find it out, judging from our subscription list.

The uncertainty of life has been recently illustrated by the sudden deaths of Rev. Mr. Downey, of Westfield, and a worthy resident of this village, Mr. Lenox. In both these cases death was almost instantaneous, and although the departed ones we thus chronicle were, doubtless, prepared to pass to that bourne from whence no traveller returns, it is wisdom for us who still linger upon the earth to live prepared to die, for no one knoweth the moment when he or she may be summoned by the inevitable fiat. Die we must. How soon, no one can tell.

A Jacksonian Democratic Association was organized in Plainfield last week. The following gentlemen were elected to office: President, Nathan Harper; Vice President, John W. Murray; Recording Secretary, Edward P. Thorn.

Base Ball—The Unions will open play for the season Saturday next, the thirteenth instant, at 3 o'clock p. m., and we hope to see a large concourse of our citizens on the ground. The stand erected for visitors will accommodate about 200 people and the board of directors wish it understood that gentlemen cannot occupy it to the exclusion of ladies, who will turn out (we hope) in large numbers to encourage the Unions by their smiles and presence on that occasion.

Friend Thorn, of the Mansion House, has been making some very good improvements in his place. One of them in the shape of a handsome bar, for which neatness cannot find its equal in the State, and no wonder, for it is the workmanship of our old friend, Jim Voorhees, who knows how to do such work. Ed can now accommodate his customers with some degree of comfort, as the old bar was not large enough for his rapidly increasing business, which is due in one sense to the good liquor which he keeps. He is also having the house painted, and judging from the tasty manner in which it is being done we are satisfied that Mr. William Linbarger, the contractor, is the right man to engage for that kind of work.

Cherry street, from the Railroad crossing to Second street, is being macadamized and graded.

Query—Are we to have a celebration on the Fourth?

The corporators named in the act passed by the last legislature establishing the Dimes Savings Institution of Plainfield met for organization at Laing's Hotel on Tuesday evening last. Elston Marsh was called to the chair and Asa Harper appointed Secretary. After hearing read a certified copy of the law creating said institution, on motion of E. W. Runyon, a committee was raised to draft bylaws and report names of officers to an adjourned meeting at the same place on Monday evening, June 22. The chair selected as such committee Messrs. E. W. Runyon, J. B. Coward, I. P. Brown, W. White, E. R. Pope.

From the next issue:

We were shown on Tuesday evening last a beautiful large-sized photograph in colors of Sergeant Bates. It represented him with his flag and in the precise costume he wore during his far-famed and hospitably received journey from Vicksburg to Washington. As a work of art it is unsurpassed and as a patriotic souvenir it has just as high value. We understand that from the sale of such pictures the worthy Sergeant hopes to realize sufficient means to pay for the publication of a narrative detailing his experiences as an unarmed pedestrian through the very heart of the once-rebellious South, and bearing with him unfurled the starry emblem of the Union. To aid him in carrying out that design by such laudable efforts should, and no doubt will be deemed a matter of duty and pleasure on the part of many Jerseymen. The photograph in question now adorns the room of the Democratic Association, and is well worth looking at. Copies can be had in the course of a few days at 842 Broadway, New York.

The rain of last Friday in these parts was trerrific. It came down in a deluge, swelling the streams, emmersing the railroad track from view at Scotch Plains, and bidding our attentive Town Committeeman Gillies to consider the propriety of inviting proposals to furnish ferryboats for Cherry street.

We have a touch of summer at last.

On dit—that we are to have a new Union Republican paper at last. Good.

How about the Fourth of July? Are we to have a celebration or not? We understand there is a move under foot to have the fire companies turn for the office of Chief Engineer of the is right. Our boys can make a good display if they wish. Would it not be well to call a public meeting immediately, and take some steps in reference to celebrating the day? Come friend Gillies, where are you?

A special meeting of Gazelle Eng. Co. No. 1, held in their hall, on the tenth instant, Mr. John H. Tier was unanimously nominated a candidate out for parade on that day. That Plainfield Fire Companies, Mr. Roselle having resigned.

We would call the attention of our readers to the sale of grass which takes place on the premises of James Clark lying North of Jeptha Clawson's on Thursday, June 18, at three o'clock.

Kood—Our Town Committee have laid a new drainage across Peace street on the corner of Second. It was needed long ago.

We stepped down to the Lake House a few days ago and were really surprised to see the improvements that Mr. Tier is making about his place. When finished, he will have one of the finest summer resorts in the State. He has opened his ice cream garden for the season, and those desirous of geting a good plate of cream and have a cool place to eat it, should give him a call.

Base Ball—The Unions had their opening game on Saturday last. A large number of ladies were present among the spectators to witness the game. The playing was very good. The interest taken in the game on Saturday by the members of the Union evinces the fact that they are determined to make their club one of the best in the State.

Sad Accident—On Friday afternoon, as the train due at Plainfield at 5:20 was passing the gravel pit, situated between this place and Scotch Plains, one of the passengers noticed the body of a boy lying on the edge of the bank, and from the position of the body concluded that he had been drowned. On the train arriving at the depot, he gave the alarm and a number of persons at once started for the spot, and arriving there found that a laborer, working for Mr. Magie, had discovered the body and had brought it to the top of the bank, and had also discovered two suits lying there, which gave rise to the suposition that another body must be at the bottom of the pond. Search was immediately instituted, but the efforts of the searchers were unavailing. The body already found was accordingly brought to Plainfield for recognition, for know one knew who it was. A party was immediately formed, who were about starting with boats and hooks to search further for the other body, when they were met by a returning party with the corpse, it having been found at the bottom of the pond by a colored man named Charles Drake, who had entered the water and dove for it. One of the bodies proved to be eGo. H. L. Peck, son of Mr. W. V. Peck, of Scotch Plains, and the other, George Augustus Voorhees, son of Jeremiah Voorhees, of Brooklyn, N. Y., both aged about eight years. The boys were on their way home from School in Plainfield, and it is supposed stopped at the gravel pit to swim, and thus met their untimely end. Mr. Voorhees lost a daughter eighteen years of age by drowning about four years ago, at Coney Island, and had recently buried another daughter, and has now lost his only remaining child by drowning. His affliction is sorely and severely felt. Coroner Leeson impanelled the following jury: T. J. Gillies, P. F. French, E. Campbell, Aaron Connett, Benjamin Mabie, Jesse Layton, J. B. Brown, J. N. Honeyman and I. E. Parker, who returned the verdict of "Accidental Drowning."

Preserving Time Is Here.

Of course you will be doing some preserving and spicing soon—and in this connection we desire to call your attention to the splendid line of spices and condiments we carry. Just the thing for helping you to do your preserving and pickling properly. Prices are reasonable—we would be pleased to have you place an order with us for some of the above.

DID SMITH GET LETTER?

Former Senator's Statement Bryan Wrote Him Accepting Invitation is Questioned.

MAY CALL OFF HIS VISIT

Troup Says That Arrangements for Nebraskan's Appearance in New Jersey Were Made by "Bob" Davis, Through Him.

Newark may not have a chance to hear and see William Jennings Bryan this year, unless former Senator James Smith, Jr., and the leaders of the True Democracy and the Democratic League can get together and arrange some mutually satisfactory plan for sharing the honors of chaperoning the Nebraskan politician and statesman.

The whole trouble is over the announcement of Mr. Smith, made Thursday, that he had received a letter from Mr. Bryan accepting an invitation to come to Newark, September 1, as his guest, or under his auspices. Mr. Smith didn't give out the full text of Mr. Bryan's letter, but he said he had received it on Tuesday, and told what Bryan said in the epistle.

When the leaders of the True Democracy and the Democratic League read Smith's announcement they immediately started out to prevent the Nebraskan's visit being used to give indorsement to the Smith leadership and the regular party machine. John Moody and Edmond A. Whittier, of True Democracy, and Franklin H. Halliday, a member of the league, spent two hours in conference with members of the national Democratic committee at the Bryan reception headquarters in the Victoria Hotel, New York, yesterday afternoon. They told Secretary Mack, National Committeeman Alexander Troup, of Connecticut, and Lewis Nixon, with whom they talked, that it would kill Bryan's chances in New Jersey for him to visit any part of the State under Smith's guidance.

After the conference Troup, Halliday, Whittier and Moody issued separate defiances and dares to Smith to prove that he had received any letter from Bryan. It was suggested that if there was no other way of preventing the New Jersey visitation under Smith's auspices, it would be better for Bryan, New Jersey and everybody else concerned, excepting possibly Smith, to have the visit called offentirely. One of the ways that it might be done and everybody let down easily, somebody proposed, was by having it announced that Bryan had taken a cold at the last minute and would be unable to fill the date.

Troup flatly declared that Smith could not produce a letter from Bryan accepting an invitation to come to Newark September 1 or at any other time. All the arrangements for Bryan's visit here, he asserted, had been made through him.

How Visit Was Planned.

Sometimes early in July, said Troup, "Bob" Davis, the little Hudson county boss, had written to Bryan asking him to visit Jersey City and speak there upon his return. In reply Davis received a letter from Bryan, written at Rome, telling him that while he would be glad to come to New Jersey if it could be arranged, the arrangements would have to be made by Troup. At about the same time Troup received a letter from Bryan, in which the latter wrote that he would like to speak in both Connecticut and New Jersey, and if possible would prefer to have things so arranged that he could cover both States in the same day. If that were not possible he would remain two days and give a day to each State.

Somebody representing Davis, whose name Troup didn't remember, he said, afterward called on the Connecticut man, and it was arranged that, as both Jersey City and Connecticut wanted night meetings, Bryan should go to Connecticut August 31 and come to New Jersey the next day. They even discussed reception plans, and it was agreed that either the Connecticut committee should escort the great commoner to Jersey City, or that the New Jersey committee should go to Connecticut to meet him and bring him here.

According to Troup's story, Smith first appeared in connection with the Bryan trip two weeks ago, when the former Senator visited headquarters in New York and made a contribution to the reception fund. How much the contribution was Troup would not say.

"After we had talked over the reception plans," said Troup, "Smith called me one side and said: 'Now, see here, Troup, I want to arrange to have Bryan come to Newark.' I told him that I had allotted September 1 for New Jersey, and that he would have to see Davis and arrange with him for a division of the day. That was the last I heard of it until I received the resolutions offered at the Democratic League denouncing the old leadership and organization. In fact, I hadn't head until today, when Moody, Halliday and Whittier came over to see me, that Smith had inpected himself into the New Jersey programme by taking credit to himself for arranging the Bryan visit to Newark."

"Clever Deceiver."

"Mr. Smith may be a clever deceiver," said Moody, "but he makes a false move once in a while. The New Jersey delegation to the national convention in 1904 will remember how he caused a report to be circulated that he had a letter from Mr. Cleveland authorizing him to present his name before the convention. They will also remember that he did not produce this letter.

"Perhaps some will remember that it afterward transpired that Mr. Cleveland's letter, which Smith, secretly kept, contained a request that his name be not presented under any circumstances, and also that the letter was intended by Mr. Cleveland for the entire New Jersey delegation, and was not a personal epistle to Senator Smith, as the latter asserted in the corridor of the St. Louis Hotel.

"It is now in order for Senator Smith to produce the alleged letter from Bryan. Those who know Mr. Bryan better than Smith are confident that he has written no such letter, and that he will not appear in the State of New Jersey on September 1 under the auspices of the New Jersey Belmont."

TWO PRICES GIVEN BY GEORGE L. RECORD

PROBE FOR MATERIAL AGAINST POLITICAL OPONENT OF SENATOR DRYDEN.

The Senate committee, which is investigating the affairs of the riparian commission resumed its session in Jersey City yesterday. Because of the large number present, including former Governor George T. Werts, who, by virtue of his office, was a member of the commission which named George L. Record as counsel of the board, the committee found it necessary to meet in the chancery chamber instead of the commission's office.

All the testimony was aimed at George L. Record, and as much, concerning his transactions with the commission, was brought out in evidence as possible.

Other outsiders present included Colonel Charles W. Fuller, who was to be called to furnish such information as he might concerning the license to the New Jersey Shore railroad and Edgewater and Fort Lee railroad, referred to at the last session.

It was intimated prior to the opening of the session that the entire day would be devoted to producing documentary evidence relating to Mr. Record's official and unofficial connection with the actions of the board. John C. Payne, the secretary of the commission, was the first witness called, and he produced the files of the commission referring to the oral testimony he had given at Tuesday's session.

Reading from the records, Mr. Payne showed that the Goetchus grant contained 2,646 feet, or more than half a mile, and had an acreage of 60 acres. At the time it was sold in 1901 there was due, in arrears in rent on the property, $31,590, and the principal sum of $16,710, making a total of $48,300 due the State when the tract was sold on Mr. Record's advice for a nominal consideration of $50.

"Have you a letter dated February 2, 1901, from Mr. Record to Senator William M. Johnson, relating to this Goetchus grant?" asked Attorney General McCarter.

"I have it; it is a part of the files of the board, and was written to Mr. Johnson, who was then counsel for Goetchus."

"Read that portion of the letter relating to the Goetchus grant."

"The commission," read Mr. Payne from a copy of the record letter, "has realized from land in the vicinity of the Goetcus grant $40 per front foot and about $780 an acre. That would make $97,000 for the entire tract. This is my judgment, and I presume the commission will be guided by whatever report I may make."

"That letter was written in February, 1901, according to your files?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you the written opinion of Mr. Record, advising the grant of the Goetchus tract for a nominal sum?"

"I have," and the witness produced the opinion which was dated September 25, 1901, and handed it to the attorney-general, who read the opinion.

In substance the opinion was to the effect that a legislative grant to Robert Annett in 1844 was valid and the Donahue grant on the Kill van Kull made for a nominal consideration on similar grounds was referred to as a precedent for making the grant for a nominal sum.

"Did the board act on that advice and make the grant for a nominal consideration to Goetchus?"

"Yes, sir."

"And that was seven months after Mr. Record had advised Senator Johnson that the land would cost about $97,000, and that a legislative grant was of doubtful validity and would hardly stand a test in the courts?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is the Donahue grant, referred to in Mr. Record's opinion, the same he advised the board to grant for a nominal sum because it was part of the Ingham and Jenkins tract?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did Mr. Record at any time suggest to the board as he did to Senator Johnson that the Annett legislative grant might not stand a test in the court?"

"He never did."

Besides this testimony evidence was secured from the witness concerning the commission's part in paying office rent for Mr. Record and for employing a stenographer for him. Mr. Payne was questioned concerning numerous other grants and told all Mr. Record had to do with them.

TWO DECKHANDS DROWNED.

Thrown Into Water by Breaking of Guard Rail of Steamboat.

John Blake and John Loughlin, deck hands on the steamboat William Storie which runs between the Battery and Midland Beach, were drowned yesterday at the Central Railroad Company's coal docks in Jersey City.

The Storie had taken on coal and was ready to start for the Battery landing, when the two deckhands reached over the guard-rail to hoist up a fender. While thus engaged the railing gave way and Blake and Loughlin disappeared from view. Blake was taken from the water by a river junkman, but he died before the arrival of an ambulance.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.
Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.
The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FOR THOSE IN QUEST OF HEALTHY BEAUTY.

For tender eyes make an infusion of one handful of cornflowers in a pint of hot water. Let it stand one hour. Strain and use either tepid or cold.

Don't cut the cuticle or any part of the flesh around the nails. Don't polish the nails too highly; they should have only a natural gloss. Don't cut the nails in points, but carefully arch.

Boiling vinegar, as hot as can be borne, to the gum and cavity of an aching tooth will allay the pain. Use a bit of absorbent cotton to pack the tooth cavity and apply until relief is obtained.

For itching of the skin many skin doctors recommend lotions of bromide of potassium. The strength may be one part of the salt in sixty parts of water. It is not a poisonous preparation, and may be tried without fear.

Don't wash the hands oftener than necessary; dry them thoroughly after every washing. Don't wear gloves that are a size too small or that fasten too tightly. This prevents free circulation and makes the hands red.

Oatmeal Lotion for Whitening the Skin—Take two tablespoonfuls of oatmeal, adding a quart of water, and boil for ten minutes. Cool and strain and to the liquid add the juice of one lemon and dessertspoonful of alcohol. Wash the face in this, or, rather, apply it with a cloth, not wiping it all away.

Thick lips can be overcome to a certain extent by acquiring the habit of holding the lips close to the teeth and keeping the muscles about the mouth firm and tight. The woman who stands about with her mouth open permits the muscles to become large and relaxed, and the result is anything but conducive to fair looks.

Formula for Nail Powder—One-half ounce of powdered talcum, one-half ounce of boric acid, one-half ounce of powdered starch, fifteen drops of tincture of carmine. Apply oil of sweet almonds, cold cream or white vaseline to brittle finger nails. Any one of these three remedies will make the finger nails soft and delicate. Uric acid in the system often produces ridges in the finger nails.

VALUABLE INFORMATION FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Do you know that rust, or ink stains, may be removed from white goods by hanging in the sun after salt and lemon juice have been applied to the stain?

That brooms, if occasionally washed in strong hot suds, will last longer and do better work?

That a few spoonfuls of kerosene added to the water used for washing windows will leave them sparkling and bright?

That English mustard, if mixed with lemon juice, instead of water, or vinegar, will loose that disagreeable wild taste and will be ready to use immediately after mixing?

That a lump of common charcoal placed in the ice chest will keep the food sweet and wholesome at all seasons of the year?

That eggs beaten with a silver fork with be lighter and foamier than if any other implement is used?

That celery salt, which may be purchased at the grocers, will take the place of celery for seasoning when the vegetable cannot be procured?

That raw tomatoes, or the pulp of lemons, will remove fruit or vegetable stains from the fingers?

THE PERFECT HOSTESS.

You know her as soon as you step over the sill.

She has diffused an atmosphere of welcome over the entire house.

You feel at home in every room, even though left alone.

And you are left alone sometimes.

For the perfect hostess doesn't dog your footsteps every minute.

She knows that you will want to write letters, and nap, and read.

She gives you the house to entertain yourself in, and you can have her, too, whenever you want her.

She does not wear you out with too many entertainments or too many persons.

She doesn't make you feel that you've got to "pay for your keep" by doing chores.

Neither does she refuse to let you help her, if she sees it would make you happiest.

She gives you the impression it's a joy just to have you in the house.

And you always want to see her again.

A MODERN FAMILY.

Grace is in her "study"
Modelling in clay,
Maude is getting ready
For the matinee.
Jane is writing verses
In the lower hall
Where Genevieve rehearses
Plays at basketball.
O'er a love tale sighing
Edith hides her face
While Antoinette is trying
To decorate a vase.
Brother's at the casement
Bawling for his lunch,
And ma is in the basement
Cooking for the bunch.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

CHAPTER XIII.

The somber outline of Rogers' barn was pencilled against the sky. Lights from the windows twinkled back to the stars, and the twang of a laboring fiddle mingled with the voice of one calling off the dance. The country, for miles around, had lent to the frolic a crowd of pleasure seekers. Lack of fine clothes kept none at home; jeans danced with homespun, and a buckskin sleeve embraced a dimity waist in the tumultuous whirls of "Old Zip Coon."

There was no social distinction in this western community, where all were linked together for mutual protection against common dangers. Even among the tongues there was diversity. A Frenchman's "voulez vous me faire le plaisir?" was answered by a gay, "Well, I reckon," from a comely Kentucky lass, or even a "gracias, Senor," lisped through the white teeth of a Spanish maid.

But there was an instinctive recognition of Lavender's superiority of birth and breeding which, while it gratified her pride, interfered with her pleasure. The youths of the backwoods, sons of the pioneers, were interesting from their unlikeness to any men she had ever known. Rough manners, like their buckskin coats, concealed hearts for the most part honest and brave. Their simplicity, strength and sturdy manhood covered, in her romantic eyes, many defects of grammar and loutish behavior, and she would have liked to dance, to drink cider or play drop the handkerchief as gayly as any. But the rustic swains timidly held aloof, and she was dependent for the evening's entertainment upon Gerald and Gonzaga. The latter never left her side. There had been a short but significant scene between him and Gerald the night before. Meeting the younger man, he stopped with a few pleasant words. "The little sum you owe me, Mr. Creighton—a few dollars only, but welcome at present—is it ready?"

And Gerald had muttered an abject apology. The sum was not trifling to him; he could not obtain it if luck should turn through the means which had lost it.

"I am very sorry, Senor, but I cannot confess a gambling debt to my father; nor has he the money to pay it. Give me more time, and the cards will win for me; my luck will turn; it must." There was a feverish light in his eye—embarrassment clogged his tongue.

Patting him cordially on the shoulder, the Spaniard said: "Excuse my reminding you, sir; it is especially unwise of me to trouble one who can be of such service to me."

At the suave manner of his creditor the youth took courage. "Service to you? How?"

"You will be at the dance to-morrow night? You will bring your sister, Miss Lavender?"

A light flashed on Gerald's mind. "Lavender? I don't believe she intended coming, but I—"

He paused, and Gonzaga assisted him with telling emphasis. "But you, perhaps, can arrange it? You will try?"

"Certainly if you—if she—perhaps she would enjoy it," stammered Gerald. "I will try to bring her with me."

"Do so, and—worry no more about that other little matter."

So it was that Gerald had urged Lavender to go to the party. He had assured her that it was her duty to mingle more with these honest village folk, and his sister, nothing loth, promised.

And to the merry-making she had come, looking, in her best holiday attire, like a bit of Dresden china in this homely collection of pottery.

In the game of King William, the Spaniard chose Lavender from the circle, and together they stepped to the center. Around them, joining hands, swung the romping crowd.

"Down on this carpet you must kneel,
As sure as grass grows in the field;
Salute your bride and kiss her sweet,
Now you may rise upon your feet."

The precedent had been established blushing cheeks had been lifted, pretty lips raised to the rough and bristling faces whose resounding smacks echoed to shouts of laughter. Or, rumpled frocks and tousled hair were the effects of resistance which, if sometimes made, was faint-hearted, and only a bit of coquetry adding flavor to the final forfeit.

Therefore, when Lavender and the Spaniard held the attention, there was a flutter of suspense, of eager curiosity on the part of the onlookers. How would this dainty maid behave? Or how this foreigner, who was evidently a suitor?

Gonzaga knelt beside her, handsomer than ever in this romantic situation, with the red blood mantling through the olive skin. He was straight and long-limbed, with the strain of the cavaliers in his haughty beauty.

And, drooping a little under his expressive gaze, Lavender hummed the tune half to herself, her heels clicking the floor in time to the violin. But at the words:

"Salute your bride and kiss her sweet,"

she raised her eyes to his with a proud denial. An instant the man hesitated, then, obedient to her unspoken command, he helped her to rise. As she was bowing to rejoin the circle, he caught her hand in a warm pressure and held it to his lips. A murmur of laughter greeted this, which the more favored youths present regarded as a signal defeat.

When the game was over there was a rush for seats, some for the rude benches which lined the walls, some for the more inviting nooks outside.

"Let us get a breath of fresh air," the Spaniard said, and led Lavender to the door.

Strings of popcorn and peppers red and green dangled across the doorposts, making fantastic shadows on the ground.

There was no moon, but the stars shone bright on the white-walled cabins dotting the groves, on the pawpaw bushes and cottonwood trees along the river. A pile of stones formed a rude fence, and upon this, bestowing her frippery carefully, Lavender perched, taking care to keep well within the light from the barn door. For there was that in her companion's manner which made her fear a private talk. In spite of her precaution he began: "It is hard for me to keep my promise, you are so charming to-night. This dress, with its fragrance of a delicious past, brings back all the courtliness, the stately charm of the grande dame which none has worn for me in many a long day." He pressed between his fingers the hem of her skirt that lay in folds about the stones on which she sat.

"YOU WOULD BETTER NOT TEW ME TOO MUCH, MISS CREIGHTON."

Lavender laughed and said, turning the subject from herself: "I am glad you admire the dress, Senor; it has quite a history; it was—"

But he interrupted. "The gown is only the added charm—the color of the rose its perfume, its beauty, is there, no matter in what petals. So it is not the dress, it is you. At sight of you I am transported to a rare old past, the ugly present dies. You are a jewel in a leaden setting, you are—"

"Hush, senor, or I shall begin to fancy myself a great lady indeed—or perhaps the spell will break, and I shall vanish along with the dreams and glories of that olden time. You only imagine me—I am not here," and she made a few passes of her hands, laughing lightly at the mock spell.

REACHING THE SPOT.

It Can Be Done, So Scores of Plainfield Citizens Say.

To cure an aching back,
The pains of rheumatism,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.
In most cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills for the kidneys.

Adolph Thomas, machinist, living at 206 Spooner avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have had for several years considerable trouble with my stomach, indigestion and constipation, and coupled with these ailments I have suffered with a most severe form of rheumatism. Having heard that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for rheumatic troubles arising from the kidneys I got a supply at Randolph's drug store and began using them. I have taken in all three boxes of this remedy and must say that they have acted like a charm in my case, and not only have I been relieved of the pains that troubled me, but the stomach is again in good shape."

NO SEPARATE NEWSPAPER FOR NEW JERSEY CATHOLICS.

Plan Did Not Commend Itself to Prieses of the Newark Diocese.

The movement to start a Catholic newspaper in the Newark Diocese has been stopped, so far as the raising of a fund for the purpose among the churches of the diocese is concerned. It had been planned to assess each church a fixed amount, and the total sum thus acquired was to be used to purchase a plant. The amount requested from each parish was said to be $500.

The scheme, however, did not commend itself to a majority of the rectors, and Bishop O'Connor, when seen by a reporter, said that the project had been dropped, the clergy having lost interest in the undertaking.

The project was launched and handled by a committee appointed at a meeting of the Seton Hall Seminary Alumni Association, composed of clergymen from all parts of the diocese, held several months ago. Many members advocated the publication of a newspaper in Newark, but when the cost was ascertained, opposition arose.

William P. Lawber, a New York newspaper man, was engaged to point out the possibilities of a Catholic newspaper. The committee went over the mater in all its phases, and the raising of a fund was decided upon, but a large number of priests were of the opinion the publication would not pay.

"Send My Heart to My Wife."

Hoboken, Aug. 10.—In a dying condition at St. Mary's Hospital Wednesday was Max Heene, formerly manager of Myer's Hotel here, while the police have in their possession one of the most remarkable letters ever written by a person contemplating suicide. Heene shot himself Tuesday evening in his room at 220 Hudson street. The bullet entered his left breast. After the police sent him to the hospital, they began to search of his room. On a table they found a long letter in which Heene said he was tired of the struggle for life and that "destiny is stronger than will." He requested that his body be given to some medical institution, but that his heart be sent to his widow in a tin case.

DIAMOND DUST.

Under the circumstances it is a wise move to attempt to finish the season with an amateur team. The announcement has been well received and it is believed that with Somerville as the attraction a large crowd will visit Crescent Oval a week from today.

Among the possibilities for Plainfield's new team are mentioned Mahaffey, the star third baseman of the Plainfield High School team. He is not only fast as an infielder, but can hit the ball.

It has been suggested that an effort be made to secure Minford and Overton as a battery for the aggregation. They are both putting up a good games for East Millstone and are considered fast enough for Somerville, besides they would have a local pride in the team.

There are any number of good players who can be secured as outfielders. They are fast in fielding and their stick work is above the average.

Speaking of pitchers. There is Jimmy Montross, who is not by any means a has-been, and with a good team behind him, would be able to turn the trick as of old.

It would not be a difficult matter to secure a strong infield as there are local players who have for some time been putting up gilt-edged ball for other teams.

Several local players who have heard of the amateur nine idea for Plainfield have already expressed a desire to be given an opportunity to show their ability.

By the way what is the matter with some of the "Camp Bowser" players? There is an aggregation that made a fine record this year and they know the game too.

Another possibility for the team is "Hess" Pond. Many fans will remember his sensational fielding and his ability to hit the bal. He would be a favorite with fandom.

It is hoped that Bogart Conklin will do his best to bring about a meeting between Plainfield and Somerville, and it is believed that he will. Fandom would follow either team either to Plainfield or Somerville.

While the expense of the local team would be less than half the cost of the Daabsters, there would also be a reduction in guarantees, thus helping both the Plainfield and visiting teams to make some money.

One trouble with semi-professional baseball in Plainfield is that the fans have seen too much good ball and they have reached the point where they are tired of it. With an amateur team there would be a local interest that is never found in semi-professional ball. It would also serve to develop local players and thus encourage the game. While as much would not be expected of such a team every member would strive to do his best and win the contest.

Thomas F. Murke, left-fielder of the Lynn baseball team, of the New England League, was fatally injured by a pitched ball in a game with Fall River this week. Burke was at the bat when a pitched ball struck him in the temple. He was removed in an unconscious condition to a hospital, where he died soon afterwards.

"Willie" Deegan has returned from a trip through New York State, where he pitched winning ball for the Hoboken team. He will occupy the box tomorrow for Hoboken against the Philadelphia Quaker Giants.

The Newspaper Men and the Police nine will play the deciding game in their series next Wednesday afternoon. Both teams have reached better form since their seasons started, and a lively game is looked for.

Gans-Nelson Match Clinched.

Goldfield, Nev., Aug. 11.—Joe Gans and Billy Nolan, manager for Battling Nelson, have signed articles for a finish fight between Nelson and Gans, to be held in this city on Labor Day. Gans will get $10,000 and Nelson $20,000 of a $30,000 purse, no matter which of them wins the fight. The men will weigh 133 pounds at three o'clock, and will fight straight Marquis of Queensbury rules. Each fighter posted a $5,000 forfeit to guarantee appearance.

STOREKEEPERS AROUSED.

Plan to Buy Carloads of Ice Independently Is Blocked.

Meat dealers have been forced to pay an increase rate for their ice by the Natural Ice Company. Along with the saloon man, they were raised 35 to 40 cents a hundred.

The storekeepers are becoming aroused over the steady jacking of the rate. Action is being advocated by the energetic ones among them, and a move to break the shackles the ice men have hung about them is likely to be made next week.

"The only thing to do," said W. G. Debele, of Debele & Stahl, Somerset street, this morning, "is for all of us in business to get together and buy our ice on the co-operative plan by the carload. It can be done every season, and all through the season, keeping us permanently free from the hold of the ice dealers. I am willing to go into that at any time."

Good Time for Children.

George E. Hall, one of the officers of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home took a phonograph to the Home last evening for the amusement of the 300 little New Yorkers living there now. The time was spent in listening to the various songs and recitations and later refreshments, consisting of cake, candy and ice cream, were served.

chasers had a two-fold purpose. Primarily we wished to found a camp and game preserve, where each member could build and do as he liked, with the privilege of a clubhouse for himself and family; where he could don old clothes and wander over the fields and through the forests with a feeling of ownership in them and all they contain; where they should be room enough for each to have his own hobby, and add to the attractions of the place by putting it into practice; in a word, enjoy the privileges of a large country estate, freed from the conventionalities of city life and at a minimum of expense. Secondly, it was and is their desire, by proper management and scientific treatment of the large forest tracts, as well as the planting of vines and spruces on some of the rough pastures, to develop a magnificent forest that shall be a pleasure to them and their fellow members, and to their children after they are gone; and it is believed that, under a proper system of forestry, this can be done in such a manner that the forests will be continually increasing in value and attractions, and at the same time yield a permanent income that alone will more than pay all expense of maintaining the preserve."

Continuing, he says: "It is not the plan to have a large central clubhouse, nor yet a settlement of houses in close proximity, but rather to encourage the building of individual camps wherever the fancy of the owner shall dictate, removed far enough from each other, however, or hidden by threes in such a way that they should not be conspicuous, so that the occupants of each can have all the privacy of a single camp, yet conveniently near to the clubhouse."

The club has an initiation fee of $50 and annual dues of $20. Each member is required to subscribe for at least five shares of stock at $100 a share, and gets a deed of a camp site.

The territory of the club comprises the larger part of a great square bounded by four main highways. From a point south of Noyes pond it extends northward almost to Otis reservoir. The land contains a good deal of small timber and some of larger size, including pine, spruce, hemlock, beach, maple, ash and hickery.

In Noyes pond there is good pickerel fishing at times. There is a chance for great sport with a toboggan chute down the high hill and across the pond. The farmhouse is open the year round and the club members spend some time there in winter, as well as in summer. Mr. Diming and his wife, who superintends the property, possess unusual qualifications for the position and know how to make a place homelike. The annex is a shingled affair with a pleasant piazza and a stone fireplace inside.

The Tunxis club has a situation which, from its natural beauty, cannot fail to impress a visitor. The chief drawback, at the present time is that it is rather inaccessible, but this may make it all the more desirable for some. If a railroad should be built in this section, as Mr. Brownell has sometimes talked of, the club would be the possessor of some desirable property.

ONLY ONE BOOM STARTED

James McMaster Sole "Buttonholer" on Republican Outing Saturday.

POLITICIANS HOBNOB

Half of Party at Witzel's Grove Were Plainfielders—Baseball Game a Feature.

The second annual outing of the Union County Republicans held at Witzel's Grove, L. I., on Saturday, produced but one candidate, James McMaster, of Elizabeth, who wants to succeed Assemblyman Everard Tucker, of that place. Throughout the day he was seen interviewing the politicians and it is said that he received some encouragement. It was admitted by all that Assemblyman Randolph Perkins and Peter Tilman will be candidates to succeed themselves and no one appeared anxious to deprive them of the honor.

Plainfield rivaled Elizabeth in the size of its delegation, which was marshalled under the leadership of Judge William Newcorn, chairman of the outing committee, Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell and County Chairman Frank H. Smith. The State factory inspector used a large megaphone to keep the members of the party informed as to the programme of the day's events. Each one recognized "His master's voice."

The crowd left Elizabethport at 10:30 in the morning on the Steamer "Isabel," and enjoyed the delightful sail up the East River to Witzel's Grove, arriving there at 12:40. The committee provided generously for the party, there being plenty to eat, drink and smoke, while an orchestra enlivened the trip with a popular programme.

After arriving at the grove the party assembled at a nearby point and had a picture taken. A little later it was discovered that Andrew McCardell and a few others did not get in the first picture, and on the pretense that the negatives were spoiled, all hands got together again for another snap-shot. They did not learn the true reason until afterwards.

From that time until 2:30 o'clock, when dinner was served, the time was occupied playing baseball, a scrub game being arranged by Captain McCardell, of Plainfield, and Captain James White, of Elizabeth. Everybody agreed that Plainfield won, even though Elizabeth did have the help of Frank Burke, of the Elizabethport Stars.

The best amusement was furnished by certain members of the party who engaged in foot races. An eighth of a mile track was used to try out candidates. Police Judge Charles Angleman, of Rahway, defeated Assemblyman Perkins, of Westfield, and Mayor Furber, of Rahway, defeated Wm. DeMeza, of Plainfield. There was also great rivalry between John Hill, George Overland and John McCauley. When the boat landed at Elizabethport in the evening the trio were still arguing the question. Another diversion was the running jump. This was won by Edgar Sheppard.

It was 5 o'clock when the "Isabel" sailed away from the grove and pointed her bow homeward. Instead of going direct to Elizabethport, the captain was instructed to run down as far as Coney Island and then return to the place of starting. It was just 8 o'clock when the boat reached her dock and inside of an hour from that time the Plainfield delegation arrived home. It was not until the party reached the New Jersey Central station and was about to board their train for home that they learned that several members had been left at the grove and were compeled to return by another route. They did not know that the boat was to start at 5 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the outing comprised Judge William Newcorn, chairman; Herbert Buxton, Plainfield; S. Rusling Ryno and James White, Elizabeth; Edward Bauer, Rahway. Among those who went on the outing were the following:

Plainfield—Mayor James F. Buckle, Judge William Newcorn, Councilmen Frank DeW. Randolph and Herbert Buxton, County Registrar of Deeds F. H. Smith, chairman county committee; State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, Walter L. Hetfield, 2d., secretary county board of elections; Health Commissioner Charles H. Dunham, Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings, of the fire department; Sergeant of Police Chris. Frederickson, Patrolman Herbert Overbaugh, Horace G. Adams, clerk of the district court; former Sheriffs B. Frank Coriell and William T. Kirk, Thomas Hanna, clerk county taxation board; Overseer of the Poor Alex. Ayers, Rutherford Dalley, Postmaster E. H.

COL. WILSON'S SON HURT IN AUTO CRASH

HIS CHAUFFEUR KILLED WHEN CAR HIT BRIDGE NEAR ATLANTIC CITY.

Allan Wilson, 28 years old, son of former Mayor John F. Wilson, of North Plainfield, was injured in an auto wreck near Atlantic City late Saturday night. He was reported out of danger today at the Atlantic City Hospital. Joseph L. Locke, 23 years old, chauffeur of the machine, was killed.

Wilson is a machinery salesman, and is well known about town in Philadelphia, where he lives. He returned from a prosperous trip Thursday, and on Friday night he started out in search of enjoyment to mark the close of the successful tour "on the road." With two companions he hired Locke's car on the street, at midnight, and ordered him to Atlantic City. The party spent the next day at the resort, starting home at night. At a bridge not far from Atlantic City the front wheels swerved around and the machine crashed into the bridge rail. Locke was thrown out on his head, and killed almost instantly. Wilson suffered severe contusions and a general shaking up. A girl that was with him, and another chauffeur escaped injury. They are being held as witnesses for the investigation into the case that the Atlantic City police will make.

Thet blame for the accident is laid on the dead chauffeur by those who survived the accident. They say he was drunk. His friends have indignantly denied that he was the sort of man to get drunk on a trip, and they are using every means in their power to clear his memory. He was only 23 years old, and leaves a young widow and child.

NEARLY LOST HORSE.

Camp McVoy's Pack Animal Scared Into Bolting For Home.

P. A. McVoy, who drove down to Sea Breeze Point, opposite Perth Amboy on the Staten Island shore, last Friday for a three-days' camping trip, nearly lost his horse Saturday night. The animal was picketted outside the tent, when a siren whistle from the Sound scored it into breaking loose and started it on a wild run. The horse dashed up into Tottenville, headed straight for the ferry. Ineffectual attempts to catch it were made all along the road, and it was on the edge of the ferry stringpiece when a burly waterman seized its halter and brought it to a stop.

It was turned over to the police, who put it in a stable. McVoy did not learn where it had been caught until yesterday morning. The horse was uninjured.

Except for that incident, the camping party, which included George McVoy, John Linbarger, of Brooklyn, and John Linbarger, Jr., had a fine time. They broke camp last night. Mrs. P. A. McVoy and Mrs. Linbarger visited the camp yesterday, and stayed until the tent was struck.

SECTION HAND KILLED,

Struck By Royal Blue Express at Fatal Spot.

Frank Cackoko, aged twenty-three years, a section hand on the New Jersey Central, was struck and instantly killed by a Royal Blue express, near the Fanwood station, Saturday. He was sent down the track by the foreman for some tools and failed to hear the train come up behind him. He was struck by the engine and hurled twenty feet away.

The body was brought to Cole's undertaking rooms in this city and was sent to his home in Jersey City Saturday night. He leaves a wife and two children in Italy.

Cackoko was the third man to be killed near the Fanwood station in as many weeks. All were members of the same section gang.

"Roan View" the Winner.

Only one event was run off at the matinee races at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, the rain interfering with the programme. In the first and only race, George Conover's "Roan View," won the first and second heats. B. R. Waldron's "John Wilson," finished second and J. W. Johnson's "Hartwood Belle," third. The time was 2:29. The other races will be held next Saturday.

Entertained State Councilor.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, entertained State Councilor Mrs. L. A. W. Perkins, of New Brunswick, and her daughter, who is also a State officer of the organization. There was one initiation and several propositions received. Mrs. Perkins addressed the council, and remarks were made by other officers and members, after which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, of Rockview terrace, with their family, have gone to East Gloucester, Mass., where they will spend several weeks.

P. B. A. WANTS TO KNOW

Manager Daab Will Be Asked to Explain Team's Withdrawal.

WAS NOT AUTHORIZED

Neither Stockholders Nor Executive Committee Gave Permission To Break the Schedule Off and End Season.

In taking the P. B. A. team from the city, Manager Daab has aroused a chorus of questions from members of the association. They want to know where he got his authority for the step. The members of the Executive Committee, who might have had some shadow of excuse in waving the team away, are as anxious for an answer to the question as the humblest stockholder.

Manager Daab is said to have acted without a shadow of authority in withdrawing the team. No meeting of the association or of the Executive Committee preceded the action, and no legal authorization for it was given him. It is contended that even the Executive Committee could not have authorized the suspension of play, but that only a vote at a stockholders' meeting could legalize the withdrawal of the team.

Manager Daab is being criticized somewhat caustically for his alleged disregard of the association. It was the general impression when the association started—and the stock was purchased under that impression—that the team would stay here all season. It was understood that the association was organizing a team, to be managed by Mr. Daab, to go straight through the summer to Labor Day. No individual, manager, officer or committeeman had any right, it is contended, to halt the schedule without the express authority of the people who held the stock. It is a fact, of course, that half of the stock is owned by Mr. Daab, but the other fifty per cent. had no word in the action he took.

Mr. Daab has announced that the team will play in Red Bank the rest of the season. It is not at all probable the association will demand its return, but the organization will put the Missouri statement before Mr. Daab, as a matter of principle.

NETHERWOOD HOME REPORTS SHOW SUCCESS.

Booklet Issued Showing Season's Work In 1905 With Reports and Reviews.

Copies of the annual report of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home for the season of 1905 were distributed to visitors at the close of the afternoon services yesterday. The report is an eight-page book, neatly gotten up, with a green cover. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, president of the Plainfield Fresh Air Association, was in charge of the booklet, which was from the press of the North Plainfield Review.

An excellent picture of Miss Sara Curry, matron of the home, forms the frontispiece of the report, which is prefaced by a brief review of the objects of the work, written by Dr. Rodman. The report of D. M. Runyon, the treasurer of the association, shows receipts for 1905 amounting to $1,648.06, of which $1,040.82 was raised by individual subscriptions and the balance by churches, societies, entertainments and special collections. The expenses of running the camp last year were $1,522.81, and the work this season was started with a balance of $125.25. An itemized list of individual donations during the season of 1905 is printed, together with the report of Miss Florence G. Hawkins, chairman of the devotional committee of the home, and an appeal for the support of the work, issued by George A. Chapman, chairman of the finance committee, showing that 1,745 children and 420 mothers were brought to the Netherwood home during the season of 1905. A section of the report is devoted to some personal reminiscences of Miss Curry in connection with her experiences among the poor in New York city.

James Butt.

James Butt, the father of Charles Butt, of Watchung avenue, died last Friday at his home on Huron street, Toronto, Can. He was ninety-one years old and was one of the best known residents of the city. His son was summoned from Plainfield several weeks ago and was at the father's bedside when death came. The funeral was held this afternoon.

Christ Church Cadets' Outing.

Forty-five boys comprising the cadet corps at Christ church, Elizabeth, passed through Plainfield at 10 o'clock this morning aboard a trolley car on their way to Finderne, where they will camp out for a week. It is the custom of the corps to take a week's outing every summer and in this way the boys have a good time.

REV. WM. B. HAMILTON AT NETHERWOOD HOME

ELIZABETH CLERGYMAN ADDRESSES CHILDREN AT YESTERDAY'S SERVICES

Speaking on the subject of "Keys," Rev. William B. Hamilton, of Elizabeth, made a strong address to the 300 children now at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home at the regular Sunday afternoon meeting held on the lawns of the home yesterday afternoon. Dr. Hamilton is a practical speaker, who makes his talks clear by the use of numerous graphic illustrations. He is a great favorite with the children at the camp, having spoke there last summer on the topic "Nails."

Yesterday's topic was taken in connection with the text: "And the greatest of these is love," which formed a part of the scripture lesson read by Dr. Hamilton during the service. He spoke of various qualities and attributive traits which all should cultivate as "keys" to be made use of by each and every one on various occasions through life. A key, he said, meant an opener, and spoke of education and self confidence as important keys for opening and broadening the life of a child. Then he referred to the key of service, stating how every one could do something and how much any service meant to the doer as well as the one for whom it was done. In connection with every day life, he spoke of the keys of self control and thoughtfulness for others, which should prompt us to restrain the tongue at all times and control our feelings.

Near the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Hamilton displayed three two flit keys cut from cardboard, and labeled "Faith" and "Hope," and a larger key labeled "Love." These, he said, were the most important of keys. These are the three golden keys for every day life, and are preeminent in religion. The key of faith, he referred to as unlocking many of life's hard problems and of especial value to the Christian, and he spoke of the inspiring influences gained through the use of the key of hope, without which life would lose all value. "But the greatest of all these keys is the key of "Love," said Dr. Hamilton as he displayed the third and largest key and he went on to speak of the valuable influence of love in the world every day, of the inspiration and helpfullness it brings about, and of its power in a charitable way. He concluded his talk by a strong appeal for all to seek the love of Jesus, the greatest of all love, and referred to its exemplification in His Life and the preservation and care of His people.

The meeting was in charge of Clarence Titus, of Roselle, who came to the camp with a party of people from Elizabeth, including a quartette of singers. During the service, this quartette, composed of Thomas B. Beale, Robert Given, A. D. Evans and Clarence Titus, rendered the gospel hymns, "I've Found a Friend" and "Riches of Love." Miss Emma Faent, of Elizabeth, played the melodian. The children took part in the singing of several gospel hymns in connection with the service. The concluding prayer was led by E. H. Hand, of Netherwood.

BOROUGH JAIL CELLS FILLED BY SATURDAY DRUNKS.

Five Men Arrested in North Plainfield for Intoxication Will Have Hearing Tonight.

The lid was pushed off and cast aside in the borough Saturday night and preparation for a "Bishops' law Sunday" by a big Saturday night spree landed five drunks in the lockup. Frank Moncton got a good load on and tried the merry go-round and round and round at Concert Park. He couldn't understand the mechanism of the thing and the proprietor finally summoned the police to take him away. Special officer Ryman gathered him in, and also got James McGauley, who was drunk on Somerset street near Chatham street.

Later in the evening, James Donahue was arrested by Marshal Pope and Officer Flack brought in George Haymaker and an Italian from Somerville, who were helplessly intoxicated. The arrests were all made along Somerset street, when the celebrators were trying to get home. By supplying $10 bail apiece, McGauley and Haymaker were released until their hearing, but the other three spent Sunday in jail, awaiting sentence from Mayor Smalley at the session of borough court tonight.

Worthy of Imitation?

Although he is trying to get some rest from his arduous parochial duties, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, who is sojourning at Rogers Rock on Lake George, has not forgotten the poor little tots at the babies' camp on the mountain. He sends his check for five dollars to The Daily Press. It has been transmitted to the camp treasurer.

RECORD MAKES DENIAL

Declares His Confidence is Betrayed by Riparian Commission Secretary.

PAYNE IN BAD LIGHT

Man Who Tried To Blacken Record's Character Is Exposed In Good Fashion.

George L. Record returned from his vacation Saturday and promptly began a reply to the attacks upon him made by John C. Payne, secretary of the riparian commission, in the investigation of the board. He denounces Payne as an ingrate, charged that he stole his private papers and denies the allegations of defrauding the State in toto. In regard to the investigation, Mr. Record says:

"This whole proceeding of this committee seems to be grossly unfair and obviously intended not to investigate the riparian commission, but to obtain political capital by hook or crook, to be used against me in the hope of discrediting the political revolt against the State machine in the Republican party, which is now in force all over the State.

"The attorney general obviously knew of this testimony. In common fairness I should have been notified that it was forthcoming and given an immediate opportunity to cross-examine the witness and to present my version of the fact under oath. Instead of this, the committee allows these scandalous and false statements to be promulgated without giving me an opportunity to be heard, and adjourns until September. In the meantime, I understand, the committee has ordered several thousand copies of Payne's testimony to be printed, obviously for circulation around the State in the attempt to influence the political fight now pending."

Mr. Record then proceeds to show that Payne stole his papers and otherwise betrayed him, and was apparently engaged in a conspiracy against him, notwithstanding many favors received. He offers numerous proofs that Payne stole information dishonorably.

Mr. Record narrates his connection with the board, through his partnership with Mr. Bacon, son of the former secrtary, and tells of his appointment as counsel. He admits taking fees in addition to his salary as counsel, but says this was the custom of the board, and that it was known of and approved by the members. The office rent was paid on joint account, he says, but he claims to have paid fully his share of the expenses, and denies that he received any advantage by the joint occupancy of the rooms with the commission and the use of clerks in common. The stationery bills, he says, were of the same nature, he paying his full share. If there was any benefit obtained it was by Payne, the secretary, who now makes the charges. Mr. Record admits being interested in some riparian grants, but claims he had the right to be. He asserts that his advice to the board in regard to grants was fully sustained by the several attorneys-general.

Mr. Record's reply is based upon newspaper reports. He has been unable to obtain copies of the testimony and makes his reply, as he says, under this disadvantage on account of the political prejudice used against him by the attorney-general and the committee.

JOHN CONROY'S FUNERAL.

His Death at Trenton Due to Stroke of Apoplexy.

The funeral of former Special Officer John Conroy, who died Thursday in St. Francis hospital, Trenton, was held yesterday afternoon at St. Mary's church. It was conducted by Rev. Father Delehanty and was followed by interment at St. Mary's cemetery. Previous to the church service a simple ceremony was observed at the undertaking rooms of T. A. Moore for the benefit of friends.

Conroy's death was due to apoplexy, a sudden stroke affecting him as he was walking in one of the main thoroughfares of Lambertville. He was hurried to the Trenton institution but died a half hour after being placed on a cot.

SOMERSET REPUBLICANS MET AT SOMERVILLE

J. H. COOLEY AND CHAS. MOLDENCKE ATTENDED AS DELEGATES.

Members of the Somerset County Republican committee convened at Cawley's Hotel, Somerville, Saturday afternoon at the call of Senator Frelinghuysen. Dr. Justus H. Cooley, borough committeeman from the Second district, attended, together with Charles Moldencke, the delegate from North Plainfield township. Wm. G. Debele, the representative from the first district, was unable to attend.

The meeting was attended by eighteen or twenty members of the committee from various boroughs and townships of the county, and convened at Cawley's Hotel at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Little was done about mapping out a campaign for the fall, though Senator Frelinghuysen referred to the active work which had been done by the supporters of the "New Idea" and spoke of the necessity of having a strong man nominated for the assemblymanship, the only nomination to be made this fall in Somerset.

There was an informal discussion regarding the appointment of the county election officers, but no definite action was taken. This board of election officers does not have to be chosen until August 20, but names were talked over, though not made public. There was also discussion about the commission of freeholders soon to be selected. The meeting lasted about two hours.

He tripped over a charged electric light wire and fell heavily. His right leg was fractured and his face was severely cut, his right eye being gashed. He was also slightly burned. Fellow workmen summoned assistance and the injured man was brought to this city, and he is now at Muhlenberg Hospital. The broken bone has been set and his other injuries are not serious.

TROLLEY TURNED TURTLE

Fourteen Passengers Juggled About When Car Left Track at Westfield.

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT

Twelve of the People On Board From Plainfield—Motorman Took Curve Too Fast.

Travelling at a high rate of seeed, trolley car No. 1709, of the main line, westbound, jumped the tracks at the curve at Grove and Summit streets, Westfield, Saturday night at 11:45, turned a complete somersault and landed in a ditch. There were fourteen passengers in the car, twelve from Plainfield and two from Westfield. No one was seriously injured. Drs. Cooper and Sinclair, of Westfield, were summoned, and after attending to those most hurt, they were able to return home on another car.

The Plainfielders injured were:

John R. Giles, 1220 Highland avenue, bruised about the body; hand and elbow cut.

Mrs. John R. Giles, head cut and bruised and suffering from shock.

Clarence Leland, 125 Elmwood place, back and head bruised and cut; also suffering from shock.

George Conover, 95 Jackson avenue, abrasions of legs, head and body.

Powers Contin, bruised and cut about the head and legs.

Fred Jacobus, fractured rib of the right side.

Francis Connolly, Essex street; contusions and severe shock.

Miss Sadie Jones, bruised, cut and nervous shock.

Morris Powers, 605 Richmond street, arm and hand cut.

U. G. Force, Richmond street; contusions of right eye, and injury to right leg and arm.

Bert Cranmer, conductor, fracture of collar-bone.

Chester Moffett, of Westfield, received an injury to his knee, and William Moffett, also of Westfield, arm, wrist and back injured.

The car was in charge of Motorman Robert Benner, a new employee who has been working as a motorman at Allentown, Pa., for five years, and Conductor Bert L. Crammer, both of Plainfield. Benner escaped with a severe shaking up.

In explaining the cause of the accident, Benner said that he fully realized that he was approaching the curve, but did not rightly measure the distance. As soon as the car struck the curve, Benner says he reversed his controller and applied his air brake. The front wheels of the car took the curve with such force as to throw the body off the tracks and before it landed in the ditch at the side of the road, it made a complete turn.

There was a panic among the passengers and between their screams and the breaking of glass, it was at first thought that several persons were fatally injured. As soon as the car stopped rolling passengers began scrambling out of the wreckage and it did not take long to learn that no one was seriously hurt. However, aid was summoned from Westfield, and the trolley officials were notified. Shortly after midnight a wrecking crew arrived and within a half hour the road was opened again for travel and the wrecked car was taken back to the car barns at Cranford Junction.

NEWMAN WAS "ALL IN" WHEN RESCUERS ARRIVED.

Former Councilman Came Near Drowning at Witzel's Grove.

Former Councilman W. J. Newman, of Richmond street, had a narrow escape from drowning Saturday afternoon at the Union County Republicans outing at Witzel's Grove, L. I. After dinner was served in the big pavilion, "Jeff" decided to take a swim. Not realizing that the tide at that point was very strong, he got beyond the lines. He got winded and yelled for help.

Newman had been down once when John Smith saw his plight and he quickly jumped in the water. Swimming to where Newman was he grabbed hold of the man and at that moment one of the employes of the bathhouses reached him with a boat. Newman was brought ashore, but it was some time before the Plainfielder recovered from the shock and excitement of his experience.

James Anderson.

James Anderson, the two-year-old son of Allen and Frances Anderson, of West Fourth street, died Saturday night, after a brief illness. The parents of the child have also been ill, the father recently undergoing an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Tax Assessor John H. L. Peters attended a meeting of the County Board of Equalization of Taxes at New Brunswick last week and has made arrangements for the committee from the board to come to Dunellen within a few days to audit the valuations of property in the borough. As soon as the figures have been looked over, the local tax officials can give some idea of the figure for the tax rate, although the real rate will be fixed after conference with the taxation board at New Brunswick.

Dunellen and New Market school building, which are being overhauled during the summer, are now practically ready for re-occupation by the pupils. The new flooring in the Whittier building has been laid, and nothing remains to be completed except some repairs to the heating apparatus and a little painting.

Councilman Fowler W. Vail has been appointed by Mayor Wyckoff to attend the Dunellen tax sale, which is to be held Friday. Collector Day will be in charge, and the nine properties to be sold for unpaid taxes in 1905 will be disposed of to the highest bidders at the borough building Friday afternoon.

In a sale of school bonds for the district schools of Piscataway township to be held Friday of this week, twenty-nine bonds are to be disposed of. These are $500 bonds, paying four per cent. interest semi-annually. The sale will be conducted at the Rogers building, New Market.

Thomas Kelly, who was compelled to quit work at Levering & Garrigues' shops last week because of a severe attack of the cramps, has been under the care of Dr. Whitford for several days, but is now able to be back on the job.

Rev. Arthur S. Phelps was in charge of the celebration of the Holy Communion at Holy Innocents' church yesterday morning and preached at the regular morning service.

Harvey Walters and family are now occupying the house belonging to J. W. Moynihan on Front street. They formerly lived in the Van building, but moved last week.

Many attended the celebration of the Holy Communion held at the morning service at the First Baptist church yesterday. Rev. Frank Fletcher was in charge.

Several from here attended the Glen Gardner-Dunellen baseball game at Glen Gardner, Saturday, making the trip with the team.

Harry Titsworth and William Piddington, who have been spending the past week at Asbury Park, have returned home.

Miss Nelie Extitis, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Siriski, of North avenue.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

A number from here took advantage of a long day at the shore and went with the Hope chapelites on their annual excursion to Asbury Park, Saturday.

Joseph Clark, Robert Walpole and George H. Johnston were among the faithful from here who attended the Union County Republican outing Saturday.

The fans missed the usual Saturday game, but Dunellen will be here Saturday afternoon of this week and a good game is assured.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Carpenter, of Plainfield, were the guests yesterday of William C. Stansbury, of Mountain avenue.

Miss Myrtle Shackleton has returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Warren county.

Mrs. Edward Johnston led a well attended B. Y. P. U. meeting held last night in the parlors of the church.

Harold, Victor and John Todd, of the borough, are enjoying camp life for several weeks in the Connecticut woods.

Mrs. Elias Hyams and daughter, Miss Bella, of New York, spent Sunday with Miss Susie Parse.

Another quiet Sunday. We will become accustomed to it in time, if the "lid" is kept down.

The park gang is giving the park about the station its regular monthly trimming up.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole entertained out of town friends over Sunday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. A. C. T. Attlee's sermons yesterday were a great inspiration to those who heard them. When his people return from their summer vacations, he expects much will be done for the church in the fall and winter when a great revival is anticipated. There has been no revival in this church since Rev. Mr. Armstrong was pastor, shortly after the church was dedicated.

The boats that are moored on the premises of Albert Manning will have to be taken away, as the small boys have become a nuisance, knocking down his fruit, entering his tool house without permission, and using his tools. All owners have been notified to remove their boats.

Miss Heaton, of Newark, is visiting Florence and Mildred Johnson, of Plainfield avenue ,and all three took part in the sociable at the church given by the Young People's Club.

W. E. Smith has a new dog, a thoroughbred registered Scotch collie.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

One Dozen Good Books on the Civil War Period, In the Public Library.

Battles and leaders of the Civil War: contributions by Union and Confederate officers edited by R. U. Johnson and C. C. Buel.

"So arranged as to make a consecutive history, beginning with the bombardment of Sumter." Larnard's Literature of Amer. history.

"The novel scheme of printing side by side the story of battles and movements as told by men of opposite sides who participated in them, was a delicate experiment, but has proved a great success. Union and Confederate soldiers have told their reminiscences in a generous spirit, and the presentation of both sides has never degenerated into controversy or lost its dignity." Nation 46:30.

Champlin, J. D.—Young folk's history of the war for the union.

"Can be heartily recommended, as designed to meet a real want, and meeting it well. .. It is equally well adapted to general readers who are not 'young folks.' It is, in short, a well-written and entertaining history of the War of the Rebellion, very fair and impartial in tone, and aiming rather at incident and graphic narrative than at political and strategic analysis, although these are not neglected; affording, therefore, probably as good an account of these events as most will desire." Nation 33:419.

Comn, C. C.—My days and nights on the battlefield.

"The book is especially valuable as it describes from personal observation the first battles of General Grant. It has no better war-pictures than the taking of Fort Donelson and the Battle of Shiloh or Pittsburg Landing. .. This battle-book for boys will hold no unimportant place in the war-library of the times." Atlantic monthly 13:516.

Dana, C. A.—Recollections of the Civil War.

"Partly published in McClure's magazine. Perspicuous descriptions of several great campaigns; numerous character sketches; many passages of a high order of literary merit." Amer. historical review 1:568.

Famous adventures and prison escapes of the Civil War.

Contents. War diary of a Union woman in the South; The locomotive chase in Georgia; Mosby's "Partizan Rangers;" A romance of Morgan's rough-riders; Colonel Rose's tunnel at Libby prison; A hard road to travel out of Dixie; Escape of General Breckenridge."

Gordon, J. B.—Reminiscences of the Civil War.

"Recollections covering entire war, in form of history, anecdote and critical comment. States the issues involved fairly and temperately and estimates at their true worth characteristics displayed by confederate leaders." Dial 35:302.

Grant, Gen., U. S.—Personal memoirs. 2v.

"These volumes cover the course of the author's life down to the close of the Civil War. When one considers that the writer was a man of action, altogether without experience in literary work, one is surprised at the remarkable skill with which the narrative is written. .. As a general he massed details but was not overwhelmed by them: so here, he sees the whole field and leads the reader easily along from one principal event to another. The narrative simplicity and lack of affectation so characteristic of the author are noticeable features of the work." A. C. McLaughlin, Prof. in Univ. of Michigan.

Livermore, Mrs. M. A.—My story of the war.

"Commencing with the first gun at Sumter, Mrs. Livermore outlines the progress of events to the assassination of Lincon, dwelling upon the work of the Sanitary Commission as it came under her notice during a close acquaintanceship with the horrors of war. Seldom does one meet with so rich an experience of human nature. The reader must be made of stern or indifferent stuff who can peruse this book without having his heart deeply stirred." Nation 48:471.

Longstreet, James.—From Manassas to Appomattox; memories of the Civil War in America.

"A work without which the literature of the war would be incomplete. His methods of action and of thought, his canons of military judgment, his influence on officers and men, are all worthy of careful study." Nation 62:146.

Morse, J. T., Jr.—Life of Abraham Lincoln. American statesmen series. 2v.

"Test best brief life of Lincoln. Condensed but quite clear. Very careful of facts and inviting confidence. Slightly marred by hero worship. First volume gives a graphic description of Lincoln's early environment, but minimizes his early political struggles. The second volume is devoted entirely to the conduct of the war." E. E. Sparks, Prof. in Univ. of Chicago.

Paris, L. P. A. d'O., comte de.—History of the Civil War in America.

"No other historian of the Civil War can compare with him in grasp of the subject as a whole, and in judicious proportioning of the parts." Nation 47:379.

"The Count's history is so animated, so vigorously written, so fair, so full of just and generous appreciation of the military virtues of the contesting armies and their leaders, that it is a great gift to the people of this country." Dial 9:3.

Ropes, J. C.—Story of the Civil War.

"It is incontestably the most intelligent as well as the most complete and impartial analysis of the campaigns and battles of the great Rebellion, so far given to the world. Mr. Ropes' narrative is remarkably free from prejudice, and is nowhere marred by the bias of personal friendship or personal enmity." Amer. historical review 5:592.

The Stickly Bros. Co. Grand Rapids—fountainhead of furniture-making in this country—makers of the most beautiful designs in sturdy Arts and Crafts or Mission Furniture, have accorded highest honors to this—America's Greatest Furniture House—by giving us the privilege of distributing their factory stock on hand, and have sold us the surplus pieces so much below usual cost that we are enabled to announce, beginning tomorrow, UNPRECEDENTED PRICES ON MISSION PIECES IN THIS IMPORTANT MOVEMENT.

This fresh, fine lot of furniture embraces many different pieces and styles, suitable for dining-room, den, hall, library, living room and bedroom. The pieces, of course, can not be duplicated and some of the lots are limited, though of many there are several pieces. The prices at which we will sell this furniture are in most instances, less than factory cost. It is the finest opportunity that we have ever been able to present our patrons for buying splendid new furniture so much under price.

DEADLOCK OVER THE CITY OWNING LIGHTING PLANT.

Again the City Hall Commission of Newark is deadlocked over the question of installing a municipal electric lighting plant in the new public building in that city, which is to be ready for use in October. The members held a meeting Friday, but after wrestling with the problem until they got tired were at a tie so far as votes are concerned.

Lighting experts employed by the Common Council have shown that the city could save much money by establishing its own plant in the new Municipal Building. Recently the Aldermen were unanimous in requesting the commission to take this course. There is tract with the Public Service Corporation for furnishing the new building with illumination.

The Commissioner Cressey has favored a Public Service contract and his attitude in the matter has resulted in holding the matter up. President Howell, the other member of the commission in the city at present, favors a municipal plant. The third member of the commission is Gottfried Krueger and he is in Europe. Matters are likely to remain in abeyance until he returns.

BIG RECORD SQUAD OF RIFLE SHOTS

GREATEST GATHERING EVER KNOWN EXPECTED AT SEA GIRT.

Entries for the big rifle tournament which will be held at Sea Girt commencing August 27, and ending September 6, are beginning to come in, and General Bird W. Spencer, president of the National Rifle Association and inspector-general of rifle practice of New Jersey, says that the assemblage of riflemen this year will probably be the greatest gathering of rifle shots ever known in this country. In addition to the national matches there will be matches to be shot under the auspices of the National Rifle Association and also of the New Jersey State Rifle Association.

Among the State teams that are expected here for the national matches are those from Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin, Georgia, Kentucky, Maine and Tennessee have not decided. There will also be teams from the different branches of the army and navy, and it is believed there will be forty-five teams to shoot in the matches.

Thirty-seven teams took part in the competition for the national match last year. New York won with a score of 4,528; United States infantry was second, with an aggregate of 4,400; and Ohio third, with a total of 4,431. It is open to teams of twelve men from the various branches of the "regular" establishment and the National Guard. The first prize is the national trophy, donated by act of Congress, and $300 in cash, to be divided among the members of the winning team; the Hilton trophy and $200 in cash for the second prize, and the Soldier of Marathon trophy and $150 in cash for third prize. There are also three other cash prizes.

It is probable that the national individual match will tax the capacity of the Sea Girt range. Last year there were 367 entries, and as there are plenty of cash prizes, as well as lots of glory, it is expected that nearly every member of the forty-odd teams that take part in the team match will also shoot in the individual match. The sum of $390 was donated by congress, and private parties have donated $2,010, making the total cash to be distributed $2,400.

Presented to the National Rifle Association of this country by the kindred organization of Great Britain, the Wimbledon cup is looked upon as one of the desirable trophies for a rifleman to capture. It was won last year by Lieutenant W. A. Tewes, of the First New Jersey, of Newark, with a score of 84. It is shot for at 1,000 yards, and there are four cash prizes. The president's match, carrying with it the military championship of the United States, was won last year by Sergeant W. Fry, of Ohio, with an aggregate of 291. He received an autograph letter from President Roosevelt congratulating him upon his marksmanship. Ohio also captured the Leech cup match last year, having been won by Captain W. H. Richards, with an aggregate of 92.

One of the handsomest trophies for which the rifle teams will compete is the prize donated by United States Senator John F. Dryden. This trophy will be added to the regimental championship team match. It has been donated by the regiments of the United States and is valued at $500.

There is sure to be considerable interest taken in the interclub rifle match for the championship of the United States. The match has been won twice by the Manhattan Rifle and Revolver Association of New York city, which has a splendid aggregation of expert shots in its ranks. There will be a number of squadded matches, as there were last year, and plenty of cash prizes for the "pot hunters" who want to shoot for "what there is in it," rather than for glory.

Lieutenant Colonel Peter Bomus, of the Sixth Cavalry, United States army, will act as executive officer for the national macthes, which will begin on Tuesday, September 4. General Bird W. Spencer, it is expected, will act as executive officer for the matches of the National Rifle Association and the New Jersey State Rifle Association. Major William S. Price, of the Third Regiment, New Jersey National Guard, will be the post adjutant and Colonel William Early the post quartermaster. It is expected the teams will begin to arrive about August 22. The camp for their accommodation will be in readiness by the twentieth of the month.

—Eugene MacLaughlin, of the local telephone company, commenced his two weeks' vacation today.

—Among other improvements planned by the Public Service Corporation is that of laying new rails and ties on West Front street, between Plainfield and Grant avenues. The rails now used were installed several years ago.

ALL QUIET POLITICALLY.

Indications point to a dull season in politics until after Labor Day despite the fact that the Colbyites launched their campaign early in June. The "new idea" people have found that the voters do not take any deep interest in political affairs during the summer and for that reason it is hardly likely that they will make any further attempt until September rolls around.

With one exception, the Republican organization in the county has settled upon its Assembly ticket. To fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of Evarard Tucker to run again, it is certain that an Elizabeth man will be chosen. James McMasters is hot after the job, but knowing ones say that Charles Halsey is more likely to pluck the plum.

In the Colby camp matters are more unsettled. So far Judge Runyon is the only avowed candidate. It is quite well known that William F. Groves, of Elizabeth, would like to be one of his running mates, but up to the present time he has received little encouragement.

Just what strength the Colbyites have in the county is problematical. The regulars declare that outside of Plainfield their effort has been a flat failure. On the other hand the "new idea" contingent say that the movement is spreading all over the county and that the "machine" will meet its Waterloo on September 25. It is hard to get any definite line at all on the situation for a man's political predictions depend generally on his own wishes. At the end of the first week in September, however, the people will know just how the land lays.

"There is absolutely nothing in sight that can sidetrack Mr. Bryan," said David B. Francis in Paris the other day. David may be a bit nearsighted.—Trenton True American.

Don't know much about David's eye-sight but can't imagine there are any obstructions on the line to the Salt River pier.

This is apt to be the ticket for the Assembly provided the regular Republican organization is not defeated by the Colbyites: Randolph Perkins, Westfield; Charles Halsey, Elizabeth, and Peter Tillman, Rahway.

Secretary of the Navy Charles J. Bonaparte suggests the rope and lash as a cure for anarchism. The shot gun might be preferable.

New is dull in London again, but they've resurrected the Mad Mullah.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

Important Changes in Law Passed by Congress Now in Effect.

On September 29 there will go into effect a naturalization law far more drastic than any previous legislation by Congress on the subject of admitting citizens to the United States. The provision which will tend most toward lessening the number of applicants to citizenship is that which has to do with qualifications. Besides, the requirements of the former law in regard to the applicant residing in the United States for five years, residing in the State of New Jersey for twelve months previous to his application, having a good moral character, renouncing allegiance to his former country and taking an oath to support the constitution, while having a sufficient knowledge of the manner in which this country is governed to satisfy the judge that he is fitted for citizenship, he must now also be able to sign his own name and to speak the English language.

tance of citizens, but the latter will probably prove to be a severe stumbling block, if the law is strictly enforced.

What the authorities will consider a sufficient knowledge of the language to admit a man to citizenship, it is impossible to foretell. The county clerk and the judge of the State court, in examining the man have not, however, entire charge of the proceedings under the new law, for the power is explicitly given to the United States to appear in naturalization proceedings for the purpose of cross-examining the petitioner and his witnesses, as well as to call witnesses, produce evidence and be heard in opposition to the granting of any petition of naturalization. This power will give the federal authorities a right to object if State authorities become too lenient in the enforcement of the new law.

Another important point in which the law has been changed is in the provision requiring a man to wait not less than two years nor more than seven after taking out his first papers before he can apply for his final papers. Formerly a man could take out the first papers, and wait an indefinite period before applying for his final ones. Meanwhile the county clerk had to keep on file all the data regarding his first application. Now, after seven years have elapsed this data will be worthless, and it will probably not have to be kept at hand.

In another respect the naturalization law has been made more stringent. Whereas previously an applicant for citizenship had merely to produce witnesses to prove that he had resided in the United States five years previous to the granting of final papers, the alien must now produce a certificate of registration from the bureau of immigration and naturalization if he lands after September 29.

These certificates will be given all immigrants upon landing in the country, certifying the place of birth, date of arrival, intended place of residence, and giving also a complete description if the immigrant himself. Through the use of such certificates it will be impossible for an alien to be admitted before the five years' residence are up, as duplicates of all certificates will be kept on file by the bureau of immigration and naturalization, and dates of landing may thus be easily verified where there arises any doubt as to the correctness of the statement of the applicant.

There has been incorporated in the new law also the provisions of an act passed by Congress shortly after President McKinley's assassination, providing against the admission to citizenship of any person professing anarchy. The applicant must now swear that "he is not an unbeliever in or opposed to organized government, or a member of or affiliated with any organization or body of persons teaching disbelief in or opposition to organized government." There is as well a clause which makes it necessary for the applicant to swear that he is not a polygamist or a believer in the practice of polygamy.

The fees to be charged for filing the various documents necessary to naturalization have been more than doubled by the new law. There is now a charge of $1 upon taking out the first set of papers, $2 with the petition for naturalization, and $2 upon filing with the county clerk the "city paper." The only fee not changed under the new act is that to be paid to the clerk of city or town in which application is made upon receiving his "city paper."

INFLUENCE OF THE CIGARETTE.

Looked Upon in Business World as Deadly Enemy to Advancement.

I leave it to others to discuss the moral side of cigarette smoking, writes O. S. Marden in Success. I denounce it simply because of its blighting, blasting effect upon one's success in life; because it draws off the energy, saps the vitality and force which ought to be made to tell in one's career; because it blunts the sensibilities and deadens the thinking faculties; because it kills the ambition and the finer instincts, and the more delicate aspirations and perceptions; because it destroys the ability to concentrate the mind, which is the secret of all achievement.

The whole tendency of the cigarette nicotine poison in the youth is to arrest development. It is fatal to all normal functions. It blights and blasts both health and morals. It not only ruins the faculties, but it unbalances the mind, as well. Many of the most pitable cases of insanity in our asylums are cigarette fiends. It creates abnormal appetites, strange, undefined longings, discontent, uneasiness, nervousness, irritability, and, in many, an almost irresistible inclination to crime. In fact, the moral depravity which follows the cigarette habit is something frightful. Lying, cheating, impurity, loss of moral courage and manhood, a complete dropping of life's standards all along the lines, are its general results.

A chemist, not long since, took the tobacco used in an average cigarette and soaked it in several teaspoonfuls of water and then injected a portion of it under the skin of a cat. The cat almost immediately went into convulsions, and died in fifteen minutes. Dogs have been killed with a single drop of nicotine.

Cigarette smoking is no longer simply a moral question. The great business world has taken it up as a deadly enemy of advancement, of achievement. Leading business firms all over the country have put the cigarette on the prohibited list. In Detroit alone, sixty-nine merchants have agreed not to employ the cigarette user. In Chicago, Montgomery Ward & Co., Hibbard, Spencer & Bartlett, and some of the other large concerns have prohibited cigarette smoking among all employes under eighteen years of age. Marshall Field & Co., and the Morgan & Wright Tire Co. have this rule: "No cigarettes can be smoked by our employes.' One of the questions on the application blanks at Wanamaker's reads: "Do you use tobacco or cigarettes?"

The superintendent of the Lindell Street Railway, of St. Louis, says: "Under no circumstances will I hire a man who smokes cigarettes. He is as dangerous on the front of a motor as a man who drinks. In fact, he is more dangerous; his nerves are apt to give way at any moment. If I find a car running badly, I immediately begin to investigate to find if the man smokes cigarettes. Nine times out of ten he does, and then he goes, for good."

The New York, New Haven and Hartford, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Lehigh Valley, the Burlington, and many others of the leading railroad companies of this country have issued orders positively forbidding the use of cigarettes by employees while on duty.

Life In Plainfield 38 Years Ago.

REPRINTED FROM THE CONSTITUTIONALIST OF 1868.

From the issue of June 25, 1868:

A solemn event, showing the uncertainty of human life, occurred in this village on Monday morning last. Uriah Field, a highly respected resident of Plainfield, and a member of the Society of Friends, having accompanied some relatives to the Railroad station, and witnessed their departure, on the 8:18 train for New York, took seat just inside the door leading from the passenger room to the platform. He had been seated there but a few moments when he was observed to fall suddenly to the floor, and almost as soon as assistance could reach him, the vital spark had fled. Drs. Craig and Sutphen were speedily on the spot but their skill availed naught. The cause of death was a violent attack of apoplexy. Mr. Field apparently enjoyed robust health. He was a man of courteous manner, a warm-hearted friend and an affectionate husband, and in every particular a worthy citizen. He lived on Second street, near Washington, and selected Plainfield for an abode about two years ago. These sudden visitations preach loudly and evidence the truth, that "In the midst of life we are in death."

The Jackson Democratic Association of Plainfield perfected organization Thursday evening last, by adopting a constitution and by-laws and electing additional officers. The roll now stands: President, Nathan Harper; [illegible]dent, John W. Murray; [illegible] Secretary, Edward P. Thorn; Corresponding Secretary, Samuel Manning; Treasurer, William E. Gardner.

A number of dogs have recently been poisoned to death in Plainfield by some persons unknown. This wholesale slaughter of animals seems uncalled for, as there have been no cases of hydrophobia in our town, and some valuable animals are likely to be brought suddenly to grief.

Mrs. Sarah Collonc, an old lady in her 102d year, died in the village of Westfield last week. She retained to the last her faculties in a most remarkable degree. She could relate circumstances that happened during the Revolutionary War and events that occurred nearly a century ago with great accuracy. On her 100th birthday she invited her friends and neighbors to call and see her; over 100 accepted the invitation and received a hearty welcome, and were entertained with a grace that might cause some of our young ladies to blush.

The division of the Sons of Temperance of this place have fitted up in good style a new room, are now turning their attention to the diffusion of principles by lectures, &c. The Rev. Geo. Porter, of London, a very eloquent lecturer, will deliver a popular lecture on Thursday evening, June 25th, at one-quarter to eight o'clock, in the Methodist church. All are invited to be present. Admission free.

"Perfect Love," or spiced soda, at Voorhees' drug store.

Plainfield Dime Savings Institution—On Monday evening, June 22, the Plainfield Dime Savings Institution was organized by the election of the following officers: President, Elston Marsh; Vice Presidents, Stephen O. Horton and Isaac P. Brown; Managers, William White, James Clark, Nathan Harper, C. H. Stillman, Clark Rogers, Peter Gorsline, William S. Crook, John C. Sutphen, Lewis E. Clark, Levi Hetfield, Isaac S. Dunham, Elston M. Dunn, J. B. Coward, Rudolph M. Titsworth, Carman Parse, Enos W. Runyon, Jacob Thorn. Board of Investment, Stephen O. Horton, James Clark, Joseph B. Coward, William White, C. H. Stillman, and the Treasurer, ex-officio. Secretary and treasurer, Elias R. Pope. Office hours, Tuesday evening, from six to eight p. m. Fridays from three to five p. m. Six per cent. interest allowed on sums from $1 to $1,000.

Election of Chief—On Monday evening, Theodore F. French, Esq., was elected as Chief Engineer by the Fire Department of Plainfield.

Pic-Nic—We learn that a grand pic-nic under the auspices of St. Mary's church, of this place, will be held in a few days, due notice of which will be given.

Fourth of July Festival—A festival for the benefit of the M. E. church of Plainfield, will be held on the Fourth, at Laing's Hall, to continue through the day and evening. We have no doubt the ladies will exert themselves on this as on other occasions to make this a pleasant and profitable affair.

A Sensible Horse—It is a fact well known that Mr. R. J. Hagaman keeps constantly on hand at his store in Cherry street a large supply of flour, feed, &c. It would appear from a scene we witnessed on Tuesday afternoon that even the horses passing the store have found out the excellent quality of his stock of feed. While a driver was turning his horse and wagon in front of his store the animal took an idea that he would enter, and despite the efforts of said driver managed to get his head into the open door, much to the enjoyment of a crowd of lookers-on. Hagaman's is a good place to buy flour, feed.

The first trot of the season came off on the track of the Plainfield Driving Park on the seventeenth instant, and as far as we could judge, all that was promised in the programme was effectually carried out. We were pleased to notice that no betting or liquor selling was allowed by the Association on their grounds. The horses were called to the stand at 3 p. m. Taylor's horse ("Mack") did not arrive in time, the trot was therefore between "Mt. Holly" and "Zeke Davis." The afternoon was fine and pleasant, the track in good order, and both horses looked fresh and eager for the trot. Soon after three o'clock scoring was commenced, and the fourth time the word was given, the horses getting off evenly and in fine style. On the first half mile both horses broke, and both got to their work again about the same time, "Mt. Holly" winning the heat in 3:01. Second heat, a very pretty one, both horses getting off the second scoring. On completing the first quarter, "Mt. Holly" made a bad break and "Zeke Davis" took the pole easily, which he kept until he reached the third quarter, "Mt. Holly" gradually gaining, closed the gap and came in about half a length ahead, winning the heat in 2:55½. Third heat both horses got a fair start, but "Zeke Davis," rushed up smartly and took the pole from the other horse and kept it the entire heat, winning in 2:55. Fourth heat. While preparing the horses for this heat, "Mt. Holly" slipped from his attendants and came very near getting away. He upset the sulky, spilled the driver and broke the shaft of the sulky. Repairing the break occupied some twenty minutes at the expiration of which time the horses were called and started. At the commencement of this heat, the buckle of the check rein on "Mt. Holly" caught, cramping his head to one side, and his driver was obliged to counteract this by pulling entirely on one line, consequently he could not manage him as he wished, and came very near being distanced, "Zeke Davis" winning the heat in 2:53. Fifth heat. Both horses having won two heats each, and this being the deciding heat, the drivers scored a number of times before they came up together, but finally got the word. "Zeke Davis" opened quite a gap and trotted finely; on the second half mile "Mt. Holly" laid himself out and gained on "Zeke" on the turn, and just before entering the homestretch, head to "Zeke's wheel, "Mt. Holly broke and gained on his opponent, he, however, recovered very quickly and trotted well, keeping the pole from "Zeke Davis," which he kept to the score, and came in a dozen lengths ahead—the driver of "Zeke Davis" held up. "Mt. Holly" won the heat in 2:52. The attendance was good and all appeared satisfied with the performance of both horses.

"Portland Cement."

On the island of Portland, in the south of England, there are certain quarries of limestone which have been worked for many years, in former times producing building stone. In 1824 an Englishman named Joseph Asplin, of Leeds, patented a process for mixing and burning lime and clay. The product looked so much like the Portland limestone that he called it "Portland cement," from which commonly known name given to nearly all kinds of hydraulic cement was derived.

A Quiet Place.

A nervous-looking man went into a store the other day and sat down for a half hour or so, when a clerk asked him if there was anything she could do for him. He said, "No, he didn't want anything." She went away and he sat half an hour longer, when the proprietor went to him and asked if he wanted to be shown anything. He said, "No, I just want to sit around. My physician has recommended perfect quietness for me, and says above all things I should avoid being in crowds. Noticing that you do not advertise in the newspapers, I thought this would be as quiet a place as I could find, so I just dropped in for a few hours' seclusion." The merchant picked up a bolt of cambric to brain him but the man went out. He said all he wanted was a quiet life.

Black Under the Eyes Explained.

"In the north country," so goes the story in "Sun Babies," by Cornelia Sorabja, "in the month of Kartik is worshipped by the women folks the great and terrible god Bhishma. Lighted lamps must be placed at the cross-roads of the village, under the sacred fig tree, at the shrine of Shiva, and one little lighted lamp is sent adrift on a raft in the village tank. When the lamps have burned low it is good to rub the black from the wicks under the eyes. It keeps away the evil one. So that is the reason to this day we women put the black beneath the eyes."

He Didn't Lie.

There is in the service of a Baltimore man an elderly darky who is much given to rebuking the mischievousness of his grandson, also in the employe of the Baltimorean. One day the latter chanced to overhear a conversation between the first and third generations, from which it was at once apparent that old Mose was scolding the boy for some trifling fault. The cross examination appeared unsatisfactory of old Mose, he suspecting the pickaninny of concealing something.

Pick the Blossoms.

Plants like sweet peas, nasturtiums and pansies, that produce a succession of flowers, should have the blossoms picked daily to stop the formation of seed pods and consequent decrease in number of blossoms; but in the case of such plants as have but a short period of bloom, and but one during the year, the formation of seed is prevented to increase growth of roots and branches on which the next year's blossom depend.

Utopia.

There is a farm in Maine where the farmer never allows wild creatures to be molested. Consequently they have come to know that they are safe there, and it has become one of their favorite haunts. Nearly every afternoon the deer come out and feed in a field near the house, and the farm people can go very near without frightening them. The farmer thinks that this is much more interesting than hunting.

Yellow in the Diamond.

If you wish your diamonds to be "dew white" don't let any yellow furnishings come near them. Women with splendid parures have found that yellow satin and brocade "kill" their gems, and even jewelers are careful to show diamonds where no yellow light can touch them. The "off color" stone is brilliant, but doomed.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

E. J. Carpenter's offering of Hal Reid's Western play, "At Cripple Creek," which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is a play that deals with life in the Rocky Mountains, and may well be termed a character study of life in the early 80's in the mining section of the West. Miners, Indians, half-breeds, and the bluff and hearty Westerner are all said to be carefully portrayed and true to life. In fact, Mr. Reid's work is said to be remarkable in this particular line. The first act takes place in the saloon of Martin Mason, peculiarly called "The Temple of David." Act second shows Joe Mayfield's cabin at Rift Canon. In act third the scene discloses the interior of a mine shown as the "Last Dollar" claim, here occurs one of the most novel and effective scenes of the play. The fourth and last act is laid in Joe Mayfield's new home at Cripple Creek upon the occasion of his marriage. Throughout the play runs an interesting little love story, which is balanced by flashes of brilliant humor and quaint comedy. The cast employed for the play has been selected with great care, and each member is peculiarly fitted for his or her part.

Scene from "At Cripple Creek," at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

Funny comedians, lots of catchy song hits, delightful harmony and an olio of strong feature acts, the best from the ranks of vaudeville are the chief ingredients offered by that famous old organization, Haverly's minstrels, which will appear at the theatre tomorrow night. The principal object aimed at is to create laughter and in this field Billy Beard, "the party from the South," is in a field by himself. There is not a comedian on the minstrel stage today, who is in the same class with Beard. He is irresistable and occasions roars of laughter from the time he makes his first entrance until he leaves the stage. This season he is making the most pronounced hit of his career with a monologue that is thoroughly up-to-date, while his song hits and parodies are a treat, demanding encore after encore.

The poetry and sensuous, languorous beauty of the dreamy South has been at all times a prolific field for the pen of writers of fiction and drama. In "At the Old Cross Roads," which will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday, the author has conceived an intensely interesting drama of real life of that section, and the characters have been drawn with a master hand. The company is a splendid one and will contain the well known and popular people that have been identified with the attraction for the past five successful tours, including the famous Hippodrome Quartette. The indications are that one of the largest audiences of the season will witness this ever popular play.

This is the era of colossal show, and whether it be under canvas or on the stage, it is the biggest proposition combined with the highest excellence attainable that wins. That is why Yorke and Adams and their merry musical comedy in that furiously funny conceit, "Bankers and Brokers," are making all competitors look like a bunch of six counterfeit nickles. The cause of the phenomenal success of "Bankers and Brokers" does not seem surprising when it is remembered that besides those inimitable comedians, Yorke and Adams, the company contains among its fun-makers Jack Vincent, Nina Collins, Albert Cunningham, Dorothy Brenner, Eva Mall, Joseph Daily, Lanier DeWolf, Frank Bassett, Eddis Barto, Mamie Lafferty, Carrie Cooper, The Colonial Quartette, That Famous Pony Ballet, and the singing and dancing chorus of twenty, all from beautyland.

This year's cast of "The Rollicking Girl" comprises such well known stage favorites as Barney Bernard, (Sam's brother), Paul Decker, another comedian of renown, that dashing young prima donna, Julia West, as Hattie Williams' successor, Helen Dexter, the vivacious soubrette, who is admirably cast as the wife of the wigmaker and introduces her many specialties in the dancing line, combined and surrounded with one of the largest and most perfectly drilled choruses of any company travelling the country today. "The Rollicking Girl" is the attraction that has been secured by Manager Counihan for the New Plainfield theatre on Labor Day.

What promises to be a dramatic offering of unusual interest is Jay Hunt's latest work, "A Crown of Thorns." The piece tells simply a charming love story in a charmingly simple manner. There are, of course, thrills and strong situations, for without them a play of this sort could not exist, however, it is said that "A Crown of Thorns" is made up of such material as has characterized standard dramas. Phil Hunt has, in producing this, his latest offering of the present season, spared neither care or expense in making an elaborate production so that scenically, as well as artistically, "A Crown of Thorns" will stand among the largest and best dramatic plays en tour. It will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, Tuesday, August 21.

"The Master Workman," announced as a melodramatic novelty and very highly recommended by the critics, comes to the New Plainfield theatre, Wednesday, August 22. Its scenes are laid in the steel mills of Western Pennsylvania and its story is founded on actual fact. While it tells an intense story of heart interest and depicts the inner life of the mill-owner, it is not unlike the story of the "Jungle" in treatment although vastly different in plot and story. One of the scenic features of the play is the steel works with the furnaces and mammoth steam hammers in operation in which the molton metal is carried from the retorts in gigantic cranes and moulden into enormous ingots of steel. Over seventy-five people are in the production and the play will be elaborately staged in scenic splendor.

EXPULSION MENACES 3,000 ODD FELLOWS.

Grand Master of Jersey Lodges Opens War on Saloon Men and Gamblers.

Trenton, Aug. 13.—Backed by the Sovereign Lodge law, which was passed in 1895, but which has never been enforced, Wesley B. Stout, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of New Jersey, has declared open war to drive saloonkeepers, bartenders and gamblers out of the lodges in the State, the accomplishment of which will mean the expulsion of probably more than 3,000 members from the craft.

These questions are now being asked in circulars which have been sent out:

"Has any of your members since January 1, 1896, become a saloonkeeper, bartender or professional gambler? If so, is he still in such business?

"Have you initiated or taken into your lodge since January 1, 1896, any saloon-keeper, bartender or professional gambler?

Each lodge is given until August 20 to notify all such persons to abandon such pursuits. Failure of the men to quit such business will be followed by dismissal from the lodge.

This moves comes with stunning force upon the lodges, in view of the fact that the law in question has never been enforced. On the contrary, saloonkeepers especially have been initiated without question in great numbers in the populous cities.

Grand Master Stout lives at Ocean Grove. He is a strong prohibitionist, and is at the head of the prohibition movement in Monmouth county. He is also a trsutee and official in the First Methodist church of Asbury Park. He is a lawyer.

Many lodges in Newark, Jersey City, Camden, Trenton, Paterson, Passaic and larger cities practically have ignored the law of 1895, although nine, successive attempts in the Souvereign Lodge to have it repealed have failed.

Of the 27,000 members in New Jersey, there are probably 3,000 affiliated who come under the provisions of the prohibition. This number, it is stated, is rapidly increasing, and certain officers of the Grand Lodge, realizing that the saloon element might eventaully become so strong as to be menacing to the interests of the order, called attention to the law, and the grand master's action followed.

Many of the saloonkeepers are threatening suit against the lodges if they are expelled.

Reeves also denied the report that Billy Murray, manager of the Jersey City Eastern League Club, had been signed to manage the Phillies next season.

This is the new scalp germicide and antiseptic that acts by destroying the germ or microbe that is the underlying cause of all hair destruction. Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm).

"Ah, Dios, yes, you are here; you are real, true! It is the dress alone that belongs to my dream maiden—you are flesh and blood." He came closer toward her, but she sprang down. "Let us peep in at the window and watch the dancers," and crossing the path, she tiptoed until, through the slit between the bars, she could plainly see the interior.

"Gerald is dancing again. I had no idea he could adapt himself with such ease to these rustic maidens."

Unseen by her, Gonzaga shrugged his shoulders with a skeptical smile as she continued: "He never talks of conquests. I think he does not care to make any." And she tiptoed again to see her brother as he swung to place or "chasseed" with the ease of a practiced gallant.

In the midst of a set a girl appeared for a moment at a door opposite Lavender's point of vantage. Quickly her eyes zigzagged about the room. Apparently their glance was rewarded, for she smiled and a contented look curved her mouth. Then she retreated as quickly as she had come, while two young men lounging by the window began a discussion of her. Their voices reached Lavender distinctly.

"Hello; if there ain't Branch-water Sue! Too bad she warn't 'lowed to jine the festivities, poor thing. She's sweet 'n' purty as all creation, but that pa o' hern he watches her closter 'n a cat."

The other youth, his articulation impeded by a mouthful of popcorn, added: "All the same, he can't keep her from midnight meetings with that city chap. Guess the smarty prefers courtin' on the sly. The rest of us don't stand no show with Sue sence this spark with his hifalutin' airs—"

The gossip ceased abruptly here as the dance broke up.

Lavender turned to her companion. "Did you see that pretty, black-eyed girl, who stood for a minute like an angel peeping into Paradise?"

He interrupted her. "I think angels have only blue eyes—violet eyes," he said, looking ardently into her eyes.

To fill up the gap in the conversation where every pause was embarrassing, Lavender continued the subject. "I think we have inadvertently hit upon a romnce. Those men were discussing a girl, her 'city beau,' and an irate father. I did not suppose that there were any gallants hereabouts."

There was slight interest in her tone, and her attention, even as she spoke, seemed elsewhere. Not so Gonzaga; her question gave him a cue. With every show of wishing to change the subject hastily, he repeated: "Her 'city beau?' Never mind, let us talk of other things, fair one."

They were slowly walking down the path, but his tone and manner made Lavender stop and regard him with scrutiny. "You are mysterious," she said, abruptly. "Why?"

His reply came with apparent unwillingness. "It is nothing that I care to discuss with you, of all people. I am not a man to enjoy shattering idols."

"Nor am I one to worship them," she retorted. "It is true, however, that I esteem my friends highly; it is not likely that you can show reason why any of them should merit less." Then lightly: "But we are certainly wandering from the subject."

"Not so far as you imagine, perhaps," he returned. "You had better not try me too much, Miss Creighton, or I may put my words to proof."

She was stung by his manner and returned with spirit: "I fear no proof you can bring."

"Not even against the admirable Winslow?"

"Least of all against him, senor."

Then, half ashamed of her strong defense of one who had never asked her championship, she continued less seriously: "We must ever think well of the absent."

"'Absent?'" he echoed; "then your friend is still in St. Louis?"

"Yes, and we have his promise to come and see us on his first day of freedom."

"His promise? He will keep it?" Gonzaga stood quite still, facing her as he asked the question, a smiling sneer on his full, red lips.

She returned the look defiantly. "Let us go back and find Gerald," she said, ignoring the question, and swept past him.

Gonzaga followed to the dancing-room. Gerald was nowhere to be seen. The Spaniard consulted his watch; it lacked but a half hour of midnight; unless his plans had miscarried, they must be at the tavern soon. He was in a fever of impatience; would Winslow obey the note? Would he be there tonight? Would he—Gonzaga—have a chance to tumble this idol from his pedestal?

Hiding anxiety for the success of his plan under a polite concern, he said: "Perhaps you brother has preceded us to the boat. It is moored some distance down; shall we find it?"

Together, in silence, they walked the sandy road to the "Sign of the Bat."

CHAPTER XIV.

Meanwhile, around a curve in the Missouri, slipped a boat, its keel making ivory circles in the black water.

With eyes scanning the shore, the man in the stern pointed to the lights ahead. He spoke low to his companion: "See, Owatoga, the tavern is probably there; I suppose we can find a landing."

It was toward midnight of the fifth day of the voyage that Winslow, now free, having received a mysterious letter purporting to be from the octoroon, bidding him come thither to aid some one in trouble, came in sight of the town of St. Charles. He had so timed the last few hours of the trip that he might reach the town at the moment when, according to the letter, his presence would be needed.

Beyond a bend in the river widened the bay, a half circle of darkness, with here and there a phosphorescent gleam of stolen jewels with which the river dared deck her bosom only at night. In the center of the bay, and facing the settlement, the island rose crowned with cottonwood trees that shivered in the night wind. In the distance, hills, tall and sheer, formed a rampart to the north. Between bay and bluff lay the town, its mud-walled cottages showing white in the blackness. The village was asleep and dark, except for the lights which Winslow rightfully supposed indicated the tavern. And from another building to the west came a streak of light and the sound of voices, with now and then the faint echo of a violin.

Winslow's whole being was tensely alive to these human sights and sounds. For days of the tedious journey he had heard, save for the rare speech of his guide, only the cries of wild beasts, the shrieks of water-fowl, or the sonorous melody of the forest trees. His breath came short—his heart throbbed queerly at being again in touch with his kind. Yonder lay the town which was to be his home for many future days. Yonder, too, his love awaited him—in sorrow, perhaps, or trouble, but still there. She might not be expecting him, for of his coming he had sent no word when he himself could out-journey a messenger. He was sure of but one thing—he would see her to-night, and he urged: "Row faster, Owatoga."

As they neared the shore, voices from within the tavern were plainly heard. Owatoga anchored his boat, and, leaving him to watch it, Winslow moved forward alone. This stealth was distasteful, but the woman's note had enjoined secrecy, and it was for Lavender's sake. At thought of her waiting for him, needing him, perhaps, his steps quickened. Rapidly he climbed the sloping bank, crushing the may-apples that, dying, bequeathed to the air a hoarded fragrance.

He gained the road at a few paces from where rose a pollard willow tree, its bare head whitened by the gleam of stars. At its base a figure stood, which, gradually from out attendant shadows, took the form of a woman. At first she gave no sign.

Winslow slowly advanced through the avenue of branches that stretched from the shady covert on either side. Once he paused to listen. A crackle of leaves, a step on the turf behind him—was Owatoga following? All was silent again, and he pressed forward.

The woman bent expectant to meet him, and put out a welcoming hand, murmuring: "Gerald, is it you? At last!"

But Winslow stood still in surprise. He could not see her face, but the voice was not Lavender's.

Then from somewhere back of him out of the gloomy forest came another sound; a low growl that was only half-human in its rage and glee. Winslow's blood

TRENTON FAST LINE WITH ELIZABETH TERMINUS.

Promises to Be in Operation by the End of Next eYar if Franchise be Given.

The Third street trolley care in Elizabeth now connect directly with Kenilworth. Within a month, the county seat will have connection with Summit and, pending the granting of a trolley franchise to the Public Service Corporation connecting this city with Rahway, an automobile bus line has been established. With these three communities connected with Elizabeth by trolley, it is believed that business here will be materially better than it has been.

The cars connecting Elizabeth with Kenilworth began running yesterday on regular trips. The cars have a blue sign on the front announcing that "this cars connects with Kenilworth."

Kenilworth is a village of about 1,000 people lying to the north of Cranford about five miles. The route of the trolley line lies out Westfield avenue, to Aldene and from Aldene to the rapidly growing litle village where in a week or two a weekly newspaper will be started and several factories will be located. About the village is a large number of valuable farms.

In connection with the announcement of the new trolley line between this city and Kenilworth and Summit, a reporter has learned that in another year the new fast line trolley road will be in operation between this city and Trenton. A reporter visited Metuchen and several places Thursday between that borough and the city of Rahway and saw what work was being done in the way of laying tracks for the new trolley road. The grading has been pushed as far eastward as four miles west of Rahway. The line crosses the Perth Amboy tracks of the Public Service Corporation about one and one-half miles east of Metuchen and then comes directly toward Elizabeth, entering Elizabeth near where the proposed new Pennsylvania freight line is to enter Elizabeth. Fully two thousand Italian laborers are employed on this line.

To the north of Woodbridge another gang is at work filling and grading for this road. This gang will bring the line into Elizabeth. It will probably enter through the South Broad street terminus of the Public Service Corporation if the city council can be induced to give the promoters a franchise.

A little auxiliary railroad has been constructed upon which dirt and sand is being carted from hills in the vicinity for filling purposes. At the upper end of the work, near Metuchen, deep cuts, fully twenty feet and in same cases more, have been dug so as to make the grade conform with that of the rest of the road, now in operation between Trenton and New Brunswick.

Elizabeth, according to the superintendent of the road, Mr. Stubbeman, is the logical terminus for the new trolley road for direct connection with New York but, in the event of the company being unable to procure a suitable franchise, the road will cross the Staten Island Sound, at a point above the Baltimore and Ohio bridge and will make St. George its objective point. The cars will be run into Elizabeth, providing all goes well, by the end of next year.

FUNERAL SERVICES IN SIGN LANGUAGE.

Members of Deaf-Mute Guild Gave Responses With Aid of Their Fingers.

Using the deaf-and-dumb alphabet, the Rev. Dr. John Chamberlain, pastor of St. Ann's P. E. Church, Manhattan, conducted Friday night the funeral services for Charles Edward Green at No. 213 Heyward street, Brooklyn. A delegation from the Deaf-Mute Guild of St. Mark's church, Adelphi street, gave the responses with the aid of their fingers.

Mr. Green lost his hearing and speech by an attack of typhoid fever when he was two years old. Thirteen years later he had another attack of fever and his faculties were restored. He rapidly learned articulation. His aptness in the sign language made him invaluable in court cases in which mutes were called to testify. A few years ago he married Miss Edith Averell, a deaf-mute.

DUNELLEN LOST CLOSE GAME TO THE GIANTS

PEACOCK PITCHED A STRONG GAME AND SHOULD HAVE WON.

Timid base running and errors at critical moments cost the Dunellen nine the game in the contest against the Plainfield Giants on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon. The score was 3 to 2.

Jack Peacock, the North Plainfield High School pitcher, was on the slab for Dunellen. He twirled a good game, holding the colored team down to three hits, and deserved to win. He fielded his position beautifully.

The Giants were shy a third-baseman when the game was called, and Taylor Mehaffey, the crack infielder who has been signed for the new Plainfield team, went in for them. Mehaffey lives more or less on Crescent Oval, and would get up in the middle of the night to play.

WEST ENDS LIKELY TO ACCEPT CHALLENGE

SOMERVILLE ASSOCIATION TO ACT TONIGHT—BOGART FAVORABLE.

Prospects for a series of games between the West Ends, of Somerville, and the proposed amateur team to succeed the Daab nine were considerably brightened by a conference between representatives of the Plainfield and Somerville baseball associations on Saturday. The conferrees met at the West Ends' grounds, while the nine was playing rings around Roselle's team.

The Somerville men were greatly delighted with the opportunity to meet Plainfield on even ground. Manager Bogert Conkling expressed himself as favorable to the series without hesitation, and the other members of his association who were present endorsed him. The West End club will meet tonight, and the proposition will be formally submitted to a vote. The result is hardly in doubt, and a prompt acceptance of Plainfield's invitation to a series will probably be telephoned to the local association by 9 o'clock this evening. Favorable or not, the action taken at the meeting will be known here at that time, arrangements having been made for a prompt report on it.

Somerville supporters of the game are in pretty much the same coil as Plainfield. Conditions there at the beginning of the season were like those in force here, and the game has been going along on a parallel in the two towns ever since. A few men thought, before the season opened, that a fast team could be supported, but as the season went on, it was demonstrated that the fans were not back of that idea. Not even the present amateur team has drawn its full need of support. The club just about manages to meet expenses, with a liberal sprinkling of inexpensive teams on its schedule.

Naturally, the men behind the organization are pleased with the prospect of going into a series of the sort proposed by Plainfield. It is recognized as the thing of things to stir dormant enthusiasms, and its substitutes the division of fat receipts for the payment or receipt of unsatisfactory guarantees. Somerville would have been delighted with a series before this, but the club could not go up against the Daab nine with its line-up unchanged, and the fans had steadfastly refused to warm to the propositions for a semi-professional team.

The West Ends are a Class A amateur team. They play teamy ball, and work hard for victory. When the pick of Plainfield's amateur players faces them, it will be a tight struggle of the old-fashioned kind, with local pride behind the battle that each combination will put up.

Some familiar faces will be seen in the West End line-up. Brit Higgins, the giant of old City League days on Hope Chapel's team, is playing second base in whirlwind style, getting his slashing two-baggers as he did in the days when Tommy Keeffe and George Dupee and Burns, of the Safe Works, tried in vain to whiff him. His brother, Jack, who has developed into as swift a little infielder as the game turns out hereabouts, plays short. He is hitting good, and the Somerville fans have begun to think him all the candy. Johnny Enright, who played a great game for the Safe Works in the City League, joined the West Ends Saturday. Johnny plays with even more dash than he did in league days, and always taps the ball.

As soon as favorable word is received from Somerville, Plainfield's team will be formed. Lines have already been thrown out for the pick of the infielders that the city has turned out, and the combination will be shaped up rapidly after Somerville gives the word to go ahead.

The series will be one of four games. The first game will most likely be played here, and on next Saturday afternoon.

BERT BEERS WINS CITY TENNIS TITLE

VICTORIOUS IN FIVE SET MATCH WITH HARRY J. COCHRAN AND GETS TROPHY

After a hotly contested match of forty-seven games with Harry J. Cochran in the final round of the tennis play for the championship of Plainfield, Albert D. Beers, of Watchung avenue, finally won the fifth set after an uphill fight and captured the title. The match was played Saturday afternoon on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club and was watched by a big gallery of spectators. It was anybody's match up to the last game and the final scores were 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 3-6 and 6-4 for Beers.

Evenly matched and playing about the same style of game, the two contestants for the title, survivors of the seventeen local tennis players entered at the beginning of play two weeks ago, fought hard for each game in the tiring match. Of the forty-seven games played, Beers won twenty-five and Cochran twenty-two. Part way through the third set, the match was interrupted by a shower, but the courts soon dried off sufficiently to allow the players to go on. Victory in the first sets alternated by practically the same scores, the players having long rallies in most of the games. The seventh game in the fourth set ran to eighteen points. In the last set things looked bad for Beers, the younger player. Both men were pretty well tired out, but Cochran's serving, drives and strokes gave him a lead of four games to one in this set. Then Beers began to come up, pacing his strokes harder, placing more accurately and improving at the net and took five games straight and the match. Wylie Brown acted as referee during the match, while lasted over two hours.

Both men are members of the Plainfield Country Club and fast players in singles and doubles. Last week Cochran, paired with Wylie Brown, won the club title in doubles by defeating Beers and W. L. Glenney. Beers has been a member of the club for several years and was runner-up in the last Plainfield championship tournament in singles in the summer of 1903. At this time the title was captured by Duncan Bulkley, after a five set fight.

As title winner, Beers received a seven inch loving cup, appropriately engraved. The cup has three handles, and is tankard shape. It was presented by Thomas M. Day, chairman of the club tennis committee. Seventeen local players, representing the Country Club, Park Club, Cedar Brook Tennis Club and other organizations, were entered in the tournament play which began two weeks ago. The Country Club players forced the others out of the running by the end of the second round, so it has concluded as practically a club tournament.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Colored All-Americans are playing fast ball, and the team looks like possible winners of the county amateur championship. They will go outside the county for their game this week, when they will meet the Montclair Giants, on Crescent Oval. The Montclair team is a crack combination.

Cricket at Bound Brook.

A championship game in connection with the Metropolitan Cricket League, was played at Bound Brook, Saturday afternoon, between the Bound Brook team and Manhattan V. The result was a victory for the home team. The visiting batsmen made a poor showing against the bowling of George Bridge and Leonard Spencer, both of this city, the former taking five wickets for eleven runs and the latter four wickets for nine. The Plainfield members also showed up well in run getting. George Bridge scoring 27, not out; A. Schoolden 16, and W. Bucknell 11, being chief contributors. Scores—Bound Brook 30 and 89; Manhattan B 20.

ABBOTT TAKES HONORS AT COUNTRY CLUB LINKS

INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPION MAKES LOWEST SCORE FOR CUP.

Robert Abbott, the intercollegiate champion, who has recently been taking part in several tournaments in the Metropolitan district, won first honors for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday. With a net score of 78, he won the first three points for the trophy. Frank C. Talmadge, who has also returned to the game, finished second with a net score of 79, thus winning two points, while the one point was divided between Julius E. Erickson and W. P. Boggs, each returning a score of 80.

There was a good sized field on the course and while throughout the city the people suffered greatly from the heat, there was a cool breeze blowing over the course, making play a pleasure.

The leading scores returned for the Golf Committee cup follow:

Robert H. Abbott, 76, plus 2—78; Frank C. Talmadge, 80, 1—79; Julius E. Erickson, 93, 13—80; W. P. Boggs, 99, 19—80; George F. Schoonmaker, 88, 7—81; C. B. Morgan, 86, 3—83; Charles A. Stover, 94, 10—84; W. D. Riggs, 100, 11—89.

In the competition for the semi-scratch cup, Julius E. Erickson won a leg with a score of 93. There was also the competition for the August cup, presented by Councilman H. D. Hibbard, but the result of this play will not be known until the last of the month.

Homer Returns After Long Absence.

When Samuel Rottberg, of Co. K, went to Sea Girt three weeks ago, he took along with him three homing pigeons belonging to Walter Arnold, of Liberty street, for the purpose of liberating them at the camp. Two of the pigeons returned the following morning and the third one got home this afternoon, looking very much as though someone had detained him.

Dorothy Blanchard.

After an illness of but a few days, Dorothy Blanchard, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Blanchard, colored, of Park avenue, died Saturday of acute cholera infantum. The child was seven months of age. A private funeral was held at the home of her parents yesterday afternoon and interment was in the Methodist cemetery.

EXTRA LEGISLATIVE SESSION SEPT. 5

GOV. STOKES WILL CALL IT TO CONSIDER PASSAIC VALLEY SEWER.

Gov. Stokes has decided that he will call an extra session of the Legislature September 5 to enact a law for the Passaic Valley trunk sewer, unless the authorities of Paterson and Newark request him to let the matter go over for the regular session next winter. He contends that this was the agreement last winter, and must be carried out unless all parties consent to a change. There is considerable sentiment in favor of letting it go over.

A delegation each from Paterson and Newark waited upon Gov. Stokes last winter and arranged with the Executive to have the special session September 5. It now appears that Paterson will continue the fight against the heavy expense a trunk sewer will entail upon that city and put off the project as long as possible. The Paterson men, it is believed, will try to have the special session called off.

NO DUTY ON LIPTON CUP.

Boston, Aug. 13.—Collector Geo. H. Lyman, of this port, decided yesterday to admit free of duty the silver cup sent here by Sir Thomas Lipton to be competed for by American yachtsmen. It was at first ruled by the Appraiser that a duty should be imposed upon the cup, on the ground that it was not an honorary trophy actually bestowed and accepted, such articles being admitted free, but merely an article sent to the Boston Yacht Club to be held in trust until won or awarded.

Collector Lyman's decision was reached after communication with the Treasury Department.
